ABADI.

and proprietor of a mauza alleged that the suit house was given to the ancestors of the defendants for the purpose of administering to the spiritual needs of the people of the locality and that they were wrongfully constructing a temple on it and prayed for possession, when it was found that the plaintiff failed to prove the case set up by him and that the defendants never acknowledged the plaintiff's title and that they had been holding the house for a considerably long time and far in excess of the statutory period,

Held:-that the defendants had acquired a title to the house by adverse possession. (Bennett and Agarival, II) IOBAL HUSSAIN v. SHANKAR DAYAL. 18 Luck. 155=200 I.C. 744=15 R.O. 43=1942 R.D. 548=1942 O.W.N. 351=1942 A.W.R. (C.C.) 234=1942 O.A. 255= A.I.R. 1942 Oudh 427.

-Position of agricultural tenant.

The tenants of an agricultural village are in no better position than licensees. (Verma, Plowden and Sinha, JJ.) HAFIZ MAHOMED V. SHIAM LAL. I.L.R. (1944) All. 619=1944 A.L. J. 321=1944 A. W.R. (H.C.) 206=1944 O.A. (H.C.) 206=1944 A,L.W. 397=A.I.R. 1944 All. 177 (F.B.).

-Rights in house in village abadi.

A riyaya in a village abadi is entitled to retain possession of his house appurtenant to his tenancy until he is either ejected from his holding or he abandons the village. But if the house is not appurtenant to the holding, the person who has built the house, has only a right of residence in it so long as the house does not of residence in a solong as the house does not fall down or the tenant does not abandon the holding. -What will amount to--Molten wax escaping into river -Attempt to salvage given up by owner-Open dealing in salvaged wax by public at large-No protest by owner- Assertion of rights by owner after six weeks-Estoppel

Where molten wax escaped from the refirery of a company as a result of fire and found its way into the river and numerous creeks and the company after a futile attempt at salvaging gave it up and kept quiet for some time and in the meanwhile private individuals who had salvaged portions of the wax sold it openly to others without any protest from the company who were aware of such sales and who did not even then assert their title to the wax so sold but six weeks after the fire, published a notice to the general public that they were the owners of all the wax so salvaged and that people dealing in it did so at their peril, in a suit by the company against a purchaser of such wax, for its recovery or alternatively its value, held. that the company had abandoned the wax and that it became first the property of nobody and then the property of the first person to reduce it to possession, and that as the company had stood by and allowed purchases and sales of the wax in question without asserting their title, they had made the public believe that they had no further interest in the wax and to act upon that belief and hence the company was estopped from setting up title to the wax. Accounts stated, See also Limitation Act Accounts stated—Fresh cause of action - Items barred by limitation—Re-opening of.

Where the entry in the accounts between the parties show that the account between the parties had been settled, it ffords a fresh cause of action and it is immeterial that some of the items were barred by time. The Court need not see whether any portion of the amount found due and admitted by the defendant was legally due to the plaintiff or not. The account stated is binding on the parties and it cannot be reopened on any ground except fraud or mistake (Aparwal and Madeley, II) Planty Lal. 7. Managed Prasan 199 I.C 698-1942 R.D. 320=14 R.O. 514=1942 A.W.R. (C.C.) 109-1942 O.W.N. 157=1942 O.A. 88=A I.R. 1942 Oudh 311.

——Accounts stated—Origin and discharge of liability to account—Stated or settled account and account stated or settled—Distinction.

The right in A to an account by B is established when facts are alleged and proved by A that Bis an accounting party and that B has not accounted at all or properly. But the obligation on the part of B is prima facie discharged if he alleges and proves either (1) that accounts have been rendered or taken and stated or settled or (2) that he has received X and has accounted for X. Stated or settled account means something different from an account stated or settled which would, by agreement based on consideration found between A and B an implied promise to pay. There is a broad difference between the position where an account is rendered and where an account is stated or settled. In the former case the accounting party must support it in the Court. In the latter case the other party is bound unless it can be opened. An account rendered may be turned into an account stated or settled if it is not challenged for such a time that an acceptance of the implied. [Right to open the account discussed.] (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) RADHIKA PRASAD v. NAND KUMAR. 217 I.C. 39=17 R. N 86=I.L.R. 1944 Nag. 63=1942 N.L.J. 355=A. IR. 1944 Nag. 7.

——Accounts stated—Re-opening of—Grounds—Burden of proof.

An account stated may be re-opened on any ground—for instance, fraud or mistake—which would justify setting aside any other agreement. In the particular circumstances of each case, the parties are entitled to show that the account stated should be re-opened on the ground, of fraud or mistake—the question of onus depending on the nature of relationship between the parties and the surrounding circumstances which are established in the case. (Manohar Lall and Chatterji, J.J.) JAIGOBIND PRASAD SAHU v. MT. HURIA. 20 Pat. 130—196 I.C. 220—14 R.P. 183—8 B.R. 8—A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 433.

"Dharma khata" - Meaning - Presump-

It must be presumed that the 'dharma khata' is no more than a separate "charity account" which usually exists in the account books of

ACQUIESCENCE.

Hindu commercial trading firms and to which a part of the income is credited from time to time, when it is not shown when it was started, by whom and for what particular purpose or purposes, and there is nothing to show that the family had divested itself of its ownership of the moneys in the find. The amount outstanding in the account is not dedicated to charity in the sense that it ceases to be the property of the firm. (Tek Chand and Beckett, II) RAM Kishan v. OM PARKASH 197 I.C. 481—14 R.L. 241—43 P.L.R. 489—A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 347.

—Opening balance—If shoul! be ignored Where accounts are to be taken in respect of a partnership, the opening balance on the day of the commencement of the period of accounting is just as much part of the account as any other entry, and provided they arree with the closing hal nee, ought to be taken into consideration. (Davies.) RAM PAL v. BHAG CHAND SONI. 1940 A.M. L.J. 125.

-Right to-When arises.

It is well settled that a person is not entitled to an accounting from another unless a right to account arises. Such a right can arise between an agent and his principal, or between a mortgagee in possession and his mortgagors, and in certain other cases (Base, I.) RANWARHAL GURLY, RAIKISHORF GUPLI I.LR (1945) Nag. 820=1945 N.L. I. 563=A I.R. 1946 Nag 21.

-Settled accounts-Reopening-Grounds.

When parties settle accounts the presumption ought to be that they have settled the accounts with their eyes open and that they knew what the accounts contained and then decided what the settlement ought to be. A party who wishes to reopen a settled account has therefore to make out a very strong case on the ground either of fraud or of substantial mistake of both parties. Mere unreasonableness of some items is no ground for reopening accounts. (Grille, C. I and Puranik I.) BAJRANGLALT ANANDULAL. I L.R. (1944) Nag. 101=217 I C. 277=17 R.N. 100=1944 N.L.J. 99=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 124.

-Suit for-When lies.

The proposition that a suit for accounts can only be brought by a principal against his agent, or by one partner against another partner or by a cestui que trust against his trustee is too narrow to be acceptable. The correct position is that the plaintiff must satisfy the Court that either because of a particular trade usage, or of the peculiar relations between the parties the defendant is an accounting party or it is not possible for him to get any relief except by calling upon the defendant to render account to him, and if he does that the suit for accounts would lie. (Teja Singh, J.) DIWAN CHAND SANT RAM v. BHAGAT RAM. 47 P.L.R. 407.

Acquisition of title—Auction purchaser— Right to tack on his period of possession to that of the judgment-debtors.

An auction-purchaser only gets whatever title his judgment debtor may have hid. Where the judgment debtor never had anything more than an immature title which was assailed and therefore, as it were, came under suspension before it did ever mature, then the auction-purchaser can be in no better position than his judgment-debtor was at the date of the decree or the date of the actual dispossession. As only possession has to be considered in a question as to adverse possession, the auction-purchaser's possession in continuation of a suspended possession can be of no benefit to him. ——Acquisition of title—Discharging rain water from roof over neighbour's land—Title to that land—If acquired.

Discharging rain water from one's roof over a neighbour's land may at best give rise to a right of easement, but cannot create title to that land by adverse possession, for, such enjoyment of the land is quite consistent, with recognition of the real owner's title to the land. Adverse possession, as is well-established, pre-supposes an assertive enjoyment of a right of property to the exclusion or in denial of the title of the real owner: in other words, the acts of possession or enjoyment by or on behalf of the adverse possessor must be of an unequivocal character referable only to a claim of right. (Biswas, J.) MAHINDRA NATH GUIN v. SURAJMAL. 45 C.W.N. 17.

-Acquisition of title—Equity of redemption
-Acts that would constitute adverse possession

Adverse possession of the equity of redemption must be referable to some acts, or dealings with the equity of redemption as distinct from the subject-matter of the mortgage. Mere assertion in judicial proceedings of a title which is unfounded at the date when it is made cannot support a plea of prescriptive acquisition. (Kaul and Misra, JJ.) Kodi Lal v. ——Acquisition of title—Ilindu lady in possession of property on husband's disappearance—Nature of estate—If adverse to her husband.

Where a Himan lady acquires by prescription title to immovable property on the assertion that she had been possessing it as a Himan widow, on the disappearance of her husband, that property does not become her stridhan, and on her death it would be inherited, mut by her heirs but by the heirs of her husband. Acquisition of title-Projecting cornice over neighbour's land-Title to that land-If acquired.

In order to constitute agverse possession, there must be effective exclusion of the real owner from the property, and as a rule, the extent of such exclusion is the measure of the right which is acquired by adver a possession. By projecting a connice over a neighbour's land for the statutory period and under conditions which would permit a title to grow by prescription, it may be thus possible to acquire a right by adverse possession, but it will be merely a right to maintain the projection. The possession will in fact be merely of the space covered by the cornice, and the prescriptive right arising in consequence will, therefore, be limited to this space only So far as the land beneath, or so far even as the column of air below the cornice or the superincumbent air above it is concerned, there will be no occupation, and consequently no ouster of the real owner. Ouster from the cornice-space will not necessarily operate as ouster from anything beyond it, either above or below. (Biswas, I) Mahindra Nath Guin v. Surajmal. 45 C.W.N. 17.

——Acquistion of title—Right to collect rent of land—Assignee of—If can acquire title by Prescription and adverse possession.

A transfer of a right to collect tent of immovable property is a transfer of an interest in immovable property. A tresp-sser is a person who takes over property to the exclusion and without the permission of the real owner and means to hold it as his own overtly indicating this intention to the world in such a manner that it should be a notice to the real owner that his title to the property is denied. Trustees in possession under a void deed of trust can acquire a good title by adverse possession as against the settlor and those claiming under him: that is to say, trustees acquire a possessory title against those claiming under the trust resulting from the invalidity of the charitable trust, since a claim under such resulting trust is a claim adverse to the deed. But trustices who enter into possession of property ostensibly on trusts subsequently ascertained to be void cannot retain the property for themselves when the claim of the settlor and his heirs has become statute barred. --- Acquisition of title—Trust property held by Hindu father and son-Father trustee in respect of property Possession of son adversely for twelve years-Effect—Title—If acquired.

If two persons are in joint enjoyment of property belonging to another adversely to the latter but one or them is disabled by his fiduciary relationship to the owner (e.g., being a trustee) from acquiring any interest in the property by adverse possession, the other who is under no such disability can acquire title to the property to the extent or his enjoyment. The fact that the two persons happen to be members of a joint Hindu family owning other properties as a unit with no defined shares therein (e.g., father who is a trustee and his son) can make no difference to the application of this principle. The adverse possession of the son will not be affected by the filluciary disability attaching to the father in his capacity as trustee, and there would be nothing to preventhis acquiring title by adverse possession to a half-share in the property. Co-sharers—co-sharer in possession of specific portion of joint property by arrungement—If must give up possession—Evidence Act S. 116.

A co-sharer may certainly acquire title by adverse possession as against another co-sharer in respect of joint property. If a co-sharer in possession of joint property declares openly that he is possessing it not as a co-sharer but in his own right by virtue of a title hostile to that of the other co-sharers, he must be taken to be in possession not as a co-sharer but in possession adversely to his co-sharers. The position of a co-sharer is not analogous to that of a tenant or licensee. He does not come into possession by virtue of any contract or license whereby he has bound himself to restore possession on the termination of the contract or the withdrawal of the license. He possesses the property independently of any such obligation and therefore he is not estopped from asserting an independent title. co-sharer who is in possession of a specific portion of the joint property by an amicable arrangement need not therefore first give up his possession before he can acquire title by adverse possession. (Sen and Blank, JJ.) HARENURA CHANDRA v. SASIBALA. 49 C.W.N. 751.

A co-sharer cannot claim adverse possession against another co sharer by merely mortgaging the house in which he possessed a share. (Mir Ahmad, J.) Mt. Zuru v. Mahomed Ayub. 205 I.C. 603=15 R. Pesh. 99=A.I.R. 1943 Pesh. 17.

The mere fact that a co-sharer has mortgaged the joint property is not sufficient to show that he was repudiating the title of the other co-sharers. Such mortgage will be subject to the adjustment of the shares of the parties at the time of partition. dan families with lady members-l'roof of exclusion.

Although the possession of one co-tenant is not deemed adverse to the other community the existence of the relation of co-tenants does not preclude one co-ten int from establishing an adverse possession in fact as against the other co-tenants. Much stronger evulence is required to show an adverse possession held by a tenant-in-common than by a stranger A co-tenant will not be permitted to claim the protection of the statute of limitation unless it clearly appears that he has repudiated the title of his cotenant and is holding adversely to him; it must further be established that the fact of adverse holding was brought home to the co-owner, or there must be outward acts of exclusive ownership of such a nature as to give notice to the cotenant that an adverse possession and disseisin are intended to be asserted. Mere possession, however exclusive or long continued, if silent, cannot give one co tenant in possession title as against the other co-tenant. In the case of Mahomedan families the practice is common of leaving to the males the whole management of the family property including their (the women's) share and being content not to demand what they are entitled to receive but to receive such maintenance or care as the males choose to give them. In that state of fact it does not prove a custom of exclusion that women are in fact excluded. Nor does it suffice to prove ouster. One can no more prove ouster than one can prove custom to exclude by merely showing that in fact the women have been content to be looked after and have not inquired and have not been told what is being done by the males as regards the shares. —Essentials—Actual knowledge of real owner—If essential—keal o ner absent from British India not voluntarily but under sentence of transportation—Relevancy

Possession, to be adverse, need not be known by the real owner to be adverse as long as it is open and capable of being known by the parties interested in the property. The fact that the real owner was absent from British India and that his absence was not voluntary but enforced, under a sentence of transportation, is not a ground of exemption from limitation, and would not prevent the starting of adverse possession. ——Essentials—Actual knowledge of rightful owner—Necessity—elets which would change nature of permissive possession or that held in fiduciary capacity.

Adverse possession need not be shown to have been brought to the knowledge of the rightful owner, but this rule can apply only to one who is a complete stranger. Ordinarily ignorance on the part of the true owner of his right or of its infringement does not prevent the operation of the statute but when one is in possession which is either permissive or held in a fiduciary capacity, one cannot by a mere secret and undisclosed wish alter the character of one's possession so as to get time running in one's own favour. #### ADVERSE POSSESSION.

-- -- Essentials -- Continuity of possession-Proof required.

To constitute adverse possession, the possession must be actual, open, unmercupted, notorious, exclusive and continuous. When such possession is continued for 12 years, it confers an isuefeasible title upon the possessor. In order to prove the communance of possession it is not necessary to prove an actual b dily continuous possession. Possession may be continuou even though the actual acis of posicission are at considerable intervals, flow many acts of possession will lead to the inference of continuity of a ssession would depend upon the nature of the subject possessed. The will itself may be sufficient it manifested in a cappropriate environment of facts. Where the land in possession of a trespassor is capable of yielding only two crops a year and its flooding curring the ramy season does not interfere in any ay with the raising of these two cr. p , it cannot be held that his possession is not continuous throughout the year (Nasim Alli and Pal, II.) ----Essentials--If should be brought to the knowledge of the owner.

It is not required that to constitute adverse possession it must have been brought to the knowledge of the owner of the property. It is sufficient that the possession be overt and without any attempt at concealment so that the person against whom time is running ought if he exercises due vigilance to be aware of what is happening. If the rights have been openly usurped, it cannot be pleaded that the fact was not brought to the notice of the owner. (Niogi, I.) RASHUBAR PRAIM T. BALOG SHIGCHARAN, I.L.R. · -----I.s centials - Onus -- Temporary acts--- If can constitute.

In determining the question whether possession was hostile and notorious so as to charge the real owner with notice of the adverse claim, the nature, the situation and the user of the property must be considered. Acts of temporary and thinsy character like the use of the place for playing, cooking on occasions and keeping cattle and hens do not destroy the title of the exact. (Yorke and Ghulam Hasan, Jl.) Essentials Publicity-Knowledge of true owner-If necessary

In order to constitute adverse possession it has to be established that the possession of the defendant was in denial of the plaintiff's right and that it was adequate in continuity, in publicity and in extent. It is not however, necessary to principle and authority to imply constructive possession of the trespasser (claimont) through the rightful owner as his tenant while the land is submerged so as to enable the trespasser as a wrong-doer to obtain title by adverse possession. For submergence to interfere with continuous adverse possession it is not necessary to show that the submergence is of such a nature as to interfere with the usual agricultural operations in the neighbourhood. It is enough if the submergence prevents such use as the possessor would normally have but for the flooding and sub-mergence. On the dispossession of the tres-passer by vis major of floods, the constructive possession is in the true owner; in other words the land after submersion becomes derelict, and so long as it remains submerged, no title can be acquired against the true owner. The submeracquired against the true owner. sion interrupts the continuity of the possession of the trespasser, when it deprives the trespasser of the use and occupation of that land as agricultural land during the months of submersion. He cannot be then said to be in effective possession of that land during that time; the possession of the true owner revives, and the tresposser gets no title by adverse possession. (Harries, C. J. and Manchar Lall, J.) SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INPIA v. RAM BACHAN LAL. 20 Pat. 497=195 1.C. 746=14 R P. 151=7 B.R. 969=22 Pat. L.T. 35=A.I. R. 1941 Pat. 422.

——Interruption—Suit by decree-holder under O. 21 R. 63. C. P. Code—Effect on adverse possession of successful claimant—Running of time—If arrested.

An order of attachment does not interrupt the possession of a person holding adversely to the true owner, but the filing of a suit for a declaration of the right to attach property against the person in possession does. A decree holder whose attachment has been raised is given by the statute the right to institute a suit for a declarasion of his right to attach, and the declaration must have regard to the rights of the parties est the date of the institution of the suit. It would be a negation of the right given by O 21. R. 63. C. P. Code, to hold that, when the suit has been filed in time, the person wrongly in possession of the property can get a title by adverse possession after the institution of the suit. The institution of the suit arrests the running of time in favour of the person in possession and when the suit is filed before the expiry of 12 years from the date of the adverse possession, the court would be entitled to declare by its decree the rights of the parties at the date of the suit. (Leach, C.I. and Daties at the date of the sun. (Leach, C.J. ana Lakshmana Rao. J.) Fatima Bibi v. Haji Mahomed Usman, I.L.R. ----Interruption-Symbolical delivery of possession-Effect.

The delivery of symbolical possession even erroneously operates as actual possession against the judgment debtor and his representatives. Where there is a tenant of the judgment-debtor who is bound by a decree for possession and the peon executing the process for delivery, erroneously delivers possession under O. 21, R. 36. C. P. —Interruption—Symbolical possession in pursuance of purchase at rent sale -- If interrupts possession of trespasser.

The plaintiff (a purchaser at a rent sale), having obtained a sale certificate obtained symbolical delivery of possession though he was entitled to get actual possession of the property purchased after removal of the defendant who had all along been living in a building in the 1-lding purchased by the plaintiff. In a suit by the plaintiff for possession within 12 years of the symbolical delivery, the defendant pleaded that the suit was barred and that she had been in possession adversely for over 12 years before suit and that the symbolical delivery did not interrupt her adverse possession

Held, that the taking of symbolical possession did interfere with the possession of the defendant and that the latter could therefore start her adverse possession only from the date of the symbolical delivery. ____Landlord and tenant - Claim to higher status-Tenant if can set up.

A landlord who allows a tenant to assert the validity of an invalid lease for the statutory period may be debarred from subsequently questioning the right of the tenant to hold under the lease. The principle is that in such a case, the person coming into possession under a lease which is invalid or void as against the person seeking to eject him becomes a trespasser, and as such, after the expiry of the statutory period, he acquires by prescription the limited right under the lease, whether it he a lease for a term or a lease in perpetuity. But where there is no question of the tenant holding under an invalid or void lease and the possession of the tenant originates in lawful title it is doubtful whether he could set up a claim to a higher status as tenant by right of adverse possession. The failure of a co-sharer to pay attention to a notice issued to all the co-sharers by a person through whom the sale was arranged, asking them whether they wished to purchase the property in question, is no ground for estopping him from exercising his right of pre-emption. Nor could it justify the inference that the co-sharer had received his right to pre-empt the property, If the vendees wished to bind the co-sharers, they ought to have given them the proper statutory notice under S. 14 of the Agra Pre-emption Act. -S. 21—Scope and applicability—Effect of some of the plaintiffs losing the right during pendency of suit.

S. 21 of the Agra Pre-emption Act is confined in its operation to facts existing on the date of the institution of the suit and not to facts that may come into existence after that date. In other words, the question whether any of the plaintiffs had or had not a right of pre-emption must be determined by reference to the state of affairs existing on the date of the institution of the suit and not by reference to subsequent events. If all the plaintiffs in a pre-emption suit have a right to exercise the right of pre-emption on the date that the suit is filed, the mere fact that some of the plaintiffs lose that right during the pendency of the suit cannot adversely affect the rights of the remaining plaintiffs. In this connection it should be remembered that S. 21 is in the nature of a penal section and as such must be strictly construed. In view of S. 19 of the Act no relief could be given to those plaintiffs who have lost their right during the course of the suit. But as regards those plaintiffs who had the right both on the date of the suit and on the date of the decree they are unaffected and are entitled to a decree. (Iqbal Ahmad, C. I. and Dar. direct-Effect.

Where a mortgagee of a holding had been in long and continuous possession, before and after the death of the tenant and had been paying rent direct to the land holder, and was treated as tenant he must be held to have acquired occupacy rights before the Act of 1926, (Shirreff, 1927)

AGRA TENANCY ACT. (II OF 1901)

Under Agra Tenancy Act, 1901, the zamindar was not precluded from giving rights corresponding to those of an occupancy tenant and was liable to be held bound by the terms of his agreement in that respect. But the tenant would still be recorded as a non-occupancy tenant and not as an occupancy tenant. (Itarper, S. M. and Sathe, J. M.) GANGA PRASAD v. NANHE. 1941 R.D. 266=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 277=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 226=1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 85.

S. 11 and Agra Tenancy Act, (III of 1926) S. 16—Partnership—Occupancy rights——Acquisition—Competency—Test.

Where the partners do not regard themselves as a number of partners cultivating as partners and co-tenants under the Act, but regard themselves as an association engaged in the business of cultivating not in any personal capacity but as shareholders in a business, holding their shares on basis of 'anna' shares calculated on the capital of each partner, they cannot acquire occupancy rights. (Darling, S. M. and Bomford, J.M.) MACKINNON v. SAMPAT KUMAR SINHA. 1941R. D. 678.

S. 11—Seven year's lease—Test—Presumption—Exclusion of period from computation under S. 11—Circumstances negativing.

Though there may be some ground for assuming that a tenant had agreed to hold under a 7 years' lease in the case of leases executed early in the year, the same thing cannot be said in respect of leases executed later in the year in the absence of clear evidence to that effect. Hence in the case of a lease executed after the commencement of the agricultural year where there is no evidence apart from the recital in the lease to show that the tenant had agreed either before or at the commencement of the agricultural year to hold the land on a 7 years' lease, it is not a lease for a term of not less than 7 years and therefore the period of such lease could not be excluded from computation under S. 11. Agra Tenancy Act. (Sathe, J. M.) Sheo Prasad v. Sunder Singh. 1942 O.A. (Supp.) 484=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.)

S. 22—Congenital deafness and dumbness— If a disqualification to succession.

Under the old Rent Act of 1881 inheritance was according to personal law. Congenital and incurable deafness and dumbness would have been a har to succession then. But after the Act of 1901, such a person can succeed to a holding under S. 22 of the Act. (Shirreff, S. M) MISRI LAL 2. NANHOO. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev). 795 (1)=1941 C.A. (Supp.) 706=1941 R.D. 692.

S. 22 (c)—Applicability—Death of cotenant—Succession—Deceased, joint with one only of the brothers if affects question.

Succession will be governed by the law in force at the time of the death of the tenant. A tenant is taken in his individual capacity under the Tenancy Act and even when a co-tenant dies during the currency of Act of 1901, succession must follow according to S. 22 of that Act and all the remaining brothers would succeed to his

A mortgage of occupancy plots is voidable under S. 31 of the Agra Tenancy Act of 1901 and not void ab initio. S. 3 (2)—'Land'—Use of land for purposes other than agriculture for which it was let—If and when it ceases to be 'land'.

A tenant's holding does not cease to be 'land' under the Agra Tenancy Act merely because he uses it for other than agricultural purposes. But if a tenant sublets his land to a sub-tenant for other than agricultural purposes, the land would not be 'land' under the Act in a dispute between the tenant and his sub-tenant though it would be 'land' so far as a dispute between the zamindar and the tenant is concerned. The plot with a fixed rate tenant is 'land' as defined in S. 3 (2) of the Agra Tenancy Act and he is not entitled to make any construction on it which would not qualify as an 'improvement' within the meaning of S. 3 (11) of the Act and unless it is satisfied that test would amount to an actionable invasion of the landbolder's right. The words for the like at the end of sub-S. (4) of S. 3 of the Agra Tenancy Act have to be interpreted as covering only such rights as are ejusdem generis or akin to the rights previously described. The right of a co-sharer to receive a certain income in respect of land which he holds for the purpose of a brick kiln is not akin to the rights described under the head of 'Sayar' sub S. ----S. 4 (d)-Sir-Requirement as to being recorded as the khudkasht of the landlord'-Strict construction—Necessity.

The requirement in S. 4 (d) of the Agra Tenancy Act that the land should be recorded as the khudkasht of the 'landlord' is to be construed strictly and hence when land is not so recorded one of the chief conditions of the definition is not fulfilled and the land cannot be said to be sir' under S. 4 (d). (Shirreff, S. M.) Deoki Kunwar v. Kesri. 1942 R. D. 266=1942 O.W.N. (B. R.) 200=1942 A. W. R. (Rev) 148 (2)=1942 O. A. (Supp.) 168 (2).

-Ss. 6 and 14-Ex-proprietary rights-Failure to claim by a co-sharer on sale of share of joint sir-Effect.

When one out of several joint sir holders transfers his property without claiming any exproprietary rights, the holding becomes the sir of the remaining sir holders. (Sathe, J. M.) Gordhana v. Birbal. 1942 O.W.N. (B. R.) 67=1942 R.D. 99=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 171 (1)=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 191 (1).

-S. 7-Joint sir holdings-Effect of transfer of some plots by some proprietors on the rights of others.

Where some of the proprietors having joint sir holdings transfers some specific plots to athird person, if it can be shown that the remaining proprietor has agreed in fact to the division of the transfer of certain specific plots to the vendee by the vendors then he would be precluded from claiming the whole holding as his sir. But in the absence of such a consent, the mere fact that the vendors have transferred certain specific plots to the vendee cannot extinguish the rights of the remaining proprietors in the plot so transferred unless the remaining proprietor's right to get back possession is extinguished by limitation. (Shirreff, J.M. and Sathe, A.M.) RAPIQ AHMAD v. MITTAR SEN. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 895-1941 A.W. R. (Rev.) 1102.

-Ss. 12 and 22-Fixed-rate tenant-Position and rights of.

A fixed-rate tenant is in a privileged position. He has rights approximating to the rights of an owner; but his rights are not absolute inasmuch as thelandholder retains the rights of proprietary reversion. #### AGRA TENANCY ACT (III OF 1926)

Effect—Subsequent sale in execution of that property—Rights of parties.

The effect of S. 52. T P. Act, is by no means that a transfer pendentelite is entirely void. In the case of a family alienation by a gift by the judgment debtor of his zamindari property including sir lands, no exproprietary rights are created and the donees become not only proprietors but sir holders, subject only to the rights of the decree holder. They become ex-proprietary tenants in the sir land after sale in execution of the decree (Yorke, J.) RAGHUBIR V. RAGHUBIR SARAN. 1942 O. W.N. 87=1942 A.L.W 62=1942 R.D. 158.

——S 14—Joint sir—Sale of proprietary interest by one—Subsequent sale by another—Acquisition of ex-proprietary right.

Where two brothers held certain plots as their sir and one of them sells his proprietary interest and the other becomes the sole sir holder and when he in his turn sells his sir interest he alone acquires an ex-proprietary title, (Harper, S.M.) WYIELLE PHILLIPS V. STANLEY PHILLIPS. 1941 A. W.R. (Rev.) 512=1941 R.D. 536=1941 O.A. (Supp) 471.

Ss. 14 and 15—Surrender of ex-proprietary rights—When becomes effective—Agreement to surrender on date of transfer of proprietary rights, but sanction under S. 15 granted subsequently—Rights of parties in the intervening period.

Ex-proprietary rights are not extinguished till the sanction required by S. 15 of the Agra Tenancy Act is obtained. Hence, where there is on the date of the transfer of proprietary rights an agreement to surrender the ex-proprietary rights, but the necessary sanction under S. 15 is obtained only some months later, the ex-proprietary rights are not extinguished till that date. for there is no provision in the Tenancy Act as to the sanction dating back to the date of the agreement. In such a case, the tenant of sir becomes a sub-tenant of the ex-proprietary tenant when there is a transfer and such rights become extinguished on sanction to surrender being obtained and thereafter he becomes a trespasser unable to take advantage of S. 29 of the Tenancy Act of 1939. The conditions of the year on which the partition papers are to be based should determine the question whether ex-proprietary rights have arisen or not. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) PAL SINGH v. SHANKER BUX SINGH. 1941 R.D. 1137=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 927=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1158.

The Agra Tenancy Act introduced in S. 15 a restriction on the waiver of ex-proprietary rights. The restriction applies however to agreement executed within six months of a transfer. Where a partition made by an arbitrator was accepted by all parties by an agreement by which they all relinquished their rights to ex-proprietary right, and which was executed more than six years before the transfer of proprietary rights took place after the confirmation of partition, held that ex-proprietary rights were given up. ——S. 15, Proviso — Applicability — Conditions— Simultaneous acreement followed by its withdrawal and application under S. 36, Land Revenue Act.

The law as laid down in the proviso to S. 15 of the Agra Tenancy Act only contemplates a simultaneous agreement to waive ex-proprietary rights—and when there is such an agreement the law is satisfied; hence a subsequent withdrawal of that and an application under S. 36 of the Land Revenue Act cannot take it away from the proviso to S. 15. — . 15. last Proviso and S. 3 (1)—Scare and applicability—Purchaser of equity of redemption from a sir holder if can become sir holder by redeeming mortgage.

The purpose of the last proviso to S. 15 of the Agra Tenancy Act was to enable the mortgagor to regain sir and not to enable a third party to become a sir holder. The purchaser of the equity of redemption cannot become a sir holder. So S. 3 (1) has no meaning with reference to the proviso to S. 15 of the Agra Tenancy Act heacuse there is something repugnant in the subject or context namely that the mortgagor's successors by purchase can never have sir rights (Ross, A.M.) Attrite Sen v. Teja. 1944 R.D. 129=1944 AW.R. (Rev.) 66.

——S. 15 (2)—Privilege under if confined to rendor only—Vender resiling from surrender—Vendee if can enforce fulfilment of surrender.

Vendee if can enforce fulfilment of surrender. The privilege of applying for surrender is conferred by S. 15 (2); Agra Tenancy Act on the vendor only. When his application is rejected and an appeal by him is requested to be also rejected no right is conferred on the vender to enforce the fulfilment of the surrender. (Shirreff S.M. and Sathe J.M.) S. 15 (2) Requirements of.

What S. 15. (2) requires is that the mortgage should not refer to sir in general but wholly to specific plots. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) NIADER W. KANHAIVA 1941 R.D. 257=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 199=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 250=1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 53.

The meaning of the proviso to S. 15 (5) of the Agra Tenancy Act is that the mortgaged property must consist solely of Sir. It must be a specific area of Sir and of Sir only. Hence it can have no application where the mortgage is of both Sir and non-Sir plots. (Acton. A. M. and Ross. J. M.) BHANPAL SINGH v. BIJAIPAL SINGH. 1945 A.W.R. (Rev.) 189 = 1945 B.D. 392.

-S. 20. Proviso (b)—Applicability—Ejectment proceedings not legal.

The reference to electment proceedings in proviso (b) of S. 20, Agra Tenancy Act, refers to logal proceedings and legal ejectment. Where there is no legal proceeding and no legal ejectment, the proviso (b) to S. 20 has no applica-tion. (Harper, S.M. and Shirreff, I.M.) Dup-HAT V. BINDESHARI. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1093= 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 886.

S. 22-Permanent lessee of fixed-rate tenancy-Rights.

A permanent lease purporting to transfer all the rights of a fixed-rate tenant, including the right to eject the sitting tenants is quite valid. And the lessee can exercise all the rights including the right to eject the sub-tenants. (Shirreff. J. M) PAMDUTT RAT 7 ABDUL AZZZ KWAN. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 834 (1)=1941 R.D. 757= 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 739 (1).

-Ss. 23 (1) and 34 (1)—Sale of grove by exproprietary tenant - Validity.

Under the law as it stood prior to the U. P. Tenancy Act of 1939, ex-proprietary rights did arise in sir land even though it was occupied by a grove. When there is a sale of grove by an exproprietary tenant it is void under S. 34 (1) of the Acra Tenancy Act. (Sathe, S. M.) CHANDARA PRASAD 7. KALI CHARAN. 1942 O.A. (Supp.) AGRA TENANCY ACT, (III OF 1926).

Ss. 23 (2) (b) and 44—Co-tenant admitted by widow, life tenant—Status after widow's death.

Where a person is admitted as co-tenant by the widow in possession as a life tenant, he can only acquire the rights of a co-tenant during her lifetime, and after her death he becomes a trespasser. (Sathe. J. M.) IDRIS v. MAULA BAKSH. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 809=1941 R.D. 735=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 720.

Ss. 23 (2) (b) and 44—Tenant with life interest admitting co-tenant—Status of such co-tenant—Death of life tenant—Co-tenant's liability to ejectment.

Where a stranger is admitted as a partner in an existing holding the rights of the tenant cannot be thereby enhanced in any way. Therefore when a widow with a life interest only in a holding admits a co-tenant with the consent of the landholder, she does so only for the duration of her own tenancy rights (ie) for her lifetime or up to the date of her remarriage. She could not transfer one iota more than the interest she herself held. On the termination of her tenancy rights by death, the new comer cannot assert any rights of his own as he came in the holding only as a partner or co-tenant of the existing tenant and not on account of his admission as a tenant in his own right and hence he can be ejected as a trespasser. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe J.M.) LAXMI CHAND W. HANDU. 1941 O.A. (Supp.). 95=1941 A.W. R. (Rev.) 107=1941. R.D. 33.

S. 23 (2) (b), Proviso—Scope and object of The proviso to S. 23 (2) (b) of the Agra Tenancy Act (corresponding to S. 33 (2) (c) of the U.P. Tenancy Act) explains what is meant by a co-tenant in connection with the clause which renders it legal for a tenant to release or transfer his interest in favour of a co-tenant. It was probably intended to cover all legal aspects of co-tenancy but it is not quite exhaustive as a definition, for cases may arise in which a person becomes a co-tenant by estoppel. (Shirreff, S,M) LACHHMI NARAIN v. RAM DEI. 1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 315=1942 R.D. 404=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 276 (1)=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 302 (1).

5.24—Chela—Lease of agricultural holding conferring heritable rights—Representative of lessor, if can question chela's right to succession.

With or without a will a chela is not an heir to an agricultural holding under the Agra Tenancy Act. But where a lease purports to confer heritable rights, the lessor's representative is estopped from denying that a chela who succeeds as the heir to the deceased lessee, is a tenant in succession to the deceased lessee. This does not conflict with the principle that estoppel cannot operate against law for there is no express provision of law that a person who is not an heir under the Agra Tenancy Act but whom the landholder agrees to treat as an heir and admit to the tenancy, can be ejected as a non-occupancy tenant. (Shirreff, J.M.) Bhairo Kumar Prasad v. Markande Gir. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 811=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 748=1941 R.D. 891.

AGRA TENANCY ACT, (III OF 1926).

S. 24—Chela—Right to succeed guru under S. 24—If can also claim by blood relationship.

A chela is not entitled to succeed his guru under S. 24 of the Agra Tenancy Act. But there is nothing to prevent him from claiming by reason of blood relationship. (Sathe, J. M.) Gurcharan Prasad v. Bikrama Ram Sant. 1942 A.W R. (Rev.) 122 (2)=1942 R D. 255=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 189=1942 O.A (Supp.) 139 (2).

—S. 24—Co-sharing—Clear proof of—Necessity.

Where a person claims to succeed to an occupancy holding on the ground that he is the nearest co-sharing collateral, there must be clear proof of the fact of co-sharing. Where the proof consisted of the statements of three witnesses who merely stated in general terms that the cultivation was joint, it is not sufficient to prove cosharing. (Harper, S. M. and Sathe, J. M.) SHIAM LAL v. JUMMAN. 1940 R.D. 600=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 91=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 79.

Where during the minority of a tenant his uncle who was also his nearest collateral manages the holding, pays rent to the zamindar directly and shares the balance of profits with the minor, on the death of such a tenant, the uncle does not become a trespasser but is the nearest co-sharing collateral of the deceased tenant entitled to succeed him. (Harper, S.M.) RANJIT SINGH v. MUNNA KHAN. 1940 R D. 607 (2)=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 93 (2)=1941 O.A. (Supp) 81 (2).

S. 24—Co-sharing—Existence or otherwise, if a pure question of law—Onus—What would constitute co-sharing.

A question whether co-sharing in cultivation is established or not is not solely a question of law. It raises both a question of fact and a question of law, whether the facts found constitute co-sharing in law and the onus is on those who rely on it. Co-sharing is not established by vague statements of witnesses that the person concerned lived and shared in cultivation with the tenant. There must be evidence of definite acts constituting co-sharing. (Dible, S. M.) SHAMRATHI KUNWARI v. ABHAIRAJ. 1945 B.D. 257 = 1945 A. W.R. (Rev.) 139.

S. 24—Co-sharing in cultivation by collateral—Absence of pooling of resources—When and when not countable against claim to succession.

The absence of proof of pooling of resources with the deceased by the co-sharer claiming to succeed though may not be counted against him if as a matter of fact he had no agricultural resources of his own which he could have pooled, would prevent him from succeeding where it is shown that he did have such resources and did not pool them with those of the deceased. (Sathe, J.M.) DEO SARAN PANDEY v. RAM KISHAN MAL. 1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 307=1942 R.D. 396=1942 A.W. R. (Rev.) 262 (1)=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 288 (1).

——S. 24—Co-sharing—Joint living with deceased —Joint cultivation—Sufficiency.

Where the collaterals Concerned have been living with the deceased tenant as a member of a joint family there could be no separate resources to be pooled together and the joint cultivation must be held to fall within the category of cosharing according to law. (Sathe, J.M.) VIEHUTI NARAIN SINGH v. CHHAKURI SINGH AGRA TENANCY ACT, (III OF 1926). 1942 O.W.N. (B.R. 155=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 125=1942 R.D. 221=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 108.

S. 24—Co-sharing—One of the heldings in possession of third party in lieu of interest—Joint helding in respect of others—Presumption of co-sharing, if can arise.

Where a holding is in the possession of a third party in lieu of interest, a claimant, cannot succeed to it on the basis of co-sharing. Co-sharing in cultivation might be presumed from the fact of the last owner living jointly with the claimant and cultivating other holdings also jointly with him. But where co-sharing was physically impossible owing to the mortgage no such presumption can be drawn. (Shirreff S.M. and Sathe J.M.) Chunni Lat. v. Santu Chamar. 1942 R.D. 717=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 403=1942 O.W. N. (B.R.) 589=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 377.

_____S. 24—Co-sharing—Pooling of resources— Limits to the rule.

Pooling of resources is one of the criteria and not the sole criterion which goes to prove whether a person had co-shared in cultivation or not. Where therefore a claimant had no resources of his own which he could pool with those of the deceased but still actively took part in the cultivation of the latter's holding in all other respects he could not be held not to have co-shared simply because he had no agricultural stock or implements which he could pool with those of the deceased. (Sathe, J.M.) BHAGWATI PRASAD SINGH v. SHEO SHANKAR. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 509 (2)=1941 R.D. 481=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 468 (2).

Pooling of resources where there are any resources to be pooled is an essential condition for proving co-sharing. (Sathe, A. M.) NANAK CHAND v. MOHAN SINGH. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1128 (2)=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 909 (2).

No co-sharing in the legal sense can be presumed in the case of a collateral having agricultural stock of his own unless there is evidence to show that his stock was pooled with that of the deceased in the cultivation of the plot in question (Sathe. S.M.) NANAK CHAND v. CHIRANJI. 1943 A.W.R. (Rev.) 332 (1)=1943 R.D. 560.

——S. 24—Co-sharing — Requisites—Existence of agricultural resources—Necessity of proving pooling.

Ss. 24 and 25—Co-tenants—Relation between-Succession on the death of one—Law applicable.

Co-tenants in a holding are tenants in comon and not joint tenants and when one of such co-tenants dies, succession is governed by Ss. 24 and 25 of the Agra Tenancy Act and the corresponding sections in the new Act. A joint helding does not go to the survivors only by the right of survivorship. (Shirreff, SM. and Sathe, JM) RAGEUBIR V. LAKEI, 1842 A.W.R (Rev.) 188=

AGRA TENANCY ACT (III OF 1926). 1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 308=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 208=1942 R.D. 397.

S.24—Heir not succeeding under—Liability for arrears of rent owed by deceased—Enforceability of decree.

The heir of a deceased tenant is liable for arrears of rent owed by the latter even if the former did not succeed to the holding under S. 24 of the Agra Tenancy Act. Any decree that may be obtained will be executable under S. 52. C. P. Code. (Shirreff, J. M. and Sathe. A. M.) Duni Chander, Magsood. 1942 O.W.N. (BR.) 20 (1)=1942 O.M. (Supp.) 17 (1)=1942 A.W. R. (Rev.) 17 (1)=1942 R.D. 36 (1).

Where there are four brothers of a statutory tenant surviving on the death of the widow, even if three of them are found to have lived separate from the statutory tenant and only one remained joint with bim, succession is governed strictly by S. 24 of the Agra Tenancy Act which gives all brothers an equal right. S. 26 specifically excludes any claim on the basis of co-tenancy except when there is no other heir under S. 24. (Harper, S.M. and Shirreff, J.M.) Dubnat v. Bindeshri. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 886=1941 A.W. R. (Rev.)*1093.

Under S. 24, Class (vii), Agra Tenancy Act, the rights of the collaterals arises for the first time when the widow dies or remarries. When succession opens in such a case, the question to be examined is whether the claimant is at that time the nearest of all the surviving collateral male relatives of the decensed male tenant and whether he had co-shared in the cultivation of the holding at the time of the death of the deceased male tenant. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) Siaram v. Balisso. 1941 R.D. 233=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 205=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 256=1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 58.

- S. 24—Widow of occupancy tenant—Re-marriage of—Rights of succession under S. 24—If affected by any recognition by the zemindar.

On re-marriage the tenancy rights of the widow of an occupancy tenant terminate and no recognition by the zamindar can overrule any rights of succession acquired under S, 24 of the Agra Tenancy Act. (Harper, S. M. and Sathe, J.M.) CHONNI V. JAMNA. 1940 R.D. 624=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 429=1941 R.D. 663 (2).

S. 25 and U. P. Tenancy Act (1939), Ss. 36 and 37—Scope and applicability of S. 25—Hindu daughter having life interest in occupancy holding—Succession on her death when Tenancy Act of 1926 was in furce.

The two sub-clauses to S. 25 of the Agra Tenancy Act governed all cases of female tenants: one clause governed those with an absolute right and the other clause governed those with a limited right. Females of Mahor medan families having absolute estates would come under S. 25 (2) and their inheritance would descend to their sons. Females of Hindu families having only life interests would come under S. 25(1) and their succession would go to the heirs of the last male tenants. Hence, where on the death of a Hindu occupancy tenant, his daughter inherits the holding under the Rent Act of 18°1 and dies at a time when the Agra Tenancy Act of 1926 was in force, her son could succeed to the holding only if he proved co-sharing with the last male tenant. -S. 25-Widow inheriting holding, remarrying -Reflect-Right of sons by second marriage to inherit

Where a widow inheriting a holding remarries, her rights are automatically extinguished from the date of remarriage. But if she is allowed to cultivate the holding as before she acquires fresh rights in her own right, if the zamindar knew of the remarriage and her sons by the second marriage are entitled to inherit those rights under S. 25 (2) of the Agra Tenancy Act. (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) HARNATH 7. SUNDER BIBL 1942 R.D. 732=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 398=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 424=1942 (Rev.) 398=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 424=1942 O.W.N. in force—Law governing succession on her death after Tenancy Act of 1926.

Where a widow of the caste of Ahirs, in which remarriage is permitted by custom, inherits a holding from her husband and re-marries when Act XII of 1881 was in force and remains in possession till her death after Agra Tenancy Act of 1926 had come into force, succession to the holding would be governed by S. 25 (1) and not by S. 25 (2) of the Agra Tenancy Act. (Sathe, I.M.) RAGHUNATH SINGH v. SHIAM LAL. 1942 A.W.R. (Rev) 500=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 526=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 752.

S. 25 (2)—Applicability—Death of widow whose name was entered by way of consolation—Effect.

Where a widow who according to the personal law is not an heir to her husband in the presence of sons, happens to be only a sleeping partner in the holding and whose name is entered by wav of consolation dies, succession is not governed by S. 25 (2) of the Agra Tenancy Act. On her death her name should be expunged and no rights can pass to her daughter's sons, from her. (Sathe, A.M.) CHAIT RAM v. JASWANT SINGH. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 739 (2)=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 834 (2)=1941 R.D. 896.

-Ss. 25 (2) (b) and 26-Succession to occupancy holding—Husband if can succeed to wife succeeding her father prior to 1901.

Where a daughter succeeds her father's rights as a co-tenant in an occupancy holding prior to 1901, it is under the personal law and her right is only to a limited estate and it ceases on her death. Hence though she might die after 1926 the position would not be changed and her interest would pass by survivorship to the other co-tenants under S. 26. Agra Tenancy Act and her husband cannot inherit it under S. 25 (2) (b) (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) SURAJBHAN v. JAGANNATH.

-S. 26-Acquisition of holding, if for joint family-Onus-- Evidence of payment of rent and possession of part of land-Value,

The burden of proving that a holding has been acquired for the whole joint family lies under S. 26, Agra Tenancy Act, on the party which asserts jointness and not on the party in whose name alone the holding is shown in the papers. Mere possession of the land in dispute and payment of rent direct to zamindar do not constitute conclusive evidence that the holding is joint, (Shirreff, J.M. and Sathe, AM) NAWATA v., KEWAI. 1941 R.D. 1125=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 931=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1162.

-S. 26—Co-sharing—Requisites,

A how of 12 or 13 years reading in a school is not likely to be of any material assistance in agricultural operations and hence he is incapable of co-sharing in cultivation. The requisite as to pooling of resources is necessary. The removal of the condition as to co-sharing in the new Act is no ground for giving reprospective effect to that view when that Act itself does not authorise that. (Harber, S.M. and Sathe J.M.) BHOLA SINGH V. TAGDISH NARATN SINGH. 1941 A W.R. (Rev) 269=1941 O A. (Supp.) 218=1941 R.D. 290=1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 65.

-S. 32-Effect of surrender on subtenancy-Rights of new lessee.

When a tenant in chief surrenders with the termination of his rights, the rights of the subtenant terminate under S. 32 of the Agra Tenancy Act. The new lessee becomes the landholder so far as the actual cultivation is concerned and is thus entitled to exercise his option as to whether the interest of the sub-tenant should be maintained or not. If he decides that he should not be maintained the former sub-tenant becomes a trespasser. His status remains the same irrespective of whether the lease conferred on the new lessee the rights of a non-occupancy tenant or any Superior tenancy rights, (Harper, S.M.)
MANGRU v. SAHDEL 1942 O.A. (Supp.) 205:-1942 A.W.R (Rev) 186=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 539.

-S. 32 (1), Proviso-Sub-tenant allowed to continue after exfinguishment of interest of tenunt in chief-Effect .

According to the proviso to sub-sec. (1) to S. 32 of the Agra Tenancy Act when the interests of the tenant in chief is extinguished and the landlord allows the Sub-tenant to continue then all covenants previously binding and enforceable as between the tenant and sub-tenant thereupon become binding and enforceable as between the landholder and sub-tenant. His liability to pay the same rent which he was paying continues. (Shirreff, S.M., and Sathe, J.M.) KHUSHIYALI v. MUHEMA. 1942 O.A. (Supp.) 35-1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 35=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 45=1942 R.D.

-S. 32 (3)—Surrender of chief tenancy—Subsistence of sub-tenancy—Lease of tenancy in chief-If can be made only after expiry of sub-tenancy.

——S. 35 (f)—Dispossession of ex-proprietary tenant by a co-sharer—Extinguishment of rights—Period.

Where one of the co-sharers dispossesses an ex-proprietary tenant and is in possession from 1342-F., it is not enough to extinguish the exproprietary rights of the tenant who has a period of 12 years within which to sue for the ejectment of the co-sharer and he is hence entitled to have his name retained as an ex-proprietary tenant in the khatauni. (Shirreff, S. M. and Sathe, J. M.) Mywa Ram v. Dunga Das. 1942 O.W. N. (B.R.) 691=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 483.

——S. 35 (1) (f)—Extinguishment of rights under—Onus.

To establish a case of an extinguishment of tenant's rights under S. 35 (1) (1) of the Agra Tenancy Act, it is for the plaintiff to show that the defendant has been out of possession for so long that he has lost his rights under the section. ——S. 36 and U.P. Tenancy Act (1939) S. 46— Tenant with non-occupancy rights—Acquisition of mortgagee rights—Termination of mortgage— Status of tenant.

Where the question was whether a tenant with non-occupancy rights under the Act of 1901 whose rights terminated by the acquisition of mortgagee rights became a trespasser when the mortgage terminated, held:

Per Harper, S. M.—That the tenants' rights were in abeyance and under the new Act he became a tenant again but with statutory rights.

Per Shirreff, J. M.—That the mortgage must be regarded as terminating the tenancy which existed merely as a tenancy from year to year. (Harper, S. M. and Shirreff, J. M.) JACDISH NARAIN SEWAK PANDEY T. KALI CHARAN MAM. 1941 R D 665—1941 O.A. (Supp.) 613—1941 A. W.R. (Rev.) 673.

—S. 37—Division of holding—Plea of a prior division of certain plots and prayer for their exclusion—Procedure to be followed.

When the representatives of one of the two tenants having occupancy rights in a holding sue for equal division but the other tenant pleads a prior division of certain plots and claims exclusive tenancy therein and equal division in the rest, to allow such a claim would make the division unequal and hence the whole holding should be divided half and half. separate possession in accordance with the decree by mutual arrangement, the aggrieved and should take out execution to have the S. 37 decree party can proceedings executed through Court. Until the parties obtain separate possession either by mutual arrangement or through Court in purarrangement or through Court in pursuance of a decree under S. 37, the rights of both the parties in the whole holding continue unaffected and till then they cannot be deemed to he trespassers in respect of plots in their possession, though it might belong to the share of another under the decree, and against such persons a suit under S. 44 of the Tenancy Act does not lie. The only remedy open to a person who cannot take out execution of a decree under S. 37, owing to limitation is to have his share partitioned under S: 49 of the U. P. Tenancy Act, corresponding to S. 37 of the old Act, as the cause of action under that section is a continuing one. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe. J.M.) From v. Bhagein, 1941 R.D. 37—1941 A.W.R. S 37 and Sch IV. Group B Serial No.1—Suit for division of groves forming tenants' holdings on which rent is not assessed—Maintainability.

Though rent has not been assessed on groves forming tenants. boldings a suit for their division would lie under S. 37, Agra Tenancy Act. It is true that in Sch IV, Group B, Serial No. 1 the court-fee which has got to be paid in a suit under S. 37 has a reference to the rent payable on the bolding but that does not mean that a holding on which no rent has been assessed and which is bila bagani cannot be matter of partition under S. 37. It only refers to the payment of court-fee and does not in any way exclude any property from the operation of S. 37 which otherwise comes within the express words of S. 37 simply because no rent in fact has been assessed. (Bajpai and Dar. II) FAM SUNDER V. LAL MOHAMMAD. 1943 A.L.W. 153.

There is nothing in law against joint holders of a tenaucy effecting a private partition, but only it must be satisfactorily proved. If agreement to divide the holding is clear and definite and is intended to provide a permanent division and has been acquiesced in by the zamindar, it cannot be challenged afterwards. Where one of two co-tenants brings a suit under S. 37 of the Agra Tenancy Act for division of the holding and the holding is divided but without the consent of the zamindar the responsibility for the rent of whole of the holding remains joint and the rights of both parties continue in both portions of the holding even after the division. S. 37, Proviso-Formal division of holding-Landholder being some of the co-tinants--Necessity for agreement in writing.

There could have been no final division of a holding between co-tenants when Act III of 1926 was in force unless the landholder had agreed thereto in writing as required by S. 37 of that Act. Though the landlord might have been some of the co-tenants, nonetheless the proviso required the agreement to be in writing. (Sathe, S.M. and Dible, J.M.) JUGAL KISHORE RAI v. Where in the case of an acquisition of land for purposes of better farming, it is found that there is no land in the same village to be given in exchange and the applicant holds joint sir and khudkasht in a neighbouring village with another who could not be legally compelled to part with his share in any of the joint sir or khudkasht, and where the tenants are not resident in the village in suit and will retain a considerable amount of cultivated land in the village in suit as well as in the neighbouring village in which they reside, the acquisition of their land on cash compensation is not unreasonable. The reasonableness of the application for acquisition has to be judged from the grounds on which the zamindar desires the acquisition of the land in question and not from the consequences which the acquisition will entail to the tenant, such as his being left with very little other land for his maintenance which is not a ground for refusal to acquire under S. 41 of the Act. (Harper, S. M. and Sathe, J. M.) UMAKANT PANDE v. KANDHAIYA LAL. 1942 O.A. (Supp) 226 (2)=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 522=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 200 (2).

-If can be made.

The phrase 'necessary for the management or development of the estate' occurring in S. 41 (1) (e) of the Agra Tenancy Act does not qualify the words 'building houses' occurring in the beginning of that sub-clause and hence land can be acquired for building houses within Municipal limits even if those houses are meant for being let out or for personal occupation. (Harper, S. M. and Sathe, J.M.) UMAKANT PANDE v, KANDH-AIYA LAL. 1942 O.A. (Supp.) 226 (2)=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 522=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 200 (2). -S. 4 (1) (e)—Construction—Purpose of acquisition.

The qualification of sub. Cl. (c) to Cl. Damages on ejectment—Necessity.
Per Harfer, S.M.—S. 44 of the Agra Tenancy Act says that the trespasser shall be liable to pay damages. The amount is at the discretion of the Court.

Per Sathe, J.M.—It is not mandatory under S. 44 of the Tenancy Act to award damages in every case where ejectment is decreed. It would he wrong however to refuse damages for inadequate or no reasons. For, in that case a subsequent suit for damages on the part of the plaintiff is barred. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) Sher Singh v. Mahendra Pratar. 1941 R.D. 177=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 341=1941 O.A.

Where a tenant-in-chief acquiesces in the possession of another for some time and then treats him as trespasser, it cannot be said as a general proposition that the other person becomes a trespasser from the time the tenant-in-chief treats him as trespasser. The presumption raised by S. 197. Agra Tenancy Act, that the grove-holder holds land in respect of which he is grove-holder as a nonoccupancy tenant under a lease the term of which will expire when the land ceases to be groveland contemplates that after the grove has been cut and removed the grove-holder continues to be in possession of the land and cultivates the same. Where he is not in cultivation and the land is lying banjar and later on is planted with trees without the landholder's permission he cannot resist a suit under S. 44 on the ground that he was a non-occupancy tenant. Further, S. 44 does not necessarily apply to a rank trespasser. If the possession of the other party was without consent of the landholder S. 44 would apply. (Mothur, J.) Sheo Nandan Lal v. P.Code.

Where immovable property is sold in execution of a decree and a person who is not a party to the suit and against whom no decree has been passed is in possession of that immovable property and formal possession is given to the decree-holder, two courses are open to the person in possession. He can either give up possession in accordance with the formal order in which case he would have a right to object under R. 100 of O. 21, C. P. Code, or he might refuse to comply with the formal order of dispossession and continue to remain in possession in whice case he will have committed no offence as he is unaffected by the decree and he is not liable to ejectment under S. 44 of the Agra Tenancy Act. He was not bound to have applied O 21, R. 89. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe J.M.) Anand Prasad v. Raghubir Tewari. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 93=1941 A W.R. (Rev.) 105=1941 A. L. J. Where in proceedings under S. 36 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act ex-proprietary rights are not claimed, the tenant of sir becomes the non-occcupancy tenant of khalsa land from the date of the termination of such proceedings and a suit under S. 44, Agra Tenancy Act, to eject such a tenant as a trespasser is misconceived. He could not be ejected as a trespasser. (Sathe J.M.) SAMUN SINGH v. FAUJDAR LONIA. 1942 R.D. 371 =1942 O.A. (Supp.) 172=1942 O.W.N.(B.R.) 282=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 152.

Hence where a tenant was ejected and a new tenant let into possession and the former tenant applied for review and succeeded in seiting aside the ejectment order and obtained formal dakhal dehani he can sue the new tenant for ejectment under S. 44 of the Tenancy Act and it is not open to the new tenant to plead that they were put into possession by the Zamindar and that the suit should have been filed under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act (Hurper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) KHUSHALI v. GOVIND. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 493=1941 R.D. 485=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 452.

-S. 44 -Occupancy lease of specific sir plots -Liability of lessee to ejectment.

In the case of an occupany lease by a sir holder of sufficient plots, it is the conferment of occupancy right and not the admission to tenancy which is invalid. In such a case the landlord cannot repudiate the detendant's admission to the holding as a tenant and so the latter could not be ejected as a trespasser. But it the lease was legally null and void there would be no estoppel against the landlord, pleading the invalidity of the lease. (Shirreff, J.M.) RAM LAGAN SINGH v. SARJU. 1941 A.W.R. Where the defendant in a suit brought under S. 44, Agra Tenancy Act is found to be a nonoccupancy tenant and the suit is pending when the new Act came into force, the plaintiff not having taken any proceedings against the defendant as non-occupancy tenant, is not entitled to relief against him as such under that Act. It also follows that when the U.P. Tenancy Act came into force, the defendant, who had been non-occupancy tenant, became a hereditary tenant under S. 29 (a) of the U.P. Such a suit is not defective under S. 266, for the plaintiff must be considered to be the sole land-holder even in respect of the trespassers. (Shirreff, J.M. and Sathe, A.M.) MUNNA LAL v. Even if the sub-tenants begin to exercise adverse possession from the date of the death of the chief tenant, their status remains only that of trespassers and the period of limitation for the successor of the chief tenant to file a suit for their ejectment is 12 years under S. 44 of the Act. In an undivided lambardari mahal rents are not only paid to the lambardar but they are also payable to him on behalf of all the other cosharers, in the absence of any custom or usage to the contrary. In such cases each individual cosharer is not, while the lambardar is the landholder vis-a-vis the tenants and other occupiers of land. The right to file a suit for arrears of rent and ejectment therefore vests in such mahals on the lambardar who can exercise it on behalf of the whole co-parcenary body even against individual co-sharers. Held, that the entry in the Khatauni was consistent with the evidence and did not raise any presumption as to existence of a contract of tenancy and that the defendant was liable to ejectment. #### A 3RA TENANCY ACT (III OF 1926).

86 of the Tenancy Act and the defendants pleaded that the ejectment proceedings were fictions.

Held that the burden of proving that the proceedings in ejectment were fictitions lay on the defendants, that all legal proceedings must be presumed to have been taken with due care and in accordance with the provisions of law until the contrary was proved and that in the absence of any evidence to the contrary the order of ejectment and the dakhal dihani must be accepted as genuine and to have been correctly carried out and that the defendants were trespassers liable to ejectment. S. 44-Suit under-Contract of tenancy-

Desirability of framing issue as to factum.

In suits under S. 44. Agra Tenancy Act, it would be better to have an issue as to the exis-tence or otherwise of a contract of tenancy, properly framed. (Shirreff, J.M.) GOVIND RAO v. ALMIKURMI. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 556 (2)= 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 487 (2)=1941 R.D. 675 (1)

-S. 44-Suit under-Onus-Disp*ted entries in patwari papers-Value.

In suits under S. 44, Agra Tenancy Act, the burden of proving that the land in dispute settled with the defendant is on the party who sets up such a defence. Entries in the patwari which have been in dispute ever since they were made, cannot constitute sufficient evidence for discharging the burden of prool. (Shirreff, J.M. and Sathe, A.M.) Asa RAM v. NIADER. 1941 R.D. 1111=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 945 (1)=1941 A. W.R. (Rev.) 1194 (1).

-S. 44—Suit under-Plea in defence of adtenancy-Onus-Presumption mission to tenancy, if justified.

Where in a suit under S. 44 of the Agra Tenancy Act the defendant pleads an admission to tenancy, it is for him to prove the contract which he asserts. From the mere fact alone of the plaintiff being a small Zamindar, it should not be inferred that he would not have allowed the defendant to remain in possession for a long time but for a contract of tenancy. (Harper, S. M. and Shirreff, J.M.) RAM DASS v. RASIAWAN LONIA. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 508=1941 R.D. 546 (1)=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 467.

-S. 44-Suit under-Plea in defence of being tenant in chief-Onus-Marafat entry, if can create title.

Where the defendant in a suit under S. 44 of the Agra Tenancy Act claims that he is the tenant in chief, the burden of proving his title lies on him. The mere existence of a marufat entry cannot create title and is totally inadequate to prove the title set up. (Shirreff S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) JOET AHIR v. TIMAL AHIR. 1942 R.D. 308=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 242=1942 A.W. R. (Rev.) 243 (2)=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 269 (2). S. 44—Suit under—Plea of adverse possession—Starting point—Formal dakhal dihani not followed by actual physical dispossession-Effect.

AGRA TENANCY ACT, (III OF 1926).

A formal dakhal dihani even though it may not be followed by an actual physical dispossession extinguishes all the rights of the defendant. Hence, if the latter continues to remain in possession a fresh cause of action arises. Where a tenant though ejected under the provisions of the Agra Tenancy Act of 1901 continued in possession and a fresh suit was filed for his ejectment under S. 44 of the Tenancy Act of 1926 and decreed and the zamindar given a formal dakhal dilani but the tenant still continued in possession and a fresh suit was filed again under S. 44 and the defendant pleaded adverse possession from. the date of his ejectment under the old Tenancy Act.

Held, that adverse possession started only from the date of the formal dakhal dihani obtained by the zamindar in his first suit under S. 44 of the Act of 1926. (Harper, S. M. and Sathe, J. M.) VIBHUII NARAIN SINGII v. KAN-DHIYA, 1941 R.D. 26=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 103 =1941 O.A. (Supp.) 91=1941 A.L.J. (Supp.)

-S. 44-Suit under-Plea of ex-proprietary tenancy-Absence of evidence-Reliance on judgment not deciding question.

The judgment in an arrears of rent suit against certain alleged ex-proprietary tenants dismissing it on the ground that defendants were either sir or khudkasht holders of the land in dispute cannot be used as an authority for holding in a subsequent suit under S. 44 of the Agra Tenancy Act against the same defendants, that they are ex-proprietors of the land in dispute in the absence of evidence to show how and when they became ex-proprietary tenants, (Sathe. J. M.) MEGH SINGH v. LALA RAM. 1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 55 (2)=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 116=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 55 (2)=1942 R.D. 148.

-S. 44-Suit under-Plea of limitation in defence—Facts to be proved.

In a suit under S. 44 of the Agra Tenancy Act, before the defendant could plead limitation he has to show that he was in possession of the holding for at least 12 years to the knowledge of the plaintiff. ——Ss. 44 and 99—Termination of right of tenant in chief—Date—Applicability of S. 99—Condition necessary—Freating suit under S. 44 as one under S. 99.

A tenant in chief cannot lose his right merely because the zamindar has begun to treat a trespasser whom he had not put into possession as the tenant in chief. The time for a suit to eject such a tenant runs from the date the zamindar recognizes the trespasser as a tenant. Every litigious claim made by a defendant that he is holding the particular land from the zamindar does not render S. 99, applicable to the case. Before a case can fall under the section it must be shown that the claim to hold the land from the Zamindar is a bona fide one. A suit under S. 44 can be treated as one under S. 99. (Shurreff, S. AND M. Sathe, J.M.) Puttoo Lal v. Hira Lal. 1942 O.A. (Supp.) 52=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 52=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 150=1942 R.D. 216.

Starting point of limitation under-Transferee obtaining effective possession after titigation against other fraudulent transferees—Dejendant let into possession by latter—Suit to eject him.

Where a transferee of proprietary right had to file civil suit against subsequent fraudulent transferees to obtain effective possession, the starting point of limitation for a suit for ejectment of defendants who were let into possession by the fraudulent transferees would be the date when effective possession was obtained by the plaintiff and it is also that date from which the defendant's occupation would be deemed to be unauthorized by the landholder. (Dible J. M.) KARIYA BHARATH v. SRI KISHAN SAHI. 1943 R.D. 177=1943 A.W.R. (Rev.) 199 (1).

—S. 50—Applicability—Document stating particular sum as legal rent which was being paid and asking for correction—Tenant if estopped from denying that the amount stated was not the actual rent—Effect of admission in the document—Document, if an agreement to enhance rent.

Where a document merely began by reciting that the legal rent which the tenant had been paying and which the Zamindar had been collecting was Rs. 75 although only Rs. 37 was shown in the Patwari's papers and ended up with a prayer that the correct figure of rent might be entered in the Patwari's papers and was signed by both the Zamindar and the tenant:

Held (i), that the document was nothing more than an application containing two admissions by the parties (1) as to the legal rent and (2) as to its having been paid to the Zamindar in the past; (ii) that where there was nothing to show that the admission operated as an estoppel against the tenant, it was open to him to prove that the legal rent was only Rs. 37 notwithstanding his admission to the contrary; (iii) that the admission of the parties contained in the document that the legal rent was Rs. 78 had no evidential value under S. 21 of the Evidence Act, for what is the egal rent is a point of law and any figure said to be the legal rent by the parties could not become the legal rent merely for that reason and even if the Zamindar actually collected more than the legal rent it did not become legal rent and the difference between the two figures remained Zaid Matalba and was not recoverable by process of law; and (iv) that the document could not be taken to be an agreement for enhancement of rent. S. 54 (a)—Abatement of rent—Rasis of calculation.

Per Harper S.M.—There are no provisions and no rules framed by Government to say how abatements are to be made under S. 54 (a) of the Agra Tenancy Act. The policy of the Act by the introduction of roster rates clearly was to encourage the use of these rates and it is not illegal to place reliance on rates arrived at as a result of a special inquiry, for the purposes of abatement. Courts should have up-to-date rates to guide them and the rent should not be abated proportionately to the fall in prices. This however is not the same thing as to say that all rents must be reduced to the absolute valuation. Special reasons for not doing so exist in individual cases and the law in the Tenancy Act both previously and now permits Courts to take account of them.

Per Sathe, I.M.—In suits filed under S. 54 (a) of the Agra Tenancy Act, the abatement should ordinarily be based on the fall in prices though it need not necessarily be exactly proportionate to it. The reduced expenses of cultivation should be taken into account and the new rent should be checked by comparing it with the rent arrived at by applying the standard fair and equitable rates. (Harper S. M. and Sathe J.M.) KASHIPAT TEWARI & BIHARI. 1940 R. 1. 570=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 83=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 71.

--- S. 69-Applicability-Sub-tenants.

S. 69 of the Agra Tenancy Act does not apply to enhancement of a sub-tenant's rent. Hence a registered instrument is not necessary for the purpose and can be made by an oral agreement. (Suthe, A.M.) HARI GOPAL v. AYUB ALI. 1941. O.A. (Supp.) 963 (2)=1941 A.W.R. (Res.) 1215 (2).

S. 80—Ejectment after period of grace— Deposit a couple of hours after ejectment— Refusal to receive deposit—If irregular or illegal.

Where after the notice under S.80 Agra Tenancy Act, was served and after the expiry of the period of grace an order for ejectment is passed and a couple of hours later the judgment debtor brings the money into Court and asks permission to deposit and it is refused there is nothing irregular or Ilegal in the procedure to justify interference in revision. Where a suit under S. 82 of the Agra Tenancy Act is compromised and a provision is made that on failure to pay the costs before a particular date the defendants would be ejected, the decree embodying the compromise could be executed on default in payment of costs. The executing Court cannot go behind the decree, and the compromise is neither unlawful nor does it contain any provision in the nature of penalty. (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) BANWARI LAL V. Ss. 85 and 84—Applicability—Fixed rate tenant.

The words 'notwithstanding anything contained in this section' in sub-S. (3) of S. 85 of the Agra Tenancy Act makes it quite clear that what was meant by the Legislature was that while the landlord was at liberty under S. 84 of the Act to sue for a decree for ejectment such as is referred to in Cls. (1) and (2) of S. 85, he might also add a prayer in his suit under S. 84 for one of the reliefs mentioned in the sub-clauses to Cl. (3) or he might sue exclusively under S. 84 for one of such reliefs or for a combination of them. The words 'in this section' show clearly that Cl. (3) of S. 85 is referable to S. 84 equally with Cls. (1) and (2). A fixed rate tenant having been specifically exempted from ejectment by S. 84, it is obvious that the provision in S. 85 which allows a land-holder to sue for injunction, etc., in lieu of or in addition to suing for ejectment, can have no application whatsoever to a fixed rate tenant. Where in a suit under S. 86 of the Agra Tenancy Act, the defendant pleads a permanent lease in defence and it is found that the lease was by one only of the plaintiffs, an order making whole decree of ejectment conditional on the return of the nazurina paid is not proper, inas much as it will be unfair to the plaintiff who had neither granted the lease nor received the nazurina. ----S. 99-Suit under-Awarding of damages not claimed-Legality.

Where in a suit under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act damages are claimed only for the period up to the filing of the suit, the Court is not justified in awarding damages for any subsequent period. (Shirreff, S.M. and Salhe, J.M.) MAITHILL SHARAN GUPTA v. RAM DAYAL. 1942 OA. (Supp.) 71=1942 O.W.N. (BR.) 112=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 65=1942 R.D. 144.

S. 99—Suit under—Maintainability—Lease and subequent sale of six plots to lessee—Vendor If can sue under S. 99.

Where there has been a lease of sir plots and the lessee had been put in possession and there is a subsequent sale of the same sir plots to the same lessee and the vendor specifically, agrees to the vendees remaining in possession. AGRA TENANCY ACT. (III OF 1926).

there is no illegal dispossession of the vendor and hence a suit under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act by the vendor against the vendee must fail. (Harper, S.M.) BALWANT v. GULZAR. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 607=1941 R.D. 661=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 667.

The duty of proving that his suit under S. 99. Agra Tenancy Act, is not barred by limitation lies on the plaintiff. (Harper, S.M.) TARA CHAND V. NARAIN SINGH. 1942 O.A. Supp.) 122 = 1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 85 (1).

——S. 99—Suit under—Proof of contract of tenancy—Sufficiency.

The production of receipts for payment in respect of life tenancy and the entry in the patwari papers that the plaintiffs are tenants with six years' period, is not sufficient to prove a contract of tenancy between the plaintiffs and the zamindar. (Sathe, J.M.) SURENDRA MAN MISIR V. INDRAJIT PRATAP BAHADUR SAHI. 1941 A.W. R. (Rev.) 792=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 703=1941 R.D. 725.

ability—All co-tenants not joining—Holding though divided not consented to by landholder.

A suit by some only of the co-tenants of a holding under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act to recover possession is not maintainable even though there might have been a division of the holding in a case under S. 37 of the Act, when such division has not been consented to in writing by the landholder. (Harper, S.M. and Shirreff, J. M.) Suraj Bali Singh v. Kamla Lal. 1941 R. D. 588=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 572=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 540.

S. 99 and U. P. Tenancy Act (1939), S. 183—Suit under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act filed on 30th June, 1939—Limitation—Law govern-

Where a suit is filed under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act on the 30th June, 1939, the period of limitation governing it would be six months under the Agra Tenancy Act and not three years under U.P. Tenancy Act. Hence if the plaintiff is not proved to have been in possession within six months prior to the filing of the suit, his claim would be barred. (Harper, S.M. and Shirreff, J.M.) RAM KISHORE SINGH v. MEVA LAL. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 824=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 980=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 130=1942 R. D. 196.

S. 183—Suit under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act—Maintainability in Revenue Court—Land occupied by buildings at the time of suit.

Where the land is agricultural land at the time when the dispossession is alleged to have taken place which is the ground of action for a suit under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act, even if it is occupied by buildings at the time of the institution of the suit, the suit would nevertheless be maintainable in the Revenue Courts. (Shirreff, S.M.) AFTAHUDDIN KHAN v. SARDAR. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 589 (1)=1941 R.D. 498 (1)=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 558 (1).

AGRA TENANCY ACT. (III OF 1926).

---- S. 99 (1) Proviso-Applicability-Person not liable to ejectment by cirtue of other Acts.

Per Harper, S.M. (Sathe, J.M. dissenting).—The proviso to S. 99 (1) of the Agra Tenancy Act refers to a person who is liable to an ejectment order during the year under the wording of S. 86 of the Act and is not affected by any subsequent or other Act independent of 'this' Act such as the Stay Act or the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) NIADER V. KANHAIYA. 1941 R.D. 257=1941 O. A. (Supp.) 199=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 250=1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 53.

——S. 99 (1), Proviso and U.P. Tenancy Act (1939), S. 296—Sun for restoration of possession by non-occupancy tenant of six land—Decree in November 1939—Effect of U.P. Stay of Proceedings Act, S. 1 (2)—U.P. Tenancy Act coming into force after decree and before appeal—Effect of.

Where a suit by a non-occupancy tenant of sir land for restoration of possession under S. 99 of the Agra Tenancy Act was decreed on 21st November, 1939 and upiteld in appeal, held, on second appeal (i) that with reference to the particular case the current agricultural year ended on 30th June, 1940 and that as the Stay of Proceedings Act came into force on 21st September 1937 and its application could not extend beyond 21st March, 1940, the tenant was liable to ejectment between 1st April, 1940 and 30th June, 1940, (ii) that the fact that the Agra Tenancy Act was not in force after 21st March, 1940 and also when the first appeal came on for hearing was of no consequence and the proviso to S. 99 (1) of the Agra Tenancy Act applied and that the plaintiff was not entitled to a decree for possession. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J. M.) BABU RAM v. BIDHI. 1941 R.D. 261=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 275=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 224=1941 A.L. J. (Supp.) 62.

——Ss. 103 and 107—Surrender in favour of one of the co-sharers—Not legal—Responsibility for rent—Would cease only when landlord takes possession under S. 107 (4) MANGAL CHAND v. RASOOL BUX. [see Q. D. 1930-'40 Vol. 1, Col. 3223]. 1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 3.

S. 103 and U. P. Tenancy Act. S. 82—Surrender—Limits to the rule requiring delivery of actual possession—Representation of minor.

The dictum that no surrender is valid unless actual possession is delivered applies only to those cases where the tenants surrendering the holding are in physical possession themselves. A constructive possession cannot impair the validity of a surrender and this possession ceases from the date on which the oral or written surrender takes place. Where all the tenants of an occupancy holding surrender, a step-brother can represent his minor brother unless their interests are adverse. (Shirreff, S. M. and Saihe, J.M.) SATYADEO CHAUBE v. KESHO CHAUBE. 1942 R.D. 716=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 397=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 588=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 423.

——S. 103—Surrender — Validity—Surrender not in favour of all co-sharers—Actual surrender taking place—Effect.

AGRA TENANCY ACT, (III OF 1926)

Per Shirreff, J.M.—Where there is an actual surrender the fact that the deed is in favour of some only of the landholders cannot affect the fact that the holding was relinquished in accordance with the deed and as such tenant's rights are extinguished by such surrender.

Per Sathe. A.M.—If the surrender is not in favour of all the co-sharers the tenancy right must be held to be subsisting and not extinguished. (Shirreff, J.M. and Sathe, A.M.) CHAMPU v. RACHUBIR SINGH. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 958=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1210.

——S. 107-Abandonment — Presumption— Criteria.

In certain circumstances the tenant is liable to be presumed to have abandoned his holding on the expiry of that period for which he could sublet. The criteria in such cases are that the tenant in chief must have ceased to cultivate the holding, executed no written sub-lease, left in charge some one who could not have inherited the holding and there is no agreement in writing by the landlord to the arrangement. (Harper, S.M.) GIRDHARI V. GANGA PRASAD. 1941 R.D. 449=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 445=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 486 (2).

S.107—Abandonment—Presumption—Subsequent possession—Nature of See U. P. TENANCY ACT, S. 87 AND AGRA TENANCY ACT, S. 107. 1941 R.D. 285.

----S. 107-Abandonment-Sub-tenant, if can sue for declaration based on.

Though a trespasser cannot in a suit for ejectment plead abandonment, but it is only open to the zamindar to plead it, yet where a lambardar supports a sub-tenant in the plea, he can sue for a declaration of title based on abandonment. (Harper, S.M.) Girdhart v. Ganga Prasad. 1941 R.D. 449=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 445=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 486 (2).

——S. 107 and U. P. TenancyAct, S. 87— Abandonment—Unnecessary finding as to abandonment of cultivation—If operates as res judicata— Making arrangement for cultivation during absence— If negatives abandonment.

Where in a prior case decided on the ground that there was no relationship of landlord and tenant between the plaintiff and defendant there was an unnecessary finding that the plaintiff had 'abandoned the cultivation', Fleld that it did not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit on a question of abandonment. Where a tenant makes arrangements for cultivation during his absence there is no abandonment in the legal sense of the word (Shirreff, J. M.) MOHIB ALI V. BUCHUNU. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 566=1941 R.D. 501 (1)=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 497.

S. 107—Plea of abandonment—Who can invoke. A plea of abandon ment can be invoked or by by the zamindar and not by the recorded subtenants. (Flarper, S. M.) GAJADHAR SINGH 2. VIDYA RAM, 1941 O A. (Supp.) 445 (1)=1941 A W.R. (Rev.) 486 (1)=1941 R.D. 517.

S. 107—Plea of abandonment—Who can invide.

The provisions of S. 107, Agra Tenancy Act regarding abandonment can only be invoked by letting—the zamindar and not by the recorded sub-tenants.

AGRA TENANCY ACT (III OF 1926)

If the zamindar does not choose to resume a holding, the sub-tenant cannot urge that he has become the tenant in chief on the ground that the holding has been abandoned by the recorded chief tenant. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) TULSI CHAMAR v. CHHEDI AHIR. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 99=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 87=1941 R.D. 40=1941 A.L.J (Supp.) 32.

—Ss. 107, 44 and 99—Non payment of rent—One of the co-sharers alone cannot take possession on the plea of abandonment—Correct procedure—Effect of not following it. SAHDEI KUNWAR V. USMAN. [see Q.D. 1936—'40 Vol. I Col. 3223]. 1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 16.

——S. 107—Tenant leaving village and trying cultivation elsewhere—Another taking fields and paying arrays according to arrangement—Return of tenant and permitting of rarangement to continue—Creation of sub-tenancy or abandonment.

Where owing to difficulties as regards rent a tenant leaves the village and seeks cultivation in another village and a third person takes his fields and agrees to pay the arrears and continues to do so for three years when the former tenant returns and he allows the arrangement to continue further, the arrangement is more of the nature of a sub-tenancy and there cannot be said to have been an abandonment by the tenant. (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe. J.M.) MATHWARI v. NARAIN. 1942 O.A (Supp.) 67=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 61=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 213=1942 R.D. 279.

——S. 107 (1)—Written notice—Necessity—Land holder aware of arrangement

If the landholder is aware of the arrangement the written notice under S. 107 (1) of the Agr=Tenancy Act is not indispensable. (Shirreff, S. M.) LILAWATI TO CHAOLI. 1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 120=1942 R.D. 265=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 199=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 137.

----S. 107 (2) -Applicability.

Where it has not been shown that a person left the village after leaving the holding in the charge of a person on whom the holding would have devolved in the case of the death of the former it cannot be said that the latter has inherited the holding from the former under S. 107 (2) of the Agra Tenaney Act. (Sathe, J.M.) BANSU v. RAMADHANI. 1941 O A. (Supp.) 443=1941 A. W.R. (Rev.) 484=1941 R.D. 582.

S. 107 (3) and (4)—Abandonment—Presumption—When arises—Disappearance from village Property left with one on whom it would not devolve—Payment of rent direct by sub-tenant.

Where an occupancy tenant disappears from the village, and there is no proof of a written sub-lease, and the property is left in charge of one on whom it would not devolve and the sub-tenant has been paying rent direct to the land-lord, a presumption of abandonment of the holding arises and the occupancy rights are extinguished. (Harper, S.M. and Shirreff, J.M.) SETALU AHIR v. PARSAD AHIR, 1941 R.D. 862=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1071=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 869 (2).

——S. 248—Decision on objection that executing Court was debarred from executing decree—Appealability.

Where before the executing Court an objection is raised that that Court was debarred by law from executing the particular decree sought to be executed, the decision of that Court on that objection is in substance a decision of a question arising under S. 47, C.P. Code and therefore an order against which an appeal is maintainable under the provisions of S. 248 of the Agra Tenancy Act. (Yorke, I.) Tunda v. Makhan Lal. 1943 A.L.W. 321.

-----S. 249 and C. P. Code (1908). S. 105-Order of remand-Remedy against-Scope of S. 249-If inconsistent with latter part of S. 105, C. P. Code.

The Agra Tenancy Act does not provide for an appeal to High Court from an order of remand passed by a District Judge. But in a second appeal that might be preferred from the ultimate decree of the District Judge, the propriety or otherwise of the order of remand could be agitated. S. 249 of the Agra Tenancy Act is not inconsistent with that portion of S. 105, C.P. Code, which permits such a procedure. (Iqbal Ahmad, C.J. and Dar, J.) RAO RANI v. CULAB RANI, I.L.R. 1942 All. 810=205 I.C. 249=15 R.A. 397=1942 A.W.R. (H.C.) 221=1942 A.L. W. 475=1942 A.L.J. 446=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 530 (2)=A.I.R. 1942 All. 351.

——S. 250 and C.P. Code, O. 47—Review application to the Board—Compliance with O. 47, if necessary.

Compliance with O. 47, C.P. Code, though necessary for S. 251 of the Agra Tenancy Act, has no bearing in the case of a review application under S 250 of the Act. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) CHUNNI v. JAMNA. 1940 R.D. 624=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 429=1941 R.D. 663 (2).

_____S. 251—Review of ejectment order—Good grounds for.

The facts that the person ejected is in actual possession and that he had paid the decretal amount in the case in which ejectment took place are not good grounds for reviewing an order of ejectment. (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) RAMKRISHAN v. SHANKAR LAL. 1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 127=1942 R.D. 263=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 197=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 144.

S. 252—Revision — Competency — Order santioning restoration.

Though an order rejecting a restoration application is appealable under O. 43, R. 1, C.P. Code, an order sanctioning restoration is not appealable and can only be revised by the Board under its

S. 252-Revision-Consideration of questions of fact.

Objections relating to questions of fact are not considered in revisions which are confined only to legal defects or defects relating to jurisdiction by S. 252 of the Agra Tenancy Act. (Shirreff, J.M. and Sathe, A.M.) MURLI DHAR v. PURAMBAR LAL. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) [820=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 976-1941 R.D. 945.

----S. 252—Revision—Obvious mistake.

Where a Court in setting aside an exparted decree directs the payment of a certain sum as costs to the opposite party, it cannot be said that it has acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity inasmuch as it presumably was aware of the actual costs involved by the postponement and knew the circumstances of the parties. Such an order cannot be interfered with in rivision. (Ilarper, S. M. and Salhe, J.M.) Tikam Singh v. Sahib Singh 1940 R.D. 586=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 60 = 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 47.

S. 265—Lease by lambardar- Péndency of partition proceedings—Validity of lease.

Where only partition proceedings have been confirmed and the subsequent proceedings for the carrying out of the partition still remain to be done, a lambardar grants a lease on economic rent, it is not invalid as the lambardar was still responsible for the administration of the estate and it cannot be said that he has acted contrary to his duties as lambardar. (Harper, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) ASEY V. SHIB LAI. 1940 R.D. 587 = 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 89=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 77.

S. 265-Right of lambardar to sue for rent—Absence of share in patti-Undivided mahal-Meaning—Proof of distraint for two years—If proves title or establishes custom to distrain.

A lambardar cannot sue for rents in a patti in which he has no share—Ordinarily the term undivided mahal' in S. 365 of the Agra Tenancy Act would mean a mahal in which there had not been imperfect partition. But where the division in a particular case is even more complete and effective and the revenue free holders are not cosharers in the mahal and where the co-sharers with the lambardar as their representative have no proprietary interest in a particular plot and no responsibility for revenue with regard to it, the lambardar cannot sue for rent in respect of it. The fact that the lambardar had twice suc-alone to sue for profits.

Per Sathe, J.M.—A suit by one only of two joint mortgages for arrears of profits is bad under S. 266 of the Agra Tenancy Act. (Shirre J., S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) SHITAL PRASAD v. ASA RAM. 1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 372=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 509=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 399.

Where a person is shown to be the sole collecting co-sharer he is the agent acting on behalf of the co-sharers and hence he is entitled to sue alone for the ejectment of a trespasser. (Harper, S.M.) BHAGWAN SINGH v. BAJRANG BALI. 1941 R.D. 27=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 176=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 120.

Even in Khalsa land if the co-sharers permit one of the co-sharers to hold himself out as the sole landholder of any particular holding, or holdings he must be treated as an agent on behalf of all the others in respect of that holding or holdings and in that capacity would be entitled to file suits by himself under S. 206 (1) of the Agra Tenancy Act. (Sathe, J.M.) RAM LAKHAN PANDEY v. JAGDEO AHIR. 1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 285=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 198 (1)=1942 R.D. 374=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 178 (1).

S. 270 -Payment to third party-Good faith-Test.

The payment to a third party pleaded in a suit for arrears of rent, cannot be in good faith if the tenants had not been making the alleged payments to such third party up to the date of filing of suit. (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) CHIMMAN LALV. SUKHA. 1942 O.W. N. (B.R.) 141=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 129=1942 R.D. 207=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 112.

... S. 270 and U. P. Tenancy Act, S. 247—i'lea of payment to third party in defence to suit for arrears of rent—Impleading of such third party-Necessity-Mandatory character of S. 270.

Where in a sait for arrears of rent the tenant pleads in defence payment to a third party from whom he took the land then it is imperative that such party should be added as a party to the suit and the sait decided thereafter. The provisions of S. 270 of Agra Tenancy Act which require the addition are mandatory. (Shirreff, S. M. and Sathe, J.M.) BINDESHWARI PRASAD v. ALLAH DIYA. 1942 R.D. 203=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 137=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 162 (2)=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 182 (2).

S. 271—Right of appeal—Forum—Determination—New Act coming into force before filing of appeal.

The right of appeal is governed by the date of the institution of suit and not by the date of the filing of the appeal. Everything that follows on the institution of a suit, is governed by the date of the institution, unless there is any contrary provision many new enactment coming into force thereafter. Hence when an application under S. 240, Agra Tenancy Act, is dismissed after U. P. Tenancy Act came into force, the appeal against the order of dismissal lies to the Board under S. 248 (4) of the Agra Tenancy Act and not to the Commissioner under S. 271 of the U. P. Tenancy Act. (Harper, S. M. and Sathe, J. M.) KANAK SINGH v. MUHBUB ALI KHAM. 1941 O.W. N. 254= 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 184=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 128=1941 R.D. 81=1941 A.L.J. (Supp.) 51.

-----S. 270—Scope of Assistant Collector's powers—Question of profrietary right—If can be decided by him.

S. 270, Agra Tenancy Act deals with the procedure to be adopted and the proof to be submitted when a land-holder sues a tenant for arrears of rent or a tenant contests a distraint against a landholder. If the status of the parties is admitted an Assistant Collector is not due to go beyond the question of payment in good faith etc. But it is also open to the defendant to plead that the plaintiff is not entitled to sue. In such a case the question of proprietary right has to be decided in the Court of the Assistant Collector. (Harper S. M. and Sathe, J. M.) ROSHAN LAL v. RAM CHARRN LAL, 1941 O. A. (Supp.) 888-1941.

Submission to Civil Court—Power of Civil Court to refer that issue to arotration.

A Civil Court to which an issue, on the question of proprietary right has been submitted under S. 271 (1) of the Agra Tenancy Act, has jurisdiction to refer that issue to arbitration under S. I of Second Schedule to the C. P. Code and the finding based upon that award in the arbitration proceedings is a valid finding. (Thom, C. J., Ganga Nath and Braund, JJ.) MAHA RAM 7. HARBANS, I.L.R. AJMER LAND REV. REGN (1877).

S. 7. (1) (c)—Recovery uniter—Difference between—Provision of Berar L: Revenue Code applicable to recovery under former Act.

It cannot be disputed that the amount recoverableunder the Agriculturists' Loans Act, in contradistinction to a sum recoverable under the Land Improvement Loans Act, is a sum recoverable not as a land revenue but as an arrear of land revenue. Such a sum recoverable under the Act as applied to Berar is recoverable under S. 141 (d) and not under S 141 (c) of the Berar Land Revenue Code. In the case of a sale for such a recovery what is transferred is not the holding free of all encumbrances but nothing more than the right, title and interest of the defaulter. Hence in a suit under S. 45 of the Berar, Alienated Villages Tenancy Law against the tenant and such a purchaser, for the recovery of arrears of rent and cesses, the latter is liable to pay it, for he stands only in the position of the defaulter (Grille. AHMEDABAD MUNICIPAL CODE, B. 380—Construction—"Imported"—Meaning of-Goods manufactured within municipality taken outside for facilitating transport and brought into municipality—Terminal tax—If leviable.

The word "import" in R. 380 of the Ahmedabad Municipal Code must be given its ordinary meaning, that is, to bring something within the municipal limits from a place without its boundaries, irrespective of the consideration as to whether the goods were manufactured within the municipal limits, how long they were outside those limits and for what purpose. "Import" cannot be construed as meaning that no terminal tax is to be levied on goods at the time of their import within the municipal limits if they are merely in the process of transit from the place of manufacture within the municipal limits. (Wadia and Rajadhyaksha, J.) MAGANLAE BHAGWANDAS v. AHMEDABAD MUNICIPALITY. LI.R. (1945) Bom. 132-219 LC 436-47 Bom. L.B. 100-A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 251.

AHMEDABAD SHARE AND STOCK BROKERS' ASSOCIATION BULES, R. 117 (b)—Applicability and construction—Conduct of member dealing with another as constituent—Power of Board to deal with.

Under R. 117 (b) of the Ahmedabad Share and Stock Brokers' Association Rules, which provides that "the Board may order a member who fails to meet an obligation to a member or non-member arising out of a stock exchange transaction to be declared a defaulter" if the Board find an obligation binding on a member, whether to another member or to a non-member, arising out of a stock exchange transaction, then they can act on the rule. There is nothing whatever in the rule to show that the member must have incurred the obligation as a broker. The Board has power to deal with a member even when he deals as a constituent and not as a broker. (Beaumont, CJ. and Wassoodew, J.) Lalbhai fulchand v. Ahmedabad Share and Stock Brokers association. Collector—Form of application.

Before making an application under S, 22 (2) of Ajmer Regulation III of 1914, the Collector must make some sort of enquiry to satisfy himself that a trul Court has passed a decree or order contrary to the provisions of that Regulation. S, 22 (2) does not contemplate a mechanical application as soon as some private party makes a motion to the Collector about it. The expression "when it appears to the Collector" is significant. S, 22 (2) contemplates a formal application by the Collator. A mere endorsement at the foot of a private party's application forwarding the said application to the District Judge for favour of necessary action cannot amount to an application, to fall under S, 22 (2), has got to be of such a nature as to amount to an appeal under the Civil Procedure Code. ### AJMER TALUKDAR'S LOAN REGULA-TION (II of 1911)—Attached funds paid into Court prior to notification—Disposal—Procedure.

There is no provision in the Talukdar's Loan Regulation as to what should be done with sums of money which reach the hands of Civil Courts by way of attachment and payments after the date of the notification. Return of the money to the person to whom a loan is to be made through the Commissioner is the only course open. (Davies.) Gokal Prashad v. Ali Rasul. 1941 A.M.L.J. 101.

Bs. 6, 7 and 18—Disability contemplated by S. 7—Pater of commencement and termination Mortgage in the interval—Liability of executant or his legal representatives.

The starting of the disability contemplated in S. 7 of the Ajmer Taluqdar's Loan Regulation of 1911 is not the date of the Taluqdar's application to the Commissioner under S. 3 of the Regulation, nor the date of the Chief Commissioner's order to the Commissioner under S. 5 but it is the date of the notice issued under sub-S. (1) of S. 6. Similarly, at the other end, the date of cessation of the disability would be the date on which the Commissioner would issue a notification under S. 18 on being satisfied that the taluqdar concerned had already become freed from indebtedness. Hence a mortgage executed during the subsistence of the disability is void ah initio and cannot create any liability either as regards the executant or his legal representatives. (Vyin.) Lankas in tital and navigable river-Right to-Re-formed land-Right of previous owner-Crown's right to owner ship of river-bed-Rule.

The Crown's ownership of the bed of a river will be presumed if the river is either tidal or navigable. In deciding the question of navigability of a river in case of a dispute as to a lanka in an estate the navigability should be decided with reference to the conditions prevailing at the time of the grant. Where the river is shown to have been then navigable, the fact that the volume of water flowing in the stream has since diminished as the result of an artificial erection of dam works and that it has thereby been rendered not navigable during certain parts of the year will be immaterial. Where the process of formation of a lanka in a navigable or tidal river consists ordinarily in the rise of sand-bank owing to the shifting of the riverbed by floods, the planting of the sand-bank with reeds the interception of silt by reeds grown on the sand and the gradual formation of cultivable hand which would be considerably above the water level at all seasons except during high floods, there can be no question of any completed title by lateral accretion to the land to which the sand-bank is attached, until the soil has been deposited so as to raise the bank above the ordinary level of the water. If, however, the sand-bank is a reformation of land formerly owned and washed away, the owner can be presumed to retain his title in the site of the land formerly occupied by him, and when it reappears, even though the re-formation is incomplete, he would be entitled to a declaration of his right thereto, provided the re-formation is identifiable with the original land and there has been no abandonment of his right therein. ——Appellate Court—Appreciation of oral evidence—Weight to be attached.

The appreciation of oral evidence by the trial Judge is no doubt entitled to great weight by the appellate Court, but that appreciation must be tested by the other proved facts in the case, especially if the evidence is substantially corroborated by those facts. APPEAL.

----Appellate Court-Power to set up new cise inconsistent with plea in tral Court-Remind of suit for trial of new case-Propriety.

An appellate Court has no power to set up a new case for a party, which is inconsistent with hits pleas in the trial Court and to send back the suit for trial of the new case that it has set up. Such a procedure would cause irreparable injury to the other party. (Abdul Ghani and Subrahmanya Aiyar, J.J.) BASKARIAH v CHENNABASAPPA. 20 Mys. L.J. 17. 46 Mys. H.C.R. 539.

-___ Appellate Court-Procedure when in doubt.

When an appellate Court is in doubt as to the correctness of the lower Court's order, the order of the trial Court should be maintained. (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe, J.M.) RAGHUNATH I'RASAD SINGH v. MAHOMMED NOOH. 1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 519 (2)=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 337=1942 O.A. (Supp.) 363.

- Appellate Court-Right to look into subsequent events.

— Appellate Court—Setting up new case for party—Error of law.

The judgment of a lower appellate Court is vitiated by a clear error of law if it sets up a case for a plaintiff which he himself had not set up in the trial Court, (Ghulam liasan, J.) Binding nature—Person unsuccessful in getting unpleaded—Not bound by result of appeal.

A person is not bound by the result of any appeal to which he has not succeeded in getting himself made a party. (Tek Chand and Beckett, J.) SHANTI LAL v. F. HIRA LAL SHEO NARAIN. I.L.R. (1942) Lah.603=198. I.C. 726=14 R.L. 351=43 P.L.R. 471=A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 402.

Competency—Abatement of suit—Order declaring—Right of appeal. See C. P. Code, O. 22. R. 3. (1945) 1 M. L. J. 220.

——Competency—Application to Court—Order on not appealable—Subsequent making of rule giving right of appeal—Effect—Right of appeal and right to final judgment—Distinction.

When at the time an application is made to a Court no right of appeal exists against an order on such application, the fact that sub-equently a rule is made establishing a right of appeal would not make an appeal maintainable unless there is something in the rule which expressly or by necessary implication gives it retrospective effect. There is no logical distinction between a right of appeal and a right to a final judgment without an appeal. Both are equally vested rights. (King and Kuppuswami Ayyar, 11.) Examiner of Local Fund Accounts v. Subramania Mudaliar, I.L.R. (1943) Mad. 501=207 I C. 612=16 R.M. 139=55 L.W. 778=1942 M.W. N. 755=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 208 (1)=1942) 2 M.L.J. 667.

Competency—Decision on some of the issues —Judgment and decree issued that issues are found against plaintiff—If "decree"—Appealability.

Where in a suit for maintenance, the Court frames several issues and decides some of the issues first, writing a separate judgment giving resons and issuing a decree to the effect that those issues "are found against the plaintiff", and adjourns the suit for evidence of the other issues, an appeal lies from the decree so deciding the first set of issues. The decisions on those issues cannot be regarded as mere findings. The judgment and the decree incorporating the findings must be regarded as an adjudication conclusively determining the rights of the parties with regard to some of the matters in controversy in the suit. An appeal therefore lies because there is a decree, and the plaintiff cannot be deprived of his remedy of appeal merely because the trial Court passes decrees which may be defective. (Happel, J.) VENKAYAMMA v.RAMAYYA. 1943 M.W.N. 589=56 L.W. 539=A.I.R 1943 Mad. 767=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 348=211 I.C. 63=16 R.M. 480.

legislation. Competency—If affected by subsequent

An appeal which was incompetent on the date when it was filed could not become competent as the result of a new Act passed subsequent to the filing of the appeal. (Varma, J.) HET RAM v. COLLECTOR OF ALIGARH. 197 I.C. 114=14 R. A. 185=1941 A.L.J. 513=1941 A.L.W 828=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 634=1941 A.W.R (Rev.) 702=1941 R.D. 772=A.I.R. 1941 All. 355.

Competency—Method of ascertainment.
Ordinarily when one wishes to find out whether an appeal is competent one has to examine the judgment and decree or order and then see whether it can be brought within the statutory provisions which allow an appeal. One has not to decide the appeal on the merits before one is in a position to say whether the Court has jurisdiction to hear the appeal or not. (Henderson, J.) SAKKAL SARDAR v. ISWAR DAS THIRANI. ILR. (1941) 2 Cal 366=199 I.C. 740=14 R C. 629=4 F L J. (H C.) 405=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 230.

——Competency—Mortgage suit—Order directing preparation of account and making out of final decree—Appealability.

APPEAL.

An order in a moregage' sait directing that an excount be prepared and final decree made out is not appealable; the party aggreed must await the complainer of the final decree and then file a regular appeal against that. (Rowland and Chatterji, 11.) Shanti Devi c. Khodai Prasad Singh. 199 i.C. 511 =14 R P. 590 =8 B.R. 550=23 Pat. L.T. 615 =A.I.R. 1942 Pat 340.

Competency—Order not drawn up under S. 142. C. P. Code=Appeal—Maintainability. See C. P. Code, S. 112. 45 Bom. L. R. 961.

— Competency-Suit filed as small cause suit —Disposal by Judge has ing small cause powers— Right of appeal—Suit numbered as original suit —Effect.

When a suit is filed as a small cause suit and is actually disposed of by a Judge who has the necessary powers to try it as a small cause suit, it must be deemed to have been disposed of as a small cause suit, and therefore there can be no right of appeal against the decree in the suit. This principle must be applied even though the suit may have been numbered as an original suit after filing and before disposal. (King, J.) ARUNAGIRI GOUNDAN T. RAMASWAMI PILLAI. 1941 M.W.N. 829=54 L.W. 324=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 867=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 537.

—Comfelency—Suit for partition—Plea by defendant that suit is bad as being for partial partition—Dismissal of suit—Defendant dissatisfied with some statement in judgment—Right to abbeat

Where a suit for partition is resisted by a defendant on the ground that the suit is one for partial partition and is dismissed on that ground it is not open to that defendant to appeal against the decree of dismissal merely because he is dissatisfied with some of the statements in the judgment. No finding in the judgment of dismissal can operate as res judicata the rights of the parties being left entirely untouched by the dismissal of the suit. (Leach, C. J. and Krishnaswami Ayyangar, J.) Bapayya v. Ramarkishnayya. 57 L.W. 470=1944 M.W.N. 527=A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 39=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 181.

Consent decree—Parties agreeing orally to arbitration by Judge and to abide by decision given—Effect—Decision—If award of arbitrator—Appeal from decision—If lies, See Arbitration Act, Chap. IV, 47 Bom.L.R. 388.

Construction of orders—Order "remitting back" notice of appeal "to be dealt with according to law"—Parties, not compelled to proceed with appeal.

An order "remitting back" a notice of appeal to the appellate tribunal "to be dealt with according to law" gives the parties only a right which the parties are not compelled to exercise to an adjudication by the appellate tribunal. (Lord Justice Du Parcq.) Shrke Meenakshi Mills, Ltd v. Patel Bros. 71 I.A. 106=I.L.R. (1944) Bom. 469=I.L.R. (1944) Kar. -Conversion into revision-If claimable as of right.

Conversion of appeal into revision is entirely discretionary and cannot be claimed by a party as of right. (Sathe S. M.) ALI NEWAS v. ANWAR! Bibi. 1944 A.W.R. (Rev.) 271.

——Cross-objection—Both sides filing appeals
—One appeal beyond limitation—If can be treated as cross-objection.

Where both plaintiff and defendant file separate appeals and the defendant's appeal is timebarred, it is not open to the Court to treat it as cross-objection to the plaintiff sappeal. (Almond, J. C.) MAHOMED SAKWAR KHAN v. GHAFOOR BEG. 211 I.C. 343=16 R. Pesh. 67=A.I.R. 1944 Pesh. 7.

-Effect of new enactment on procedure relating to appeals-Suit filed under Agra Tenancy Act and decided under new Act-Procedure

The procedure regarding appeals is determined not by the date on which the appeal is actually filed but by the date on which the suit was originally filed. Hence in a suit filed under the Agra Tenancy Act but decided under the new Tenancy Act, the appeal would be governed only but the Agra Tenancy Act, the suppeal would be governed only by the Agra Tenancy Act. (Sathe, S.M.) CHABU v. Mahipar. 1944 R.D. 39=1944 A.W.R. (Rev.) 12.

-Failure to file first Court's order-Procedure to be followed.

If an appeal is filed without the necessary copy of the first Court's order, the appeal should be deposited as incomplete and then when the copy is filed to decide the question of limitation (Shirreff, J.M.) BACHAN RAI v. BRIJ NARAIN RAI. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 565 (1)=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 496 (1)=1941 R.D. 668.

C. P. Tenancy Acr. (1920), S. 6 (6). 1941 N.L. J. 50.

-Finding of fact based on oral evidence-Interference on appeal.

A Court of appeal always attaches a great weight to the opinion of the trial Judge on the credibility of the witnesses called before him and it would be contrary to settled principles that the appellate Court should substitute its opinion on the facts based on the written depositions for the opinion of the trial Judge who saw the wit nesses in the box. A decision arrived at on a consideration of the oral evidence cannot be lightly differed from and it is not open to the appellate Court to consider the evidence in print before it and find out whether it would have come to the same conclusion as the trial Judge had. (Beaumont C.J. and Kania, J.) KHIMJI KUVERJI v. LAIJI KARAMAI. I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 211=196 I.C. 858=14 R.B. 177=43 Bom.L.R. 35=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 129.

well as on questions of law, the Court of appeal has to consider and weigh the judgment appealed against. It has to examine the materials on the record and to come to its own conclusions. (R.C. Mitter, Khundkar and Pal, JJ.) BIBHABATI
DEVI v. RAMENDRA NARAYAN ROY. 202 I.C.
551=15 R.C. 355=47 C.W.N. 9=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 498 (S.B.)

-Finding of fact-Finding as to execution and ittestation of will.

A finding as to execution and attestation of a will is a pure finding of fact. (Lord Thankerton.) MANINDRA CHANDRA LALA D. MAHALUXMI BANK, LTD. 26 P. L.T. 80-49 C.W.N. 481 = A.I.R. 1945 P.C. 105= (1945) 2 M.L.J. 46 (P.C.).

-Finding of fact-Interference.

There are cases in which evidence is so well balanced that an inference either way can reasonably be drawn. In such cases, the appellate tribunal may select the inference they choose; but they can have no equal choice between an inference that is safe, and one that is not safe. Not safe, means that there is not evidence from which the inference can reasonably be drawn. (Lord Atkin.) SRIS CHANDRA NANDY V. RAKHA-(Lord Alkin.) SRIS CHANDRA NANDY V. RAKHALANANDA THAKUR. 68 I.A. 34 - I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 468-1941 P.W.N. 263-1941 O.A. 457-1941 A.W.R. (P.C.) 34-1941 O.L.R. 329-7 B.R. 656-13 R.P.C. 173-73 C.L.J. 555-1 L.L.R. (1941) Kar. #### -Finding of fact-Interference.

In a civil appeal the Court should not interfere with findings of fact unless it is satisfied that the trial Court is clearly wrong. The judgment must show that the findings of the trial Court and the reasons therefor have been fully considered by the appellate (ourt. Further the appellate Court should give its reasons for reversing the findings of the trial Court if it decides to reverse them. (Sen, J.) NANI PATRA v. MADHU-sudan Lera. 73 C.L.J. 196.

-If to be against whole decree.

An appeal must be preferred against the whole decree, though for the purposes of valuation the subject-matter in dispute in appeal only is valued. An appeal is not preferred against any item or items in a decree. (Harries, C.J. Fazl Ali and Manchar Lall, JJ.) RAJA BRAJA SUNDER DEB v. RAJENDRA NARAYAN BHANJ DEO. 20 Pat. 459-195 I.C. 344-7 B R. 906-14 R P. 109-22 Pat.L.T. 736=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 269 (S.B.)

-Incompetent appeal—Correction of decree though appeal incompetent.

Though an appeal is incompetent, the appellate Court can make alterations in the decree so as to bring the operative portion of the decree into conformity with the language used in the particular enactment in question. (Bajpai and Dar, JJ.) MAHOMED MOHTASHIM v. JUTI PRASAD, IL.R. (1941) All. 360=194 I.C. 801=1941 A.W. where the law gives a right of appeal from a R (Rev.) 306=1941 O.A. Opinion of trial Judge. In a case involving a question of fact the decision of which depends on the reliance to be placed on the testimony of witnesses the view of the judge who tried the case and saw the witnesses is entitled to great weight. Where the only question is which set of witnesses is to be believed the hindings of the trial Judge should not be lightly regarded on a mere calculation of probabilities by the Court of appeal. (Nasim Ali and B. N. Row, JJ.) RAINANDINI V. ASWINI KUMAR CHOWDHURY. I. L.R. 1941) 1 Cal. 457=13 R.C. 363=193 I.C. 32=A I.R. 1941 Cal. 20=72 C.L.J. 181=45 C. W.N. 96.

Interference—Entry in record of rights—Construction—Finding that land described as 'belagan' is not rent free land—Interference in Letters Patent appeal. See RECORD OF RIGHTS—ENTRIES IN. 7 B.R. 750.

Interference with trial Court's appreciation of evidence—When justified.

An appellate Court is always slow and reluctant to substitute for the appreciation of the evidence by the trial Court its own estimate thereof, as undoubtedly the trial Court has the great advantages of having seen the witnesses, heard their testimony and marked their demeanour; and in appeal the appellate Court would generally be content to accept the appreciation of evidence of the trial Court. But where the trial Court fails to notice certain important aspects in the case and thereby arrives at wrong conclusions owing to misappreciation, the appellate Court would be justified and would even be bound to interfere and go into the evidence itself. (Davis, C.J. and Lobo, J.) Kassim Haji Khan v. Emperor. I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 294—212 I.C. 109—45 Cr.L J. 596—A.I.R. 1944 S. 94.

Introduction of new record after order under appeal—If can be considered on appeal.

Where a new record of certain information is put into the file after an order is passed which is appealed against, then it should be ignored when the appeal is dealt with and not taken into consideration at all. (Sathe, S.M. and Ross, A.M.) RUP RANI v. DHARAM SINGH. 1943 R.D. 51 (1)=1943 O.W.N. (B.R.) 51 (1)=1943 O.A. (Rev.) 30 (2)=1943 A.W.R. (Rev.) 30 (2).

Judgment of reversal—Discussion of reasons given by original Court—Necesstiy.

If the reasons given by the appellate Court for reversing a decree are so cogent as to justify the finding, no discussion of other less convincing reasons is necessary for making it a proper judgment. (Khundkar and Lodge, JJ.) SASHI KUMARI DEVI V. DHIRENDRA KISHORE. I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 309=196 I.C. 241=14 R.C. 199=245 CM, N. 699=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 248.

Judgment of reversal-Reasons for-Necessity to give.

An appellate Court must give reasons based on the evidence, if it disagrees with the finding of the trial Court. (Harper, S.M. and Shirreff, J.M.) RAM DASS v RASIAWAN LONIA. 1941 A. W.R.(Rev.) 508=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 467=1941 R.D. 546 (1).

— Jurisdiction to hear-Inherent power-Absence of formal order-Effect-Appeal-Revision-Competency.

No Court has an inherent right to sit in appeal over another Court. The jurisdiction to hear appeals is conferred by statute. Where in an inquiry in a case no formal order is drawn up, there is no decree or order from which an appeal will lie. Nor can an application in revision lie when no order has been drawn up. (Beaumont C.J. and Sen, J.) Karimmiya Hamdumiya v Jafarali Bawamiya. 202 I.C. 574=15 R.B. 171=44 Bom L.R. 666=A I.R. 1942 Bom. 279

Limitatoin—Appeal filed in time not subsequently traceable—Another appeal filed after expiry of limitation—If time-barred.

Where an appeal is filed within the period of limitation and is not subsequently, traceable, another appeal filed after the expiry of limitation is not time barred as it must be taken to be a re-construction of the lost appeal. (Harries, C.J. and Mehr Chand Mahajan, J.) KULJAS RAI v. PALA SINGH. 219 I.C. 425=46 P.L.R. 350=A.J.R. 1945 Lah. 15.

---New plea

A new ground raised at the time of arguments which has not been taken in the grounds of appeal cannot be considered. (Sathe, S.M.) HASHMAT ALI v. GILLA MAL. 1943 A.W.R. (Rev.) 11 (2)=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 803 (1)=1942) R.D.) 985 (1)=1943 O.A. (Rev.) 11 (2).

----New plea at late stage in appeal.

The appellate Court is loath to grant an appellant permission to take an entirely new point for the first time in appeal. It would not be right to allow the appellant to raise at a late stage in the appeal a point which was never raised before. (Harries, C.J. and Fasl Ali, J.) DEOKINANDAN PD. SINGH v. PARMESHWARI PD. SINGH. 1941 P. W.N. 582.

New plea—Cannot be raised in appeal when it depends on evidence not available to appellate Court.

A party who could have raised a plea in the trial Court, when it was possible to take evidence, but who did not take it then, cannot be

New plea—Cannot be raised in appeal when fresh issue and evidence required to determine same.

A new plea which is not raised in the pleadings, and which involves the raising of a fresh issue and the taking of fresh evidence, cannot be permitted to be raised or heard in appeal (Krishnaswami Ayyangar and Horwill, II.) --- New plea changing character of suit in second appeal-Permissibility.

Where a vendee instituted a suit alleging that the vendor's title being defective he was entitled to return of the consideration money paid by him under the sale deed the nature of the suit could not be allowed to be changed in second appeal as one for recession of the conveyance. New plea—Execution sale—Order rejecting application to set aside—Appeal—New plea of fact requiring investigation of fact—If can be raised for first time.

A judgment-debtor cannot lie by in the executing Court, and then bring up in appeal an allegation which would require an investigation into facts and found upon it a proposition of law that the sale is bad. He ought to put forward such an allegation during the execution proceedings, and if he does not do so, he cannot be permitted to put forward the same in an appeal against an order refusing to set uside the sale. —New plea—Objection to admissibility of document—Certified copy admitted in trial Court without objection.

Where the objection to be teken is not that the document is in itself inadmissible but that the mode of proof put forward is irregular or insufficient, it is essential that the objection should be taken at the trial before the document is marked as an Exhibit and admitted to the record. A party cannot lie by until the case comes before a Court of appeal and then complain for the first time of the mode of proof. Where, therefore, a certified copy of a registered document has been admitted in evidence without objection in the trial Court, the Appellate Court cannot reject the document sither on the ground that no foundation has been laid for the admission of secondary evidence or on the ground that there is no evidence to prove the execution of the document. New plea-Plea of estoppel-If can be raised for first time in appeal or second appeal.

A party wishing to avail himself of the plea of estoppel must plead the estoppel in the trial Court, so that his opponent may be able to show that there is no room for the application of the doctrine. If that is not so pleaded and the parties go to trial on other plaint issues, the plea should not be allowed to be raised for the first time in appeal or in second appeal. -New plea-Plea of res judicata-If can he entertained and given effect to in appeal for first time—Subsequent events—Duty of Court to take note of.

Ordinarily it is not permissible for an appel-late Court to affirm the decision of the trial Court giving effect to a plea of res judicata taken before itself for the first time. But when the final finding on which the plea rests is given while the appeal is pending the appellate Court is not only justified, but bound to take notice of the final judgment arrived at between the parties and give effect to the same. The Court is bound to take notice of events which have subsequently happened. (Abdur Rahman, J) RANGAYYA v. RAMAYYA. 197 I C. 448=14 R.M. 367=54 L.W. 241=1941 M.W.N. 981=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 815.

--- New plea-Plea of res judicata-If can be raised for first time in appeal.

A Court of appeal would be very reluctant to allow a plea of res judicata to be raised for the first time in appeal, or to give any finding on the point when the question was not pleaded and when noissue was raised on it. (Harries, C.J. and Manohar Lall, J.) Shiva Prasad Singh v. Sris Chandra Nandl. 22 Pat. 220=210 I C. 426=16 R.P. 147 =A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 327=10 B R. 259.

—Objection to competency of execution petition

Points of law depending largely on precise facts should not be allowed to be raised for the first time in appeal. An objection that an execution petition was not competent because at that time the decree-holder was an insolvent and an objection that notice under O. 21, R. 16, C. P. Code, had not been taken out to the transfer of the decree, are essentially objections which depend on facts and should therefore be raised in the first Court and cannot be permitted in appeal. (Mockett and Shahabuddin, II) THIMMA REDING SUBBARAYUDU. 1944 M.W.N. 111=A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 425=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 225.

Though a point raised for the first time in appeal may involve a pure question of law, it it depends on facts and those facts are admittedly not disclosed in the plaint or anywhere in the record before the appellate Court, the plea is not entertainable at that late stage. New plea-Point of law-If can be enterlained for first time in appeal.

It is well settled that, provided the determination of a question of law which is raised for the first time in appeal does not depend upon a decision as to facts which are in dispute, the appellate Court is not only competent but should, in the interests of justice, entertain the plea (Divatia and Lokaer J.) — New plea—Question of fact not arising on the record—If open in appeal.

A question of fact which has not been raised or agitated in the trial Court and which does not arise on the record cannot be allowed to be raised at the appellate stage (Kania A.C.J. and Chagla, J.) NAVNITLAL (HUNILAL & BABURAO (NO. 2), I.L.R. (1945) Bom. 82=46 Bom.L.R. 787=A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 137, — New plea—Question of fact—Plea of non-access between spouses—It fermissible in appeal.

A question which is purely one of fact, e.g. as to non-access between spouses, and which is not definitely raised in the pleadings should not be permitted to be raised during course of arguments even in the trial Court much less so in a Court of appeal. An appellate Court should not permit such a plea to be raised before it or discuss it and make it the sole basis of its judgment. (Abdur Rahman, J) MANICKA MUDALIAR V. AMMAKANNU. 201 I C. 39=15 R. M. 180=54 L.W. 411=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 129.

- New Plea-Question of Jurisdiction.

A plea of Jurisdiction which is based on the evidence already on record is purely a point of law and can be raised even in a Court of appeal. (Sathe, S.M. and Ross, A.M.) HAHIBUL NISA v. SALIM BUX. 1944 A.W.R. (Rev.) 281.

----New plea-Question of jurisdiction.

A point that the civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain suit in view of the provisions of S. 21. Punjab Alienation of Land Act, can be raised for the first time in appeal, (Almond, JC) NAWAB KHAN v. PIR NAZIR AHMAD. 203 I.C. 203=15 R. Pesh. 57=A.I.R. 1942 Pesh. 81.

----New plea—Second appeal.

The High Court in second appeal cannot entertain an entirely new point if for its decision fresh facts have to be found. (Harries, C. J. and Manohar Lall.) BADRI MAHTO v. LOCHAN SAH. 198 I.C. 821=8 B.R. 465=14 R.P. 505=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 264.

----New plea-Second appeal.

It is too late for a party to raise in second appeal, an entirely new defence which would give rise to entirely differet issues from those actually framed in the case. (Yorke, J.) TARA CHAND v. DIPA. 1944 A.L.W. 483.

----New plea-Second appeal-Plea of undue influence.

A plea of undue influence cannot be allowed to be raised for the first time in second appeal (Almond, J.C. and Mir Ahmad J) KARAM DIN V. ANANT RAM. 193 I.C. 51=13 R. Pesh.=49 A.I.R. 1941 Pesh. 6.

New plea-Suit for possession and rent against tenant—Plea of title not made out—Plea of insufficiency of notice to quit—Permissibility in oppeal.

Where a tenant who is sued for possession and rent raises a plea of title and fails in it in the first Court, he cannot be permitted to raise, for the first time in appeal, a new plea as to the sufficiency of the notice to quit. (Meredith and Sinha, II.) Krishna Prasad Singh v. Adyanah Ghatak. 22 Pat. 513=216 I C. 111=11 B.R. 97=11 R.P. 115=A.I R. 1944 Pat. 77.

New plea-Rights when may be raised for first time in appeal.

Though in a sense an appeal is a continuation of a suit rights which could be pleaded and enforced before a suit was finally adjudicated by the first Court, cannot be pleaded as of right for the first time during the pendency of the appeal. An appellate Court can give effect to such rights only as had come into being before the suit had been disposed of and which the trial court was competent to dispose of. (Harries, C. J., Abdul Rashid and Abdur Rahman, JJ.) Zahur Din v. Jalal Din. I.L.B. (1944) Lah. 443=215 I.C. 305=17 R.L. 136=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 319 (F.B.)

Onus Finding as to separation of joint family,

APPEAL.

Though there is a presumption in favour of jointness in the case of a Hindu family, when it is once found by a trial Court that the family was not joint and it is appealed against the onus is clearly on the appellant to show that the judgment appealed against was wrong. (Collister and Verma, II) MAHABIR PRASAD v. CHAHTA DEVI, 1943 A.L.W. 116.

---Order in execution. See S. 47, C. P. Code.

Order to be appealed against—Series of appealable orders.

Where appeals are allowed from a series of orders following one another the question whether the existence of a subsequent order will or will not make an appeal against a previous order in-fructuous depends upon the relative nature of the two orders. If the second order is the principal order and effectively decides the rights and liabilities of the parties, then if it is allowed to become absolute and hinding on the parties by the non-filing of an appeal against it, its existence will render an appeal against a previous order of an interlocutory nature infructuous. But where on the other hand the first order is the principal order deciding the rights and liabilities of the parties and the second order is merely a consequential one, an appeal will lie against the first order and the second order will be automatically amended in the light of the orders finally passed in the appeal against the first order (Sathe, in the appeal against the first order SIDH NATH V. RAJENDRA SHANKER. 1943 A.W.R. (Rev.) 80=1943 R.D. 156.

—Parties—Addition of Limitation—Rent reduction case—Appeal by landlord with regard to some tenants—Subsequent addition of other tenants after period of limitation for appeal—Competency.

Where the landlord does not appeal against the decision in a rent reduction case with regard to some of the tenants he cannot subsequently add such tenants as parties to the appeal after the time for appeal has expired. (Middleton.) Thaloo Mahton v. Mathura Prasad. 8 B.R. 247.

An appellant cannot be permitted to implead a party after the expiry of the period of limitation. (Sathe, S. M.) ZAHEER HASAN v. MUJTABA HUSAIN. 1943 A.W.R. (Rev.) 185 (1)=1943 R.D. 303 (1).

----Parties--Non-inclusion of party not interested in appeal-If fatal to appeal

The non-inclusion of a party to the suit as a party to an appeal is not fatal to the appeal, if such a party is not interested in the subject matter of the appeal. (Shirreff, S.M. and Sathe J.M.) BUBHU SINGH v. BASANT RAL. 1942 O. A. (Supp.) 494 (1)=1942 O.W.N. (B.R.) 728=1942 A.W.R. (Rev.) 468 (1).

——Parties— Suit for contribution against several defendants—Decree in basis of calculation claimed by plaintiff—Appeal by one of defendants suggesting different basis—Other defendants if necessary parties.

In a suit for contribution against several defendants for arrears of revenue paid by the plaintiffthe latter claimed contribution on the basis of the shares owned by each of them. The trial Court gave the plaintiff a decree as claimed. One of the defendants filed an appeal without impleading the other defendants contending that contribution should be levied on a different basis.

Held, that the other defendants were not only proper but necessary parties to the appeal and that the appellant could not get any relief in their absence. (Henderson. J) SRISCHANDRA NANDI v. MAHOMED IBRAHIM MEAT. 79 C.L.J. 45=48 C.W.N. 484=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 383.

-Points for determination—Duty of appellate Court to state distinctly and separately-Lumping together of several questions—Propriety—C.P. Code, O. 14. R. 1—Object of.

It is for the purpose of avoiding confusion that in the trial court issues are required to be framed under O. 14. R. 1, C. P. Code, as to each material proposition affirmed by one party and denied by the other. The requirements for the hearing of an appeal are not so strictly stated because the legislature presumably had confidence in the discretion and good sense of appellate Courts to recognise the necessity for distinguishing the several points arising in a case. But to lump to-gether questions which arise in an appeal only tends to confusion and is not the proper way for an appellate Court to state the points of determination in an appeal, to club together several distinct questions. --- Right of-Civil Procedure Code-Applicability-Appeal to Privy Council-Competency.

It is true that a right of appeal is a creature of a statute; there is no inherent right of appeal against the decision of a Court. But a distinction has to be made between a class of cases where special powers are conferred upon special tribunals constituted for a special purpose and cases where appeals lie even under special Acts to the ordinary (ourts in the ordinary way. Where a right of appeal is given to the Courts in the ordinary way, then the ordinary provisions of the Civil Procedure Code apply. A right of appeal to His Majesty in Council from a decision of a High Court would have to be definitely excluded by statute if it is not to be available in accordance with the provisions of the C. P. Code, (Davis, C.J. and O'Sullivan, J.) ALUMAL v. SOBHRAJ ILR. (1944) Kar. 216=216 I.C. 319=17 R $. 66=A.I.R. 1944 Sind 220.

——Subsequent events—Power of appellate Court to take note of subsequent legislation and to grant relief on basis of same—Rule—Nature of appeal.

An appellate Court is entitled to take into account legislative changes since the decision under appeal was given. The Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction has the power not only to correct error in the judgment under appeal but to make such disposition of the case as justice requires; and in determining what justice does require, the Court is bound to consider any change, either in fact or law, which has super-vened since the judgment was entered. An appeal is in the nature of a re-hearing, and in moulding the relief to be granted in a case on appeal, the Court of appeal is entitled to take into account even facts and events which have come into existence after the decree appealed against. The duty of the Court is to administer the law of the land at the date when the Court is administering it, and the appeal may be heard and determined on the basis of a provision in an enactment passed only during the pendency of the appeal. Appellate proceedings declared nullity— Effect on original award.

When the rules governing an arbitration provide for an appeal from the first award, the result of declaring the proceedings by way of an appeal to be a nullity must be to leave the parties in the position which they occupied immediately before those abortive proceedings were begun. The notice of appeal is still effective and the original award stands until such time as it may be replaced by an effective decision of the appellate body. An architect is not disqualified from acting as arbitrator in respect of a building contract merely by the fact that there is money due to him as architect from one of the parties or by the fact that he has expressed his opinions when he has made it clear that he is ready to adjudicate on the contentions of the parties with an open mind after hearing them. (Lobo, J.) SAKHI MAHOMED HYDER V. THAROOMAL. I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 505=197 I.C. 523=14 R.S. 109=A.I.R. 1941 Sind 202.

An arbitrator cannot delegate his duties except in regard to purely ministerial acts. (Din Mohammad and Sale, JJ.) Punjab Province v. Larbmi Dass. 216 I C. 231=17 R.L. 180=46 P.L.R. 50=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 149.

In considering the jurisdiction of arbitrators the same strictness ought not to be applied which would be applicable if it were a question of submission to the jurisdiction of a Court. It is clear that if a party to a submission appears before the arbitrators and merely takes part in a preliminary discussion, he does not thereby waive his right to object to the jurisdiction of the arbitrators before the latter actually enter upon the consideration of the matters upon which they make their award. If, however, after objecting to the jurisdiction and such objection having been overruled, he proceeds with the case, under protest, to defend himself, he does not lose his right thereafter to say that the arbitrators acted without authority. But when no objection to jurisdiction is taken and a party takes part in the proceedings on the assumption that the proceedings are before a competent tribunal, it is not permissible to that party to object to jurisdiction thereafter and contend that the whole of the proceedings are coram non ludice. When pleadings have been exchanged, issues have been settled and a large quantity of evidence has been adduced and documents produced and so on, it would be unjustifiable for a party to raise the question of jurisdiction, because the objection comes too late. (Blacken, J.) ALLINDIA GROUNDNUT SYNDICATE, LTD., In re. 47 Bom.L.R. 420.

Arbitrators—Jurisdiction to rewrite award after issue.

Arbitrators become functus officio on issuing an award and have no jurisdiction subsequently to re-write the original award. (Wort and Mcredith. II.) CHHATI LALV. RAM CHARITER SAHU. 195 I.C. 87=14 R.P. 83=7 B.R, 864=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 215.

——Arbitrator—Misconduct—Arbitrator having personal knowledge of some of the facts of the case—Effect of—Award—If invalid.

No doubt cases might arise in which the use by an arbitrator of his personal knowledge as a ground for rejecting the evidence put before him might amount to misconduct; but much must depend upon the nature of the arbitration and the relations between the arbitrator and the parties. Where the arbitrator is from the family circle of the parties, he must recessarily make the inquiry in the light of his personal knowledge of the family, and so long as he bases his inquiry on the materials placed before him read in the light of his knowledge of the family, he cannot be held to be guilty of misconduct on that account.

Quaere. Whether as a matter of law an award can be invalidated merely because the arbitrator is personally acquainted with some of the facts upon which a decision is required. (Wadsworth and Patanjali Sastri, JJ.) RAMANUJACHARIAR w Varapathra Saver Thathachariar. 1942 M.W.N. 811=55 L.W 814=I.L R. -Arbitrator-Misconduct-Decision by lot and failure to take evidence-If misconduct.

In a reference to arbitration to partition certain properties, the allotment of the properties to the parties by the arbitrator by lot amounts to misconduct, unless such allotment by lot is made by the arbitrator in the presence of the parties and with their full concurrence. Where the reference did not require it the failure of the arbitrator to take evidence or keep minutes of the proceedings, does not amount to misconduct. (Harries, C. J. and Manohar Lall, J) RAM BAHADUR JHA v. SRFE KANT JHA. 22 Pat. 108= 211 I C. 137=10 B.R. 344=15 R.P. 201=A.I. R. 1943 Pat. 285.

-Arbitrator-Misconduct - Reference for effecting partition—Omission to divide some properties because of difficulties. — Effect Sec ARBITRATION-AWARD. 22 Pat. 108.

Arbitrator-"Misconduct"-What amounts to-Gross negligence or recklessness apparent on face of award—Effect of.

"Misc induct" in an arbitrator is not confined to corruption or dishonesty; there may be misconduct even though the arditrator has been honest or free from corruption. Proof of honest or free from corruption. irregularities in procedure, which would amount to no proper hearing of the matter in dispute, would be misconduct sufficient to vitiate the award without any imputation of dishonesty or partiality of the arbitrator. If there is an indi-cation of gross negligence or recklessness on the face of the award, that would also amount to a form of "misconduct", as it might itself be sufficient to show that there was no proper hearing of the matter in dispute (Fast Ali, C. I and of the matter in dispute (Fast Ali, C. I and Sinha, I.) SADHU SINGH v. RAMDEO SINGH. 1943 P.W N. 65=210 I.C 565=16 R.P. 181=10 B R. 299=A I.R. 1943 Pat. 318.

-Arbitrators—Powers of-Representative character of party seeking to enforce agreement-Power to determine.

When a reference comes before arbitrators, and a party who is not the original contracting party seeks to enforce the arbitration agreement, the arbitrators have to inquire whether the party is entitled to enforce it. That is a question which has to be determined by the arbitrators and not by the Court. (Kania, J.) SHIVCHANDRAI JHUNJHUNWALLA v. PANNO BIBI. I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 280=208 I C 627=16 R.B 95=45 Bom. -Award-Construction-Principal - Award by layman arbitrator under Co-operative Societies Act—Duty to give plain meaning to-words.

In interpreting an award made by a layman arbitrator, the Court should give the words their plain meaning unlike in the case of a decree of Court in which certain words have often a precise technical meaning. The award passed by an arbitrator appointed under the Co-operative Societies Act consisted of three parts: The first part directed that the defendants 1 to 6 do pay plaintiff a certain sum of money; the second provided that in default, the mortgaged property specified or a sufficient part thereof should be sold; the third part was to the effect that if the sale proceeds be found insufficient, the plaintiff might recover the balance from the defendants personally or from his or their other properties.

Held, (1) that the first part of the award could not be regarded as an independent remedy available to the plaintiff but must be read with the other two parts; (2) that the ordinary meaning to be attached to the words of the award was that the property should be sold in the first instrace and only if some amount thereafter remained due to the plaintiff could the defendant be arrested or his other property sold; (3) that the mere use of the words "the defendants do pay plaintiff" was not conclusive of the question of personal liability of the defendants. Award—Partial award made by arbitrators. accepted by parties—Arbitration becoming infructuous by death of some arbitrators—Suit in respect of matters covered by award—If lies.

A reference to arbitration was made without the intervention of Court to make a partition. The arbitrators made an interim award by which they effected a partition of the bulk of the properties. The parties accepted this award and they were placed in possession of their respective allotments in terms thereof. Subsequently the arbitration became infructuous by reason of the death of some of the arbitrators. In a suit brought by one of the parties for partition of the entire properties including those covered by the award,

In a reference to arbitration of a partition suit concerning a joint Hindu family it is open to the arbitrators to award maintenance to a widow though she was not a party to the suit. When such an award has been acted upon by the male members of the family taking possession of their respective shares but no decree was passed the latter fact cannot be pleaded in bar of the widow's right to enforce the maintenance awarded to her inasmuch as the doctrine of part performance would become applicable to the case. Award-Validity-Adjudication upon matters beyond limits of submission-Effect of.

While it is correct that since the recent Arbitration Act there need be no form of submission, and the authority and jurisdiction of the arbitrator is to be ascertained from the agreement for, arbitration, nevertheless when the parties set out specifically what disputes have arisen and what relief is sought in consequence of the alleged default by one party, those are the only matters upon which the arbitrators are required to inquire and to adjudicate. If they go beyond what was required for their consideration and decide questions beyond which they were required to adjudicate, their award is void in toto. (Gentle, J.) As it has been tearnt that some of the creditors filed suits......and as none of the favour it has not been possible to devide the said debts.

The arbitrators made their award and communicated it to the parties. in a proceedings commenced by one of the parties to set aside the award, it was contended (1) that the arbitrators "misconducted" themselves by proceeding ex parte on madequate grounds thus depriving them of an opportunity of adducing evidence and arguing their case, (2) that the arbitrators acted on inadmissible evidence and divide debts also-Award allocating liability for (3) that the award did not deal with all matters in dispute.

Held, (i) that the arbitrators did not proceed ex parte at all but proceeded according to the normal procedure contemplated by the Rules, that the notice served upon the parties was not a notice of a formal hearing and the parties had o right to be present and further such notice was covered by Rule 20; (ii) that the arbitrators were not bound by strict tules of evidence which were applicable to Courts of law although they should act in accordance with natural justice, and that it was not contrary to natural justice, creditors are parties to the kararnama in our for arbitrators to act on materials on which ordinary and reasonable people would naturally act; and (iii) as the award recited that the arbitrators had carefully considered all the documents submitted to them, it must be assumed, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, that they considered all matters in dispute. > -Award-Validity-Lease-Valuation clause -Provision for appointment of panchas or valuers by lessor as well as lessee-Arbitrator oppointed by one alone-Award-Validity.

A clause in a lease dealing with the rights of the parties at the end of the period of the lease provided that "the lessee should appoint" panch or valuer on his own behalf, that the lessor should appoint one panch on his behalf and that there should be one panch on behalf of both. After the lesser gave the lesses the price which the said panchas might fix for the lessee's structures, the lessee was to hand over the land to the lessor together with the structures. If the lessee did not approve of the valuation made by the panchas or it the lessee did not appoint the panch in time then the lessee was to remove the structures within a fixe! period and to clear up the land and give up possession to the lessor. If the lessee failed to do so, then the lessor was to take the land into his possession with the structures thereon or without the structures if there be none, according to law." When the lease expired the lessee appointed an arbitrator on his behalt to value the properties, but the lessor declined to appoint one when called upon to do so by the lessee. The lessee then treated his appointee as sole arbitrator authorised to act under the clause in the lease and the arbitrator made a report or award after giving notice of the various meetings which he was holding. The award was filed in the High Court and the lessor on whom notice of the filing of the award was served applied to set aside the award.

Held, that the clause did not entitle the lessee to authorise his appointee to act as sole arbitrator and did not authorise the arbitrator alone to proceed to value the structures. The award was not therefore binding on the lessor and hence was liable to be set aside. (Kania, J.) Cursetji Jamshedji v. R. D. Shirabe. 204 I.C. 519=15 R.B. 327=44 Bom. L.R. 859=A.I.R. 1943 Bom 32.

Award-Validity-Notice to appear not served on all parties.

The fact that all the parties had not been served with a notice to appear before the arbitrator is alone sufficient to vitiate the award. (Din Mohammad and Sale, JJ.) Punjab Province v Lakemi Dass. 216 I.C. 231=17 R L. 180=46 P.L.R. 50=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 149.

Although a party may by reason of some disability be legally incapable of submitting matters to arbitration, that circumstance is not one that can be raised as a ground for disputing the validity of the award by the other parties to the reference who were aware of such disability. If one of the parties to the reference is incapable, the objection should be taken to the submission. A party will not be allowed to lie by and join in the submission and then, if and when it suits his purpose, attack the award on that ground. The presumption in the absence of proof to the countrary, is that the party complaining was aware of the disability when the submission was made. It will not be open to a party at the time when the award is filed in Court, to object to the award on the ground that another party to the arbitration proceedings had no right to refer to arbitration or to appoint an attorney to execute references to arbitration. -----Award-Validity-Power of Court to go behind award-Adequacy of materials for award If can be challenged.

An award made in an arbitration cannot be challenged on the ground that the arbitrator had made the award without a lequate materials i.e., materials on which a Court of law would not have decided to that effect. To do so would amount to going behind the award which is not within the jurisdiction of the Court. (Kania, J.) SHIVCHANDRAI JHUN WALLA V PANNO BIBI. I.L.R. ----Award-Validity-Reference to arbitration under Arbitration Act-Subject-matter partly same as subject-matter in pending suit-Reference to arbitration through Court also-Award by arbitrators under Arbitration Act-Validity-Jurisdiction to make award.

If there is a reference under the Arbitration Act, relating to the subject-matter of a pending suit in which also there is a reference to arbitration through Court under Sch. II, C. P. Code, the reference and the award under the Arbitration Act are bad, for there cannot be two conflicting jurisdictions relating to one and the same matter, the jurisdiction of the Court in the suit, and the jurisdiction of the arbitrators under the Arbitration Act, even though the subject-matter of the two proceedings is in part only the same. In such a case, it is impossible to separate the award made on the reference to arbitration under the Arbitration Act into parts so as to separate the part relating to the subject-matter of the arbitration through Court, and the award must fall in its entirety. The validity of the award under the Arbitration Act cannot be upheld as arbitrators must be held to have acted without jurisdiction. (Davis C. J. and Weston, J.) GOHRAM SHAMBAY v. JUMO. I.L.R. given by him shall be accepted by us without any objection."

Iteld, that the subject of the submission to arbitration clearly was the whole dispute and not merely the matter of the appeal, that the whole case was to be heard de novo by the arbitrator who was to settle all the disputes and the award made by him could not be impeached even if it be one that a Court would not give or one which would not be made by an arbitrator who was a lawyer. Reference — Construction — Reference of dispute over estate—Arbitrator if can charge property in favour of widow.

A reference to the arbitrator giving power to decide the dispute between the parties over an estate in such manner as appeared to him just and equitable is wide enough to allow the arbitrator to create a charge for the maintenance of the widow. Once a suit has been referred to arbitration, so long as that reference stands, the Court which has made the reference has no power to pass any order, which in any way would affect the subject-matter of the suit. The Court, has consequently, no jurisdiction after the suit has been referred to arbitration and as long as the reference subsists to intervene and give the plaintiff permission to withdraw his suit. A suit against three brothers one of whom was a minor was decreed. The certificated guardian was one of the brothers and he having refused to act an appear was filed on behalf of the minor under the guardianship of a lady. The other two brothers also appealed. When the appeal came on for hearing the matter was referred to arbitration. The minor had become a major by that time. The reference was signed by one of the brothers who also happened to have a power of attorney executed in his favour by the other brother for himsen and as certificated guardian of his minor brother. The advocate who appeared for the appellants also consented. On a contention by the quandom minor that he not having signed the reference there was no valid reference.

Held, that in the circumstances the brother who signed the reference had authority to sign it on behalf of all the appeliants; that the oral consent of the counsel bound the party and that the reference could not be invalidated on the ground of the quandon. minor not having signed it. ### -S. 19-Stay of suit-Discretion of Court.

S. 19 of the Arbitration Act confers a discretion upon the Judge—It is a judicial discretion, but there is nothing in the section which would justify the Court in holding that the discretion should not be exercised on the ground that a difficult question of law is raised. It cannot be laid down as a principle that merely because a difficult point of law is raised a Judge—must necessarily exercise his discretion in a particular manner and that he must refuse to stay the suit. (Davis, C.J. and Weston, J.) AVARAM ATAMPARKASH v. SUKHDEN & CO. I.L.R. (1941—Kar 587=199. I.C. 707=14 R S. 197=A.I.R. 1942 Sind 57.

—S. 19—Stay of suit—Discretion of Court—Contract—Arbitration clause—Question of law—Power to stay suit.

Where the point involved for decision is an important and intricate question of law such as frustration of contrict by reason of the outbreak of war which a Court of law is in a better position to decide than laymen the Court is entitled to exercise its discretion under S. 19 of the Arbitration Act and refuse stay even if there is an arbitration clause in the suit contract (Lobo, J.) SUKHDEV & CO. V. AYARAM ATAMPRAKASH. 196 I.C. 188=14 R.S. 57=A.I.R. 1941 Sind 99.

S. 19—Stay of suit—Grant of—Allegations of fraud—Contract—Arbitration clause—Suit impeaching clause in contract as forged and alleging fraud—When to be stayed.

Questions of fact and law upon which the jurisdiction of the arbitrator depends are for the Courts. It is not for an arbitrator to decide whether a contract, as put forward by one of the parties, contains forged clauses or interpolations or contains clauses which have been inserted as the result of fraud or mistake or the like. Such disputes go to the factum and existence of the contract and should be decided and must be decided by the civil Courts. A suit involving such questions should not be stayed and the issue as to whether an added or interpolated clause is binding on the party impeaching it should first be decided by the civil (ourt. Where there are serious allegations, which if established, would amount to a case of fraud, there is a prima facie case of fraud, and the civil suit should not be stayed. If the person opposing an application to stay a civil suit is charged with fraud, the Court will invariably refuse to stay; a charge of fraud is a very serious matter and any person charged with it has a right to have such a charge investigated by the Court. On the other hand if the party resisting an application to stay a civil suit is the party making a charge of fraud, different considerations will arise as the person charged does not desire trial by the civil Court. In such a case the Court will stay the suit unless a prima facie case of fraud is made out. A suit in which a prima facie case of fraud has been established should not be stayed until it has been decided whether or not the added clause in respect of which fraud is alleged, is binding on the party alleging it. If the decision upon that question is in favour of the party impeaching the clause, further proceedings in the suit will be stayed and all other questions must be referred to arbitra-

——S 19—Step in the proceedings—Defendant supplied with copy of plaint—Grant of time by Court for filing written statement.

Proceedings cannot be said to have commenced until the defendant has been supplied with a copy of the plaint and if time is then fixed for the preparation of the written statement, the time for this purpose is necessarily given by the Court and it cannot be regarded in any sense as a step taken in the proceedings by the defendant (Beckett, J.) PREM NATH PRAN NATH v. AMBA PARSHAI. 193 I.C. 167=13 R.L. 435=A.I.R 1941 Lah. 64.

— (X of 1940) — Applicability — Application under Act of 1899—Act of 1940 coming into force at time of hearing—Whether new or old Act applicable.

An application made under the Arbitration Act of 1849 must be governed by that Act only even though the new Act of 1940 had come into operation at the time when the application was heard. (McNair, J.) RUPCHAND v. PANNALAL. A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 415.=200 I.C. 145=14 R.C. 678.

-----Applicability-Award made before coming into operation of Act.

The Arbitration Act of 1940 on its true construction has no operation in respect of an award made before the Act came into force; it only applies to an award made under the Act. (Beaumont, C. J. and Rajudhyaksha, J.) MANJI RAMJI v. H. M. Mehta & Co. 45 Bom. L.R. 940=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 463=211 I.C. 61=R.B. 263.

-----Applicability to Revenue Courts.

It is wrong to say that the Arbitration Act does not apply to Revenue Courts. (Ross, J. M.) RAGHUBAR DAYAL v. BIRJ MOHAN LAL. 1945 R.D. 315=1945 A.W.R. (Rev.) 116(1).

S. 2 (c)—"Court" — Jurisdiction—Conditions for.

The word "Court" in S. 2 (c) of the Arbitration Act cannot be construed as meaning that a Court has jurisdiction to receive an award only if the whole cause of action arose within the jurisdiction of the Court. Reading the sub-section as worded, it is clear that any Court which would have jurisdiction to decide the question arising from the subject matter of the reference would be the proper Court in which the award may be filed. To give the Court jurisdiction it is not necessary that the whole cause of action should arise there. The Court has jurisdiction to determine the subject-matter of the disputes between the parties when the parties reside within its jurisdiction or when the land is within its jurisdiction. (Kania, J.) Cursetji Jamshedji v. R. D. Shirabe. 204 I.C. 519=15 R.B. 327=44 Bom. L.R. 859=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 32.

Ss. 11 and 15-Filing of award-Decrees if necessary.

As soon as the objections raised by a party to the filing of an award are duly considered and overruled, the award should be made a rule of the Court. A decree in accordance with the award is superfluous, as the award when filed amounts to a decree itself. (Abdur Rahman, J.) BHAGAT RAM v. AMBALA COMMERCIAL BANK, LTD. 45 P. L.R. 215=209 I.C. 332=A.I.R 1943 Lah.222.

S. 14—Arbitration—Basis of Absence of difference between parties—Application made to stifle prosecution and to get order from Court—Validity of reference and award.

The legal basis of all proceedings in arbitration is the existence of a difference or dispute between the parties to the arbitration proceedings. Where it appears to the Court that there is no genuine reference to arbitration, and that there is no real difference between the parties but that the application is a mere device to stifle inquiry into the merits of the transactions between money-lender and an agriculturist and that it has been made by the pleaders engaged by the parties in criminal proceedings in respect of a non-compoundable offence, linked up with and followed by civil proceedings, in order to obtain an order which can be enforced as a decree, it must be held that such a reference is invalid; and the award following would be inoperative on the ground that the reference is the result of an understanding between the parties to abandon the prosecution of a non-compoundable case. The reference itself is a bogus reference (Davis, C. J. and Weston. J.) MOTUMAL ISSARDAS v. HAJI IBRAHIM KHAN I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 390=212 I.C. 287=16 R.S. 254=A.I.R. 1944 Sind 80.

S. 14 and C. P. Code, S. 115—Application for filing award made by arbitrators at request of some of parties—Arbitrators omitting to mention this in application but applying for amendment—Court dismissing application as untenable—Revision—Application in revision filed by aggrieved party—If competent.

Where an application for filing an award under S. 14 of the Arbitration Act is made by the arbitrators at the request of some of the parties, the mere circumstance that the arbitrators have not mentioned this fact in their application is not a matter of great consequence. If an application is made by them later on to have the mistake rectified by amendment, the Court should allow that application. If the Court refuses to allow the amendment and dismisses the application for filing the award as untenable, it fails to exercise the jurisdiction vested in it by law and the High Court will interfere in revision. Where an application for filing an award is made by arbitrators at the request of some of the parties, the proper procedure is to allow the parties to take up the litigation in their hands and relieve the arbitrators. Therefore, the mere fact that the arbitrators have not filed an application in revision would single arbitrator is conditional on all the parties (Paranik, J.) NARAYAN v. DEWAJI. ILR. (1945) agreeing to do so, and there is an alternative Nag. 323-1945 N.L.J. 169-A.I.R. 1945 Nag. 117.

——Ss. 14 25 and 42—Arbitration in suit— Award—Decree based on—Failure to give notice to party—Effect on decree.

It is the duty of arbitrators in arbitration in suits to give notice to the parties that an award has been made; after the award is filed in Court it is the duty of the Court to give notice to the parties of the fact that the award has been filed so that they might have an opportunity to file their objections to the award. The failure to give notice as required by the Act is a material irregularity which vitiates the decree based on the award. (Horeill, J.) VENKAIRAMAYYA v. PAPAYYA. 56 L.W. 419=1943 M.W.N. 548=A. I.R. 1943 Mad 718=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 152.-211 I.C. 378=16 R.M. 516.

The arbitrators are given the power to decline to produce the award in Court if their fees and charges are not paul. But if they choose to produce it even though their charges have not been paid, there is nothing in S. 14 of the Arbitration Act which prohibits such a thing being done. The non-payment of the fees and charges due in respect of the arbitration and award cannot be regarded as non-compliance with the provisions of this section, when the arbitrators are prepared to file the award, and have, as a matter of fact, produced it in Court. (Paranik, J.) NARAYAN v. DEWAJI. I.L.B. (1945) Nag. 323-1945 N.L.J. 169 = A.I.R., 1945 Nag. 117.

——Ss. 14, 31 (2), 32 and 33—Scope and effect of— Money adjudged under award—Suit to recover—Maintainability—Procedure.

A separate suit does not lie to recover a sum of money adjudged by an award in favour of a party to an arbitration to which the Arbitration Act applies. The successful party is confined to the remedy by way of an application under the Act itself. Even que tions raised in defence as to the existence, validity or effect of the award cannot be gone into by any Court other than the Court in which the award may be filed. (Samayya, J.) RASHID JAMSHED SONS & CO. r. MOOLCHAND JOTHAJEE. 1945 M.W.N. 456=158 L.W. 350=(1945) 2 M.L.J. 38.

Ss. 14 and 25—Signing by all arbitraturs—Necessity—Difference of opinion among arbitraturs, if affects question—Omission of all to sign—If invalidates award—Proper procedure in such a case.

In accordance with Ss. 14 and 25 of the Arbitration Act it is necessary that all the arbitrators should sign the award. Though no doubt the view of the majority is to prevail when there is a difference of opinion, that does not remove the necessity of the signatures of all in accordance with S. 14. But the omission of some to sign does not, however, necessarily invalidate the award. The Court in such a case should remit the award for removal of the defect in accordance with S. 16 (1) (c) of the Act. (Sathe, A. M. and Dible, J. M.) DARYAO SINGH v. RATAN LAL. 1944 A.W.R. (Rev.) 164 (2)=1944 R.D. 325.

not disentitle the persons aggrieved from filing one, trators themselves—Notice by afternoon in trators and in the second of the

It is not necessary under S. 14 (1) of the Arbitration Act that the arbitrators should themselves give notice of the award to the parties. The giving of the notice is not any judical function but only a ministerial act which the arbitrators are entitled to delegate to their attorneys A notice given by their attorneys is therefore a proper and lawful notice. (Konia. J.) BAI LAXMIBAI v. SHRIDHAR MANIK 45 Bom L.R. 416 = A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 221=210 I.C. 144=16 R.B.

-S. 14 (1)—Notice of making and signing award-Time for-If to be given on same day of making and signing.

S. 14 (1) of the Arbitration Act does not require that the making of the award, signing the award and giving notice to the parties should all be done at the same time; the section cannot be read as compelling the arbitrators to give notice on the same day on which the award is made and signed. It is of course the duty of the arbitrators after they make and sign their award to give notice to the parties within a reasonable time which must be fixed according to the circumstances of each case. (Kania J.) BAI LAXMIBAI v. SHRIDHAR MANIK. 45 Bom. L.R. 416=A.I.R 1943 Bom. 221=210 I.C. 144=16 R.B. 174.

-S. 14(1)-Scope - Award-Validity-Absence of signature of one arbitrator-Effect-Agreement to refer-Provision that decision should be unanimous-All arbitrators joining in deliberation and agreeing in decision-Absence of signature of one-If renders award invalid.

Where a matter is referred to arbitration by agreement of the parties which provides that the award to be binding on them must be the unanimous decision of the arbitrators, then if all the arbitrators join in the deliberation and agree in a certain decision, the award would be binding on the parties to the reference even though one of the arbitrators, whether accidentally, inadvertently or deliberately, does sign the award. The absence of the signature of an arbitrator on the award is not fatal to the validity of the award provided he takes part in the deliberations. It is the unanimous agreement where all the arbitrators are required to agree which is the judicial determination of the dispute referred to them by the parties; the signing of the award is not a judicial act but is merely the record of what has already been done in the judicial exercise of the functions of the arbitrators. Where a Court finds that it has no pecuniary jurisdiction to entertain an application for filing an award, the proper order is one of return of the application for presentation to the proper Court and not one of dismissal of the application. Under R. 338 B (5) of the Rule-framed under S. 44 of the Arbitration Act, every application under S. 14 (2) of the Act for filing an award is to be registered as a suit. On the analogy of 0.7, R. 10 read with S. 141, C. P. Code, a Court is competent to pass an order returning an application for presentation to the proper Court. (Bose and Sen JJ. VINAYAK DINKAR v. -Ss. 15 (b) and 16—Jurisdiction of Court— Arbitrator not deciding question—Court must remit award to the arbitrator under S. 16 for reconsideration.

Clause (b) of S. 15 Arbitration Act permits modification or correction of an award where the award is imperfect in form or contains any obvious error which can be amended without affecting such decision. But this cannot be strained to give the Court jurisdiction to record finding on questions which the arbitrator has not decided. The proper course for the Court is to remit the award to the arbitrator under S. 16 for reconsideration (Davis, C. J. and Weston, J.) Tulja-MAL CHIMANDAS v. BIKHCHAND BHAWANDAS. I.L.R. 1943 Kar 395=209 I.C. 420=16 R.S. 99= A.I.R. 1943 Sind 131.

Under the Arbitration Act of 1940, it is not S. 16—Award—Appellate Board—Constitution to a party to file an application for Ition—Board of nine members commencing to hear appeal-Withdrawal of one member and continua-tion of hearing by remaining members-Award-Validity-Articles of association providing for quorum of six members-Effect.

When once a board has been constituted, to hear an appeal against an award and the board has taken cognisance of the appeal and has commenced to hear it, then the board constitutes the appellate tribunal, and it is not open to any member to withdraw, and for the remaining members to continue the appeal, unless of course, the parties agree to that course being adopted. If the parties are not willing to go on before the remaining members a fresh board must be constituted. The fact that under the articles of association the quorum for a board was only six or that the withdrawal of one member from the board would have made no difference to the decision is immaterial. Where an award is given by such improperly constituted board, the proper procedure is not to set aside the original award but to declare that the decision by the appellate board was a nullity and refer the matter to the board of directors of the cotton association to be dealt with according to law. declared nullity.

S. 16 of the Arbitration Act empowers the Court to remit a defective award only in the cases specified there in and in no others. When what purports to be the decision of arbitrators is a nullity, there is no power to remit it. Nor is there need for any such power, since there is nothing to remit and the parties are entitled to a new and effective hearing and determination. LTD. v. PATEL BROS. 71 I.A. 106=I L.R. —S. 16 (1) (c)—Power of Court to remit award

Non-registration of ward—If ground for remitting

Under S. 16 (1) (c) of the Arbitration Act the Court can remit the award to the arbitrator for re-consideration only if it finds an error of law in the award itself or in some document actually incorporated there to on which the arbitrator had based his award, that is to say, finds the statement of some erroneous legal proposition which is the basis of the award. It cannot remit the award if it finds a wrong conclusion on a question of fact. Want of registration of the award is a defect dehors the award or the decision of the arbitrator, and so is not covered by S. 16 (1) (c) of the Act (Mitter and Sharpe, JJ.) NANIBALA SAHA v. RAM GOPAL SAHA. 48 C.W.N. 721 =A.I.R. 1945. Cal. 19.

17 and Sch. -Ss. 17 and 39 and U.P. Tenancy Act, Ss 263 to 272-Applicability of Arbitration Act to Revenue Courts-Appeals against decree, or orders passed on reference to arbitration-Provision of law governing.

The Arbitration Act extends to the whole of British India. As Revenue Courts in United Provinces exercise their jurisdiction as Civil Courts the Act applies to such Courts. As the U.P. Tenancy Act makes no special provision for appeals against decrees or orders passed as a result of reference to arbitration, such appeals must be governed by Ss. 17 and 30 of the Arbitraof the U. P. Tenancy Act (Nathe, A. M. and Dible, J. M.) Daryao Singh v. Rayan Lat. 1944 A.W.R. (Rev.) 164 (2): 1944 R.D. 325.

—S. 17—Award filed in Court—1f becomes decree-Suit on award filed in Court-If barred. An award does not become a decree because it is filed in Court. It only becomes executable as a decree. The cause of action on the award still subsists and it is open to a party to have his action on the award. It is therefore open to a party who has already filed an award obtained by him in Court to file a suit on that very award. (Chagla, J.) APOLLO MILLS, LTD, T. -S. 17—Decree on award—Finality.

Where an objection to the invalidity of an award on any ground whatsoever is not made when the aggrieved party had an opportunity to do so if made is rejected and a decree is passed in accordance therewith, such a decree becomes final and is unassailable either by way of appeal or revision. -Ss. 17 and 30—Power of Court to set aside award suo motu-Power to inquire into genuineness of reference.

There is nothing in S. 17 of the Arbitration Act to exclude the power of the Court to set aside an award except on the application of a party. A Court has power to set aside an award suo motu for proper reasons. S. 30, by implication gives the Court power to set aside an award Assuming that S. 46 of the Arbitration Act is applicable to arbitration under rules framed under S. 43 of the Co-operative Societies Act, S. clearly gives the Co-operative Societies Act, S.

abuse of its process by bogus references made with ulterior purposes. It cannot therefore be said that the Court has no power to inquire into the genuineness of arbitration proceedings the award in which it is asked to file even when the arbitration proceedings are found to be bogus proceedings and a fraud upon a statute; e.g., upon the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act. (Divis, C. I. and Weston, J.) MOTUMAL ISSARDAS v. HAJI IBRAHIM KHAN. I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 390.=212 I.C. 287=16 RS. 254=A.I.R. 1944 Sind 80.

S. 19-Construction-"Award has been set aside."

The words 'where an award has been set aside' in S. 19 of the Arbitration Act refer clearly to the setting aside of the award by the Court and not by the agreement of parties and the consequences indicated in S. 19 can follow only where the award is set aside by Court. (Ghulam Hasan J.) Rameshwar v Surajman 1943 O.W.N. 366 = 1943 A.W.R. (C.C.) 104=210 I.C. 416=16 R. O. 184=1943 O.A. (C.C.) 236=A.I.R. 1943 Oudh 435.

An agreement to refer the matter to arbitration can be ordered to be "filed in Court" before the institution of any suit when it has been lost or accidentally destroyed or happens to be in the possession of the opposite party. The word "filed" in S. 20 of the Arbitration Act is not used in the sense that the written agreement must be physically produced in Court before it can be accepted or ordered to be acted upon. There is no reason why a party who wishes to enforce a written agreement of that kind should not be able to prove it by secondary evidence when evidence of that nature is permitted or admissible under the Evidence Act. (Harrics, C.J. and Abdur Rahman, J.) DUNI CHAND RAM PARKASH V. PREMCHAND MAYA DASS. 47 P. L.B. 214=A.L.B. 1945 Lah. 264.

S. 21—Absence of consent of parties interested—Effect—Co-tenant not contesting suit for division of holding—If should also consent.

In a suit for the division of a holding the cotenants of that holding are certainly interested in the division whether they appeared to contest the suit or not. Hence their consent to arbitration of the suit matter is essential and without such consent the order of the trial Court to refer the suit to arbitration is beyond jurisdiction. (Sathe, A.M. and Dible, J.M.) DARYAO SINGH V. RATAN LAL. 1944 A.W.R. (Rev.) 164 (2)=1944 R.D. 325.

——Ss. 21 to 25—Applicability—Oral reference by parties to suit to arbitration by judge—Judge, if becomes arbitrator—Decision—If award—Appealability.

Where a judge is asked to arbitrate between the parties to a suit before him, he does not cease to be a Court and become a pure arbitrator. Nor does his decision amount to an award within the meaning of the Arbitration Act. The provisions of Chapter IV of the Act imply necessarily that the arbitrator must be a person other than the Judge. Hence where the parties to a suit agree orally to refer their disputes to arbitration by the trial Judge and to abide by his decision, the judge is not an arbitrator though he purports to act as such, and his decision cannot be held to be an award falling under the Arbitration Act. But the decision is final and is not appealable for the reason that a party cannot go back on his consent to abide by the decision. (Diratia, J.) DALAL v. JAMADAR. 47 Bom.L.R. 388.

ARBITRATION ACT (X OF 1940).

——S.21—Applicability—Reference by counsel on behalf of party to suit—Sufficiency.

A reference to arbitration consented to by counsel duly authorised by a party to a litigation is valid. The fact that the party himself had not signed the application will not invalidate the reference. (Abdur Rahman, J.) SUKH LAL V. MIAMCHAND. 46 P.L.R. 348=219 I.C. 162=18 R.L. 46=A.I.R 1945 Lah. 34.

——S. 21—Jurisdiction of Court to refer matrimonial dispute for the decision of arbitrators.

The terms of S. 21 of the Arbitration Act are exceptionally wide and the Court has jurisdiction to refer for the decision of arbitrators any matter in dispute in a matrimonial suit and arbitrators are competent to pass an award in respect of such disputes. The Court can pass a decree in terms of such an award. (Byers, /) RAMUDAMMA 7. KASI NAIDU. A.I.R. 1945 Mad. 269 = (1945) 1 M.I.J. 396.

Where the power of attorney given by a party to his counsel authorises him to refer a matter to arbitration, the validity of reference to arbitration cannot be impugned on the ground that the party himself has not signed the application when it has been signed by his counsel. S. 21-'Suit'-If excludes execution proceedings.

Though S. 21 of the Arbitration Act uses the word 'suit', there is no reason to restrict its meaning in such a way as to exclude execution proceedings which are only a continuation of the suit. (Ghulam Hasan, J.) JAFAR v. ABBUL GAPOOR. 208 I C. 187=16 R.O. 65=1943 O.A. (C.C.) 130=1943 O.W.N. 198=A.I R. 1943 O.Udh 304,

In order to vest jurisdiction in the arbitrators to deal with a pending suit, it is necessary that the Court should make an order referring the suit to them and should specify in the order such time as it thinks reasonable for the making of the award. It is only when the matter is referred to arbitration by the Court in that manner that under sub-Sec. (2) of S. 23 of the Arbitration Act, the Court ceases to have jurisdiction to deal with the suit on such matters therein as are referred to arbitration. (Yahya Ali, J.) NARAYANASWAMI NATTAR 2.

Having regard to S. 32 of the Arbitration Act, 1940, a suit for a declaration that a certain contract containing an arbitration clause is by way of gaming and wagering and as such void and for an injunction to restrain the Tribunal of Arbitration from proceeding with the arbitration is not maintainable. The proper procedure is to make an application to the Court under S. 33 of the Act to be decided on affidavits, or on other evidence if deemed expedient by the Court. (Lort Williams, J.) An application made under S. 33 of the Arbitration Act to challenge the validity of an arbitration agreement or to have the effect of that agreement determined does not fall either under S. 20 or S. 39 (4) of the Act. S. 33-Proceedings under-Nature of-

Where an application under S. 33 of the Arbitration Act is filed challenging the existence or validity of an award, the procedure laid down in Ss. 14, 15 and 16 of the Act is not made immediately applicable. Proceedings under S. 33 are entirely different from the proceedings under Ss. 14 to 17 of the Act and the Court is not bound to pronounce a judgment in accordance with the award merely because it was dismissing the application under S. 33 filed by the other side especially when it had not been moved to pass any such order by the respondent. S. 33 was enacted to provide a speedy remedy to a party objecting to a reference or an award, and instead of having to file a separate suit for the purpose he can now merely move an application which has to be generally decided on alli lavits. (Muthur and Malik, II.) BALWANT SINGH. RAMCHARAN SINGH. I.L.R. (1944) All. 375::1944 A.W.R. (H.C.) 134=1944 O.A. (H.C.) 134=1944 A.L.W. 434=1944 A.L.J. 241=A.I.R. 1944 All. 188 (1).

Ss. 34, 39 and 41—Application for stay—Duty of Court—Acting with material irregularity in eversise of powers under S. 34—Revision—Ss. 39 and 41 if deprives power of High Court.

The language of S. 34 of the Arbitration Act clearly implies that the arbitration clause should be respected and it is only when a clear case has been made out by the plaintiff and "if difficult questions of law are likely to arise, such as would inevitably entail a special case being prepared and reference to the Court made by an arbitrator" that the Court should enter upon an inquiry and decision of the case. Where a Court acts in contravention of this salutary principle, it acts with material irregularity in the exercise of its jurisdiction or pewers under S. 34 and interference in revision would be justified. There is nothing in S. 39 or S. 41 to deprive the High Court of the powers conferred by S. 115, C. P. Code. (Waliullah and Sinha, J.). CHARAN DAS P. GUR SARAN DAS. I.L.R. of absence of agreement of arbitration It said Jurisdiction of Court to determine existence or nonexistence of arbitration agreement—Separate application—Necessity.

S. 33 of the Arbitration Act does not take away the right of a party to set up as a defence to an application for stay the non-existence of any agreement of arbitration when the agreement is propounded under S. 34 by the other side. It is not necessary that he should make a substantive application for that purpose. The Court under S. 34 has jurisdiction to determine whether there was an arbitration agreement or not, Under S. 34, the defendant who applies for a stay has to say that there is an arbitration agreement. If the plaintiff says that there is no agreement, that issue arises between the parties. There is nothing in S. 34 to prevent the Court from deciding that issue to enable it to pass an order under the section. S. 33 provides for a case where a party wants to obtain the Court's declaration of non-existence of an agreement for his own use. In such a case he has to make an application to get the judgment. #### ---- S. 34-Burden of proof.

S. 34 of the Arbitration Act is a discretionary section. If one of the parties contends that because of an agreement between them the normal jurisdiction of the Court is given up by the other side, the onus of proof is on him who makes the allegation. Therefore the party who alleges such an agreement has to satisfy the Court first, before he asks the Court to stay its hands in respect of a suit which is pending and which is filed in the normal course by a plaintiff. It is not for the plaintiff to prove the non-existence of an agreement, (Kania and Chagla J.) BHAGWANDAS ATMASING V. ATMASING. 47 BOM.I.B. 716 = A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 494.

the offer on the conditions and terms specified. Subsequently difficulties arose in connection with the shipment of goods from America and the correspondence between the parties disclosed that the defendants informed the plaintiffs that unless the latter intimated to the defendants their willingness to extend the time for shipment the defendants would treat the order as cancelled. Nothing was done thereafter till December, 1941, when the plaintiffs called upon the defendants to inform them whether the goods sold had been shipped and when they were expected to arrive. The defendants replied stating that they had accepted the offer, but were constrained to consider the order as cancelled. After further correspondence the plaintiffs filed a suit for damages for breach of contract on 27-3-1942. On 13-5-1942 the defendants applied for stay of suit under S. 34 of the Arbitration Act on the basis of an arbitration clause in the contract which, inter alia, provided; "any complaint, claim, dispute, doubt or question arising out of this indent, may at the instance of either party heretofore be referred to arbitration etc."

Held, (1) that there was a binding agreement to refer to arbitration the disputes arising between the parties; (2) that it could not be said that the defendants were not ready and willing at the date of the filing of the suit to submit the dispute to arbitration. The defendants did not deny the factum of the contract, their attitude being that while admitting that a binding contract had been concluded, they had, in the event which supervened, become entitled to cancel it, and the dispute arose out of an admitted contract and depended upon the evidence adduced in relation to it; (3) that there was no obligation upon the defendants to claim arbitration before the plaintiffs filed the suit; (4) that since the plaintiffs did not ask the defendants, whether they desired to go to arbitration before filing the suit, but filed the suit notwithstanding the arbitration clause which was binding upon them, the defendants could rely on the clause after suit and apply for stay of suit on the basis of that clause. (Blackwell, J) CHHABILDAS NANDLAL AND CO. v. DAMODAR KHEISEY AND CO. 45 Bom L.R. 387=212 I.C. 189=16 R.B. 336=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 199.

-----Ss. 34 and 35-Construction and scope--

S. 34, Arbitration Act, creates an exception to the general law relating to procedure, viz., it empowers the Court which has jurisdiction to decide a dispute to refuse to do so. Where an arbitration is in existence S. 35, which is a corollary or counterpart of S. 34 and which is new, is clearly intended to modify the English common law rule in relation to the matters in question which was the law prevalent before 1940. The "legal proceedings" which are liable to be stayed under S. 34 are proceedings in respect of any matter referred." But the legal proceedings which, if notice is given of them to the arbitrators or umpire, may render invalid subsequent proceedings in the arbitration must be legal proceedings "upon the whole of the subject-matter of the reference." (Blagden, J.) All India Groundnut Syndicate, Ltd., In re. 47 Bom LB. 420.

S. 34—Right to claim stay—Not negatived by failure to demand arbitration in reply to notice of suit.

The fact that a party in reply to a notice of suitfailed to refer to the clause in the contract providing for arbitration and ask for an arbitration in accordance with it does not put an end to the right to claim under S. 34 of Arbitration Act that the suit should be stayed and the matter decided by arbitration according to the contract. (Malik, J.) INDIAN STEEL AND WIRE PRODUCTS LTD V. DEBI PRASAD MALAVIVA. I.L.R. (1944) All. 341=1944 A.L.W. 369=1944 A.L.J. 379=1944 O.A. (H.C.) 130=1944 A.W.R. (H.C.) 130=1944 A.I.R. 1944 All. 253.

—S. 34—Stay — Conditions for—Contract— Arbitration clause—Defendant not to insist on arbitration before suit by plaintiff—Application for stay of suit on basis of arbitration clause—Duty of Court to stay suit.

The mere fact that a defendant, who is threatened with legal proceedings for breach of a contract containing an arbitration clause, does not before the institution of the suit, insist on the arbitration clause, but relies on it for the first time after the suit is filed, is no ground for not granting his application for stay of proceedings under the Arbitration Act. When there is a binding agreement to submit any dispute arising out of the contract between the parties to arbitration and the dispute appears to be eminently suitable for determination by commercial arbitrators, the Court ought to give effect to that agreement and stay the suit. (Blackwell, J.) Chhabildas Nandlal and Co. v. Damodar Khetsey and Co. 212 I.C. 189=16 R.B. 336=45 Bom.LR, 387=AI.R. 1943=Bom. 199.

——S. 34—Stay of suit—Charge of fraud or misconduct made against a party—Latter desiring public investigation.

If the claim made in the suit and the claim referred to arbitration under an arbitration clause are the same the suit should prima facie be stayed. But the principle has often been acted on that if a dispute involves a charge, such as one of fraud, it ought not, if the party charged desires otherwise, to be decided by an arbitrator in privacy. If the facts alleged to constitute the fraud or misconduct would have mere evidentiary value in the investigation of the dispute they would not in themselves be a ground for refusing the stay of the suit on the application of either party. If on the other hand they are matters which would be directly in issue, then if the party against whom these charges are made wants the matter to be investigated in public, he wants the matter to be investigated in public, he ought to be allowed this, and the stay of the suit should be refused. (Blagden, J.) EASTERN STEAM NAVIGATION CO., LTD. v. INDIAN COASTAL NAVIGATION CO., LTD. ILR. 1942 2 Cal. 539=46 C.W.N. 933=207 I.C. 90=16 R.C. 30=A.I R, 1943 Cal. 238.

The possibility that the arbitration may become infructuous should not be altogether overlooked in determining whether or not a stay of suit should be ordered. (Das J.) Subatchandra Bhur v. Mahomed Ibrahim. I L R. (1943) 2 Cal. 298=210 I.C. 454=16 R.C. 430= 47 C.W.N. 570=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 484.

ARBITRATION ACT (X OF 1940).

——S. 34—'Step in the proceedings'—Application for adjournment to file written statement— Presumption—Onus.

Prima facic an application for adjournment to enable the defendant to file a written statement should be treated as a 'step in the proceedings' within the meaning of S. 34 of the Arbitration Act. But there may be such applications which are not so and in such cases whole burden is upon the defendant to establish the circumstances which will lead to the result the effect should not be given to the prima facie meaning of the application. (Dar and Sinha, JJ.) Roop Kishori, v. U. P. Government. I.L.B. (1944) All. 6812-1945 A.L.J. 38=218 I.C. 159=18 R.A. 3=1944 A.L. W. 542=1944 O.A. (H.C.) 255=:1944 A.W.R. (H.C.) 255=A.I.R. 1945 All. 24.

——S. 34—"Step in the proceedings"—Application to Court by consent—Precipes to extend time for filing written statement and obtaining time— Effect of—Right to apply for stay.

Where the defendant in a suit makes an application to the Court by consent, precipes to extend the time to file his written statement and gets time, that amounts to taking a step in the proceedings within the meaning of S. 34 of the Arbitration Act, though with the consent of the plaintiff, and desentitles him from applying for stay of suit under S. 34. (Kania, J.) Epward Radbone v. Juggilal Kamalapat. I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 298=209 I.C. 100=16 R.B. 104=45 Bom. L.R. 402=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 228.

S. 34—"Step in the proceeding"—Test— Partnership suit—Defendant obtaining time to file offidavit opposing application for appointment of receiver and for inspection of documents—If entitled to stay of suit.

In order to constitute a step in the proceedings within the meaning of S. 34 of the Arbitration Act, the act in question must be (a) an application made to the Court either on summons or orally or something in the nature of an application to the Court, (e.g.) attending on summons for directions, and (b) such an act as would indicate that the party is acquiescing in the method adopted by the Other side of having the disputes dicided by the Court. The fact that the party was unaware of the arbitration agreement does not make his act any the less a step in the proceedings if in fact and in law it was a step. The fact that the defendant was unaware of the arbitration agreement does not make his act any the less a step in the proceedings if in fact and in law it was a step. (Das, J.) Supalchandra Bhur v Mahomed Ibrahm. I L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 298=210 I.C. 454=16 R C. 430=47 C.W.N. 570=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 484.

8.35 Award Setting aside Grounds Award made when no legal proceedings pending Natice of proceedings to be instituted If renders award invalid.

A Court will not and cannot set aside an award made in arbitration at a time when no actual legal proceedings were pending at all, merely on the ground that one of the arbitrators or all the arbitrators had notice that such proceedings were intended and that subsequently such proceedings are in fact commenced. At the same time, where proceedings are pending as a result of which the award may turn out to be invalid, it would not be just for the Court to make a decree on the award immediately. (Blagden, J.) ALL INDIA GROUNDNUT SYNDICATE, LTD., In re. 47 Bom.L.R. 420

-S. 35-"Further proceedings in" a pending reference- Application for extension of time for making award.

An application to the Court for extension of time for making the award is not a proceeding in a pending reference and cannot be included in the phrase "further proceedings in" a pending reference within the meaning of S. 35 of the Arbitration Act. To merely apply to the Court for an extension of time does not offend, either against the letter or the spirit of S. 35. (Blagden, J.) ALL INDIA GROUNDNUT SYNDICATE, LTD., In re. 47 Bom.L.R. 420.

-S. 35-Joint arbitrators-Notice to one-If notice to all.

For the purposes of S. 35, Arbitration Act, notice to one of two joint arbitrators is notice to both of them. (Blagden, J.) ALL INDIA GROUNDNUT SYNDICATE, LTD., In re. 47 Bom.L.R. 420.

-S. 35-"Subject-matter of the reference"-Meaning of.

The "subject-matter of the reference", in S. 35 of the Arbitration Act, must mean the questions which arise on the pleadings, if any, in the reference, or, at all events, the questions which the arbitrators are investigating. But a legal proceeding which has for its object or one of its objects the ousting of the arbitrators from jurisdiction and the complete supersession of the arbitration as a whole is one which would prevent the arbitration from going on even if no stay has been granted under S. 34 or otherwise. (Blagden, J.) ALL INDIA GROUNDNUT SYNDICATE, LTD., In re. 47 Bom.L.

-S. 38-Applicability and scope-Fees of arbitrator or umpire fixed and paid in proceedings-Subsequent objection to same by party-Competency-Right to recover fees already paid.

S. 38 of the Arbitration Act is to be read with S. 14. S. 14 (2) ensures that the arbitrator or umpire shall receive payment of his fees before filing the award in Court, except where there is a dispute regarding the fees and resort is had by the parties, disputing the fees to the provisions of S. 38. In the latter case the applicant is required to pay the fees into Court and not to the arbitrators direct. The position, therefore, is that in the event of a dispute as to the arbitrator's fees, the matter is always subject to adjudication by the Courts provided the procedure set out in the Act is followed. But where the award is not sought to be set aside under S. 30, and the parties without following the procedure laid down in S. 38. have paid the arbitrators the feedemanded during the course of the arbitration proceedings, S. 38 (3) has no application. Having paid the fees demanded, it is not open to a party to take objection to the fees subsequently and seek to recover what he has already paid. The award is binding on the parties unless the procedure provided for in S. 38 has been adopted or the award is set aside under S. 30 (O'Sullivan J) GOBINDSING v. POHUMAL. ILB (1944) Kar. 354=219 I C. 195=A.I.R. 1945 Sind 71.

ment of the Act; such a case would be governed by the old law, i.e., Sch. II, para. 16 C.P. Code, and no appeal therefore lies from an order refusing to set aside an award, passed after the Act in a reference made under the Act. (Faal Ali, C.J. and Sinha, J.) Sadhu Singh v. Ramdeo Singh. 1943 P.W.N. 65=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 318=210 I.C. 565=16 R.P. 181=10 B.R. 299.

-Ss. 39 and 5-Order allowing leave to revoke authority of arbitrator-Appeal.

No appeal lies from an order allowing leave to revoke the authority of an appointed arbitrator under S. 5 of the Arbitration Act. The order is not an order superseding the arbitration such as could be appealed against under S. 39 of the Act. (Bobde, J.) BHAIYALAL v. SAWAL SINGHAL, I.L R. (1944) Nag. 447=216 I.C. 214=1944 N. L.J. 167=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 152.

-S. 39-Order superseding arbitration-When appealable.

The circumstances under which under the Act the Court is empowered to supersede arbitration proceedings are contained in Ss. 19, 25 and 30 of the Arbitration Act. But they do not include the case where arbitration proceedings are superseded on the ground that there was no valid reference to arbitration. No appeal lies against such an order as it is not one superseding the arbitration under the Act. (Almond. J.C. and Mir Ahmad J.) DEVI DAS GUIZARI LAL v. MITHA SHAH RAM-DITTA MAL. 205 I.C. 319=15 R.Pesh. 91=A.I.R. 1943 Pesh. 8.

Sub-S. (2) of S. 39 of the Indian Arbitration Act saves any existing right of appeal to His Majesty in Council, but it clearly does not create any new right of appeal. When an application under S. 33 of the Arbitration Act, challenging the validity of an arbitration agreement, is dismissed by a single judge of the High Court, and an appeal therefrom is rejected as not competent under S. 39 of the Act, there is no right of appeal to His Majesty in Council, under Ss. 109 and 111. C.P. Code. It cannot be said that S. 111 entirely abrogates S. 109 (b) (Beaument, C.J. and Sen. J.) RANCHHODDAS PURSHOTTAM AND CO. V. RATANJI VIRPAD AND CO. 207 I C. 400=16 R. B 30=45 Bom. Where an application raising objections to an award and praying that it may be set aside is rejected, the order is in effect a refusal to set aside the award and is appealable under S. 39 (vi) of the Arbitration Act. The consequence of not appealing against such an order. reference to arbitration pending at the commence- would be that it would operate as res judicata and bar a revision against the decree in terms of that award. (Ross, J. M.) BENI MADHO v. RAM AUTAR. 1945 A.W.B. (Rev.) 203 (1)=1945 R.D. 425.

-Ss. 41 and 30-Dispute adjusted by parties after award-Right of parties to ask Court to set aside award

Cl. (a) of S. 41. Arbitration Act makes O. 23, Rr. 1 and 3, C. P. Code, applicable to proceedings under the Arbitration Act 1940. Though the Act provides that Court shall not interfere in the award except under conditions laid down in it, the Act does not provide that the plaintiff shall not have the right to withdraw his claim or that the parties shall not have the power to adjust their dispute even after the award has been given by the arbitrator. Even if O. 23, Rr. 1 and 3 C.P. Code are inapplicable to proceedings under the Arbitration Act there is nothing in law to prohibit a party from surrendering his rights in favour of the party, whether those rights have been created by an award, or existed when the suit was instituted, and the right of litigants to agree to a decision to be given by the Court on the matter in issue between them is paramount and must supervene although there may be rules and regulations which do not give the Court a power to make the same order suo motu. (Almond. J. C and Mir Ahmad, J.) ATTAR SINGH v. BISHAN SINGH. A.I.R. 1945 Pesh. 41.

Appointment of Power of Court to appoint before notice of application under S. 20 is given.

The Court has jurisdiction to appoint a receiver in arbitration proceedings as soon as an application under S. 20 of the Arbitration Act is made even though notice of the application has not been given to the parties concerned. There is no warrant for the contention that a proceeding notice of the application proceeding only after notice of the application is given to all the parties concerned. (Fazi Ali, C.J. and Ray, J.) NAGARCHAND v. SURENDRANATH. 24 Pat. 616=A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 70.

The bye-laws framed by the East India Cotton Association under the Bombay Cotton Contracts Act by virtue of S. 4 (7) read with Ss. 5 and 6 of that Act are statutory bye laws and therefore are excepted from the operation of the Arbitration Act by S. 46 of the Arbitration Act. The provision in bye-law 38 -A framed by the East India Cotton Association which gives power to the chairman to extend the time for making an award is valid; and the final decision of the domestic tribunal agreed upon made within the extended time is an award which can be filed under S. 11 of the Act. -Ss. 48 and 39 (6) - Award prior to, but judgment subsequent to, the Act coming into farce -Appeal -- Competency.

Where an award was prenounced prior to the Arbitration Act coming into force but the judgment thereon was pronounced after the Act came into force.

Held, the appeal against the judgment was not barred by S. 48 of the Act. The reference was not pending when the Act came into force for the proceedings on a reference came to an end when the award was made. The suit no doubt remained pending but a distinction must be drawn between the reference and the suit. (Bennett and Madeley, JJ.) SHER BAHADUR SINGH & RAM MARAIN SINGH, 1944 A.W.R. -S. 48 -- Scope-"Reference" - If includes award-Award made after Act in reference pending at time of commencement of Act-If saved.

Any award which is the result of a reference which was pending at the date of the commencement of the New Arbitration Act of 1940 is saved from the application of the new Act and the provisions of the new Act do not apply to such an award. The expression "references" in S. 48 of the new Act is wide enough to cover the necessary and logical result of a reference vis. an award. (Chag/a, J.) Apollo Mills Ltb, v. Where the agreement of reference to arhitration provides that the arbitrators would be entitled to appoint an umpire only if they happen to disagree, it is not incumbent on the arbitrators to appoint an umpire within 30 days of their own appointment as provided for by Sch. I, para 2. of the Arbitration Act. Such a provision in the agreement must be held to contain an intention different from what has been expressed in Sch. I. para. 2, within the meaning of S. 3 of the Act. (Abdur Rahman, J.) DAIESINGH v. MAMCHAND. 219 I.C. 162=18 R.L. 46=46 P.L R. 348=A. I.R. 1945 Lah. 34.

The effect of para. 8 of the first Schedule of the Arbitration Act is to make arbitrators Judges in their pendency of a suit can be treated as an agreement for own cause in the matter of costs. Where the submission does not express a contrary intention, the arbitrator or umpire may himself fix the amount of his remuneration, and may include it in his award. If he includes it in his award, there is no means of taxing or otherwise disputing the amount so fixed by him, unless the amount is so unreasonable and excessive that the Court would hold him guilty of misconduct, and on that ground set aside the award under S. 30 of the Arbitration Act. S. 30 precludes the Court from setting aside an award on any ground except those mentioned in that section. (O'Sullivan, J) GOBINDSING v. PGHU-MAL. ILR. (1944) Kar. 354=219 I.C. 195=A. ARMS ACT (XI OF 1878). S. 4-'Arms'-Part of a fire-arm-If "arms"-Test.

Before stray pieces of metal can be held to be parts of a fire-arm it must be shown that they are either definite parts of a fire-arm in reasonable condition or a series of old parts which without the addition of too many new parts or the expenditure of an unreasonable amount of labour could be metamorphosed into a lethal fire-arm. The matter is in each case largely one of discretion of the Court concerned. (Davies.) MISRI LAL v. EMPEROR. 1242 A.M.L.J. 34.

-S. 4-"Arms"-Rusty and unserviceable revolver-If "arms."

A fire-arm such as a revolver, which, though rusty and unserviceable could yet be repaired is a fire-arm falling within the definition of "arms" in S. 4 of the Arms Act the possession of which without license is an offence. (Kuppuswami Ayyar. J.) Public Prosecutor v, Nagabushanam. 209 I.C. 272=16 R.M. 297=1943 M. W.N. 577=56 L.W 519=A.I.R 1943 Mad. 661 =45 Cr. L. J. 124=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 283.

-Ss. 4 and 19 (f)—'Arms'—Spears electroplated and used for religious purpose.

The fact that an article which comes within the definition of "arms" in the Arms Act is used for religious purposes does not relieve the person in possession of such an arm from the operation of the Act. A spear having the appearance of a spear and capable of being used as a spear does not cease to be so by reason of its being called some thing else or being electroplated and used. for religious pur poses. (Young, C.J and Ram Lall J.) EMPEROR v. SOBHA SINGH I.LR 1941 Lah. 789=43Cr L.J 76=44 P L.R 56=14 R.L. 182= 196 I.C. 766=A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 340.

-Ss. 14 and 19 (f)-Possession after expiry of license and before renewal-If offence.

The possession of a gun by a person after the expiry of his license and bef. re its renewal is in contravention of S.14 and is an offence punishable under S, 19 (f) of the Arms Act. Note 11 appended to the conditions printed on the license granted in Form XVI, which prescribes the fees payable if the license is renewed within one month of the date on which it expired and those payable after one month from that date, merely provides a period of grace during which the application for renewal may be made and the fees I discovery of arms in a house occupied by a joint

-S. 19 (e)—Going armed—Accused carrying gun tied to bi-cycle as luggage-Offence.

If a person carries a gun not in his hand but tied to his bi-cycle in the manner of a piece of luggage, he must be said to be "going armed". within the meaning of S. 19 (e) of the Arms Act and is liable to conviction (Rowland, J.) IMAMUDDIN MIAN v. EMPEROR. 192 I.C. 766=13 R.P. 570=42 Cr.L.J. 341=22 P.L.T. 570=1941 P.W.N. 423=7 B.R. 411=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 284.

-S. 19. (f)—Arms -Fire arm—Revolver unserviceable but not irreparable-Possession without licence-Offence.

A fire arm, such as a revolver, which, though rusty and unserviceable, could yet be repaird, is a fire-arm falling within the definition of "arms in S. 4 of the of the Arms Act; and possession of such a revolver without license is an offence punishable under S. 19 (f) of the Act. (Kuppuswami Ayyar J.) Public Prosecutor v. Nag Bhushana. 209 I.C. 272=16 R.M. 297=1943 M.W.N. 577=56 L.W. 519=A I.R. 1943 Mad. 661=45 Cr.L.J. 124=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 283.

-S. 19 (f)—Arms—Possession or control of particular person-Presumption.

The possession or control might well be possession or control of two or more persons. For examples an unlicensed Gun may be found in a room which is used by a number of adult members of the family. In such a case it is difficult to presume that that gun is in the joint possession of all members of the family. On the other hand if two spears are found in a room occupied jointly by two persons it can be inferred that the spears are in the possession or control of both the persons occupying the room. Every case must depend upon its particular facts and the Courts must consider each case and come to a conclusion whether it is proved that the incriminating article is in the possession or under the control of any particular person or in the possession or under the control of more than one person. (Harries. C.J., Din Mahomed and Sale, JJ.) EMPEROR v. SANTA SINGH. 215 I C. 161=17 R.L. 110=46 Cr.L.J. 1=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 339 (F.B.).

sanction under S. 29—Effect.

Sanction under S. 29 of the Arms Act is necessary in order to commence a prosecution, for an offence under S 19 (f) of the Act. Where there where under S 19 (7) of the Act. Where there is no such sanction, there can be no conviction under S 19 (7). (Rowland J.) IMAMUDDIN MIAN V. There is an initial presumption in case of a family that the article found therein is in the possession of the head of the family. The same principle applies to all families living jointly in the same house. The weight to be attached to the presumption must vary according to circumstances. In could easily be rebutted by showing that the room or receptacle in question was in the particular and exclusive possession of a particular member of the family. The strength of the presumption would also vary according to the improbability that the article owing to its size, etc., could have escaped the notice of the head of the family. (Gruer, J,) HARBANS SINGH v. EMPEROR. 196 I.C. 727=I.L.R. 1942 Nag. 523= 43 Cr.L.J. 62=14 R.N. 127=1941 N.L.J. 405= A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 296.

-S. 19 (f)—Incriminating articles found in place belonging to joint family — Co-parceners If in possession of them.

The word 'control' in S. 19 (1) of the Arms Act means effective control. In the case of joint family effective control cannot be that of the junior members of the family; it must be with the head or the karta of the family. 'Possession' means exclusive possession, hence where the articles in question are found at a place not in the use or occupation of any particular individual but belonged to a whole family possession must be deemed to be with the manager or the karta of the family. No other member of the family could be said to have been in possession of the same. (Sinha, J.) Hirdey RAM 7'. EMPEROR. 1945 A.W.R. (H.C.) 275=1945 A.L.W. 375.

S. 19 (f)—Incriminating articles found in place in occupation of family—Head of family— If can be held to be in possession or control.

Where incriminating articles are recovered from a place in the occupation or possession of more persons than one and it is not possible to fix the liability on any particular individual, a Court is not bound to hold that the said articles were in possession or under the control of the head of the family. (Harries. C.J. Din Mahomed and Sale, JJ.) EMPEROR v. SANTA SINGH. 215 I.C. 161=17 R.L. 110=46 Cr.L.J. 1=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 339 (F.B.).

S. 19 (f)—Incriminating articles found in place in occupation of several accused-onus.

Mere proof that an incriminating article is found in premises occupied by a number of persons does not in itself establish prima facie the guilt of any particular person or all of them jointly until a prima facie case established by the prosecution the onus does not shift on to the accused. (Harries, C.J., Din Mahomed and Sale JJ.) EMPEROR V. SANTA SINGH. 215 I.C. 161=17 R.L. 110=46 Cr.L.J. 1=A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 339 (F.B.).

-S. 19 (f)-Interpretation-'Control', meaning-Presumption of joint control-Circumstances.

In a case under S. 19 (f) of the Arms Act it is the primary duty of the prosecution to prove the possession of the accused, but there may be cases in which the circumstances are such that possession of the accused can safely be presumed, otherwise it will be impossible for the prosecution to secure a conviction. Hence the words'and control' n the section must be taken in a wider sense and intention of coneculment.

ARMS ACT (XI OF 1878.)

to mean something more than actual possession. Where it was found that the room from which the illicit arms were recovered was in the joint exclusive possession of the two accused and that other male members of the house lived in another portion of the house, the accused must be held to have the joint control of the room and where there was no one willing to take the te-ponsibility the only possible presumption the Court could make was that they were in joint control. -S. 19 (f) "Possession" -- Meaning of.

"Possession', for the purposes of the Arms Act is possession for use. The mete helding of a weapon by one person on behalf of the person entitled to it is not "possessien" within the meaning of S. 19 (f). When a person holding a license for a gun stays in the house of a friend and leaves the house leaving the gun in that house intending to return for it shortly afterwards, it connot be held that the livensee is not in possession or that the friend in whose house it has been left, is in possession of it especially when the friend has not made any use of the gun. -S. 19 (f)-Possession of arms-Presumption-House occupied by joint family.

In the case of a house occupied by a joint family there is an initial presumption that an unlicensed arm found therein is in the postession of the head of the family, when the portion of the house where it is found is not in the exclusive possession of any particular mender. (Tem Singh, I.) Musa v. Empirion. 45 P.L.R. 421 211 I.C. 493=45 Cr.L.J. 404:16 R.L. 229 A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 64.

-S. 19 (f) - Several rooms in a house each occupied by different tenants or sons of the owner -Arms found in one of them -Owner of house if can be made liable.

A person who is the head of his family cannot be presumed to be the head of his tenants also. It should be remembered that in villages each room in a house is occupied by a separate family and a room is therefore equivalent to a house. Several families live in separate rooms opening on to the court yard and the whole compound should not be treated as one house although it may belong to one person. Where unlicensed arms are found in one of the vacant rooms in such a house, it cannot be said that they were found in a house "occupied" by the owner so as to make him liable under S. 19 of the Arms Act. -S. 20-Applicability-Test-Indication of

ARMS ACT (XI OF 1878).

For a conviction to fall under S. 20, Arms Act there must be some special indication of an intention that the possession of the arms was being concealed from a public servant or from a Railway Official. Hence if a man carries an unlicensed weapon in his haversack when sitting in the platform of a Railway station, it must be conceived that it is his intention that his possession of unlicensed weapon may not be known to any public servant or Railway official and the case would fall under S. 20 of the Arms Act. -S. 29—"Proceedings"—Meaning of-Proceedings when "instituted."

The "proceedings" referred to in S. 29 of the Arms Act clearly mean legal proceedings in a Criminal Court and such "proceedings" are "instituted" within the meaning of S. 29 only when under S 190, Cr.P. Code, a magistrate takes cognizance of the offence. (Lobo and O'Sullivan, JJ.) RASULBAKHSH v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 524=212 I.C. 9=16 R.S 237=45 Cr.L.J. 510=A.I.R. 1944 Sind 103.

The High Court has no power to interfere with matters of military conduct and purely military law. S. 170 of the Army Act relates to anything done under the Act and the person is to be exclusively tried by that Act under Court-martial and the High Court has no jurisdiction to sit in judgment on the findings of any Court-martial where a person has been tried under the Army Act, particularly when a more appropriate remedy is open to him. officer-If necessary for legality of arrest-Cr.P. Code Ss. 54, 56 and 80.

The procedure for the arrest of a deserter from the army is governed by S. 123 (1) of the Army Act and the commanding officer has only to send a written report of the desertion to the civil authorities. No warrant is actually issued in such a case but the deserter is to be arrested as if a warrant is issued, and therefore S. 56, Cr.P. Code, has no application to a case of this kind. S. 80 and the following sections will apply. All that S. 80, Cr.P. Code requires is that the substance of the warrant shall be notified to the person arrested, and if the police-officer be called upon to do so, he must also show him the warrant. But the production of a warrant cannot be insisted upon. Further S. 54 (1). Cr.P. Code, empowers any police-officer to arrest without any warrant and without any order from a Magistrate any person reasonably suspected of being a deserter from His Majesty's force and in such a case no question of the production of a warrant or an order can arise. ASSAM AGRICULTURAL INCOME-TAX ACT (IX OF 1939), Ss. 2 and 3-Applicability-Cooperative Society incorporated in England and owning tea estate in Assam-Manufacture and sale of tea to members - Profits - Taxability - Transactions-If sales or mutual dealings.

The assessee, the English and Scottish Joint Cooperative Wholesale Society, Ltd., which was a sterling and non-resident Society incorporated in the United Kingdom under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, carried on business in British India as growers, manufacturers and sellers of tea. It consisted of two members, two Co-operative wholesale Societies with an unlimited capital, and owned a tea estate where it grew and manufactured tea. Except a small portion of the produce which was unfit for export and which was sold locally, the whole of the assessee's output of tea was sold to its two members at market rates and was exported to England and Scotland. Each year the members paid, by way of advances to the assessee, sums of money to meet the cost of tea to be supplied by the assessee to its members. The market prices of the tea supplied to the members were debited against these advances. The supplies were recorded as sales to the members. Out of the proceeds from the sales, the expenses of production and management and the interest on loans were paid or provided and by the rules of the Society the net profits were applied in (1) depreciation of land, buildings, live and rolling stock; (2) payment of interest not exceeding 6 per cent, on the share capital; (3) appropriation to reserve fund; (4) appropriation to a special fund for making grants as determined in general meeting; (5) payment of dividend to members rateable in proportion to the amount of purchases made by them from the remainder; and (6) carrying forward the remainder, if any, to the next account. It was contend ed for the assessee that the transactions between it and its members were not sales but mutual dealings and that there was no income which could be taxed under the Assam Agricultural Income-tax Act.

Held: (1) that the assessee Society was a trading concern and carried on business as growers, manufacturers and sellers of tea and derived profits out of such business; (2) that the dividends which it paid to its members were a distribution amongst them of its trading profit and the payments of these dividends were not a return to the members of balances from the sums which they had subscribed to the Society; (3) that the profits to the extent of 6% thereof less permitted deductions, which was distributed and paid by the

-S 254-'Prostitute'-Proof.

In a case unner S. 254 of the Assam Municipal Act a heavy onus lies on the prosecution to prove that the accused person is actually a prostitute. No such inference can be drawn from the fact that she is residing in a quarter of the town ordinarily inhabited by prostitutes or that her name appears in the register of prostitutes maintained at the Thana or that she is in the keeping of a man who is a resident of the town. (Edgiey, J.) CHAIRMAN OF DHUBRI MUNICIPALITY v. KUMUDINI GANIKA. 195 I.C. 546—14 R.C. 134—73 C.L. J. 191—42 Cr.L. J. 756—45 C.W.N. 167—A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 445.

-S. 320-Act of Board trregular-Notice, if necessary.

Under S. 320 of Assam Municipal Act, notice is necessary if the act complained against was one which was done by the Board purporting to act under the Act. It cannot be said that the Board was not acting under the Act although it has not followed the correct procedure. The act of the Board would be protected so long as it purported to act according to the provisions of the Act and so long as it acted bona fide and in the belief that what it was doing was lawful. Of course that belief must not be an absurd belief. (Sen, J.) GOLACHAT MUNICIPAL BOARD TO SONA-RAM GOHAIN. 45 C W.N. 215=73 C.L. J. 15 2= 197, I.C. 660=14 R.C. 371=A.I.R. 1911 Cal. 609.

-S. 320-Validity of Notice-Onus of proof.

Under S. 320 of the Assam Municipal Act, the onus is upon the plaintiff to prove not only service of notice but also that the notice is of the kind contemplated by the section. Where there is a specific denial of the validity of the notice by the Municipality, it is not sufficient for the plaintiff to merely prove the service of the notice. He must further prove that the notice was valid. It is not the duty of the Municipality to produce the notice to show that it was not in accordance 196 I.C. 137=14 R.C. 179=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 482. with the provisions of S. 320, (Sen. J.) Gold-

ASSAM PURE FOOD ACT (IV OF 1932)

S. 6-Sale of article containing mustard oil—No representation that it is mustard oil—Legality.

S. 6 of the Assam Pure Food Act, in so far as it refers to mustard oil, must mean that no article shall be sold, exposed for sale, or manufactured or stored for sale as mustard oil or in such a manner as to indicate that it was intended to be sold, etc., as mustard oil, unless it be derived exclusively from mustard or rape seed. But there is nothing in the section to render illegal the sale of articles containing mustard oil under circumstances in which there is no representation that the article sold is mustard oil or is to be regarded as mustard oil. ASSAM (TEMPORARILY SETTLED DISTRICTS) TENANCY ACT (III OF 1935)— Limitation for suit Rent—Cause of action arising before Act.

The shorter period of limitation for recovery of arrears of rent prescribed by the Assam Tenancy Act, 1935, does not apply to suits, the cause of action of which arose before the Act. S. 44 Applicability—Pre-Act contract relating to cash rent.

Pre-Act contracts relating to cash rent are not hit by S. 44 of the Assam Tenancy Act, 1935. ——Effect—Knowledge of contents.

Attestation of a deed does not by itself prove that the person attesting it had knowledge of its contents or consented to the transaction. No doubt there may be cases in which the fact of attestation may be taken in conjunction with certain other circumstances such as the course of negotiations and other connected events, and inferences as to consent to the transaction may be drawn from those circumstances supported by the fact of attestation. AUCTIONER.

If imports knowledge of contents of deed—Reversioner attesting deed of gift by widow and identifying her before the Sub-Registrar—If can challenge the gift on the widow's death.

Mere attestation is not enough to involve the witnesses with knowledge of the contents of the deed, and this is equally true of the witnesses who identify the executant before the Registrar. The two widows of the last male holder partitioned his property and each took separate possession of her share. The senior widow made a gift of her share to the plaintiff, the second nearest reversioner to the estate at that time. Sometime later, after the death of the senior widow, the junior widow made a gift of her share to her own brother by means of a registered deed. This was attested, among others, by the then nearest reversioner and the plaintiff; the latter further identified the executant before the Sub-Registrar. After the death of the junior widow, the plaintiff, as the nearest reversioner to the estate of the last male holder at the time, sued to recover the property forming part of the estate in the possession of the defendants who claimed to retain it under the registered deed of gift executed by the junior widow.

Held, that there was neither evidence to show that the widows attempted to interfere with the reversionary interest in the last male holder's estate, nor any evidence from which it could be legitimately inferred that the claimtiff had knowledge of the contents of the deed of gift and that in the circumstances no consent on his part could be implied and he was entitled to recover the property. (Lord Thankerton.) RAJAMMAL v. SABAPATHI PILLAI. 47 BOM.L.B. 642=58 L.W. 281=1945A.I.J. 264=1945 M.W.N. 532=A.I.R. 1945 P. C. 82= (1945) 1 M.L.J. 397 (P.C.)

Knowledge of the contents of a document ought not to be inferred from the mere fact of attestation. But an attestation may take place in circumstances which would show that the person attesting the document did in fact know all its contents. (Verma and Yorke, JJ.) SUNDER KUER v. AUCTIONEER—Position and liabilities of—Sale not completed after initial deposit—Demand for return of deposit—Applicability of S. 230, Contract Act—Auctioneer's right to commission, law as to.

In England an auctioneer has always been regarded as a stake-holder and it has never been doubted that if he has received a notice from the purchaser to return the deposit in a case where the sale had gone off on account of the default of the seller, the auctioneer would be bound to return the deposit to the purchaser. There is nothing in the Indian Contract Act which is in any way inconsistent with the English Law on this subject. S. 230 of the Contract Act has got no application to the case where a demand for return of deposit is made. The primary liability to pay the commission to the auctioneer is on the seller and even if the former has a lien on the deposit with regard to his commission, the lien is ordinarily enforceable against a deposit when the deposit becomes the property of the seller. In certain circumstances on equitable ANKER AND CUSTOMER—Bank appointed ecciver—Moneys realised as receiver put into its current ecount under Court's order—If become assets of Bank—Companies Act, S. 153.

Where pending the hearing of a suit relating to n estate a Bank is appointed Receiver of that state, the moneys realised by it as Receiver and eposited in its own current account under the irection of Court remain the moneys of the wners of the estate and do not become the assets of the Bank. The Receiver and the Bank in such case are the same person; and the Bank as a eceiver cannot become in law its own creditor by joing through the formality of opening a current account with itself. The fact that it does so under an order of Court cannot possibly alter he legal position. If therefore, the Bank mbarks upon a scheme of composition with its reditors under S. 153 of the Companies Act, it should frame a scheme on the footing that the noneys held by it as receiver do not form part of ts assets, and the Bank can be directed to deposit such moneys into Court. The respondent endorsed a cheque drawn in her favour to the first defendant who was instructed to pay the appellant bank a certain amount on her (respondent's) behalf, to take as a loan a certain amount for himself for which he was to execute a promissory note in her favour, to pay a certain amount to herself in cash and to obtain a draft from the appellant bank in her name payable at Madras. The first defendant cashed the cheque and carried out all the instructions except in regard to the draft. He got the draft in his own name and not in the name of the respondent and did not endorse it over to her. The respondent, being unable to realise the amount of the draft, gave notice and then instituted a suit against the first defendant and the appellant bank for a declaration that she was entitled to the beneficial interest in the draft. The appellant pleaded that the first defendant owed a large amount to the bank and the bank was entitled to set-off the amount of the draft against the sums due by the first defendant.

BANKER AND CUSTOMER.

It was also contended that the suit for the declaration alone was not maintainable.

HGJ, (1) that the first defendant under the circumstances became a trustee for the plaintiff and by obtaining a draft in his favour he committed a breach of trust and that the plaintiff was entitled to the declaration prayed for; (2) that the plaintiff was entitled to sue for the declaration only and was not bound to include a prayer for recovery of the amount of the draft, because it was necessary for the plaintiff respondent to get her right to the amount of the draft declared before she could sue for recovery of the amount. Contract between-Law applicable-Bank having their only office in Travancore-Fixed deposit by customer residing in Bombay-Amount faid by him to Bank's agents in Bombay-Receipt issued in Travancore-Law governing transaction.

A Bank incorporated in Travancore and having their only office in that State wrote to the plaintiff residing in Bombay, on enquiry made by him, informing him of their rates of interest on fixed deposits and enclosing the necessary opening forms for fixed deposit account. They also informed him that remittance made to their account with a certain Bank in Bombay would be accepted by them at par. The plaintiff remitted a certain amount to the Bank in Bombay and wrote to the Bank at Travancore enclosing the executed opening form, and also the specimen signature card and requesting the issue of a fixed deposit receipt for two years in his name and the Bank did so. Some time later, creditor's petitions were presented to the Travancore Court for winding up the Bank, and the Bank thereupon obtained the sanction of the Court to a scheme of arrangement approved by the majority of creditors. A question arose as to whether the plaintiff was bound by this arrangement and as to the law governing the contract of deposit.

Held, (i) that the law which governed a contract depended upon the intention of the parties, express or implied, and if no intention was expressed in documents as in this case, the Courts were left to infer the intention by reference to considerations where the contract was made and how and where it was to be performed

BANKER AND CUSTOMER.

(ii) that the contract in this case was made by the offer by the plaintiff in the opening form accepted by the Bank by the issue of the deposit receipt and therefore, the contract of deposit was made at Travancore, (iii) that the terms of the deposit receipt which formed part of the contractual documents providing that the receipt must be sent in for payment to Travancore, pointed strongly to payment at Travancore, that therefore, the place where the contract was to be performed was Travancore and that consequently the law of that state which made the scheme of arrangement binding upon the plaintiff governed the transaction, and (iv) that the fact that the interest payments were made by a cheque on Bombay had very little hearing on the legal position. ----Lien-Right of banker to combine accounts of customer-Limitation.

By S. 171 of the Contract Act a banker can have a lien for a general balance of account against any goods bailed to him. But money deposited into a bank by a customer does not constitute a case of bailment, and the section, therefore, does not in terms apply in such a case. The Contract Act, however, is not exhaustive and deals only with certain parts of the law of contract, and in cases where the law in terms is not applicable, the principles of English law should be applied as rules, of justice, equity, and good conscience under S. 6 of the C. P. Laws Act. Under the English law, a banker has a lien on all the moneys of his customer in his hands. Where the customer has opened a deposit account and a loan account, the banker has the right to combine the two accounts and transfer one from the other if he so chooses to set-off or liquidate the debt. As a lien is a right of defence and not a right of action, the law of limitation does not apply to it. (Puranik, J.) SETH DEVENDRA KUMAR v. GULAB SINGH. 1945 N.L.J. 468.

——Post dated cheques—Certification by manager of Bank—Liability of Bank.

The Bank cannot plead, as against an innocent third party, their manager's failure to observe the instructions regarding certification of cheques. Trusit—Custamer having current account at one branch making over to that branch chaques drawn on another branch for realisation and eredit—Bank suspending payment before receipt of intimation by customer of realisation—Right to preferential payment.

A customer of the Bombay branch of the T.N. & Q. Bank, Ltd., having a current account in that branch, delivered on 16—6—1938, for realisation and credit in his current account, a cheque of that date for Rs. 1,500, drawn in his favour on the Anderson street branch of the Bank at Madras and another cheque for sum of Rs. 433-2-0 drawn in his favour on the same branch. According to the course of dealings with the bank he could draw on the said bank only after the said amounts were realised and intimation thereof had been given to him. But before he received such intimation, the bank suspended payment. The amount of Rs. 1500 was realised on 18-6-1938, and the other amount on 20-6-1938, by the Anderson street branch at Madras. The customer claimed the amounts as held in trust for him.

Held, (1) that the proceeds of the cheques must be deemed to have been realised by the Bombay branch on the respective dates on which they were realised by the Anderson street branch; (2) that in regard to the amount of Rs. 1500, there was, on the facts, "ascertainment" that the proceeds had been realised by the bank, to make the amount available for drawing, the amount having been realised on 18-6-1938, and it being open to the customer to have easily ascertained that the amount was realised by the bank, but that in regard to the other amount of Rs. 433—2—0, it could not be held that there had been such ascertainment." The customer was therefore entitled to rank as an ordinary creditor in respect of the sum of Rs. 1,500 and as a preferential creditor in respect of the sum of Rs. 433—2—0. (Venkataramana Rao, I.) The petitioner, an advocate of the Rangoon High Court, who had obtained the law degree of the Rangoon University, was enrolled as an advocate of the Rangoon High Court long before the province of Burma was separated from British India under the Government of India Act of 1935. As a result of the invasion of Burma by the Japanese, the petitioner came over to Madras where he was born, and applied to the High Court at Madras for enrolment as an advocate of that High Court. The Bar Council of Madras passed a resolution under the proviso to R. 16 of the Madras Bar Council Rules, recommending exemption from strict compliance with the rules

Held, (1) that the case was a fit one for granting an exemption from strict compliance with the Madras B ir Council Rules relating to enrolment; (2) that the petitioner, having once paid the stamp fee, as required by Art. 30 of the Stamp Act to the Rangoon High Court, which had the status of an "Indian High Court" at that time, came within the exemption contained in that Article, and was not therefore bound to pay fresh stamp fee on his enrolment in the High Court of Madras. which to exercise its jurisdiction, but such jurisdiction is one which ought to be circumspectly exercised. Though a deliberate fraud of a criminal charactor committed on a client must necessarily amount to professional misconduct in an advocate, it does not follow that the special tribunal created by the Act is one which ought necessarily to deal, at any rate, in the first place, with every case in which an advocate is charged with committing a fraud or other crime in relation to his professional practice. A distinction should be drawn between that species of misconduct which is purely of a professional character and misconduct which also lies within the ambit of the criminal law. In the former case a special tribunal such as that which is contemplated by the Act is a proper one to deal exclusively with purely professional delinquencies. But it is doubtful whether it was the intention of the Act that a tribunal under it should in all cases usurp the functions of a criminal or civil court merely by reason of the accident of the person complained against being an advocate and the subject matter of the complaint being a matter connected with his professional practice. In a simple case of a charge of misappropriation against an advocate the matter should be dealt with under S. 10 of the Act only after the complainant has taken such steps, if any as he may be advised to take to establish either the guilt of the practitioner in question in a criminal court or his liability in a civil suit. Should either of these proceedings be taken and terminate in the framing of the charges levelled by the complainant against the advocate in question, then it will ant against the advocate in question, then it will be possible for him to approach the High Court again under the Act. BENAMI-Advancement-Deposit in bank - Joint account-Principle of advancement - Applicability-Onus.

The general rule of law is that where a person with funds, supplied by himself, buys property in the name of another there is a resulting trust in favour of the former, the beneficial interest being in him though the ostensible ownership is in the latter. In England an exception had been engrafted on this rule by the Court of Chancery, that where the purchase is made ostensibly in the name of wife or child, there is a pres-umption of an intended advancement. But no such presumption arises under the Indian Law. The rule of Indian law is not confined to cases of purchasers in the name of wife or child, but applies to transactions effected in the name of a near relative like a nephew. Again, its operation is not limited to purchases of immovable property only but is applicable to deposits in banks made by a person in the joint names of himself and his wife or child or near relative payable to either or survivor. The onus of proving the "contrary intention" is on the person who alleges advancement in his or her favour. (Tekchand and Beckett, JJ.) PUSHKAR NATH v. SHAMBU NATH. 212 I.C. 494=16 R.L. 297=A.I.R. 1943 Lah. 321

-Advancement-Doctrine of-Applicability India-Purchase by father or husband in name of child or mife-Onus-Result of failure to discharge it.

The English equitable doctrine of advancement is not applicable to India. Hence where a father or husband pays the money and purchases the prperty in the name of a child or wife as there is no presumption of advancement the burden of proving lies on the child or wife to show that the father or husband had put them into their names by way of gift or advancement. If they fail to prove this the presumption would arise that the father or husband who provided the money is the rightful owner. (Braund and Yorke, JJ.) HASAN RAZA v. -Nature and incidents of benami-transactions--Purchase by father in name of son . Onus -- Effect of S. 82, Trusts Act.

In the case of benami transactions, in the sense of a real transaction the benamidar becomes a trustee holding on a resulting trust. Hence in the case of a real as opposed to a purely fictitious purchase by a father in the name of his son in which the father admittedly provided the purchase money, a resulting trust in all cases arises in the father's favour, unless there is positive evidence of an advancement or gift. And, if a gift is alleged by the son in whose name the transaction stands, it is for him to prove it. S 82 of the Trusts Act does not in any way alter the law. It says no more than that the Court has to be satisfied of two things before a resulting trust can be declared; first that some one other than the actual transferee provided the purchase money and secondly, that the person did not intend the money to be a gift. It does not say how the Court is to be satisfied of this latter fact and still less upon whom the onus of proving it is to lie. (Yorke and Bround. IJ.) Sindiga Begam v. ABBUL JABBAR KHAN, I.L. R. (1942) All 478=1942 A.L.W 512 206 I.C. 275=15 R.A. 503=1942 A.L.J. 534 1942 A.W. R. (H.C.) 197=A.I.R. 1942 All. 308.

-Nature of transaction -- Gift by A to W's wife to benefit B but to save property from B's creditors.

If A makes a gift of his property to B's wife with a view to benefit B but wishing to save it from B's creditors, the transaction is not a benami transaction unless there is a resulting trust in favour of A. The fact that R's wife's name is put in instead of B's and that therefore she holds it benami for B. does not make her a benamidar. (Stone C. J.) RATNIBAL T. KHEMRAJ GANPAT. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 125-214 I.C. 332 =1944 N.L.J. 85=A I.R. 1944 Nag. 133.

-Part only of transaction found to be such -- Relief -Onus in case of Benami.

Per Allsop, J .- The law recognizes henami transactions, that is, it will enforce the rights of the real owner of any property against the ostensible owner whether the property is a whole or a share. The real owner has to prove the facts on which he relies, but if the Court believes that those facts exist, it must act in accordance with them.

Per Mathur, J .- In a case where it has to be decided whether a transaction is benami or not it would not be open to a Court to hold that a part of it was genuine and the other part was benumi. In a case to have it declared that a certain transaction standing in the name of a certain person was benami the initial onus lies heavily on the discussion of, or to decide the question as to plaintiff in the first place to show by clear and convincing proof that it was with his or her money that the property was purchased though not in his or her name; and secondly that he or she had been in initial enjoyment of the same since the date of the purchase. ——Presumption — Joint Hindu family — Bengal School—Conveyance in wife's name—Presumption.

The law is well-settled that the apparent state of things must be presumed to be the real state of things that is to say, if a conveyance stands in the name of one, he would be presumed to be the beneficial owner unless the contrary is shown by the other side. This presumption is modified by the further presumption which is peculiar to a Hindu joint family, namely, that if the person in whose name the conveyance stands is a co-parcener of a Hindu joint family, the presumption would ordinarily be that the purchase was made in his name for the benefit of all the co-parceners of the said Hindu joint family. But this further presumption does not apply where the conveyance stands in the name of a non-co-parcener of a Hindu joint family, as for instance, wives, daughters-in-law, or sons in a Bengal family who are not co-parceners in a family governed by the Bengal School. (Mitter, J.) Surennraballa Debi v. Bhupendra Kumar. 45 C.W.N. 177.

—Presumption--Purchase by Indian Christian husband in name of wife-Effect-Doctrine of advancement-Application of. See Trusts Act, S. 82. (1942) 1 M.L.J. 528.

----Presumption—Purchase in wife's name.

The proposition that there is a presumption in India that a purchase made in the name of the wife is a purchase for her husband is some what wide. It ought to be stated in the form that as benami purchases in the name of wives are very frequent in India, slight evidence would be required to show that the purchase was made really for and on behalf of the husband, the wife being a mere benamidar, (Mitter, J.) Surendrabala Debt v. Bhupendra Kumar. 45 C. W.N. 177

The Bengal Agricultrual Debtors' Act does not affect the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction even after the amendment made in S. 2 by insertion of sub-S (6) (A) by Act VIII of 1940. A notice under S 34. of the Act does not operate as a stay of execution of a decree passed by the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction even when it has been transmitted to the District Court for execution, as the word "debt" as defined in S. 2 does not include the liability founded upon such a decree. ___S, 2 (8)—"Debt"—What constitutes.

Per Mukherjea, J.—The definition or description of debt as given in S. 2 (8) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act has both a positive and negative aspect, and in order that a particular liability may rank as a debt, it is not enough that it is not included in any one of the exceptions mentioned in the section, it must fulfil the positive test of being essentially the liability of a debtor.

Per Biswas J.—In order to constitute a debt under the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, two conditions must be fulfilled, namely, (1) that there must be a present obligation to pay on the part of the debtor, and (2) that this obligation must be in respect of a liquidated claim or demand against him. Where there is uncertainty as to either of these points uncertainty as to the Obligation to pay, though not necessarily as to the quantum of the claim, there will be no debt at all. S. 8—Application by creditor—Applicant found not to be creditor—Application, if must be dismissed. S. 8 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act makes it quite clear that the Debt Settlement Board acquires jurisdiction only on an application made either by a debtor or by a creditor. If the man who makes the application under S. 8 is found to be not the creditor of the debtor whose debts he wants to settle, the application must be dismissed without going into the other questions raised. (Mitter and Latifur Rahman, 1/1.) MONMOHAN ROY v. SANTILOCHAN ROY. 48 C.W. N. 288.

It is only a debtor that can make an application for settlement of his debts under S. 8 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act. An application to the Board specifying only one debt and denying liability for it, i not maintainable and any order passed thereon is void's (Mukherica and Ellis, J.). SRIKANTA KUMAR v.

-S, 8 (5) - Notice on second application before Board-Validity-Jurisdiction of Civil Court to decide.

The question as to whether a Board had jurisdiction to entertain a second application is one for the Board to decide. The Civil Court receiv-ing notice of it has no jurisdiction to consider whether the notice is valid or not. (Henderson, HASINA BIBI V. BATA KRISHNA DAS. 48 C. W.N. 141.

-S. 8 (5)—Scope—Further application, limited to debts not included in first.

It is doubtful if the view that S. 8 (5) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, which permits a further application should be limited to cases where the debtor, through oversight, had omitted to mention a particular debt in his first application is sound. (Roxburgh and Blank, JJ.). JADU MONDALANI v. SAROJINI CHAUDHURANI. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 423=47 C.W.N. 888=A.I. R. 1945 Cal. 100.

-S. 8(5) - Scope – Second application in respect of debt included in first-If entertainable by Board.

S. 8 (5) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act obviously contemplates a case where a debt incurred before the first application was omitted from it through inadvertence or otherwise. In any case a second application in respect of a debt included in the first application is not entertainable by the Board, if the first application was dismissed under Sub-S. (3) of S, 13 or under Cl. (b) (ii) of Sub-S. (1) or Sub-S (2) of S. 17 of the Act. (Mukherjea and Ellis, Jf.) BIBHUTI BHUSAN ROY v. BHOLANATH SINHA. 49 C.W.N 151 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 326.

The word "notice" in S. 13 (2) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act should not be given an artificial limitation. It means not only the special notice provided for in Sub-S. It is impossible for a Board to pass an order under S. 13 (2) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act saying that the debt is nil. Such an order has no legal effect of sny soit. (Hender son, J.) Biraja Mehan Bhattachapjee v. Q.D,-12

-Ss. 13(2) and 34—Order under S. 13(2)—If terminates proceedings before Board-Effect of, on notice under S. 34.

An order under S. I3 (2) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act does not terminate the proceedings before the Board. The position is that they continue to be pending before the Board and until they are disposed of in some way or other, notice issued to the Civil Court under S. 34 remains a good notice and the Civil Court cannot direct the execution proceedings to proceed. (Henderson, J.) BIRAJA MOHAN BHATTACHARJEE v. ABANINATH. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 430-45 C.W.N. 817-200 I.C. 105-14 R.C. 668 =75 C.L.J. 87=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 227.

-S. 18-Question if Independent is barred by limitation - Jurisdiction of Board to decide.

The Board has jurisdiction to determine the question of the existence of the debt and that implies the determination of the further question whether it is barred under the law of limitation. The fact that the debt is based on a decree of Civil Court, makes no difference. The decision of the Board, if erroneous, cannot be treated as a nullity, but must be appealed against. (Henderson, J.) HAFIZUDDIN MANDAL v. MAHIM CHANDRA GHOSH. 49 C.W.N. 541.

-S. 18 (4)-Revisional jurisdiction of High Court.

The term "Civil Court" in S. 18 (4) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act includes the High Court exercising revisional jurisdiction, under S. 115, C. 1. Code. The High Court cannot, therefore, interfere in revision with an order made by the Board settling a debt under S. 18 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act. (Henderson, I) HARUPADA DATTA v. RAM SRISTI KUNDU, I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 478=207 I.C. 615=16 R.C. 128=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 250.

-S. 20 (as amended)—Applicability—Pending proceedings.

S. 20 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act as amended by Act VIII of 1940, applies to proceedings pending at the time the Amending Act came into force. (Henderson, J.) RAM RANJAN DAS v. MAHARAJ BAHADUR SINHA. I.L.R. (1943) 1. Cal. 357=47 C.W.N. 239=212 I.C. 72=16 R. C. 578=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 88.

-S. 20 (as amended) - Applicability-Pending

S. 20 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, as amended by Act VIII of 1940, applies to a suit pending at the time when the Amending Act came into force, as that Act has not touched the substantive rights of the parties but has merely altered the procedural law by changing the forum in which a dispute as to whether a particular inability is or is not a debt is to be determined. (Nasim Ali and Blank, JJ.) BIRESWAR MORALY. INDU BHUSAN KUNDU. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 134=209 I.C. 412=16 R.C. 360=46 C.W.N. 1020=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 573.

8. 20 (as amended)—Applicability—Proceedings before Board terminating before amendment.

S. 20 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, as amended in 1940, has no application to a case where the proceedings before the Debt Settlement Board and before the Appellate Officer had terminated before the amendment came into force. A decision arrived at by the Board before the amendment as to whether a liabi-Iity amounted to a debt or not can, therefore, be questioned by a Civil Court. (Mukherica and Akram. JJ.) SURENDRA NATH v. HARAN CHANDRA. 49 C. W.N. 592.

-(as amended by Act VIII of 1940) Ss. 20 and 34-Application under S. 174, B.T. Act, pending when amending Act came into force-Notice for stay-Question if lability is debt-Power of Court to decide.

S. 20 as amended applies to pending proceedings. Where an application under S. 174 B. T. Act, remains undisposed of when the Amending Act comes into force, the executing proceeding must be deemed to be pending within the meaning of the Explanation to S. 34 as it cannot be said that the sale has become absolute. S. 20 as amended therefore, applies to the execution decided only by the board. (Henderson, J.) RAM RANJAN DAS 7. MAHARAJ BAHABUR SINHA. I.L. R. (1943) 1 Cal. 357=47 C.W.N. 239=212 I.C. 72=16 R.C. 578=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 88.

-Ss. 20 and 18=Powers of Board-Decisions of question if transaction between parties is mortgage of sale.

S. 20 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is not exhaustive of the matters which a Board may or may not decide. The power of the Board under that section to decide whether a liability is a debt or not includes the power to decide whether or not there is a liability. Further a question as to the existence of a liability comes within the terms of S. 18 of the Act which expressly empowers a Board to decide whether a debt exists or not. Consequently the Board has jurisdiction to decide whether a transaction between the parties amounts to a mortgage by conditional sale creating the relationship of debtor and creditor between them, or to an out and out conveyance with a condition for repurchase. (Biswas and Latifur Rahman II.) BAZINR RAHMAN V. AMIRADDIN. 48 C.W.N. 699=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 401.

-S. 20 (as amended)—Retrospective effect. S. 20 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act as amended by the Amending Act VIII of 1940 is not attracted to a case where the application for settlement of debt was presented to a Board before the Amending Act came into force and the notice under S. 34 of the Act was also issued by the Board before that date. Code, made to a transferee Court which is a Civil Court in a case in which a Small Cause Court award" in S. 26 (a) of the Bengal Agricultural decree has been transferred to it for execution due and not merely to any particular instalment the meaning of S. 33 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act. The transferee Court is not therefore competent to entertain that application except in accordance with S. 29 (5) of the Act if the Debt Settlement Board has made an award in respect of the decree. In such a case the decree-holder must remain content with such relief as he may obtain by executing the decree in the Small Cause Court. S. 33 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors Act has however, no application to pending cases. It will not bar the application under O 21, R. 10, C. P. -S. 34—Applicability—Civil Court in Bengal executing decree passe by Court not subject to Act—Liability under decree—If 'debt.'

S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtor's Act applies to the execution proceedings in a Civil Court in Bengal. The fact that the decree was passed by a Court which is not subject to the Act is really irrelevant. The liability under the decree is a debt within the meaning of the definition in S. 2 (8) of the Act. Further, if there is any dispute about it is a question to be decided by the Board. (Henderson. J.) Kalidas Charravarty v. Kalidas Mondal. 48 C.W.N. 499.

S. 34—Applicability—Mortgage sale set aside under O. 21, R. 90 C. P. Code, by executing Court—order of remand by High Court—subsequent notice for stay-balance of purchase money deposited by auction purchasers before notice-Executing Court, if bound to stay proceedings.

A Sale held in execution of a mortgage decree was set aside by the executing Court on an application filed by the judgment-debtors under O. 21, R. 90 C. P. Code and an appeal therefrom was also dismissed. But the High Court in revision remanded the case for a hearing on the merits. The executing Court received a notice under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors Act before it proceeded to hear the application for setting aside the sale pursuant to the order of remand. The auction-purchasers deposited the balance of the purchase-money before the notice and by that deposit the entire decretal dues were satisfied.

Held, that the order of the High Court had the efficit of wiping off the debt retrospectively and that as the debt was satisfied by the sale S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act had no application and that consequently the executing Court was not obliged to stay the proceedings. Held that as the real question in the suit was whether there was a mortgage debt and as that question could be decided only by the Board under S. 20 of the B.A.D. ----S.34-Jurisdiction of Civil Court-Question as to jurisdiction of Board to entertain application -- Power to decide.

Subject to the provisions of S. 20 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the Civil Court has jurisdiction to determine whether a Debt Settlement Board had jurisdiction to entertain a particular application, and if it comes to the conclusion that the Board had no jurisdiction it can ignore a notice issued by it under S. 24 of the Act. (Mitter and Sharpe, J.) University Sinch Jhav. SM. NAZIMANNESSA. 48 C.W.N. 712.

——Ss. 34, 20 and 2 (8) Liability incurred before and after 1st January, 1940, included in application to Board—Suit in respect of same liability—Partial stay—Permissibility.

Where the debtor has included a liabitity incurred partly before and partly after 1st of January, 1940, in his application to the Board under S. 8 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the Board itself is the only authority which has jurisdiction to decide whether any part of the liability is a debt or not. A Civil Court in which a suit in respect of the same liability is pending, is bound to stay the entire suit on receipt of a notice under S. 34 of the Act. A question of partial stay of the suit can arise only if the claim for the period subsequent to the 1st of January, 1940, is not included in the application before the Board, or if the Board itself decides under S. 20 that this portion of the claim is not a debt within the definition in S. 2 (8) of the Act and that the Board cannot therefore, deal with it. S. 34-Notice for stay-Amount of debt-Power of Court to determine.

Under S. 18 (1) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, it is the function of the Board not of the Civil Court to determine the amount of debt. On receipt of a notice under S. 34 of the Act, the Court should stay the suit until the Board decides the amount of the debt and makes an award in respect of it. (Derbyshire C.J. and Mukherjea, J.) Sris Chandra Sen v. Mahim Chandra. 45 C.W.N. 194=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 256.

Ss. 34 and 20—Notice for stay—Duty of Court—Power to decide if debt is debt within Act.

A Civil Court receiving a notice under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is precluded by S. 20 of that Act from deciding whether a particular debt is a debt within the meaning of the Act or not. By that section the Board is to decide that matter. Under S. 34, the Civil Court must proceed on the footing that there is a debt within the meaning of the Act and on that footing must stay the proceedings until the Board decides that matter. Ss. 34 and 20—Notice for stay—Execution proceedings in respect of decree of High Court—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to determine if liability amounts to debt.

Under S. 20 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the jurisdiction of the Board to decide whether the liability in a particular case amounts to a debt or not within the meaning of the Act is exclusive. Consequently a Civil Court receiving a notice under S. 34 of the Act is precluded from going into that question and is bound to stay proceedings even though they relate to the execution of a decree of the High Court passed in its original jurisdiction. (Mukheriea and Ellis, J.) MAHALEBLAL r. INDER CHAND. 49 C.W.N. 237.

——S. 34—Notice for stay—Maintamability of application before Board—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to decide.

A Civil Court cannot ignore a notice received under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act on the ground that the application on which such notice is passed is not maintainable before the Board. The Board alone has jurisdiction to decide the question as to the maintainability of the application. (Roxburgh, J.) NANI BAI BAISHYANI V. ——S. 34—Notice for stay—Question if debt was incurred before or after 1st January, 1940— Duty of Civil Court.

A notice issued in respect of a debt which in the opinion of the Board itself was incurred after 1st January, 1910, is plainly without jurisdiction. In such a case the Civil Court is not bound to stay the proceedings. But if it is clear from the notice or otherwise that the Board definitely formed the opinion that the liability was incurred before the aforesaid date, and in that view issued the notice the Civil Court is bound to stay the proceedings, although in its own view the liability was incurred after that date. Where it is not apparent from the notice or otherwise that the Board applied its mind to the question of the date of the liability at all and the Civil Court is of opinion that the liability was incurred after 1st January, 1940, the proper course for it would be to draw the attention of the Board to this fact and to invite the Board to withdraw the notice. It thereafter the Board persists in its notice taking the view that the liability was incurred before 1st January, 1940 (not withstanding the Court's view to the contrary), the Court is bound to stay the proceedings. (Raw and Biswas, Jl.) Abinash Chandra v. Nakul Ruhidas. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 549=219 I.C. 372=47 C.W.N. 891=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 192.

____S. 34-Notice for stay-Subsequent proceedings in Civil Court-If nullity.

The Civil Court has in every case jurisdiction to determine whether a notice which it receives under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors'

Act is with or without jurisdiction. Therefore, if in a particular case it makes a mistake in the exercise of this jurisdiction and refuses to stay proceedings, the subsequent proceedings are not a nullity. They merely amount to an erroneous exercise of jurisdiction which will have to be corrected by recourse to the appropriate appellate or revisional authority. (Rau and Biswas, JJ.) ABINASH CHANDRA v. NAKUL RUHIDAS. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 549=219 I.C. 372=47 C.W.N. 891 =.AI.R. 1945 Cal. 192.

Ss. 34 and 20-Notice for stay-Suit for accounts-If should be stayed.

A suit for accounts in which a preliminary decree directing the defendant to render accounts has been passed, is not a suit in respect of a debt within the meaning of S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act until his liability has been ascertained. Such a suit cannot, therefore, be stayed at that stage on receipt of a notice from a Board. The amendment to S. 20 of the Act merely provides that it is for the Board to decide whether a liability is a debt or not. It has nothing to do with the question whether the suit comes within the terms of S. 34. (Henderson, J.) Amiya Narain Sanyal v. Mohinikanta. 47 C. W.N. 927.

____S. 34—Notice for stay—Suit for specific performance of contract to grant lease or for refund of selami—Entire suit, if to be stayed.

On receipt of a notice under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, a suit for specific performance of a contract to grant a lease with an alternative prayer for a refund of the selami already paid, should proceed as a suit for specific performance of contract and consideration of that portion of the claim which relates to the refund of the money should be stayed till the matter is decided by the Debt Settlement Board or the appellate officer. (Mukherjea and Blunk, J.) BARADA KANTA PAL v. SARASWATI DASE. 47 C.W.N. 472.

_____S. 34-Notice under-If operative outside Benyal.

The Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is operative only in the province of Bengal and no notice under S. 34 of the Act issued by a Debt Settlement Board in Bengal can be binding on any Civil Court functioning outside the province. Therefore, a Munsif in Assam is at liberty to ignore a notice issued by a Debt Settlement Board of Bengal under that section. (Mukherjea and Biswas, Jl.) M. NURUL HAQUE v. MOHINI MOHAN. 46 C.W.N. 455 (1).

S. 34—Notice on second application before Board—Maintainability of such application—Power of Civil Court to decide.

The question as to whether a Board shall or shall not entertain a second application under S. 8 (5) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is essentially one for the Board to decide and its decision is subject to appeal and revision under the Act. The Civil Court receiving notice of it under S. 34 of the Act, cannot override the decision of the Board on the point and ignore the notice, but ought to stay the proceedings before it. -S. 34 -Order refusing stay of execution -Appeal not filed -- Revision.

The High Court may interfere in revision with an order refusing to stay execution proceedings although the proper remedy for the petitioner is to appeal to the District Court against that order when it would serve no useful purpose to allow proceedings which will be null and void to go on. (Henderson, J.) HASINA BIBL V. BATA KRISHNA DAS. 48 C.W.N. 141.

--- $.34-Order staying execution-Appeal-Revision.

An order of a munsif staying execution proceedings on a notice under S. 34 is appealable to the District Court. But the failure to appeal to the District Court does not prevent interference by the High Court in revision. (Henderson, J.) GEO MILLER & Co., LTD v. PABNA MOTOR SERVICE. I.L.R. -3. 34-Order staying proceedings-Appeal. It is doubtful whether an order staying proceedings would amount to a decree and would be appealable as such. It is difficult to say that an order adjourning a case conclusively determines anything. (Henderson, J.), PURNA LALL NANDAN v. S. 34—Proceeding for ascertainment of mesne profits under O. 20, R. 12, C. P. Code—If one in respect of 'debt'—Such proceeding, if must be stayed on reccipt of notice.

A Civil Court receiving a notice from a Board under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is not bound to stay a proceeding for ascertainment of mesne profits under O. 20, R. 12 C. P. Code, as such proceeding is not one in respect of a "debt." A preliminary decree for mesne profits in a title suit must be taken to have only determined that the defendants were trespassers and hence liable to pay mesne profits to the plaintiff. It is only when a final decree for a specified sum is passed against them as a result of an enquiry under O. 20, R. 12, C. P. Code, that they would become debtors in law and their liability to pay the sum fixed by the judgment would rank as a debt. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.) JABED SHEIKH v. TAHER MALLIK. 197 I.C. 606—14 R.C. 368—45 C.W.N. 519—73 C.L.J. 234—A.I R. 1941 Cal. 639.

-S. 34—Power of Board to issue notice— Review application pending before it.

S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act confers no power on a Debt Settlement Board to issue a notice for stay when an application for review is made to it. Accordingly if a Board issues a notice under this section in such a case it will be acting without jurisdiction, and the Civil Court will be competent to ignore it. (Biswas and Roxburgh, JJ.) ----(as amended by Act VIII of 1940) Ss. 34, 20, 8 and 2 (8)—Rent suit for period both anterior and subsequent to 1st January, 1940 Application by defendant to Board -Notice by Roard -Partial stay of suit-I'ermissibility.

A rent suit which included a claim for rest for periods both anterior and subsequent to 1st January, 1940 was filed in the court of a munsif. The Defendant applied to the Board mentioning the entire claim as one item of Debt and the Board issued a notice under S. 34 of the B. A. D. Act requesting the Munsif to stay all further proceeding in connection with the suit. The munsif made an order of stay. Subsequently the Act was amended and under S. 2 (8) of the amended Act, the word "debt" includes liabilities incurred piror to 1st January 1940. As a liability incurred subsequent to let Jan. 1940 is no longer a debt within the meaning of the Act the plaintiff made an application to the munsif praying that the stay order might be vacated atlea t with regard to that portion of the claim which was for the period subsequent to 1st Jan. 1940:

Held, that as under S. 20 (amended Act) the Board had the exclusive jurisdiction to decide whether the liability was a debt or not and till that matter was decided by the Board the Civil Court had nothing further to do except to stay all further proceedings in the suit under S. 34 of the Act. The question of partial stay of suit could arise, if the claim for the period subsequent to 1st January 1940, was not before the Board at all, or if the latter expressly decided not to deal with that portion of the claim as not being a debt within the meaning of the Act. (Mukherjea and Biswas, II.) MANAGER, NATOR RAJ WARD'S ESTATE v. GEDA BEWA. 200 I.C. 39=14 R.C. 656=75 C.L.J. 400-46 C.W.N. 12=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 658.

-Ss. 34 and 2 (8) -- Kent suit for period prior and subsequent to 1st January, 1940-Problem of stay of suit -- Best solution.

Where a claim in a rent suit pending in a Court covers arrears prior to 1st January, 1940, as well as for a period subsequent to the said date. and that Court receives a notice from a Board under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the best way of solving the problem of what is to be done as regards the stay of the suit is to permit the plaintiff to withdraw the claim for the period subsequent to the 1st of January, 1940, with permission to bring afresh suit on the same cause of action. (Henderson, J.) JOGINDRA NATH ROY v. GAFUR SHEIK. 46 C.W. N. 655.

-S. 34-Stay of proceedings - Property transferred by judgment-debtor pending execu--Transferee applying to Board-Court, if should stay execution proceedings on receipt of notice-Transfer alleged to be benami-Question, if to be decided by Court or Board.

Where a Judgment-debtor transferred a share in his putni while proceedings in execution of the decree against him was pending, and the transferee made an application under S. 8 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act and the Board sent a notice under S. 34 of the Act to the executing Court,

BENGAL AGRICUL. DEBTORS' ACT, 1936. BENGAL AGRICUL. DEBTORS' ACT, 1936.

Held, (i) that although the transferee was not personally liable for the decretal amount, he was bound to pay it if he wished to save the putni, that he was entitled to make a case that that liability was a debt within he meaning of S. 2 (8) of the Act and under S. 20 of the Act it was for the Board to decide whether that liability was a debt or not, and that the appropriate order for the Court to make on receipt of the notice would be that execution should go on against the judgmentdebtor but that the tenure should not be brought to sale even to the extent of the interest of the judgment-debtor until the disposal of the application by the Board; (ii) that if the case of the decree-holder was that the transfer of the property was a mere benami transaction, that question must be decided by the Executing Court and not by the Board being outside the scope of S. 20 of the Act, and that if it was found to be benami the Court must proceed with the execution. (Ilenderson, J.) Mahamaya Debt v. Indra Narayan Das. 202 I.C. 758=75 C.L.J. 344= 15 R.C. 389=46 C.W.N. 880=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 532.

A suit wrongly stayed under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act by a Small Cause Court which is not a Court, within the definition of 'Civil Court' in the Act, does not abate by reason of on award being made by a Debt Settlement Board. (Henderson, J.) SANKAR NARAIN GHOSAL v. AMAR NATH MAZUMDAR. 46 C.W.N. 345.

——S.34—Suit by Bank stayed on notice from Board—Bank becoming scheduled bank before award—Application for trial of suit made after award—Jurisdiction of Court.

A suit filed by a Bank for the recovery of a mortgage debt was stayed by the Court on receipt of a notice from the Board under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act. The Bank was included in the second schedule to the Reserve Bank of India Act before the Board made an award, with the result that the claim in the suit ceased to be a debt within the meaning of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act. The Bank applied to the Court for the trial of the suit after the award was made. The Court held that it had no jurisdiction to question the action of the Board.

Held, (i) that as soon as the debt due to the Bank ceased to be a debt within the meaning of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, it was the duty of the Court to proceed with the suit without any application being made to that effect, and that the delay in making the application did not affect its jurisdiction; (ii) that the award of the Board was entirely without jurisdiction and the jurisdiction of the Court could not be taken away by a proceeding which had no legal effect; (iii) that the Court had jurisdiction to decide whether a certain claim was a debt within the meaning of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act. (Henderson, J.) New Standard Bank, Ltd. v. Munsar Ali. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 68=196 I.C. 266=14 R.C. 203=45 C.W.N. 578=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 442.

——Ss. 34 and 33—Suit for declaration of title and possession on basis of sale—Defence that transaction was mortgage—Notice from Board on application by defendant for settlement of mortgage debt—Jurisdiction of civil Court—If barred.

A notice issued by a Debt Settlement Board under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act cannot prevent a civil Court from trying a suit which is one for a declaration of the plaintiff's title to a certain property based upon an alleged sale by the defendant and for recovery of possession thereof, although the main defence of the defendant is that the transaction was really a mortgage and that he has applied to the Board for settlement of the mortgage debt. Nor is there anything in S. 33 of the Act which bars the Court from proceeding to try the suit. (*!lenderson, J.). Sachiraan! Biswas v. Nagendra (*!lenderson, J.). Sachiraan! Biswas v. Nagendra Natil. 203 I. C. 420=46 C.W.N. 951=15 R.C. 426=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 552.

—S. 31—Validity of notize—Jurisdiction of Board to consider—Notice issued on second application in respect of debt included in prst—First application dismissed under S. 17 (2).

When a notice is issued by a Board under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the Civil Court has jurisdiction to determine whether the notice is a valid one or not and to ignore it if it is found to be a nullity unless the validity of the notice is challenged on a ground which is within the exclusive competence of the Board to decide. If, therefore, a Board issues a notice on a second application being presented to it in respect of a debt which was included in the first application which was dismissed under S. 17 (2) of the Act, the Civil Court can ignore the notice on the ground that the second application on the basis of which it was issued was not entertainable by the Board. (Mukherjea and Ellis, If.) BIBHUTI BHUSAN ROY v. BHOLANATH SINHA. 49 C.W.N. 151=A.I.B. 1945 Cal. 326.

S. 34—Validity of notice—Jurisdiction of Court to determine—Erroneous decision as to its validity—Whether a nullity.

On receipt of a notice under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the executing Court has jurisdiction to determine whether the notice is a vaild one or not, and to ignore it if is a nullity. If, therefore, the Court determines this question even wrongly, the determination cannot, be said to be without jurisdiction; it would amount only to an erioneous exercise of jurisdiction to be corrected by the appropriate appellate or revisional authority. If, therefore, the Court holds a sale wrongly treating the notice under S. 34 as a nullity, its decision and the resulting sale cannot themselves be treated as nullities (Kau and Sen, II.) MAHOMED IBRAHIM v. SABURJAN BEWA. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 317=210 I.C. 320=16 R.C. 425=77 C.L.J. 481=47 C.W.N. 796=A.I.R 1943 Cal. 624.

It is undoubtedly open to a Civil Court to determine whether a notice issued by the Board under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is valid or not and to conore the notice if it is found to be a nullity, provided its validity is not challenged on any ground which it is within the exclusive competence of the Board to decide. (Mukherjea and Ellis, JJ.) MAHOMED ABDUL WASHE v. BROJENDRA MOHAN MAITRA. 49 C.W.N. 532.

S. 34, Expl.-Application under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code-If execution proceeding.

An application under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, is not an "execution proceeding for the sale of any property" within the meaning of the explanation to S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act and it is not liable to be stayed on service of the notice under that section. (Henderson, f.) RADHA BENODINI DEBI v. GAJAN-CHANDRA BHATTACHARJEE. 49 C.W.N. 306.

S. 35-Sale in defiance of-Validity-Notice under S. 34 not received before sale.

A sale held in defiance of S. 35 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is a nullity, although the notice under S. 34 of the Act was not received by the Court before the sale. (Henderson, J.) JNANENDRA NATH BASU v. PROFULLA BALA DEBI. 49 C.W.N. 578.

S. 36 (a)—Court informed of application before Board after final decree in suit on mortgage by conditional sale-Delivery of possession by Court-Award of Board inconsistent with decree—Remedy of mortgagor—Suit or application—C. P. Code, Ss. 47 144 and 151.

While a suit on a mortgage by conditional sale was pending, an application including this debt was made by the mortgagor before a Debt settlement Board. Information of this application was received by the Court only after it had passed the final decree. The Court held that there was nothing to stay and delivered possession. The board made an award which was inconsistent with the decree of the Court. The mortgagor relied on the provisions of S. 30 (a) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act.

Held, that the remedy of the mortgagor was by way of a suit and not by an application under S. 47 or S. 144 or S. 151, C. P. Code. (//enderson J.) ABBUS SAMAD v. BAIDYANATH NANDI. 48 C.W.N. 605 (2).

-S. 37-A-Applicability-sale held after 12-8-1935 and before establishment of Board.

S. 37-A (1) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors Act extends the retrospective operation of the section to sales held after the 12th of August 1935 under sub-Cl. (1) (b) of Cl. (d) such sales should have been held before a fully constituted Board came into existence for the particular area in which the debtor resided. This sub-clause should not be read as laying down a further limitation that the sales must have been held after the establishment of the Board under Sec. 3 (1) and before the appointment of its personnel under S. 3 (2). All that is required is that at the date of the sale, there was no fully constituted Board, functioning or capable of functioning, irrespective of the date when the Board had been established by notification under S. 3 (1). (Biswas and Lanjur Rahman. II.) RASH. BEHARI BANERJEE v. NARAYAN CHANDRA BASU. 48 C.W.N. 681.

-S. 37-A (1) (b) (iii)—Single application by all lebtors jointly liable for arrears of rent-Sale held efore Amendment Act of 1940-Right to relief.

The condition laid down in Cl. (b) (iii) of S. 37-A (1) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is fulfilled where the sale took place before the commencement of the Amendment Act of 1940, and the debt was one for arrears of rent in respect of which several persons were jointly liable. That the debtors have combined together in one single application does not make any difference, and they are entitled to relief under S. 37-A of the Act. (Mukerlea and Ellis, JJ.) KAMESWAR SINGH 2. NARAN CHANDRA DUTT. 49 C.W.N. 103.

-S. 37 A (3)—"Entertain"—Application under Bongal Money Lenders' Act dismissed as in ompetent-Subsequent application filed under S. 37 A. Bengal Agricultural Debtors' At, pending-Second application under Bengal Money-Lenders' Act-Maintainability.

The judgment-debtor made an application under the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, which was dismissed as incompetent as no proceedings were pending when it was filed. Subsequently he filed an application for relief under S. 37-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act before the Debt Settlement Board. While this application was pending, he filed a second application under S. 36 of the Bengal Moncy-Lenders' Act, Held, (i) that as the application under S. 37-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act had been "entertained" by the Debt Settlement Board, Sub-S. (3) of the section operated as a bar to the second application under the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act; (12) that the first application under the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act having been thrown out in limins, had not been "enter-tained" by the Court. (Henderson, J.) SAHADEB MONDOL T. TARAKESWAR MONDOL. 49 C.W.N. 498.

-S. 37-A (3)-"Entertain" - Meaning of a Application under Bengal Money-Lenders' Act dismissed on ground that no suit or proceeding was fending on or after 1st January, 1939—If "entertained" by Court.

The expression "entertain" in S. 37-A (3) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act means to "admit a thing for consideration", and when a suit or tresceding is not thrown out in limine but the Court receives it for consideration and disposal according to law, it must be regarded as entertaining the suit or proceeding, no matter whatever the ultimate decision might be. When an application under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act was dismissed by a Court on the ground that no suit or proceeding in connection with the debt was pending on or after the 1st January, 1939, the application should be regarded as having been entertained by the Court, and not thrown out in limine. 49 C.W.N. 498 considered. (Makherles and Ellis, GHOSE. 49 C.W.N. 499 - A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 381.

-8. 87-A (8)-"Entertained"-Meaning of-Application under Bengal Money-Lenders' Act dismissed for default, then restored and again dismissed for nonprosecution-If hars application under S. 37-A.

The Legislature in S 37-A (3) of the Bengai Agricultural Debtors' Act has deliberately used the word "entertained" and not "decided." To entertain is to admit to consideration, and it is not necessary that a matter should be heard and decided by a Civil Court under the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, before it can operate as a bar to a proceeding under S. 37-A. An application under the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act which was once dismissed for default but was restored to file and then after certain proceedings, was again dismissed for nonprosecution must be deemed to have been "entertained" by the Civil Court and would bar a subsequent application under S 37-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors'

Act. (Mukheriea and Ellis, JJ.) CHARU DAS v. AMULYA KUMAR BOSE. 49 C.W.N. 156. CHARU BAL

-S. 37-A (3)—"Entertained—Meaning Application under S. 36 of Bengal Money Lenders' Act dismissed on ground that loan was a commercial loan-If bars application under S. 37-A.

An application would be deemed to be "entertained" within the meaning of S. 37-A (3) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act if it is admitted to consideration and not thrown out in limine, whatever the ultimate decision might be. Where, therefore, an application under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act was dismissed on the ground that the loan was a commercial loan, S. 37-A (3) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act would operate as a bar to a subsequent application under S. 37-A. (Mukherjea and Ellis, JJ.) BOGRA BANK LTD., v. AYANUDDIN KHALIFA. 49 C.W.N.

-S. 37-A (3)—"Entertained"—Meaning of-Suit filed under S. 36, Bengal Money-Linders' Act withdrawn with liberty to bring fresh suit-If bars application under S. 37-A.

S. 37-A (3) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act does not operate as a bar to the entertainment of an application under S. 37-A by the Board, when prior to that application the debtor had filed a suit in a Civil Court for relief under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, but withdrew it with liberty to bring a fresh suit. The suit cannot be said to have been "entertained" within the meaning of S. 37-A (3). The Legislature uses the word "entertained" and not decided. "To entertain" is to "admit a thing for consideration," and when a suit or proceeding is not thrown out in limine, but the Court receives it for consideration and disposal according to law, it can certainly be regarded as entertaining a suit or proceeding, no matter whatever the ultimate decision might be. (Mukheriea and Ellis, JJ.) SASHI BHUSAN BASURI v. MOTIBALA DASSI. 49 C.W.N. 154 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 317.

-S. 37-A (3)—' Entertained"—Suit under Bengal Money-Lenders' Act withdrawn on ground of satisfaction of debt-If bars application under S. 37-A.

When a suit under the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act is withdrawn on the express statement of the mortgagor that the debt has been previously satisfied, the suit must be deemed to have been "entertained" within the meaning of S. 37-A (3) of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, so as to bar a subsequent application under S. 37-A. (Mukherica and Ellis, JJ.) LALIT MOHAN MAJUMDAR v. RAGHUDAS. 49 C.W.N. 157.

-S. 39-Transfer of case already dismissed by Board-Validity.

The power of transfer under S. 39 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act must be confined to pending cases. An order of the appellate officer transferring a case which has already been dismissed by the Board is therefore, a nullity. (Henderson J.) Pran Krishna Naskar v. Bhagawan Chandra. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 326 = 218 I.C. 216=18 R.C. 25=47 C.W.N. 797= A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 66.

-S. 40-A-Contents of order - Indication of points for consideration, decision thereon and reasons.

The District Judge or the Additional District Judge dealing with an application made under S. 40-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act should give indications in his order to show that he applied his mind to the questions involved. At least, there must be something appearing in his order to indicate what was the point for consideration in the case, what was his decision thereon and some reason, may be very brief, to support his conclusions. (Mitter and Latifur Rahman, //.) Monmohan Roy v. Santilochan Roy. 49 C.W. N. 288 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 378.

-S. 40-A-Order of Appellate officer made without jurisdiction-Revision.

Under S. 40-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the District Judge can revise an order of the Appellate Officer although made without jurisdiction. This section is not confined to orders made by the Appellate Officer on appeal. It applies to all orders made by him, be they right or wrong, and within or without jurisdiction. (Mukheriea and Ellis, MOHESH CHANDRA v. ABDUL GAFUR. 49 C.W.N.

-S. 40-A-Order of District Judge-Proper form.

Under S. 40-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the District Judge is required "to consider" such papers as may be forwarded to him by the Appellate officer. Such consideration ought clearly to be a real and effective judicial scrutiny of all the materials on the record. The order on the face of it must show that such consideration has taken place, and it should be recorded in such terms as to render a proper exercise of the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court possible. Biswas and Latifur Rahman, Jl.) MAHENDRA KUMAR DE v. NIKUNJA BEHARI 48 C.W.N. 841.

S. 40-A-Order of District Judge-Revision-C. P. Code, S. 115.

An order made by the District Judge or Additional District Judge under S. 40-A Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, is open to revision by the High Court under S. 115, C. P. Code, as such Judge exercises his authority under the section as a Court and not as persona designata. (Mukherjea and Blank. JJ). Gobinda Chandra Saha v. Rashmani Dassya. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 462=77 C.L.J. 474=207 I.C. 371=16 R.C. 56=47 C.W.N. 473=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 470.

S. 40-A-Orders of District Judge-Revision-Civil Procedure Code, S. 115.

The District Judge exercising Jurisdiction under S. 40-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act is not only a Court but a Court subordinate to the High Court within the meaning of S, 115 C.P. Code and consequently his orders are revisable by the High Court. (Biswas and Latifur Rahman. I.). BAZLER RAHMAN v. AMIRADDIN. 48 C.W.N. 699=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 401.

BENGAL AGRICUL. DEBTORS' ACT, 1935. BENGAL AGRICUL. DEBTORS'ACT, 1936.

An order of a District Judge made under S. 40 A of the Bengal Agricultural Deptors' Act setting aside not merely the order of the Appellate Officer but that of the Debt Settlement Board as well, although not in conformity with the provisions of Sub S. (5) of that section, is not one made without jurisdiction, and hence a Civil Court is not competent to pronounce that order to be a nullity on that ground. (Mucharfea and Ellis, JJ.) MOHESH CHANDRAY. ABOUL GAFUR. 49 C. W.N. 319.

-S.44—Board's power of reciew-Appeal. preferred against its order.

The Board has no jurisdiction by reason of R. 91-A to entertain an application for review of its order when an appeal has been preferred against it. (Henderson. J.) HARIPADA DATTA V. RAM SRISTI KUNDU. I.L.R (1942) 2 Cal. 478— 207 I.C. 615=16 R.C. 128=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 250.

-S. 45-Personal knowledge of members of Boarā—If can be acted on Although an order of a Debt Settlement Board need not be founded on a strict compliance with the provisions of the Evidence Act and of the C. P. Code, it cannot be said that the Legislature intended that the members of a Board should be entitled to import their personal knowledge into a case. Assuming that they are so entitled, it is the duty of the Board to indicate that it has done so and at the same time to indicate the nature of the extraneous information so introduced. (Biswas and Latifur, JJ.) MAHENDRA KHMAR DE v. NIKUNJA BEHARI. 48 C.W.N. 841.

-Ss. 52 and 8, and R. 146-Application by Mortgagor before Board under S. 8—Collector refusing sanction under R. 146—Subsequent mortgage suit-Limitation-Exclusion of period between dates of application and of Collector's order.

If a mortgagor files an application under S. 8 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act for set-Rs. 5.000 but tlement of his debt which exceeds does not exceed Rs. 25,000 and the Collector refuses his sanction to the Board to deal with that application under R. 146 of the Rules framed under the Act, the application must be taken to be pending before the Board within the meaning of S. 52 of the Act for the period of time intervening between the date of filing the application before the Board and the date of the lector's order. Therefore the mortgagee is entitled to add this period in computing the period of limitation for a subsequent mortgage suit. (Mitter and Biswas, IJ.) Khetai Molla v. Nityananda Sarkar. I.L.R. -8.52—Application under S.171 of B. T. Act to prevent sale in execution of rent decree—Rent decree. subject-matter of proceeding before Board-Right of applicant to benefit of section-Both periods of exemption, if can be added.

An application under S. 171 of the Bengal Tenancy Act to prevent a sale in execution of a rent decree is an application regarding a debt before the Debt Settlement Board when the rent decree based upon that debt is the subject-matter of the proceeding before it, and the applicant can get the benefit of S. 52 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act. If there ever is a case in which the two periods provided for in S. 52 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act are separate, the party seeking to avoid limitation would be entitled to add them together. (Henderson, J.) FURKHAN AHMAD v. BHARAT CHANDRA, 49 C.W.N. 310.

-S. 52—Civil suit on original consideration of promissory note-Limitation Period during which application based on promissory note was penaing before Board -- If Saved.

Under S. 52 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, limitation is saved for a civil suit based on original consideration of a debt for which there is a promissory note for the period during which an application based on the promissory note was sending before a Board. (Henderson, I.) CHA LURA RUMAR D. KALA MEAH. 79 C. L.J. 112, -209 L.C. 594-47 C.W.N. 893-A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 633.

-S. 52 - Interpretation - Period between dismissal of application by Board and review application-Period between dismissal of review application and filing of appeal therefrom-If may be excluded.

S. 52 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act should be strictly construed. The words "the time during which such proceedings continued" in that section mean any period during which something in connection with the proceedings was going on. It does not include a period during which nothing was pending on the file at Therefore, the period between the dismissal of the application by the Board and the filing of an application for review, and the period between the dismissal of the review application and the filing of an appeal there-from cannot be PROBODH CHANDRA HALDAR V. S. 52-Scope-If provides for two independent periods of exemption.

S. 52 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act provides for two different and independent periods and the litigant is entitled to claim exemption of both of them if the conditions laid down in the section are fulfilled. He is in the first place entitled to deduct the period during which a proceeding in respect of the same debt was pending before the Debt Settlement Board, irrespective of the fact as to whether he was or was not debarred by the provisions of this Act from filing a suit or making any application in respect of the sum in the Civil Court. The provision made in the latter part of the section is an additional provision which is not in any way dependent upon what is stated in the earlier part of the section. (Mukherjea and Blank, II.) ## BEN. ALLUVION & DILUVION ACT, 1847.

-R. 22-Transfer of application to ordinary Board having no territorial jurisdiction-Effect.

R. 22 of the Rules framed under the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act requires that the transfer should be made to an ordinary Board having jurisdiction in the area in which the debtor is ordinarily resident. But where an application properly presented to a Special Board is transferred to an ordinary Board having no territorial jurisdiction, the application is not liable to de dismissed as incompetent. Only the proceedings before the ordinary Board must be held to be without jurisdiction. (Biswas and Latifur Rahman, II.) BAZLER RAHMAN v. AMIR-ADDIN. 48 C.W.N. 699=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 401.

BENGAL ALLUVION AND DILUVION ACT (IX OF 1847). S. 6-Chars formed out of river bed since decennial settlement-Liability to assessment.

Chars formed out of the bed of navigable or non-navigable rivers since the decennial settlement are prima facie liable to be assessed to revenue. The river bed may be the property of the Zamindar. To negative the claim of the Crown the zamindar must prove that (1) the lands were actually in existence at the time of the decennial settlement and (2) specifically included in the estate as settled. For the purpose of the first element the bed of a flowing river, navigable or non-navigable, passing through a permanently settled estate cannot be regarded as waste land covered with water and placed in the same category as waste lands covered with jungly weeds. For the purpose of the second element the fact that the river bed from which the char had been thrown up was at the date of the decennial settlement the property of the zamindar or that that settlement was imposed upon the zamındari as a whole is not sufficient. (Mitter and Khundkar, J.J.) Secretary of State v. Midnapore Zamindary Co., Ltd. 197 I.C. 5=14 R.C. 306=46 C.W. N. 218=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 520.

S. 4 (3) para. 2—Right to island chars—If can be claimed by subordinate tenant.

Under S. 4 (3), para. 2 of Regulation 11 of 1825, a Char thrown up on the bed of a large and navigable river the channel between which and the main land is fordable at any season of the year can be claimed as an accretion to his tenure by a subordinate tenant who holds the adjoining estate or tenure under some zamindar or other superior landholder. -S. 4 (3)—Fordability of channel—Elements necessary

Under S. 4 (3) it is enough if the channel is fordable at any season of the year and the word

"year" refers to the year in which the formation of the island took place. A channel must be regarded as fordable if it could be crossed on foot during the dry season of the very year in which the char was formed. (Mukherjea and Sen. JJ.) Manohar Kairaria v. Jacadish (Handra 202 I.C. 398=15 R.C. 330=46 C.W. N. 298=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 357.

-S. 4(3)—Title to island arising in waters-English and Indian Law.

Under the English law an island rising up in a tidal and navigable river prima facie belongs to the Crown. A subject may acquire title to the island arising in tidal waters where the bed and the soil of the tidal river were in the subject before the island arose. Thus under the Law of England the title to such an island is regarded as an incident of the ownership of the bed. The Indian law follows the same principle subject to the doctrine of fordable channel which is peculiar to it. (Mukherjea and Sen, II.) to it. (Mukherjea and Sen, II.) Manohar Kaibarta v. Jagadish Chandra. 202 I.C. 398 =15 R.C. 330=46 C.W.N. 298=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 357.

-S. 4 (3)—Tow path between holding and channel-Holding, if contiguous to island char.

There was a tow path between the channel and the plaintiff's holding. It was neither a regular nor a public pathway. It may be that it was a part of the plaintiff's raiyati land and was used by boatmen during rainy season for the purpose of towing boats, Held, that the plaintiff's holding was contiguous to the island char. (Mukherjea and Sen, II.) Manohar Kaibarta v. Jagadish Chandra. I.C. 398=15 R.C. 330=46 C.W.N. 298=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 357.

BENGAL BOARD OF REVENUE ACT (1913), S. 6-Order of Board-Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The jurisdiction of the Civil Court to declare an order of the Board of Revenue ultra vires where it acts without jurisdiction, is not excluded by S. 6 of the Bengal Board of Revenue Act, (Raw and Biswas, JJ.) BENGAL CESS ACT (IX OF 1880), S. 6-Incidence of cess-"Annual net profits."

The words "annual net profits" in S. 6 of the Cess Act have reference to the property and not to the individual. Cess is assessed on the basis of the annual net profits; but it is paid in respect of the property and not in respect of any part of the profits. (Manchar Lall and Das. J.J.) KAMAKSHYA NARAIN SINGH v. ARJUN. 24 Pat. 551.

-(as amended by Bihar Act II of 1936), S. 6 -Scope and effect of-Levy of cess from moner and occupier in part-If illegal-Effect of amendment of 1936.

According to the scheme of the old Cess Act (Bengal Act, IX of 1880), as it stood before its amendment by Bihar Act II of 1936, the only person who can be assessed to pay cess with regard to the profits of a coal mine is the occupier, the person who is in direct possession of the mine and works there and in case the occupier is different from the owner, the latter cannot be assessed in law upon the royalties which he receives from the occupier. If, however, in practice and for the sake of convenience, the Collector realises from the owner cess proportionate in amount to the royalties received by him, and from the lessees cess proportionate to the balance of the net profits left in their hands, the procedure is erroneous and irregular, but not illegal. The Collector levies in effect only what he is entitled to levy in law though the mode of recovery is irregular. The amendment of the Act in 1936, has not made any difference. (Manohar Lall and Das, JJ.) KAMAKSHYA NARAIN SINGH v. ARJUN. 24 Pat. 551.

——S. 13—Scope—Prices of year in which return was made—If to be considered—Fall in prices—Remedy.

There is nothing in the Cess Act or Rules which lays down the prices of any particular year, i.e., the year for which the return was filed should be considered. If a drop in prices occurs, there is a remedy open by way of an application under S. 13 of the Act. (Swanzy.) HARIHARGIR v. PROVINCE OF BIHAR. 11 B.E. 273.

On a consideration of the provisions of the Bengal Cess Act, it is clear that the statute aims at the obtaining by the Board of Revenue of correct particulars of the income from the lands for the cess year, and has nothing to do with the income which was being received for such lands before the valuation or re-valuation as the case may be. The statute has not taken away the right to recover rent or arrears of rent for the period before the return was filed. The landlord cannot be prevented from recovering the rent for the period covered by the old cess return at a rate higher than that mentioned in the new cess return. The penalty for not making a return or not giving a correct return can only apply to the recovery of rent for the period after the return is filed. The bar imposed by S. 20 of the Bengal Cess Act will not therefore prevent a landlord from realising rent at a higher rate than that mentioned in the cess return for the period before the cess return was filed. S. 41—Rent payable—Decree for rent and cess at specified rate—Subsequent reduction of rent in rent reduction proceedings—Effect on cess decreed—Decree for cess—If affected.

There is nothing in Bihar Act IX of 1938 to suggest that after a decree has been passed, the decree-holder cannot recover the entire amount of the cess which has been decreed. Where a landlord has already obtained a decree for arrears of rent and for cess at a specified rate, and rent is subsequently reduced in rent reduction proceedings under S. 15 of Bihar Act IX of 1938, the decree for cess is not affected by the rent reduction proceedings, the cess being recoverable over and above the rent. The decree-holder is therefore entitled to recover the entire amount of cess decreed and there is no warrant for holding that cess must be charged under S. 41 of the Bengal Cess Act only on the amount of rent as reduced under S. 15 of Act IX of 1938. (Harries, C.J. and Fazl Ali, J.) INDERDEO SAHALV. RAM RANBIJOV PRASAD SINGH. 21 Pat. 628=203 I.C. 418=9 B.R. 80=15 R.P. 172=24 P.L.T. 46=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 470.

S. 41(1)—Applicability—Patal lease executed in 1871—Undertaking to bear pay of mail runners, postal muharrir, postal cess and tax now fixed and which will be fixed in future—Liability for cess—Benefit of S. 41(1)—If available.

A patni lease of the year 1871 provided, inter alia, "The pay of the mail runners, and of postal muharrir and postal cess and tax, etc., which has been now fixed in the Collectorate and will be fixed in future will be realised from us the patnidars and our representatives in proportion to the fixed Jama besides the Jama of the said mahal. In case of non-payment it will be set off against our chalani money. If any plea or objection be put forward it will be void and illegal." Subsequently the Bengal Cess Act (IX of 1880) was passed; the lessor had to pay cess in respect of three quarters (F. 1341-1346) and he claimed reimbursement from the lessees patnidars in respect of the amounts he paid as cess, contending that the patnidars were liable under the covenant in the lease, for the entire amount of cess payable annually for the patni tenure, while the patnidars claimed the benefit of deduction of half the rate of cess as provided in S. 41 (2) of the Bengal Cess Act.

Held, (1) that the terms of the covenant should be interpreted on two well-established principles, rim., (a) that the contract under which exemption was claimed must be strictly construed against the claimant and it must appear from its terms, beyond the possibility of any dispute, that the parties intended to vary the liability imposed by the statute and (b) that the construction to be placed ought to be such as to render it reasonable rather than unreasonable and as would make it just to both parties rather than unjust to one of them; (2) that there being no express term in the contract varying the liability as imposed by the Cess Act, it was unreasonable to saddle the patnidars with the entire cess of the patni tenure contrary to the provisions of S. 41(2) of the Act; (3) that on a proper interpretation of the terms of the covenant, the painsdars had in no way contracted themselves out of the benefits of S. 41 (2) of the Act; (4) that the respondents were therefore liable to pay only the cess calculated on the basis of the annual valuation of the patni tenure less a deduction at one-half of the rate for every rupee of the rent payable for the tenure; (5) that the lease having been created prior to the enactment of the Cess Act when the parties to the lease could have no idea as to the nature of their rights and obligations in regard to future impositions, assessments or tax that might be levied from time to time by Government, and there being no express words in the covenant to that effect, there was nothing to justify the exemption of the holder of the estate from payment of his quota of the cess according to the provisions in S. 41 (1) of the Cess Act. It is open to the parties to enter into a contract at variance with the provisions of the cess Act; in other words, the liability to pay cess can be contracted out. It must appear from the terms of the contract beyond the possibility of any dispute, that the parties intended to vary the liability as imposed by the Statute. Where a lease in favour of the tenant was to the effect that the zamindars (lessors) with pay revenue and cesses etc. and that the mokaridars have nothing to do with the payment thereof, and if any new cesses are imposed, the Zamindars will pay the same.

Held, that those words merely reiterated the legal position that the primary responsibility for the payment of Government revenue and cesses which were payable under the cess Act by the zamindar rested on the zamindar, that is, the lessor, and that it had been agreed by the parties that it was not one of the terms of the lease that the responsibility of the lessor should be transferred to the shoulders of the lessee, and that those words did not have the effect of doing away with the statutory liability of the lessees to pay their portion of the cesses, that is to say, cesses levied on the annual income of their tenure minus the landlord's portion. -S. 49—Certificate officer—Powers Power to add or implicate parties exempted by Cess Deputy Collector.

Proceedings under S. 49 of the Bengal Cess Act are taken by the Collector or Cess Deputy Collector and may be said to originate the certificate proceedings. It is not open to the certificate officer to amend the certificate so as to implicate or add parties against whom the Collector or Cess Deputy Collector did not issue a requisition. The certificate officer's power to amend a certificate does not extend to including as certificate debtors persons whom the require-ing officer (Collector or Cess Deputy Collector) has once exempted under S. 49. -S. 58-Sum recoverable under-If due"—Double the cess on holding payable on default—If liquidated debt and sum due.

Sums recoverable under S. 58 of the Bengal Cess Act are sums due to the landlord. If a person is liable to pay a sum, such a sum is due from him. When the holder of an estate can recover double the cess from a tenure-holder who is in default, then when such a default occurs the tenure-holder is liable to pay double the cess, and that is a sum due from him to the landlord. Double the cess on a holding is certainly a liquidated debt and is a sum due. (Harries, C.J., Fazl Ali and Dhavle, JJ.) KAMESHWAR SINGH BAHADUR v. MAHADEOJEE DEOLA ASTHAN TEMPLE. 21 Pat. 634=201 I.C. 582=15 R.P. 59=8 B.R. 802=23 P.L.T. 582=A. I.R. 1942 Pat. 329 (F.B.)

-S. 64-A-Applicability.

S, 64-A of the Bengal Cess Act applies to proceedings before a decree and not to proceedings afterwards. (Harries, C.J., Fuel Ali and Dhavle, JJ.) KAMESHWAR SINGH BAHADUR v. # BENGAL CESS ACT (IX OF 1880).

S. 64 A-Applicability-Double the amount of cess with interest under S. 58-Suit to recover -Limitation.

Ch. IV of the Bengal Cess Act is a self-contained Chapter dealing with the rights and obligations of the parties in respect of a rentfree tenure or holding. The Legislature intended that all sums recoverable in respect of such holdings should be recoverable under S. 64-A of the Act and that the 4 years' period of limitation would apply. Any sum which is recoverable is a sum due from the person from whom it is sought to be recovered. S, 64-A would therefore apply to a sum to recover double the amount of cess with interest under S. 58. The fact that the holder of the estate has an option in the matter does not affect that question. (Harries C.J. Fast Ali and Dhavle, II.) KAMESH-WAR SINGH BAHADUR V. SRI MAHADEOJEE DEOLA ASTHAN TEMPLE. 21 Pat. 634=201 I.C. 582=15 R.P. 59=8 B.R. 802=23 P.L.T. 582=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 329 (F.B.).

-S. 64-A-Scote and effect of.

The effect of the introduction of S. 64-A into the Bengal Cess Act is that all claims under Ch. IV of the Act now fall under S. 64-A and not under S. 47 which originally covered claims to all sums payable under the Act. (Harries, C. J., Fazal Ali and Dhavle, JJ.) KAMESHWAR SINGH BAHADUR v. SRI MAHADEOJEE DEOLA ASTHAN Temple. 21 Pat. 634=201 I.C. 582=15 R.P. 59= 8 B.R. 802=23 P.L.T. 582=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 329 (F.B.)

-S. 99-Attachment under-Suit by proprietor for rent-If barred-Procedure.

An attachment of the estate by the Collector under S. 99 of the Cess Act does not bar the filing of a suit for rent by the proprietor against the tenant. But the Court is not competent to proceed with the suit and pass a decree so long as the attachment is not removed. The necessary consequence is that the hearing of the suit must have to remain stayed during this period. This procedure would on the one hand, enable the Court to pass a proper decree after giving due credit to the tenant for any amount that he might have had to pay to the Collector during this period and on the other hand it will avoid the consequence which must necessarily arise if a simultaneous legal proceeding can be instituted by the Collector against the same tenent for recovery of the same arrears of rent. A direction issued by the latter officer to a licenced dealer to hand over his entire stock to one of the handling agents mentioned therein and prescribing the rates at which he was to be pair after such handling over, is clearly within the powers given in R. 81 (2) (a) and (b) Defence of India Rules and is in accordance with condition 5 of the license which is set out in the Bengal Cotton Cloth and Yarn Control Order.

Per Gentle, J.—Assuming that the dealer will be deprived by his property by virtue of the direction, that will be done with authority of law, and consequently, there will be no infringement of S. 299(1) of the Government of India Act. The direction that payment will be made subsequent to the goods being handed to the handling agent, does not violate the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act. (Perbyshire, C.J. and Gentle, J.) BENGAL COURT OF WARDS ACT (IX OF 1879), S. 10-C-"Cwil Court"——Meaning of—If includes High Court.

The words "Civil Court" in S. 10-C of the Bengal Court of Wards Act mean the Court of the District Judge, the Court of the Additional Judge, the Court of the Subordinate Judge and the Court of the Munsif. They do not include the High Court. (Derbyshire, C. J., Panckridge and Nasim Ali, JJ.) RAI ANATH NATH POSE V. SRIS CHANDRA NANDY. 196 LC. 322=14 R.C. 221=73 C.L.J. 277=45 C.W.N. 617=:A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 529 (S.B.).

S 10-C-"Date of assumption of charge of property"-Interpretation.

The words "the date of the assumption of charge of the property" in S. 10-C of the Court of Wards Act refer to the date when the Court of Wards takes actual possession of the property and not to the date of the original declaration of the ward as a disqualified proprietor. The words "the property" in the section must be taken to mean the particular property taken over by the Court of Wards at the particular date when it takes possession. If, therefore, the Court of Wards takes possession of different properties on different dates, the date of the assumption of charge of such properties is the particular date on which they were taken possession. (Ormond, J.) Sushila Devi v. Nawabzada Pari Banu Khan. 49 C.W.N. 120.

S. 10 (c)—Sale in breach of section—Is void, not voidable.

A sale held in contravention of S. 10 (c) of the Court of Wards Act, as amended in 1936, is void and not merely voidable. (Ran, J.) MANOMOHINI. CHAUDHURANI 7. NITYANANDA SAHA. 47 C W.N. 799=77 C.L.J. 277=210 I.C. 150=16 R.C. 402=A.I R. 1943Cal. 609.

S. 10 (c)-Words 'for seven years thereafter"-Interpretation.

In S. 10 (c) of the Court of Wards Act, the words "for seven years thereafter" are not attracted to decrees which do not carry any interest. Apparently, the Ligislature thought that in cases of decrees carrying interest, if interest he paid regularly, no injustice will be done to the decree-holder if the levy of the execution be postponed for seven years more. (Nasim Ali and Pal. Jl.) MANAGER, KASIMBAZAR RAJ WARDS ESTATE V. RAKHAL DAS. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal 241=46 C. W N. 454=205 I.C. 395=15 R C. 613=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 99.

S. 10-C-Words "for seven years there-after"—Interpretation.

-S. 10 (c) (1)—Ward paying during year interest for that year alone-If entitled to exemption.

Under S. 10 (c) (1) of the Court of Wards Act, "the interest due under such decree or order which has to be "paid in full every year during the said seven years" is interest for each of those seven years. Therefore, a ward is estitled to the benefit of this sub-section if during the fifth year he pays the interest for that year alone. (Das J.) H. V. Low & Co., Ltd. v. Pramatha Nath Malia. [Reversed on appeal.] 47 C.W.N. 273.

----S. 10 (c) (1)-Ward paying during fifth year interest due for that year alone-If entitled to exemption.

In order to be entitled to exemption from execution of a decree for seven years after the expiry of four years referred to in S. 10 (c) (1) of the Court of Wards Act, the ward must pay at the end of the fifth year not merely the interest due for that year but also the entire interest due for the previous four years. 47 C.W.N. 273, reversed. (Derhyshire, C.I. and Lodge.I.) H.V. I.OW & Co., Ltd. v. Kumar Pashupati Nath. I.L.R (1944) 1 Cal. 1=47 C.W.N. 896.

-S. 18—Scope— Non-compliance — Effect– Ward-If bound by acts or omissions of Court of Wards.

A ward of Court is not bound by the acts of the Court of Wards unless the provisions of S. 18 of the Court of Wards Act are fully complied with. Where therefore, the manager of the Court of Wards omits to make any demand on the lessee of coal mine belonging to the wards for cesses payable by the lessue without at all considering the question of the liability of the lessee, it cannot be said that S. 18 of the Court of Wards Act has been complied with. The ward therefore is not bound by the omission on the part of the Court of Wards to realise cess and can claim the same from the lessee after he comes into possession of his estate. The lessee cannot plead that he has got a discharge from the Court of Wards. (Manohar Lall and Das, J.) NAM-AKSHYA NARAIN SINGH v. Arjun. 24 Pat. 551.

-S. 35-Right of Court of Wards against creditors—Property in charge of Receiver— Power of Court of Wards to apply for his discharge.

The Court of Wards has only the same rights as against creditors of the ward which the ward himself, if not disqualified, would have, except in so far as it is so provided in express terms in the Court of Wards Act S. 35 of the Act does not give the Court of Wards any better right to obtain possession of a particular property than the ward himself, if not disqualified, would have. Where therefore a property of the ward is in charge of a Receiver appointed in a suit by a creditor against the ward before the Court of Wards took over the management, the Court of Wards is entitled only to move the Court for discharge of the Receiver on grounds which would sary for the Commissioner to invoke S. 34 of the -S. 60-A-Applicability after relinquishment of estate by Court of Wards.

S. 60 A of the Bengal Court of Wards Act provides that no property which is or has been under the charge of the Court of wards shall be liable to be taken in execution without leave of the Court. The section applies to execution of a decree even after the court of wards has released the estate of the judgment debtors. (Harries, C.J. and Manohar Lall, J.) LACHMI NARAYAN v. MAHOMED MEHDI. 20 Pat. 223=192 I.C 387=13 R.P. 455=7 B.R. 385=21 Pat L.T. 947=A.I. R. 1941 Pat. 70.

-S. 60-A-"At any time"-Meaning of-If confined to period of ward's lifetime.

Though the prohibition in S. 60A of the Bengal Court of Wards Act is one limited to a compare-tively short space of time the wards "at any time" cannot mean at any time during within the wards lifetime. The prohibition against execution in the section can apply to execution even after the wards death. (Harries C.J. and Manohar Lall, J.) LACHMI NARAYAN v. MAHOMED MEHDI. 20 Pat. 223=192 I.C. 387=13 R.P. 455=7 B.R. 385= 21 Pat.L.T. 947=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 70.

-S. 60-A-Scope and operation-"His property" -Meaning of.

The bar imposed in S. 60-A of the Court of Wards Act against execution in the circumstances mentioned in that section operates "at any time" but of course it operates only in respect of the execution of a decree made under circumstances mentioned in the section, not necessarily in respect of all decrees. The words "his property" in the section do not mean any of his property. (Ormond, J.) SUSHILA DEVI v. NAWAB-ZADA PARI BANU KHAN. 49 C.W.N. 120.

Where a partition follows a mortgage and other properties are allotted to the mortgagor in lieu of the mortgaged property, there can be no doubt that the martgagee can proceed against the substituted security and can bring to sale the property which represents the property originally mortgaged. When the mortgagee does not proceed against the substituted security but ignoring the partition proceeds against the property originally mortgaged and bring the same to sale and difficulties arise after the whole proceedings are over in obtaining delivery of possession, he may be permitted to amend the plaint, preliminary decree and final decree, but no further amendment can justifiably be made, i. e., no amendment can be made in any of the relevant documents and proceedings following the final decree, such as the execution petition, sale proclamation and the sale certificate. If an amendment were allowed in the latter, the result would be that property will have been bought and sold which has never been even put up for sale. After such amendment fresh steps will have to be taken to bring the substituted property to sale. But when there is a serious dispute as to what was the subject matter of the mortgage, proceedings for amendment of the relevant documents in the case are not appropriate. A question involving the identity of the property mortgaged cannot be dealt with on an application to amend. A case of misdescription can be dealt with by amending the plaint, and decree, but not a dispute as to the identity of the properties which are the subject-matter of the

-S. 119-I)uty of Revenue Court-Partition by Revenue Court-Right of parties to challenge in subsequent civil suit.

The Revenue Court has jurisdiction to decide, when allotting a patti, as to which land should go to one party or the other. It has further jurisdiction to decide the character of the lands because it has to fix a valuation in order to equalise the assets in proportion to the share of each cosharer. In doing so it has to embark upon an elaborate inquiry as to the character of the land, who is in possession thereof, whether it is in the possession of the tenants or of the co-sharer landlords on behalf of all or on their own behalf. Under Chapter 6, Estates Partition Act, the Batwara Officer has to prepare a record of rights which it would adopt for the purpose of the partition. It is enjoined by the Act that the Batwara Officer shall have regard to the survey record if it exists. But he has also the power to alter it so as to bring it in accord with the actual state of affairs which exists on the land at the time when the partition is proceeding. The cosharers, who are parties to the partition, have full opportunities to contest, and as a matter of experience they do contest these questions at all possible stages. If after the parties have adopted a basis or have failed to convince the Batwara Officer to adopt another view, a partition takes place, they cannot afterwards be allowed in a Civil Court to contest the legal effect of that partition by urging that the Batwara Officer was wrong when he treated the land as bakasht and that as a matter of fact he should have treated the land as the lands of one of the co-sharers only. of Civil Court against ghatwal-Attachment of "surplus profits"-Allgwance to ghat wal-Power to fix-Allowance fixed by executive authority-If binding on executive Court.

It is well-settled that the surplus profits of a ghatwali tenure in the Sonthal Parganas, governed by the Bengal Regulation XXIX of 1814, which may be left after the payment of Government revenue, the wages of the chowkidars employed by the ghatwal and "other like charges" are available for the satisfaction of the decrees obtained against the ghatwal. Whatever is left over to the ghatwal out of the income of his tenure after the payment of the Government revenue, etc., is his personal property and as such liable to be seized in execution by holders of decree against the ghatwal. The question of what would be the surplus profits available to the decree-holders must be determined by the executing Court. The ghatwal's maintenance executing allowance and the personal expenses cannot be regarded as coming within the term "other like charges," though the Court executing the decree must make provision for the maintenance and other necessary expenses of the ghatwal judgment-debtor. His maintenance allowance connot be regarded as salary to be fixed by the executive authorities. When the surplus profits are under attachment by the Civil Court, it is that Court which has to determine the amount of the surplus profits available to the decreeholder and for that purpose to fix the allowance to be paid to the ghatwal judgment-debtor. Any allowance which may have been fixed by the executive authorities previously cannot be binding on the Civil Court executing a decree against the ghatwal. (Chatterji, J.) his place. The widow died in 1940. It was found that sons of daughters of the last male proprietor had no title to the property and were not in possession. If was found that one K, an agnate who belonged to a separated branch of the family was in possession of the property more as a co-sharer than as agent or representa-tive of L. There was no evidence to show that L had surrendered her rights to K. But she did not apply for mutation of her name, though she opposed all the applications for registration except that of K.

Held, that the succession would not open until the death of L; that L must, for the purpose of mutation, be regarded as constructively in possession and her name should be recorded though she did not claim title or possession over the property, in dispute. To order the mutation of any other person's name would be placing person at a great advantage at her death, a course which the Revenue Courts ought not to adopt. (Middleton.) -Mortgage-Refusal-to register deed on the ground of minority of executant-Subsequent agreement by guardian of executant declaring that he executed as guardian-If validates deed in respect of minor's interest-Mortgagee's right to be recorded.

Where a mortgage deed has been refused registration under the Registration Act on the ground that the executant was a minor, there is no valid registered deed operating as a transfer. A subsequent agreement by the guardian of the minor executant declaring that he executed the deed not only on his own behalf but also as guardian of the minor executant cannot validate the mortgage so as to entitle the mortgagee to have his name recorded as a mortgagee under the Land Registration Act in respect of the minor's share. The order refusing registration, if not appealed from, becomes final and cannot be evaded by the subsequent argeement by the guardian of the minor executant. Where there is no effective change of title, there is no use of relying on possession, because possession must be in accordance with some title. Nor can the principles of equity be invoked to evade statutory requirements; equity cannot go contrary to statutary law. (Middleton.) RAMESHWAR NATH CHAUBEY v. RAM CHETAN RAI. 1941 P.W.N. 472

The fact that the widow has been recorded for over 30 years may imply a proprietary right, but the entry cannot confer such a right if in fact no such right existed; nor can such a right be conferred by the consent of the beirs of her deceased husband. The mere fact, that there has been such an entry either by error or omission, would not make it equitable or logal to perpetuate such a mistake to the detriment of others. (Waddleter) MAHOMED ALAM F. ### BEN. LAND REGISTRATION ACT (1876).

Under the Land Registration Act, when there are concurrent findings by the lower Courts that the objector's evidence of possession is better than that of the applicant, the Board will not interfere with the findings of fact about possession in the absence of sufficient reasons. (Middleton.) JAGDISHWARI PRASAD v. SHAM PRAKASH NARAIN. 7 B.B. 894 ——Scope—Property sold for cess under certificate sale—Purchaser obtaining registration of his name as proprietor—Subsequent—Sale of interest of original recorded proprietor by Civil Court—Purchaser at latter sale getting delivery and applying for registration—Right as against purchaser at certificate sale.

The respondent purchased a property in 1933 a certificate sale for arrears of cess, and he got his name recorded under the Land Registration Act in 1935. Subsequently in execution by a Civil Court, the interest of the original recorded proprietor was sold in June, 1938 and purchased by the petitioner, and this sale was confirmed in July, 1938 and delivery of possession was given in August, 1938, but the respondent was not a party to these proceedings. The petitioner having applied for registration of his name as purchaser at the Civil Court sale, Held, there having been no delivery of possession to the petitioner as against the respondent, the Revenue Court could not deprive the respondent who had been recorded properietor of his registration, which had been long completed and become final, and that succession in the case was not from the recorded proprietor. (Middleton.) CHANDRADIP NARAIN SINGH v. KULDIP SHAI. 8 B.R. 408.

-----Ss. 3 (6) and 47-Manager-Meaning of.

"Manager" under S. 3 (6) of the Bengal Land Registration Act means any person who is in charge of an estate as an executor. A person is not in charge of an estate merely by being declared entitled to manage it. Under S. 47 of the Act, only an appointment by the Collector, the Court of Wards or any Civil or Criminal Court, can be recognised by the Land Registration Court. (Middleton) RAMCHARAN SINGH v. DHAROHAR KUER. 10 BR. 387.

——Ss.7 and 8—Scope—Possession of woman claiming as heir to last recorded proprietor—If can be recorded.

Ss. 7 and 8 of the Bengal Land Registration Act provide for the recording of the names of proprietors, managers, and mortgagees in respect of revenue paying land, but it does not follow that every person in possession has the right to be recorded. There are forms of possession for the record of which the Act makes no provision. The possession of a woman who claims as heir to the last recorded proprietor is not of a kind which can be recorded under the Act and she does not come under any of the categories mentioned in the Act. (Middleton) Ballia Sinch v. Jhalko Kuer 7 B.R. 513=1941 P.W.N. 458.

based on a fraudulent misrepresentation, it should be corrected under S. 85 of the Act. (Middleton.) UMAT BATOOL v. FATIMA ZOHRA, 9 B.R. 162.

——Ss. 42 and 52, proviso—Scope—Registration of name of mortgagee-Question of possession—Dispute as to validity of mortgage against vendee—Duty of Revenue Courts.

In a land registration proceeding it is no doubt immaterial for the purpose of registering the name of a mortgagee whether he is in possession or not, but it is undesirable for the revenue authorities to recognise a mortgage the validity of which as against a purchaser of the property ought to be settled by the Civil Court. (Middleton.) BHAGWAN DASS v. CHHOTU PRASAD VARMA. 10 B.R. 248.

-----S 45-Applicability-Neither party proving possession-Procedure.

Where in a Land Registration case neither party has really established possession, the case is one in which S. 45 of the Land Registration Act should be applied. A person having the prima facie right to possession should be put in possession. (Middleton.) WASI AHMED v. ABDUL RASHID MIAN. 10 B.R. 393.

———Ss. 52 and 55—Mutation—Application for— What applicant has to prove.

Before an applicant can obtain mutation, he must prove not only that he has a bonn fide claim to succession but also that possession has passed on such succession. (Swanzy.) BISHESWARI BAHUASIN v. SUNDARI KUMARI. 9 B.R. 130.

8.52—Scope and effect—Purchaser of share in estate in Civil Court execution sale obtaining delivery—Failure to apply under S. 42 in time—Right of as against purchaser at certificate sale.

A purchaser of a share in an estate in execution of a decree of a Civil Court who obtains delivery of possession, but who does not apply within 6 months of his purchase for registration under S. 42 of the Land Registration Act, cannot be said to have acquired possession in accordance with his succession within the meaning of S. 52 of the Act. There a person who purchases that share at a subsequent certificate sale and obtains delivery of possession in pursuance thereof cannot be ousted by the former and is entitled to have his name registered to the exclusion of the former. (Lee.) FAUDARI BHAGAT v. HARIHAR SAO. 11 B.R. 358.

Where both possession and succession are disputed, and there is conflicting evidence in support of both parties, the case is one to which S. 55 of the Land Registration Act applies and the dispute can only be properly determined by a Civil Court to which it should be transferred. (Lee.) KEDARNATH CHOUDHURY v. SUGABATI CHOUDHARIN. 11 R.R. 400.

8. 55—Applicability—Lis pendens—Applica-

In determining the right to possession under S. 55 of the Bengal Land Registration Act, the doctrine of list pendens, where it applies, ought to be given effect to. In a case where neither party has established possession the case is a fit one for the application of S. 55. (Swarsy) KFSHAWAR PRASAD SINGH v. BIHARI LAL. 11 B.B. 309.

-S. 55-Duty of Collector-Dispute as to possession and title-Reference to Civil Court-Procedure.

Where in proceedings under the Land Registration Act, both title and possession are the subject of vehement dispute between the parties, both claiming mutually exclusive possession and challenging the title deeds, the case is eminently one for determination by a Civil Court; and the Collector should therefore refer the matter in dispute to the Civil Court under S. 55 of the Land Registration Act. (Lee.) MST. AJHOLA KUER v. MST. BAL KUER. 11 B.R. 473.

-S. 55—Scope—Duty of Land Registration Officer-Possession of Gotra of deceased-If to be disregarded.

The best evidence of possession in favour of a Malik's right is the collection of rent and the payment of revenue. What the Land Registration Officer has to do under the Land Registration Act is to find and decide the factum of possession. The possession of Gotra of the deceased proprietor, if proved, is not the possession of a trespasser, but is attributable to a bona fide claim. Such possession cannot therefore be dis-(Middleton.) BIRANJ KUER v. DWARIKA regarded. SINGH. 1941 P.W.N. 426.

-S. 78—Applicability—Tenancy under several estates.

Per Pal, J.—S. 78 of the Bengal Land Registration Act contemplates a tenancy under a single estate. It does not apply to a case where there is one tenancy under several estates or at least when there has been registration in respect of some of these estate. (Mukherjea and Pal, JJ.) -S. 78-Registration effected after dismissal of rent suit by trial Court-Decree, if can be passed by appellate Court.

A landlord who effects registration of his name under S. 78 of the Bengal Land Registration Act after his suit for rent is dismissed by the trial Court and while it is pending in appeal, can get a decree passed by the appellate Court for the rent due to him. -S. 81—Applicability—Privies or successorsin-interest of parties to contract of lease.

S. 81 of the Bengal Land Registration Act applies not only as between persons who are parties to the contract but also as between persons who are their privies or successors in interest. The section would therefore apply to the case of a contract between a lessor and a lessee and their privies or successors-in-interest. (Fazl Ali C.J.

-S. 81-Scope and effect.

Per Pal. J.-S. 81 of the Bengal Land Registration Act protects "the conditions of any written controt" from any interference by the provisions of Ss. 78 to 80. It does not protect "any written ontract" from such interference. (Mukkerjea and Pal, II.) BROJENDRA KUMAR v. BILQUIS, I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 565=209 I.C. 138: 16 R. -S. 81-Scope-If controls Ss. 78, 79 and 80 -Assignee of landlord's rights under written lease-Right to recover rent from lessee-Non-registration of name-1f har to right of suit.

The language of S.81 of the Bengal Land Registration Act would show that it was meant to control Ss. 78.79 and 80. Where there is a written contract of lease showing that a certain party is liable to pay rent, that person cannot very well say that not withstanding the contract he is not so liable merely because the lessor has assigned his rights under the lease to another whose name is not registered as provided by S. 78 of the Act. The assignee is not precluded from recovering rent from the lessee though his name is not registered under the Act. (Fazl Ali C J. and Sinha, J.) GEVANCHAND SUCHANTI T. -S. 85-Mistake in Register D-Commissioner directing steps to be taken under S. 85-Land Registration Deputy Collector ordering correction-If ultra vires.

Where there is a mistake of long standing in Register D, and the Commissioner directs that if a mistake needing correction exists in the Register, he should be moved for its correction under S. 85 of the Land Registration Act, the Land Registration Deputy Collector cannot disregard it and pass an order of correction. Such an order is ultra vires. (Middleton.) KESHWAR SAHU v. MST. GAMBHIRAN. 7 B.R. 996 (1).

-$.85-Second appeal-Summary rejection-Propriety.

The Commissioner can no doubt reject a second appeal in a Land registration case summarily under S. 85 of the Bengal Land Registration Act, but where the two Courts below have differed definitely on the important point of possession, it is desirable that the second appeal should be fully heard on its metits and not dismissed or rejected summarily. (Middleton.) DAKHO KUER v. CHHO-HARO KUER. 10 B.R. 165.

-Construction-Jurisdiction of Collector to sell-Omission to issue notification-If renders sale void-Latest date-Discretion of Collector.

S. 5 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act cannot be construed as meaning that the Collector is required to fix a date on or before which any arrears of revenue must be paid and that when no notification is issued and in conquence no such date is fixed, the Collector has no jurisdiction to sell the estate. The Legislature could not have intended to give the Collector a discretion in the matter. The intention of the Legislature in enacting S. 5 was to ensure that persons who had attached estates in execution of decrees and in certain cases the owners of estates themselves shoud be warned that there were arrears of revenue to be paid and that in default of their being paid before a certain date the estates were liable to be sold. The notification under S. 5 is to specify the latest date on which payment of arrears would be recieved. Such latest date to be inserted in the notification is one of the latest dates fixed by the Board of Revenue under S. 3; the discretion of the Collector in selecting the particular date is fettered by the direction that the notification should be published not less than 15 clear days preceding it. It is also well settled that when an estate is in arrears on one of the latest dates for payment fixed under S. 3. the Collector has jurisdiction to sell it, and that the omission to issue a notification under S. 5 in any case in which it is required does not render the sale void but a mere irregularity which may in certain cases render the sale liable to be annulled. (Agarwala and Shearer, II.) RAM RITHAN SAHI v. RAZIA BEGAM. 21 Pat. 682=205 I.C. 147=15 R.P. 257=9 B.R. 200=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 88.

--- Purchase by co-proprietor at revenue sale brought about by him by intentional default-Another co-proprietor, when entitled to reconvevance.

In the case of revenue sales brought about by the intentional default of a co-proprietor, who ultimately purchases the estate at the designed revenue sale, another co-proprietor will be entitled to get a re-conveyance only if he was not in default and was not aware of his co-sharer's default in time(i.e.) before the kist date fixed under S. 3 of Act XI of 1859. BENGAL LAND REVENUE SALES ACT (XI OF 1859) -- Sale under - Sale becoming final -Power to annul on ground of hardship.

-8.3-Latest date of payment-Arrears of revenue shown as due in Touzi--Register in respect of kist-Last day of Kist-If latest day of payment for arrears.

When arrears of revenue are shown as being due in the Touzi Register from any estate in respect of any particular Kist, this must be taken as showing, until the contrary is proved, that the last day of the Kist is the latest day of payment for the arrears and that, if such arrears are not paid by that day, the estate will prima facie be liable to be brought to sale under S. 3 of Act XI of 1859. respect of estates the annual revenue of which was less than Rs. 100 the arrears are to be cleared up by three instead of four kists, does not apply to separate accounts but to entire estates. -S. 5-Applicability-Estage not attached but advertised for sale in execution of mortgage decree—Sale for arrears of revenue—Notification—Necessity.

S. 5 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act does not apply to sales of estates which have not been attached but have been advertised for sale in execution of mortgage decrees. The words "arrears of estates under attachment by order of any judicial authority" in the 3rd clause of S. 5 must be strictly construed and do not cover such cases of sale in execution of mortgage decrees. A notification under S. 5 is not essential though desirable. (Agarwala and Shearer, JJ.) RAM RIJHAN SAHI v. RAZIA BEGAM. 21 Pat. 682= 205 I C. 147=15 R.P. 257=9 B R. 200=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 88.

-S. 5-"Land Revenue"-Nimaksayer-If part and parcel of land revenue or "other demand" in clause 4 of S. 5.

The words "other demands" in the fourth clause of S. 5 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act must be construed on the ejusdem generis principle. Nimaksayer is clearly a sum annually payable to the Government by the proprietor of an estate in respect of it and hence is part and parcel of revenue for purpose of S. 5 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act and is not one of the "other demands" enumerated in the fourth clause of S. 5. In view of the definition of revenue in Act XI of 1859 and Act VII of 1868, "land revenue" in S. 5 of the Act of 1859, cannot be construed as being the jama fixed at the time of Permanent Settlement. (Agarwala and Shearer, //) RAM RIJHAN SAHI v. RAZIA BEGAM. 21 Pat. 682=205 I.C. 147=15 R.P. 257=9 B.R. 200=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 88.

-Ss. 5 and 6-"Notification" under-If notice under S. 8, Land Revenue Sales Act, 1868.

There is no warrant for making a distinction between a "notification" under Ss. 5 and 6 of the Bengal Revenue Sales Law of 1859 and a "notice" referred to in S. 8 of the Bengal Revenue Sales Law of 1868. Such a distinction is wholly unfounded. A "notification" under the former Act which is intended for the public is none the less a "notice" contemplated by S. 8 of the Act of 1868. In a case where a notification under S. 5 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act was necessary but was not issued, it is incumbent on a person challenging the sale on the ground of the omission to issue the notification to show that it was specifically taken as ground in the petition of appeal to the Commissioner and that in consequence of this omission substantial injury had been caused The general notification of the Board of to him. -S. 6-Contents of notification-District in which lands are situate not stated-Shares ex luded from sale not specified-Names of all proprietors not mentioned -Notification, if defective.

A notification issued under S. 6 of Act XI of 1859 mentioned the number of the touzi, the name of the mahal and the total revenue payable. It then stated that the entire mahal was not to be sold and specified the exact share to be sold. The proprietors were mentioned as S and others. The amount of revenue actually in arrears was also specified and it was further stated that the other parts of the tousi were not to be Held, that the notification was not defective. There is nothing in S. 6 of the Act which requires that the district in which the lands of the touri are situate should be specified, aithough they are entirely outside the district on the collectorate roll of which the touze is borne. The notification need not specify the shares which are excluded from sale, when the share sold is not a residuary share. The non-mention of the names of all the proprietors is not an irregularity in the notification. (Mukherjea and Ellis, JJ.) BHUPENDRA CHANDRA v. RASH MONI GOPE. 49 C.W.N. 420.

-S. 6-Mistake in notification as to extent of interest to be sold in individual mauza in residuary estate-If vitiates sale.

A trivial error or mistake in mentioning the interest to be sold in one of many mauzas comprised in a residuary estate to be sold, in the notification issued under S. 6 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act cannot be said to be a mistake which can in any way contribute to the property being sold for an inadequate price so as to render the sale invalid, when it is found that the notification was carefully drawn up and published and stated that what was to be sold was the ijmal or residuary estate, and it was intimated that if the property to be sold had not been exhaustively described, that is, if some mouza had been omitted or the interest shown against any particular mauza was in fact greater than that shown in the notification, the purchaser would obtain a valid title to that mauza or interest. (Agarwala and Shearer, JJ.) RAM RIJHAN SAHI v. RAZIA BEGAM. 21 Pat. 682=205 I.C. 147=15 R.P. 257=9 B.R. 200=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 88.

-S. 6-Notice to be served in Court of District Judge served in Court of Munsiff-Latter acting a. Judge's Registrar-Irregularity.

Where a copy of the notice under S. 6 of the Land Revenue Sales Act required to be served in the Court of the District Judge was, in fact, served in the Court of the Hunsiff who was acting as his Registrar, and it was so served owing to carelessness and not owing to any notion that that was the correct procedure, there is irregularity in the publication of the notice, and if this has led to substantial injury the sale is liable to be set aside. (Roxburgh, J.) PROVINCE OF BENGAL v. RAMLAL OSWAL. 201 I.C. 154=15 R.C. 143=46 C.W.N. 534=74 C.L.J. 562=A.I. R. 1942 Cal. 308.

-8.6-Notification-Sale of residuary estate for arrears due on it-Names of all proprietors-If to be set out su full.

S. 6 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act does not require that the names of the various proprietors of the estate to be sold should appear in the notification, where the estate belongs to a very large number of persons many of whom have taken the precaution of opening separate accounts and when it is only the residuary estate that is being sold for arrears due upon it. It is clearly unnecessary to set out in the notification the names of all the proprietors, as persons intending to bid at a revenue sale do not at all require such information in order to know what the property advertised for sale is. A statement in the column headed "Name of the proprietor of the property which will, be sold" "RR, and of the property which will, be sold" "RR, and others" would be sufficient. (Agarwala and Shearce, JJ.) RAM RIJHAN SAHI V. RAZIA BEGAM. 21 Pat. 682=205 .I.C. 147=15 R.P. 257=9 B.R. 200=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 88.

-S. 6—Sufficiency of notice—Test-Non-mention of mouza or Sadar Jama-If fatal- One of two defaulting shares in arrear for two kists and the other for only one-One latest date of payment given in both cases-Notice, if sufficient.

The test of a valid notice under S. b of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act is whether the specification of the estate or share of an estate therein is sufficiently definite to enable likely purchasers to know exactly what is going to be sold and to ensure thereby reasonable competi-tion. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to what will constitute such sufficiency. It must depend upon the particular facts of each case. The non-mention of the mousa in the notice of sale is not a fatal omission. If the property advertised for sale is not the whole estate but only certain shares which are correctly specified, the omission of the Sadar Jama of the whole estate is also not fatal. Where one of the two defaultare in the nature of administrative directions to ing shares is in arrear for two kists and the other share for only one, and only one latest date of payment is given in both cases but the unpaid amounts would become 'arrears of revenue" amounts would become 'arrears of revenue' within the meaning of S. 2 of the Act before that date, the information given is enough to satisfy intending purchasers that the sale is going to be held on a proper date. (Edgley and Biswas. J.) SAKINA KHATOON v. KHIROD CHANDRA MANNA. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 310= going to be held on a proper date. Biswas. II.) SAKINA KHATOO 200 I.C. 506=15 R.C. 51=74 C.L.J. 346=46 C. -S. 7-Non-scrvice of notice on co-sharer-If ground for annulment of revenue sale of separate

A revenue sale of a separate account cannot be annulled on the ground of hardship at the instance of a co-sharer for non-service on him of the notice under S. 7 of the Bengal Revenue sale law, where there is no evidence of fraud on the part of the other co-sharers. Service of notice under S. 7, which is intended for tenants would be of no special value to the maliks. (Middleton.) Abdul Razak Khan v. Kuldip Sahay. B.R. 30.

-S. 7-Service of notice in wrong place-Irregularity-Sale, if liable to be set aside.

The service of one of the notices issued under S. 7 of Act XI of 1859 in the wrong place with a misleading description of the property is, undoubtedly, an irregularity. But if this irregularity is relied upon for purposes of setting aside a revenue sale, it must be proved affirmatively that it had really the effect of misleading bidders and caused substantial loss to the proprietors. S. 8—Scope—If subject to S. 25 of Act XI of 1859. See Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act (1859), S. 33. 23 Pat. 947.

-S. 8—Scope—Revenue sale—Certificate granted to purchaser—Suit to set aside sale alleging non-service of notices under Ss. 5. 6 and 7 of Act XI of 1859— Maintainability.

It is clear from S. 8 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act of 1868 that after a sale certificate has been granted under S. 28 of the Bengal Land Revenues Sale (Act XI of 1859), the title of the purchaser cannot be impeached on the ground of non-service of the notices prescribed by the Act of 1859, and the Court is precluded from entering into the question whether the notices were duly served or not. Hence a suit to set aside a revenue sale, after the grant of a sale certificate, on the ground of non-service of notices under Ss. 5, 6 and 7 of Act XI of 1859, is clearly barred under S. 8 of the Act of 1868. of liability to pay according to the dowl kistiband but the separation of liability for sale in default of payment according to the kists notified under S. 3. The liability for sale of the separate account is separated from the liability for sale of other separate accounts or of the residuary that is left after the opening of the separate accounts. It is wrong to state that if a separate account is carved out of a larger account, the liability of both the accounts to pay the kists for the period prior to the date on which the Collector records his sanction to the opening of the separate account remains joint. After the separate account is opened out of the larger account, the larger account has no existence for revenue administration and cannot, obviously, be put up to sale. (Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) -S. 11-Opening of separate account-Conditions.

The jurisdiction of the Collector to open a separate account is absolutely dependent on the existence of the circumstances mentioned in S. 11 of Act XI of 1859. A separate account opened in the absence of those circumstances will be without jurisdiction. (Akram and Pal, JJ.)

S. 12—Nimhowla and osat nimhowla in Government Khasmahal—If protected—Entry in settlement papers that they "are not recognised by Government"-Effect of.

Where a nimhowla and an osat nimhowla in a Government Khasmahal are entered in the settlement papers "as not recognised by the Government", the effect of the entry is, at least, to deprive these tenures of the protection of the third exception in S. 12 of Act VII of 1868. They are not even under-tenures requiring to be annulled by the Government under that section. At most they are incumbrances which fall with the revenue sale. (Rau and Mukherjea, IJ.) -S. 12—'Tenure'—If includes interest of Jotedar or raiyat.

The interest of a Jotedar or raiyat is not a tenure within the meaning of S. 12 of Act VII of 1868 and is, therefore, not protected. (Biswas, J.) ABDUL KARIM v. RAJCHENDRA. 199 I.C. 44-14 R.C. 518-46 C.W.N. 493-A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 378.

-Ss. 13 and 14—Joint sale of separate accounts-Legality.

A joint sale of two or more defaulting separate accounts of an estate is not warranted by the provisions of Act XI of 1859 and is illegal. S. 14 of the Act points to a separate sale as the proper procedure. The rule laid down by the Board of Revenue in Note 8 to S. 13 of the Act in the Government Manual directing a joint sale is not The concluding sentence of S. 10 of Act XI of a statutory rule, and can have no legal effect. 1859 does not directly contemplate the separation (Edgley and Biswas, II.) SAKINA KHATOON &

46 C.W.N. 73=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 173.

-S. 14—Applicability—No bid at sale of separate account.

The procedure prescribed in S. 14 of the Bengai Land Revenue Sales Act applies just as much when there are no bids at all at the sale of a separate account under S. 13 and the sale proves wholly abortive as when the bids are insufficient and the sales prove partially abortive. (Rau and Bisteas, JJ.) MAHOMED MANJURAL HAO v. BISSESWAR BANERJEE. 47 C.W.N. 408-210 I.C. 479=16 R.C. 437=77 C.L J. 32=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 361.

-S. 14—Declaration for sale of entire estate-When may or may not be made.

Under S. 14 of Act XI of 1859 the Collector is not bound to make a declaration for the sale of the entire estate in every case where the bid for one defaulting separate account fails to realise the full amount of arrear due thereupon, without previously putting up the other separate accounts which are also in arrears and have been advertised for sale. He can do so only if he finds that even if the other sales are held and the proceeds are sufficient in each case to cover the amount due upon the account sold, the estate as a whole will still be left in arrear. If on the other hand the arrears due upon one or more of the separate accounts advertised for sale, if realised, will be sufficient to wipe off the demand against the estate as a whole, the collector is bound to proceed with the sales, of the separate accounts seriatim, stopping only when he finds that by appropriating the purchase money of each account. sold to the liquidation of its own arrears, the estate as a whole is freed from its liability for arrears of revenue in the general account (Edgley and Biswas, J.).) -S. 14—Sale of entire estate—Closing of separate accounts—Blending of arrears for periods prior and subsequent to abortive salc— Legality.

The Collector holding the sale of an entire estate under S. 14 of Act XI of 1859 can close the separate accounts. The blending by him of the two amounts of arrears—one for the period anterior and the other subsequent to the abortive sale of the separate account—is not illegal. (Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) Manmatha Nath v. Ananga Kumar. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 353=74 C.L. J. 131=198 I.C. 152=14 R.C. 438=45 C.W.N. 890=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 702.

The entry in the sale proclamation of the amount of arrears in a wrong column, column No. 7, instead of column No. 8, does not effect the validity of the sale, especially when the said amount has been entered in the right column in the copy published in the Collectorate and in the Court of the District Judge. > There is nothing in the Bengal Revenue Sale Law which puts a sale under S. 14 of the Act on a different footing as regards an appeal from a sale by auction. On the other hand S. 25 of the Act, specifically mentions an appeal against any sale made under the Act. When S. 14 is applied on the ground that there are no bidders at the sale of a share, the share is, for ten days, not for sale in the usual sense; that is, for that period it is not liable to be sold by public auction; it does not mean that when it is sold to a co sharer that sale has a special characteristic. An appeal from such a sale can not also be entertained if time (Middleton.) AZIZUE RAHMAN 2'. GIRbarred. WARDHARI MAHTON. 10 B.R. 89.

> On 8-1-1940, a share in a Tauzi was put up for sale. As there was no bid, it was announced, in accordance with S. 14 of Act XI of 1859, that unless within 10days one or more of the recorded co-sharers in the estate paid up the whole arrears due from the share in question, the entire estate would be put up for sale. On the next day the recorded proprietor of a separate account in the Tauzi deposited the arrears and on the same day the defaulting proprietor of the share deposited the arrears and the collector thereupon passed an order of exemption from sale.

-Ss. 25 and 26-Reference to Board by Commissioner — Competency — Non issue of notice under S. 25—When amounts to hardship—Powers of Commissioner and of Board to set aside sale.

The non-issue of a notice under S. 5 of the Bengal Revenue Sales Act cannot be held to be a hardship if it was not required by law. The mere fact that on a previous occasion a notice under S. 5 was issued when it was legally necessary to do so would not mean that it amounts to a hardship if the notice is not issued when there was no legal necessity to do so. In such a case it is not open to the Commissioner to make a reference to the Board under S. 26 of the Act. He can set aside the sale himself under S. 25, if he thinks the notice was legally necessary, but the Board cannot set aside the sale under S. 25. (Middleton.) SUBHKARAN DAS 7. -S. 25—Revision—Jurisdiction of Board of Revenue.

Though an order of the Commissioner under S. 25 of Bengal Act XI of 1859 is not generally open to revision by the Board of Revenue, the Board can revise what may be called a miscellaneous order under the Act when such an order appears to the Board to be illegal. The Board of Revenue is not a necessary party to a suit for a declaration that its order annulling a sale under S. 26 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act is ultra vires and void. The Board of Revenue cannot be sued in its official capacity either in the name of the Board itself or in any other name and the only way of impleading it in the suit would be by impleading the member constituting the Board as a party defendant in his individual capacity and in his own name. As the Board does not act judicially in annulling the sale, the member concerned is not protected from suit by the Judicial Officers' Protection Act. But he MAHOMED MANJUKAL HAQUE v. The Board has power to interfere in revision in order to correct a mistake partly caused by the negligence of an officer of the Court of Wards in omitting to mention a separate number specifically and will, in revision, annul a revenue sale on the ground of hardship under S, 26 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act. The fact that Mukhtear entrusted with paying the land revenue on behalf of the owner forgets to pay the kist and fails to inform the owner on account of family trouble or grief can be no ground for annulling a revenue sale under S. 26 of the Bengal Revenue Sales Act. Both S. 33 of Act XI of 1859 and S. 8 of Act VII of 1868 must be given their full effect. The combined effect of the two sections is that after a sale certificate is granted, the sale is liable to be impeached by suit if it had been held contrary to the provisions of the former Act, provided that the irregularity complained of is not of the kind mentioned in S. 8 of the latter Act. -S. 33—Fraud—Co-sharer not in default arranging with potential purchasers for reconveyance to him of his interest-Effect of.

Where an estate has been sold in consequence of a default on the part of some of the co-owners of the estate in paying the arrears of revenue, there is no reason why a co-owner who has not himself been in default should not re-purchase the property or his interest in it if he can. Such conduct is not in any way fraudulent so as to render the sale void or invalid. And it makes no difference if, knowing that a sale is bound to take place, he arranges with potential purchasers to reconvey his interest to him in the event of the property being knocked down to any of them or even sets up an agent to outbid them and buy the property on his own behelf. That does not amount to fraud which will vitiate the sale. (Agarwala and Shearer, JJ.) RAM RIJHAN SARI v. RAZIA BEGAM. 21 Pat. 682=205 I.C. 147 =15 R.P. 257=9 B.R. 200=A.I.R. 1948 Pat. 88.

-S. 33—Fraud—What constitutes—Ground for setting aside sale—Agreement among bidders not to bid against one another—Co-sharers parties to agreement-If vitiates sale.

In order to justify a revenue sale being interfered with on the ground of fraud it must be shown that the fraud in question took place not during the sale, but prior to it, the sale having been directly brought about or engineered by means of it and that the perpetrators of the fraud were the co-owners of the proprietors who challenge the sale or otherwise stood in a fiduciary relationship to them. An agreement between the bidders at an auction sale not to bid against one another and later to divide the property between them; to which some co-sharers are also parties, is not void as against public policy and cannot be held to be fraud vitiating the sale. (Agarwala and Shearer. JJ.) RAM RIJHAN SAHI v. RAZIA BEGAM. 21 Pat. 682—205 I.C. 147—15 R.P. 257=9 B.R. 200=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 88.

-8.33—Revenue sale—Setting aside—Fraud -Inadequate price-Inference.

The mere circumstance that at the revenue sale the property fetched a low price does not at all warrant a conclusion or even by itself raise a suspicion that the sale was brought about by farud, so as to render it void or liable to be annulled. Per Mukherjea, J .- The statutory title which the law gives to the auction-purchaser at a revenue sale is for protection of revenue and in order to ensure due payment of revenue by such purchaser and to avoid the necessity of repeated sales of the property, he is entitled to all the rights which the original settlor had at the time of the settlement, (Mukherjea and Roxburgh, JJ.) -S. 37- Under-tenure - Meaning - Undertenure not wholly within defaulting estate-Whether can be annulled.

The context requires that the word "under-tenure" in S. 37 of Bengal Act XI of 1859 should not be interpreted by applying the definition in the Act of 1868. It may be a tenure under more than one estate. Consequently a purchaser of an entire estate in the permanently settled Districts of Bengal sold for arrears of revenue due on account of the same can annul an under tenure which is created under the said estate as well as other estates so far as it lies within the estate sold. 70 C.L.J. 34. overruled. sold at revenue sale-Sub-division of tenure with consent of defaulting proprietor-Effect of-Position of purchaser -B. T. Act, Ss. 50 and 88.

Though a valid sub-division of a tenure does not operate as a breach of the continuity of the tenure for the purposes of S. 50, Bengal Tenancy Act, it would so operate for the purposes of S. 37, Land Revenue Sales Act, it it were valid and binding against a purchaser of the superior interest in a sale for arrears of Government revenue.

A defaulting proprietor of a gati-tenure cannot consent to a valid-subdivision of the tenure so as to bind a purchaser at a revenue sale. The subdivision of the tenure being invalid as against the purchaser, amounts merely to an amicable arrangement among the tenure-holders for the more convenient enjoyment of the property. -S. 37. Excep. (1)—Burden of proof—Existence of tenure from Permanent Settlement-Presumption from long possession—When arises.

In a suit for ejectment of an under-tenant under S. 37 of the Land Revenue Sales Act, the burden of proof lies on the defendant to prove that he comes within one or other of the excep-tions mentioned in the section. Where the exception on which the defendant relies is that set out in the first clause, which saves which has been istimrari or mokarari tenure held at a fixed rent from the time of the Permanent Settlement, the burden will be lightened to a great extent by giving effect to the presumption in his favour arising from proof of and undisturbed possession. Each case must depend upon its own facts and circumstances as to what should be deemed to be sufficiently long possession for the purpose of justifying such a presumption. Where the tenure is proved to have been in existence in 1830, it is open to the Court to infer as a fact, in the absence of anything to the contrary, that the tenure did exist at the date of the Permanent Settlement. -S. 58—Applicability—Share of estate.

The word 'estate' in S. 58 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act does not include a share of an estate and the section applies only to integral estates. (Rau and Biswas, JJ.) MAHOMED MAN-JURAL HAQUE v. BISSESSWAR BANERJEE. 210 I. C. 479=16 R.C. 437=47 C.W.N. 408=77 C.L.J. 32=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 361.

-(VII OF 1868), S. 2—Appeal beyond time -Jurisdiction of Commissioner to entertain-Order on appeal-Liability to be set aside.

The Commissioner is not competent even to entertain an appeal which is not preferred within the time prescribed by S. 2 of Act, VII of 1868; and an order passed by him on an appeal preferred beyond the time so limited is without jurisdiction and must be set aside, although the appellate order is one which set aside an illegal order. (Middleton.) ABDUL LATIF v. MANZURUL HASSAN. 8 B.R. 290.

——S. 2—Appeal to commissioner beyond time prescribed—Jurisdiction of commissioner to entertain. See BENGAL LAND REVENUE SALES ACT. (1859), S. 25. 8 B. R. 114.

----S. 2-Revision-Land revenue sale-Appeal to Commissioner -- Order dismissing -- Interference by Board in revision.

The Board will refuse to interfere in revision with an order of the Commissioner passed in an appeal under S. 2. of the Bengal Land' Revenue Sales Act (VII of 1868) against a land revenue sale. (Middleton.) PACHKAURI GIR v. RAJNANDAN SINGH. 9 B.R. 415.

-S. 12 Exception Thirdly—Recognition of tenure—Note made in column for special incidents in Revisional Survey Record—Presumption—Bengal Survey and Settlement Manual, para. 437 (1).

An etmam was recorded in the Revisional Survey Record as a permanent tenure with, rent liable to enhancement. There was a further note in the column for special incidents in the follow-Sales Act. It is immaterial whether the plants ing terms: "Not binding against Government for grown on the land have to be planted every year the purpose of assessment; the profit of the BEN. LAND REVENUE SALES ACT (1868), BEN. COCAL 3 3LF-307 F. ACT, (1835).

tenure has come out of the profit of the superior landlord."

Held, that the record prima facie showed as a special incident of the tenure that it was not recognised by the settlement proceeding within the meaning of the third excepting clause of S. 12 of the Bengal Act VII of 1868.

Held also, that the note only raised a presumption as to the existence of this special incident and that it would be open to the tenure-holder to show that the tenure was recognised in the above sense and that its rent was taken as the basis of the assessment of the profits of the estate. (Pal.) J.) ROHINI RANJAN DAS v. (JMESHCHANDRA DUTTA. 207 I.C. 34=16 R.C. 15=76 C.L. J. 203 =47 C.W.N. 241=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 211.

-S. 14—Co-sharer paying up full arrears— Sale, if Complete.

As soon as the full arrears are paid by a cosharer, the purchase is complete under S. 14 of the Bengal Revenue Sale Law, (Middleton.) PACHKAURI GIR v. RAJNANDAN SINGH. 9 B.R.

-S. 14-Deposit by co-sharer-Acceptance by Deputy Collector-If amounts to declaration of purchase by unauthorised officer.

Under S. 14 of the Bengal Revenue Sale Law, a recorded sharer is entitled to purchase the defaulting share by paying to the Provincial Government the whole arrear due from that share. Acceptance of the deposit is only an administrative act and if a Deputy Collector accepts the deposit, it does not amount to a declaration by an officer not empowered to make it that the depositor was a purchaser under S. 14, (Middleton.) PACHKAURI GIR v. RAJNANDAN SINGH. 9 B.R. 415.

-Ss. 14 and 18—Holder of separate share also co-sharer in defaulting share—Right to purchase-Power of Collector to exempt share on default.

Under S. 14 of the Bengal Land Revenue Sale Law, the holder of another separate account who happens also to be a co-sharer in the defaulting share is not debarred from purchasing the defaultshare. If the defaulting share is not purchased by a co-sharer the Collector can, under S. 18 of the Act, exempt the entire share from future sale. The Collector has, however, no power to exempt the share from its liability to be purchased by a co-sharer. (Middleton.) PACHKA-URI GIR v. RAJNANDAN SINGH. 9 B.R. 415.

Ss.14 and 12—Tenants recorded as "raiyats sthitiban"—Whether protected.

Tenants recorded as "raiyats sthitiban" are not entitled to protection under S. 14 of the Land Revenue Sales Act unless they prove that they actually cultivate the land, but they will be protected by the third exception to S. 12 of the Act if they hold their tenancy under an under-tenure which itself is protected by this exception. (Roxburgh and Akram. JJ.) KHALILAR RAHMAN v. MAMUDA KHATOON. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 502=208 I.C. 399=16 R.C. 200=76 C.L.J. 393=A.I. R. 1943 Cal. 446.

(4) and (5) -Settlement with one of proprietors after natices-Whether enures for benefit of all.

A settlement of a temporarily settled estate with one of the proprietors after notices were issued under S. 10 (4) and (5) of Regulation VII of 1822, the other co-proprietors neither attending nor objecting, has the effect of a joint settlement with all the proprietors, and enures to the v. Snehalafa Guna. 47 C.W.N. 730.

-8.14(8)—Corrector's power to recuse order of his own to correct entry in record.

No Court has any power to revise its own orders, once they have been duly signed except for correcting elerical mistakes. Any person aggrieved by the order of a Court has his legal councily either in the Civil Court or in the Court to which the original Court is subordinate. The Collector has no power to revise his orders passed in settlement operations under Regulation VII of 1882. If the order is wrong, the remedy is by way of revision to the Board of Revenue, but the Collector cannot revise his own order even for the purpose of correcting an entry in the Settlement Record. (Lee.) RAGHUNAN-DAN SINGH v. NAGESHWAR SINGH. 11 B.R. 448.

BENGAL LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE BRIGADE ACT (1 OF 1893), Ss. 4 6, 8, 10, 12, 13, and 14—Applicability—Kuilways-Railways Act, Ss. 7, 47 and 135.

The provisions of Ss. 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 13 and 14 of Bengal Act I of 1893 are inconsistent with Ss. 7 and 47 of the Railways Act and have no application to railways. It is, therefore, not incumbent on the railways to take out a license for their warehouses under the provisions of the Bangal Act and no tax is payable by the railway on that account. These provisions, if applied to railways would result in a division of control between the Central Government and the local authorities, which would be entirely inconsistent with the main scheme of the Railways Act. Further, the railway is protected under the provisions of S. 135 of the Railways Act. The license fee prescribed by the Bengal Act is a tax in aid of the funds of a local authority within the meaning of this section, the local authority being the Commissioner of Police who is entrusted under the Act with the control of the Fire Brigade Fund under the general superintendence of the Local Government, (Edyley, J.) Election held under S. 10 (1) declared void under S. 18-B-Appointment by Local Government-Legality.

If an election held, under S. 10 (1) of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act is subsequently declared void under S.18-B of the Act, the machinery which is provided in S. 19 should be put into operation. It is not within the competence of the Local Government to make an appointment under S. 10 (2), and if an appointment has to be made it should be by the Commissioner under S. 19 if the vacancy is not filled by an election within the time prescribed. -S. 20 and R. 103--Power of Roard to contract -Contract not executed in manner provided by sule-Enforceability.

Under S. 20 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act, the power of the Board to contract is subject to the rules made by the Provincial Government under S. 138. R. 103 which requires a contract or agreement entered into by the Board to be sanctioned at a Board meeting, signed by the chairman and two other members of the Board and sealed with its common seal, is intra vires the rule-making power of the Local Government, and unless the contract is so sanctioned and executed, it is not binding upon the Board and cannot be enforced against it. (Gentle, J.) BARASAT BASIRHAT LIGHT RAILWAY CO., LTD. v. DISTRICT BOARD, 24 PAR-GANAS. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Cal. 101.

-S. 28—Order of removal of chairman by Government-Application made by Board Government for such removal not valid-Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The very foundation of the exercise of the power by the Local Self-Government under the last part of S. 28 of the Local Self-Government Act for the removal of the Chairman of a District Board for persistent neglect of duty as chairman is the application of the Board. If there was no valid application by the Board to the Government, the foundation of the order for removal by Government is gone and there is no reason why the Civil Court cannot declare that order as inoperative. There is nothing in the Act which takes away the jurisdiction of the Civil Court to try this matter either expressly or by necessary implication.

Per Pal, J.-A Chairman of a District Board as such has a legal character and is prima facie entitled to a relief from a Civil Court from any interference with his right in that character. The decision of the Board or of the Government finding that the Chairman persistently neglected his duty will not be conclusive and will remain liable to be questioned in a Court of law. Where 15 out of 30 members of a District Board sent a requisition under S. 30 (b) of the Local Self-Government Act for a special meeting for the removal of the Chairman from his office but before the expiry of the period prescribed for the meeting to be called by the Chairman seven of the requisitionists withdrew from the requisition.

Held, that there was no requisition as required by S. 30 (b) of the Local Self-Government Act and that therefore the resolution passed by the Board at a meeting held thereafter for sending an application to the Provincial Government for the removal of the Chairman was not valid and that consequently the action taken by the Government thereon was ullra vires and ineffective. -S. 35-A-Provident Fund Rule-Construction-Rule providing that District Board may grant additional contribution-Contribution, if discretionary.

A Provident Fund Rule of a District Board provided that "the District Board may grant from the District Fund at the time of the retirement to any servant . . . an additional contribu-tion at the rate of half a months pay for each complete year of service rendered by such servant, subject to a maximum of 15 months' pay".

Held, that the question whether or not any additional contribution as contemplated by the rule should be made in any particular case was at the discretion of the District Board, and that if the District Board in any case decided to make an additional contribution the rate fixed by the rule was not imperative though subject to the maximum prescribed by it. -S. 73—Roadside land — Powers of District Board-Power to settle same for building purposes.

Roadside land which is under the control and administration of a District Board under S. 73 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act does not vest in the District Board. The powers of the District Board in respect of such land are limited to the use of the roadside land for purposes ancillary to the maintenance of the main road but the District Board has no right whatever to divert it to a different purpose and to settle it for the purpose of building on it. The authority of the Board under S. 79 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act "to take measures for the construction, repair and maintenance of works" is subject to the express power given in S. 20 to contract, which power is subject to the rules made by the Local Government. The provisions of S. 79 are not exclusive of, but must be read together with the provisions of S. 20. There is no additional separate power contained in S. 79 for a Board to make contracts and it has no quisition—Remaining requisitionists less than statutory number—Resolution passed at meeting held by the mode prescribed in R. 103. BARASAT BASIRHAT LIGHT RAILWAY CO., LTD. v. DISTRICT BOARD, 24 PARGANAS. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Gal. 101.

A guarantee by the Board to supplement the net earnings of a tramway company by such annual sums, not exceeding Rs 38 000, being 4 p. c. on the amount of the company's share capital, as might be necessary to make the net profits equivalent to Rs. 1,500 per annum per mile of the tramway, is not authorised by S. 82 or any other provision of the Bengal Local Self. Government Act, and is, therefore, not enforcible against the Board. There is no provision in the Act which permits a Board, whose resources are public funds, to guarantee or to pay to a trading undertaking any sum to increase its trading profit or to convert its trading loss into a trading profit. The reference to 4 p.c. on the amount of the company's share capital does not make the guarantee to be in respect of interest on capital expended on the tramway, which S. 82 permits; it is an explanation of how the limit of R. 38,000 was ascertained. Under S. 86-A of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act, the toll can be recovered only from persons using a bridge in respect of which the sanction of the Local Government is given. If that bridge is dismantled and a new bridge is erected on the same site, the unrealised balance of the amount sanctioned for the old bridge cannot be realised by levying a toll on the new bridge, when neither the estimated cost of renewal was included in the amount originally sanctioned nor a fresh sanction for a toll has been obtained in respect of the new bridge. Where the old bridge which was dismantled was constructed by the District Board out of its own funds and the new bridge was reconstructed by the Road Board with grants from the Central Road Fund and there was no sort of connection whatever between the one and the other except that materials of the value of about Rs. 250 only were used from the old bridge, the new bridge cannot be taken to be the old one in another garb; nor can the out-standing balance which was due on account of tolls in respect of the old bridge be regarded as a contribution by the District Board towards the cost of the new bridge. The question whether the price of the materials of the old bridge which

——S. 146—Applicability—Suit against District Board.

S. 146 of the Bengal Local Self-Government Act does not contemplate a suit against the District Board as such, but is applicable only to suits against the members of any District Board or against any of their officers. A suit against the District Board is, therefore, maintainable without notice under the section. (Akram and Pal, JJ.) DISTRICT BOARD OF KHULNA V. JOSESH CHANDRA. I.L.R. BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS ACT (VII OF 1933), S. 2 (2)—"Successor-in-interest" of borrower—Meuning of—If includes purchaser of equity of redemption.

The expression "successor-in-interest" in S. 2 (2) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act may be taken to include an executor or persons who have succeeded to the original borrower's property by inheritance who will be liable to the extent of the borrower's assets which have come into their hands. But it is not the intention of the Legislature that it should include a purchaser of the equity of redemption. (Edgley, I.) HRISHIKESH BANERJEE v. JITENDRA NATH ROY. 45 C.W.N. 850.

S. 4—"Amount of such interest recoverable in the suit"—Interpretation—Simple mortgage suit.

The expression "the amount of such interest recoverable in the suit" in S. 4 of the Bengal Money Lenders' Act means the arrears of interest recoverable in the suit and not up to the date of the suit. The expression, therefore, means with reference to a simple mortgage suit, the arrears of interest up to the date fixed for redemption. (Rau and Mukherjea, JJ.) KHIRODE CHANDRA GHOSH v. — (X OF 1940)—If ultra vires—Provisions relating to promissory notes—Conflict between Act and Contract Act—How resolved—Doctrines of repugnancy and ultra vires-Decrees on promissory notes passed before Act-Question of ultra vires-If arises.

Assuming that the Bengal Money-lenders Act affects and was intended to affect rights and liabilities based on promissory notes, it does not necessarily follow that the Act must be wholly void as ultra vires the Provincial Legislature. The Act must, taken as a whole, be held to fall within the description, "legislation in respect of money lending and money-lenders" a subject within the exclusive competence of the Provincial Legislature (Entry No. 27 in List II). The fact that among the documents on which moneys may be lent promissory notes form an important class will not justify the view that the regulation and control of money-lending have to that extent been taken out of the purview of provincial legis-lation. In the event of a conflict between provisions contained in the Act so far as they bear upon promissory notes and provisions relating thereto contained in a Central enactment, the latter should prevail, as it is the doctrine of repugnancy and not the doctrine of ultra vires that has to be applied in such cases. Any argument that the Act is ultra vires based on the exclusion of promissory notes from the sphere of provincial legislation, would not avail in cases where claims under promissory notes had merged in decrees made before the commencement of the Act. -Preamble and S. 36—Applicability of Act— Loan advanced in Bihar but payable either there or at Calcutta.

The Bengal Money-Lenders Act is not applicable to a loan advanced in Bihar on a promissory note although it is expressly made payable either in Bihar or at Calcutta, if the intention of the parties was that the contract should be governed by the law of the place at which the loan was effected namely, the law of Bihar. Consequently a decree passed by the Calcutta High Court on the promissory note cannot be reopened under S. 36 of the Act. The expression "transactions of money lending in Bengal", occurring in the preamble to the Act can only mean transactions of moneylending which take place in Bengal. (Edgley, J.) BRIJ RAJ MARWARI v. ANANT PRASAD. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 505=202 I.C. 326=15 R.C. 321= A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 509.

-Ss. 2 (2) and 30—"Borrower"—Puisne mortgagee vis-a-vis prior mortgagee-Purchaser of mortgagor's right vis-a-vis mortgagee—If borrowers—Right to benefit of S. 30.

A puisne mortgagee, vis-a-vis the prior mortgagee, and a purchaser of the mortgagor's interest via-a-vis the mortgagee or mortgagees are borrowers within the meaning of S.2 (2) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. Therefore, in a suit on a mortgage filed by a non-impleaded puisne mortgagee against a purchaser at a sale in execution of a prior mortgage decree who had also paid off a decree obtained by another prior mortgagee, the plaintiff as the puisne mortgagee is entitled to the benefit of S. 30 of the Act in respect of the claims on the two prior mortgages, if the suit is one to which the Act applies. The defendant as purchaser of the interest of the mortgagor is also entitled to the benefit of that section in respect of the claim of the plnintiff as mortgagee. (Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) -S. 2 (4)—"Commercial loan"—Meaning of— Loan for commercial and other purposes-Loan to pay off business debts.

A loan advanced partly for commercial and partly for other purposes is not a commercial loan according to S. 2 (4) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. A loan is a commercial loan only if the money is borrowed solely for commercial purposes. The borrower may thereafter spend the money for purposes other than commercial purposes but that would not in any way affect the nature of the loan. -S. 2 (4) -Commercial loan-Test-Inteniton of parties or actual user-If material.

In determining whether a loan was a commercial loan within the meaning of S. 2 (4) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, what is material is the intention of the parties at the time when the loan is taken and it must be intended to be used solely for business purposes, but whether, it was actually used or not is not material except that it might throw some light on the original intention. (Mukherjea and Blank, II.) GURUPADA BHOW-MIC v. UPENDRA NATH. 46 C.W.N. 774.

The expression "for the purposes of any husiness" in S. 2 (4) of the Bengal Moncy-Lenders' Act includes purposes incidental to the carrying on of the business. It cannot be said that it is only where the money is applied or sought to be applied to the primary purposes of the business that it will satisfy the requirements of the definition of a commercial loan. The liquidation of pre-existing liabilities which were incurred for the purposes of the business must be regarded as a legitimate purpose of the business itself, although it may not be a direct purpose. Accordingly a mortgage executed in favour of a creditor to repay old loans advanced by him for the purpose of business comes within the definition of a com-mercial loan. Further in such a case there is no new loan in fact but the old loan is merely secured by the mortgage. If therefore, it is a commercial loan before, it still remains so notwithstanding the security. (Mukherjea and Biswas, IJ.) Purna Chandra v. Jov Chand. I.L.R. (1943) Cal. 362 = 205 I.C 550=15 R.C. 645=47 C.W.N. 236= A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 179.

-S. 2 (4)—Recital of commercial purpose in mortgage-deed-Evidentiary value.

A recital in a mortgare-deed that the money was advanced for commercial purposes is not conclusive on that point. It is undoubtedly a piece of evidence which can be and ought to be taken against the mortgagor. But the mortgagor should not be refused an opportunity to adduce evidence for the purpose of showing that the recital is not correct. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.)

S 2 (3)—"Interest"—Money realisable by mortgagee from tenants and money covered by rent decrees.

Monies which a mortgagee in possession might have realised from the tenants but actually did not, and monies covered by rent decrees obtained by him, are "interest" within the meaning of S. 2 (8) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. (Hender son J.) Meherunnissa Bibt v. Satish Chandra Dutta. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 321=77 C.L. J. 323=217 I.C 87=17 R.C. 152=47 C.W,N. 894=A.I. R. 1944 Cal. 288.

-Ss. 2(8) and 36—Preliminary mortgage decree -Interest due between dates of decree and of payment -If comes within definition-Total interest up to date fixed for payment exceeding maximum allowed by S. 30 but notinterest up to date of de ree-Decree, if may be re-opened.

Where a preliminary mortgage decree directs an account to be taken of what is due for principal and interest on the mortgage at the date of that decree and also of what will be due for interest on the principal from the date of the decree up to a date six months subsequent to the date on which the report is submitted to the Court for countersignature, and further directs the payment of the amount found due on the report within six months of the date of the counter-singulature, the interest awarded to the mortgagee by the preliminary decree on the principal sum found due for the period between the date of that decree and the date fixed therein for payment is interest within the meaning of S. 2 (8) of the Bangal Money-Lenders Act. It follows therefore that although the amount of interest due on the mortgage bond calculated up to the date of the passing of the preliminary decree is not in excess of the maximum allowed by S. 30 of the Act, if the total amount of interest calculated up to the date fixed for payment is in excess of that maximum, the judgment-debtor is entitled to apply under S. 36 of the Act for relief from the payment of this excess of interest and claim that the decree should be reopened and new instalment decree passed. S. 2 (12)—Bond executed by vendee for unpaid purchase money—Transaction, if a loan.

Every loan is a debt but every debt is not a loan. Unpaid purchase money due to a vendor is a debt due to him, and a bond executed by the vendee in respect there-of is not a transaction which is in substance a loan. Therefore, the vendee is not entitled to get any relief under the Bengal Money Lenders Act in a suit upon such a bond. (Nasin, Ali and Pal, /J.) SARADINDU SEKHAR v. I.ALIT MOHAN. 196 I.C. 287=14 R.C. 206=73 C.L.J. 530=45 C,W.N. 734=A.I,R. 1941 Cal. 538.

-S.2(12)-Bond given for securing unpaid price-Whether loan-Tests.

It cannot be laid down that in no circumstances can a bond ostensibly given for securing the unpaid price be regarded as one for a loan. In order to determine the question whether a particular transaction amounts to a loan, the substance and not the form must be looked to, and the facts and circumstances attending it must be taken into consideration. If the conculsion he that it was really an interest-bearing investment, it would be a loan. (Mitter and Sen JJ.) FATHEH CHAND v. AZIMUTDIN. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 297-47 C.W.N. 52 = 206 I.C 145-15 R.C. 670-76 C.L.J. 49-A.I. R. 1943 Cal. 108.

S 2 (12)—Commercial loan—Test—Inference from user—If legitimate.

In order to determine whether a loan is a commercial loan the material question would be what was the intention at the time when the loan was taken. If there is no indication in the instruBENG AL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940).

ment on which the loan was advanced it would be legitimate to make inferences from the user to which the money was put to, immediately or shortly after the loan was advanced and from other facts and circumstances of the case. To be a commercial loan the money must be borrowed with the intent of using the whole of it for a commercial venture. (Mitter and Sen, JJ.)

-S. 2 (12)-'Loan'-Arrears of putni rent-

Agreement to pay interest.

Arrears of rent due by a putnidar to a Zamindar do not come within the definition of loan as contained in S. 2 (12) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act merely by reason of an agreement between the parties under which the putnidar promises to pay interest on those arrears in excess of what is pavable under law, when there is no bond or security taken in respect thereof. To constitute a loan there must be an element of advance either actual or notional, (Mukherjea and Blank. IJ.) SATINATH BASCHI v. BRUPENDRA NARAYAN SINHA. 211 I.C. 428=16 R.C. 531=77 C.L.J. 134=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 14.

-S. 2 (12)—Nature of transaction—Sale— Purchase money paid partly in cash and partly by execution of pronote carrying interest-Transac-

Where on a sale of land the purchase price was discharged partly in cash and partly by the execution of a handnote carrying interest at a high rate, the transaction is in substance a Ioan. -Ss. 2 (12) and 36—Security bond given by vendee for price of goods already supplied and to be supplied in future—Interest made payable only if vendee failed to pay money within certain time

-Transaction, if a loan.
There may exist circumstances under which the transaction by which a bond or security is taken in respect of unpaid purchase money may come within the definition of a loan as laid down in S. 2 (12) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. But where security was taken as a sort of floating security not only for the sum which was actually due at the time as the price of goods supplied to the vender but for other goods that the vendee might purchase from the vendor in future, and interest was made payable on the amount only if the vendee failed to pay the same within a certain time, there is no question of advance, either express or implied and consequently the transaction cannot be treated in substance as a loan within the meaning of S. 2(12) of the Bengal Money Lenders Act. A decree passed on the security bond cannot therefore, be reopened under S. 36 of that Act. (Mukherjea and Roxburgh, JJ.) KUNJA BEHARI PAL v. A loan advanced by a Co-operative Society is excluded from the definition of loan given in the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. The nature of the loan is not altered by reason of the fact that the Society assigns its rights for the recovery of the loan to a non-member. The debt is transferred to him together with its attribute. (Sen and Das, JJ.) PANCHANAN BANERJEE v. NIRMAL CHANDRA LAHIRI. 50 C.W.N. 7.

An application to set aside an execution sale under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, is not "a suit to which this Act applies" within the meaning of S. 2 (22) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, nor does it, if successful, have the effect of turning an execution case which had terminated before 1st January, 1939, into such a suit. It makes no difference that the application is made bona fide. Where, therefore, possession of the property which was sold in execution of a decree was delivered before 1st January, 1939, and only an application under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code was pending on that date, there is no suit to which the Act applies, and consequently no application for review under S. 36 (6) of the Act is competent. (Henderson, J.) JITENDRA NATH BERA v. MAKHAN LAL. I.L.R. 1942 2 Cal. 148=46 C.W.N. 659=201 I.C. 512=15 R.C. 268=75 C.L.J. 366=A.I. R. 1942 Cal. 452 (1).

A decree passed in a suit before the 1st January 1939, in respect of which no proceeding in execution was pending on that date is not a decree in a suit to which the Act applies within the meaning of S. 2 (22) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act although the decree had not been fully satisfied on that date. Such a decree cannot, therefore, be agor against others to recover money paid in reopened under S. 36 of the Act. (Mukherjea arces—Whether one in respect of a loan.)

A mortgage suit which had terminated in a final decree before 1st January, 1939, and in respect of which no execution proceedings were pending on that date, cannot be taken to be a suit to which the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies by reason of the fact that the decree holder had filed a statement of claim after the 1st January, 1939, on the basis of his decree to a Debt Settlement Board in pursuance of a notice issued under S. 13 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, the debtor having applied to settle his debts under S.8. The mortgage decree cannot, therefore, be reopened by reason of the first part of proviso (ii) to S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. If however, the morigagee decree-holder applies to execute his decree or applies for a personal decree after 1st January, 1939, the debtor would then have the right to make an application under S. 36. A proceeding before a Debt Settlement Board, either started by the creditor, or in which the creditor had filed a claim under S. 13 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act, when the proceedings had been started by the debtor, would be a "suit to which the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, applies," if it was pending on or started after the 1st January, 1939, and an award made therein by the Board could be re-opened but for S. 36 (1), proviso (ii) of the Bengat money-Lenders Act which protects such awards. -Ss. 2 (22) and 36—Suit to which Act applies— Application filed after 1st January, 1939, for retriew of order under S. 83, T. P. Act, passed before that date-If revives earlier proceeding.

The mere filing of an application after 1st January, 1939, for the review of an order passed in a proceeding under S. 83 of the T. P. Act prior to that date, does not have the effect of reviving that proceeding. Nor could the application itself be regarded as a proceeding coming under any of the three clauses of S. 2 (22) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. In no sense thus could the review application—avail to—bring into existence—a "suit to which this Act applies." (Biswas and Akram, II.) BHUPENDRA NATH ROY v. -Ss 2 (22) and 36-Suit to which Act applies -Decree passed in suit before 1st January, 1939--No proceeding in execution pending-Procedure for obtaining relief.

A suit for the recovery of money in which a decree has been passed before 1st day of January 1939, and no proceeding in execution of the decree is pending on that date, is not a suit to which the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies, even though the decree has not been satisfied. Therefore an application by the judgment-debtor for relief or for review under the Act is not maintainable. He can get relief only by way of a suit under S. 36 of the Act. 45 C.W N. 859, dissented from. (Sen. I.) NABAKUMAR SINGH v. MAHARAJA JOGINDRA NATH ROY. I.L.R. -Ss. 2 (22) and 36-Suit to which Act applies-Final decree in mortgage suit passed before 1st January, 1939—Such decree not satisfied on that date—Procedure for obtaining relief.

Where a final decree in a mortgage suit was passed before the 1st January, 1939, but such decree remains unsatisfied on that date, the suit must be regarded as "pending" on that date within the meaning of S. 2 (22) of the Bengal Money-Such a suit is, therefore, one to Lenders Act. which the Act applies. As regards the procedure which should be adopted in applying for relief under the Act in cases such as the above, the provisions of S.39 allow the borrower to obtain relief either by filing a suit or by makingan application. Inthe case of applicaions, it is the intention of the legislature that they should be made either one passed in a suit to which the Bengal Money in the proceedings in execution of a decree BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT (1940). or, if no such proceedings have been taken or are pending, the debtor should be at liberty to file what is described in the act as an application for review. A suit for foreclosure is a suit to which the Act applies within the meaning of S 2, sub-S. (22). The wording of S. 2, sub-S. -Ss. 28 and 29-Applicability-Assignment of decrees.

Ss. 28 and 29 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act deal with the assignment of loans, where the relation of lender and borrower still exists that is, while the contract is still executory. They do not apply where there has been a judgment. The contract is then merged in the judgment and the relationship between the parties is that of judgment-creditor and judgment-debtor and no longer that of lender and borrower. (Lord Goddard.) Ss. 29 (2) and 36—Assignee of loan 'before commencement of Act—If protected

S. 29 (2) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act makes it clear that a person who has obtained an assignment of a loan before the commencement of the Act is subject to the same statutory liabilities and disabilities as the original lender "except where the context otherwise requires." If the borrower seeks remedy under S. 36 of the Act, the only exception provided by the context in that section in favour of such an assignee is contained in the proviso to S. 36 (d). Apart from this provision, the remedies provided by S. 36 are equally efficacious as against the lender or an assignee from such lender provided the assignment took place before the commencement of the Act. Sub-S. (5) of S. 36 cannot be taken to protect a person in the position of such an assignee. (Edgley. J.) MANMATHA NATH Bose v. RENULA BIBI 45 C.W.N. 863= 198 I.C. 71=14 R.C. 42=A.I.R. 1941 Cal 681.

-S 30—Compound interest—If prohibited. The Bengal Money-Lenders' Act (X of 1940) nowhere prohibits compound interest. All that, S. 30 says is that the borrower shall not be liable to pay interest at a higher rate per annum than 8 per cent. simple in the case of secured loans. What has, therefore, to be ascertained in each case is whether the interest which the borrower has been made liable to pay exceeds the interest which would have been payable, had the rate of interest been 8 per cent. simple. Per Pal, J .- In order to see whether or not in any case the decree imposes any liability in excess of the statutory limit provided by S. 30 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the decree itself must be looked into and it must be ascertained for which period and on which principal, the amount of interest was decreed. If in any case the Court does not decree any interest for the period between the date of the suit and the date of the decree, the decree for interest should not ! be read as having been made for the period from the date of the loan to the date of the decree ( (Mukherjee and Pal. S. 30-Provision in agreement for com-found interest—Legality—Proper decree.

The Bengal Money-Lenders Act does not make a provision in an agreement between the parties for compound interest as such illegal. -S. 30-S. spe and effect--If affects decree alreidy obtained.

The effect of S, 30 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act is to afford a defence to a borrower as to the amount for which he is liable. It does not affect judgments already obtained, but merely provides that the amount of a jud-ment already obtained is to be taken into account in calculating the final amount for which a borrower may be liable. That section therefore cannot of itself avail a judgment debtor against whom a decree has been regularly obtained and remains unreversed. (Lord Gollard.) RENULA BOSE v. -Ss. 30 and 36-Validity-If affects subject of "banking" -Government of India Act, S.h. VII, List I. Entry 38.

Where the validity of Ss. 30 and 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act was impugned on the ground that they affected the subject of "banking" (Entry 38 in List I) and that as the application of those sections would greatly reduce the amount which a bank would recover in execution of decrees obtained by it, they constituted a serious interference with the "conduct of banking business."

Held, that the contention seemed to rest on an unduly wide interpretation of the expression "conduct of banking business," It would be too much to say that every law, which in its operation might affect the property or interests of a bank just as it affects the property or interests of other persons, would constitute an encroachment on entry 38 in List I. On a reasonable construction the entry must be limited to laws which affect the conduct of the business of banks qua banks. In this view the objection to the validity of those sections had to be overruled. (Spens, C.J., Varadachariar and Muhammad Zafrulla Khan, JJ.) BANK OF COM-MERCE, LTD., KHULNA v. NRIPENDRA NATH DATTA. VII, List I, Entry 28; List II, Entry

The question of the validity of provincial legislation with respect to a matter enumerated in List II, is not finally settled by a decision that the legislation is, in pith and substance, one dealing with such a matter. The and substance, one dealing with such a matter. opening words of sub-S. (3) of S. 100 of the Constitution Act-"Subject to the two preceding sub-ections" -import a further limitation on the provincial power, is very negligible. (Mukherjea and Sen, II.) because sub-section (1) which is thus incorporated in contained in sub-section (3), a provincial legislature shall not have power to make laws with respect to any of the matters enumerated in List I. It can, if at all, encroach on List I subjects, only incidentally. Mere incidental encroachment would not amount to a transgression of the prohibition imposed on the provincial legislature by sub-section (1). It would not be sufficient it the impugned provisions in a provincial enactment were incidental to a subject enumerated in the Provincial List; their incidental character must be determined with reference to their relation to the subjects enumerated in List I. Ss. 30, 30 and 38 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act affect the rules enacted in Ss. 32, 79 and 80 of the Negotiable Instruments Act (which are among the essentials of the law relating to promissory notes) so substantially that they cannot be regarded as merely amounting to an incidental encroachment on the law relating to promissory notes. The encroachment is serious and substantial. There is no warrant for limiting the three categories of documents specified in Entry 28 of List I to instruments which are negotiable. Nonnegotiable promissory notes are known to the law and aer recognised by the Negotiable Instruments Act. Even if it were possible to limit Entry 28 to negotiable instruments, there is no justification for importing the further limitation that this entry relates to only so much of the law as bears on the negotiability of such instruments and its consequences. In this view of the scope of that entry, the attack on the impugned provisions of the Bengal Act will not be met by treating them as legislation with respect to "contracts" (entry 10 of List III) because sub-section (2) of S. 100 makes even legislation on List III matters "subject to the preceding subsection", whenever such legislation is enacted by provincial legislature. (Spens, C. J., Varada-

> -S. 30 (1) (a)—Applicability—Interest on decretal amount.

The interest payable on the decretal amount must be regarded as a liability included in the decree to which the terms of S. 30 (1) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act have no application and in respect of which this sub-section cannot operate to afford a judgment-debtor any relief, (Edgley, J.) MANMATHA NATH BOSE v. RENULA BIBL 45 C.W.N. 863=198 I.C. 71=14 R.C. 427=A I.R. 1941 Cal. 681.

S. 30 (1) (a)—Applicability—Re-opening of pre-Act decree.

Where a decree is one passed before the commence-ment of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act and the question is whether the interest paid before such commencement or included in the pre-Act decree is a legal hability, the provision applicable would be Cl. (2) of S. 30 which refers only to sub-Cl. (c) of Ci. (1) which lays down the maximum rate of interest, and does not refer to sub-Cl. (a). The limit of twice the principal laid down in the latter clause may not apply in such a case. Although S. 30 (1) (a) may not apply in judging whether the decree is liable to be re-opened, it must be applied when a new decree is to be passed in accordance with the provisions of the Act. (Chakravartti, J.) AJARADDI v. SONAI BIBI. 49 C.W.N. 638.

-S. 30 (1) (a)—Decretal amount together with past payments exceeding twice the loan-Liability of borrower.

If the amount due to the lender in respect of principal and interest has been declared by a decree of a competent Court, S. 30 (1) (a) of the Bengal Money Lenders Act does not operate to release the borrower from his hability under the decree although the payments made before the decree together with the amount of the decree exceed twice the amount of the principal of the original loan, provided the interest payable in respect of the loan does not exceed the limits specified in S. 30 (1) (c) of the Act. (Eagley, I.) MANMATHA NATH BOSE v. RENULA BIBL. 45 C.W. N. 863=198 I.C. 71=14 R.C. 427=A.I.R 1941 Cal 681.

-Ss. 30 (1) (a) and 36-Payment of twice the principal of loan-If releases borrower from further hability under any circumstances— Borrower seeking release from further liability, under decree-If can be granted declaration.

The meaning of S. 30 (1) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is that after the commencement of that Act no borrower is liable to pay in respect of principal and interest in respect of any loan more than twice the principal of the original loan. Payments in respect of the loan may be voluntary payments or payments made under a decree in respect of the loan or payments treated in a decree as being made in respect of the loan as for instance, by way of set-off; but in whatever manner they are made, the sum total of them is not to exceed twice the principal of the original loan under any circumstances. If the borrower pays that amount, he is absolved from liability to mortgage instrument by way of recital would not make any difference. (Mitter and Akram, II.) pay anything more in respect of the loan, even NRIPENDRA CHANDRA SAHA v. MAHOMED ABBAS though the loan is crystallised into a decree. If a pay anything more in respect of the loan, even borrower who has already paid twice the principal of the loan seeks relief under the Act in respect of a decree passed on the loan, it is not necessary in order to give him relief that the powers under S. 36 of the Act should be exercised at all. He can be granted a declaration that he is not liable to pay any more money under the decree. 45 C.W.N. 863 reversed. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Nasim Ali, J.) Manmatha Nath Bose v. Renula Bose. 45 C.W.N. 1091.

-----S. 30 (1) (c)—Post-decretul interest—If can be taken into account.

In considering whether the interest that is allowed by a decree is in contravention of the provisions of S. 30 (1) (c) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the relevant period would be up to the date of the decree in the case of a suit on a simple money bond and up to the period of grace as provided for in the preliminarry decree in a suit on a mortgage. Post-decretal interest that is awarded by the Court either legally or illegally cannot be taken into account in making the calculation. (Mitter aud Blank, JJ.) Devray Ray v. Lalji Morarji. 48 C.W.N. 200.

For the purpose of applying the test as to whether the limits prescribed by S. 30 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act have been exceeded in awarding interest to a lender, the total interest awarded is to be taken for the whole period up to the date of payment, and this is to be compared with the amount arrived at for the same period calculated at the statutory rates. It is not correct to split this period into two parts, viz, the period up to date of suit and the period from date of suit up to the date of payment, and to apply the test to the parts separately. It is, therefore, immaterial that in the process of calculation a rate of 12 per cent. is taken for part of the period, namely, the period pendente lite provided that the total irterest on the principal amount included in the decree including the interest for the period pendente lite does not exceed the amount calculated for the the same period at the limit of 8 per cent. laid down in S. 30 (1) (c) (ii). Act. S. 31-Applicability-Decree passed before

S. 31 of the Bengal Money-Lendors Act merely prohibits the Court from granting interest on the decretal amount at the time it passes the decree. It has, therefore, no application to a case where the decree has already been passed before the Act came into force. If a decree allowing interest on the decretal amount is passed before the Bengal Money-Lenders Act came into force, the appellate Court in an appeal from that decree can under S. 31 (a) of the Act modify the decree by disallowing the interest allowed on the decretal amount. ——S. 31—Decree allowing interest on decretal amount passed before Act—Whether can be modified.

Under S. 31 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act what the Courts are prohibited from doing since the commencement of the Act is passing decrees allowing interest on the decretal amount, in cases where the loan was advanced before the commencement of the Act. But the section does not enable a Court to revise or modify a decree allowing interest on the decretal amount passed prior to the commencement of the Act. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Panckridge, J.) MAHALAKSHMI RAKHIT V, SHAMRANGINI. I.L.R (1941) 1 Cal. 499=197 I.C. 853=14 R.C. 397=73 C.L.J. 344—45 C.W.N. 526=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 673.

——Ss. 31 and 38—Order under S. 38—Sub-sequent interest—If allowable.

S. 31 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is not directly or indirectly applicable to a special proceeding for an account under S. 38 of that Act. Neither an order directing an account to be taken nor an order declaring the amount payable nor any other order passed under S. 38 is a decree and the borrower is not, therefore, entitled to the relief from liability for interest on the decretal amount afforded in S. 31. Consequently, the lender will continue to be entitled to have interest at the rate allowed under the Act running on his debt even subsequent to the date of the order under S. 33 until payment of the debt, or if the borrower makes a deposit until the date of the service of the notice on the lender under S. 39 (2), or until the right thereto or any part thereof is duly and legally extinguished either after the filing of a mortgage suit by the mortgagee in which he shall obtain a mortgage decree (in which case this will be on such terms and on such date or dates as the Court disposing of any such suit may duly decree) or otherwise by due operation of law. Such further future interest will, however, be subject to the rule of law corresponding to the rule of Damdupat as laid down in S. 31 (a) and (b) of the Act. Such interest will cease in any event when it reaches a sum greater than the amount there allowed. (Ormond. J.) BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS ACT. In re. 48 C.W.N. 743

There is no provision in the Act which says that if a decree is passed whereby interest on the decretal amount is granted before the Act came into force, the judgment-debtor would be entitled to have that decree set aside, or modified, by a disallowance of that portion of the decree by which interest is granted on the decretal amount. S. 31 of the Bengal Money Lenders' Act prohibits the Court in certain circumstances from granting interest on the decretal amount at the time it passes the decree. It has no application to a case where the decree has already been passed before the Act came into force. There is no section in the Act which says that in such a case, the Court may upon an application brought subsequent to the decree vary its order granting interest on the decretal amount. (Sen, J.) -Ss. 31 (a) and 34 (1) (a)—Pre-Act mortgage loan-Mortgagor agreeing to pay interest until realisation of instalments granted by decree under S. 34 (1) (a)-Interest thereon-If can be allowed.

S. 31 (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act prohibits award of interest on the "decretal amount", which means or at least includes the amount found or declared due by the decree, for the period after the date of the decree up to the date of redemption as well as for the period thereafter up to realisation and supersedes both O. 34, R. 11 (a) and O. 34, R. 11 (b), C.P. Code, in respect of mortgage loans advanced before the Act notwithstanding any agreement by the mortgagor to pay interest until realisation. The words "notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force" in S. 31 of the Act includes the law applicable to an agreement and therefore the agreement itself. Consequently no interest can be allowed on the instalments granted by a decree under S. 34 (1) (a) of the Act from the date of that decree up to the respective dates on which they are made payable. (Das, J.) NEMAI CHAND SEN v. RAM KEWAL SHA. 48 C.W.N. 736.

S. 31 (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act prohibits, in the case of loans advanced before the Act, the award of any interest only on the decretal amount, and does not prohibit the award of interest from the date of the suit up to the date of decree. under O. 34, R. 2, (1) (a) or (b), C. P. Code. The prohibition of the award of any interest on the decretal amount necessarily includes a prohibition of interest on any portion of the decretal amount, and the interest allowed by O. 34, R.11 (a), C.P. Code, on certain items of the decretal amount, falls therefore within the ban of S. 31 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act as much as the interest allowed by O. 24, R. 11 (b), C.P. Code, on all the items of the decretal amount. S. 31 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act unlike Ss. 30 and 34, is not intended to apply where there is an agreement to the contrary. If the mortgage-bond specifically provides for the payment of interest at 9 per cent. per annum on the principal "till the realisation of the entire amount", the rate of interest stipulated is, of course, cut down by S. 30 of the Act to 8 per cent. per annum, and the period of the stipula-tion is cut down by O. 34 R. 11, C.P. Code, so as to end at the date fixed for redemption in the preliminary decree instead of running on "till the realisation of the entire amount"; and after the date fixed for redemption, the rate of interest allowed by Cl. (b) of that rule is such as the Court deems reasonable. But within these limits the agreement is still effective. The mortgagee in such a case is entitled to interest at 8 per cent. per annum on the principal not only up to the date of the preliminary decree but also up to the dates fixed therein for payments of the several instalments of the decretal amount the interest between any two successive dates being reckoned on the portion of the principal outstanding between those dates; but he is not entitled to any further interest. S. 34—Preliminary decree—Construction— Claim and costs made payable in instalments— —Instalment of costs—When payable.

By a preliminary decree it was ordered that the defendant should pay to the plaintiff a certain amount and also the taxed costs by five equal annual instalments. The first of such instalments was made payable on or before 15th August, 1941 and the instalment of costs upon taxation.

Held, that the true meaning of the decree was that the claim and the costs were both payable by five equal annual installments, the first instalments of the claim was payable on 15th August, 1941 and the first instalment of costs on the date of taxation. (Das, J.) RANGALAL MANDAL v. NARENDRA NATH GHOSE. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 576=217 I.C. 104=17 R.C. 161=47 C.W.N. 637 =A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 414.

Ss. 34 and 36—Relief by way of instalment—Whether can be given when decree not reopened.

S. 34 (1) (b) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act provides for a remedy which is quite independent of the provisions of S. 36 of the Act. There is no question of re-opening of a decree under S. 34 (1) (b) but the reliefs which are specified in that section would be available to a borrower even if the decree could not be re-opened under S. 36 of the Act. (Mukherjea and Blank, II.) PASHU-ATHI NATH ROY V. SACHINATH ROY. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 180=209 I.C. 15=16 R.C. 273=47 C.W.N. 405=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 330.

S. 34 (1) (a)—Applicability—Mortgage decree passed before Act.

BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT (1940).

By S. 34 (1) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act the Court has been empowered to grant instalments in suits in respect of mortgage loans at the time of the passing of the preliminary decree after the commencement of the Act. The provisions of this section are, therefore not attracted to a case where the decree is passed before the Act and cannot be reopened under the Act. [Affirming the Judgment of Sen, J. in 45 C.W.N. II.] (Derbyshire, C.J., Panckridge and Nasim Ali, J.). Accounte Mukherjee v. Saliendra Mohan. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 169=195 I.C. 779=14 R.C. 135-45 C.W.N. 548=73 C.L.J. 287=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 495.

—— Ss. 34 (1) (a) and 31—Mortgage suit— Award of interest—Power of Court -Limitations —C.P. Code, O. 34, Rr. 3, 4 and 11.

The Bengal Money-Lenders Act does not totally abrogate the provisions of O. 34, Rr. 2, 4 or 11, C.P. Code. These provisions are only modified to the extent indicated in S. 34 (1) (a) and S. 31 of the Act. The power to award pendente lite interest in a mortgage suit is not thus taken away by the Act. Three limitations only have been imposed by the Act on these provisions of O. 34 in respect of the award of interest, namely, (1) that the pendente lite interest and interest allowable under O. 34, R. 11 (a) (i) up to the period of grace, which must be determined in terms of S. 34 (1) (a) (ii) of the Act, would not be according to the contract rate, where there is such a rate, but would be according to the rate scaled down by S. 30 (1) (c) of the Act; (2) that the amount of that interest should not exceed the principal of the loan in accordance with the method of calculation to be made in accordance with S. 30(1) (a) and (b) of the Act; and (3) O. 34, R. 11 (b) is not to apply where the loan was advanced before the Act. (Mitter and Akram. JJ.) PROMODE NATH SINHA v. RASESHWARI 1)ASSI. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 414=75 C.L.J. 174=204 I.C. 502=15 R.C. 525=46 C.W.N. 153=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 128.

——S. 34 (1) (a)—Preliminary mortgage decree —Grant of instalments—Power of Court to impose conditions.

In the case of a loan on a mortgage the Court in passing a preliminary decree has the power in a fit case to require additional security from the judgment-debtor as a condition of giving him instalments. It may also impose other conditions with a view to see that the decree-holder does not lose the full benefit of his security during the period that the instalments may be spread over by reason of any act or default on the part of the judgment-debtor. Where the loan is secured on revenue-paying properties and patni taluks, the Court may impose the condition that the judgment debtor must pay up all past arrears of revenue, cess and patni rent, and also the revenue, cess and patni rent that may fall due and in default the decree holder will be entitled to apply for a final decree. This additional right given to the decree-holder to apply for a final decree does not militate against the provisions of S. 34 (a) (ii) of the Act. (Mitter and Akram, IJ.) PROMODE NATH SINHA v. RASESHWARI DASSI. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 414=75 C.L.J. 174=46 C.W.N. 153= 204 I.C. 502=15 R.C. 525=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 128,

BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT (1940)

-S. 34 (1) (a) First Proviso-Default in payment of instalment-Extension of time to pay that instalment-Power of Court to grant.

The first proviso to S. 34 (1) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act empowers the Court only to extend the time for payment of the entire amount which has fallen due on default in payment of any particular instalment. The Court is not entitled to grant an extension of time with regard to the pay-ment of the particular instalment. If any case of hardship arises, the judgment-debtor is not without his remedy. He can deposit in Court the amount due by him in respect of that particular instalment before the final decree is actually made as laid down in the second proviso, and the passing of the final decree can thereby be stopped. (Mukherjea and Pal. II.) PRAMATHANATH SANYAL v. SAILESH CHANDRA. 206 I.C. 422=15 R.C. 701=47 C.W.N. 306=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 214.

-8' 34 (1) (a) (ii)—Notice in prescribed form-If condition precedent to application for final decree-Notice signed only by one of two plaintiffs and mentioning wrongly amount for which default was made—Application for final decree-If maintainable.

Under S. 34 (1) (a) (ii) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, giving of a notice in the form prescribed by rules made under that Act is a condition precedent to the plaintiff's right to apply for a final decree for sale. Rule 24 (1) is mandatory that the notice should be in Form No. 15. That form indicates that the notice should be signed by the plaintiff himself and if there are two or more plaintiffs by all of them. A notice signed by only one of two plaintiffs and mentioning wrongly the amount of instalment for which default in payment was made, does not comply with the requirements of the Act and an application by the plaintiffs for a final decree for sale is, therefore not maintainable. (Das, J.) RANGALAL MONDAL v. NARENDRA NATH GHOSE. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 576=47 C.W.N. 637=217 I.C. 104=17 R.C. 161=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 414.

-S. 34 (1) (b)—Applicability—Decree partly satisfied and claim to unsatisfied balance given up.

S. 34 (1) (b) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act contemplates only a case where the amount of the decree is still payable. It cannot apply to a case where the amount of the decree has already been realized and thus has ceased to be payable any longer. In a case where the amount of the decree is realized or paid in part an order under the section may be made in respect of the part still remaining payable. But the section cannot be resorted to if the decree has been satisfied in part and the claim to the unsatisfied balance has been given up. (Mukherjea and Pal, JJ.) PROBHABATI MITRA v. ANIL KUMAR DAS. 209 I.C. 428-47 MITRA v. ANIL KUMAR DAS. 209 C.W.N. 645=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 629.

S. 34 (1) (b)—Application under—Maintainability-Decree entered as satisfied by sale proceeds in execution.

The exercise of the power of the Court to order payment of the decretal amount by instalments under S. 34 (1) (b) of the Bengal Money-Lenders under S. 34 (1) (b) of the Bengal Money-Lenders deals with default in payment of any instalment Act pre-supposes the existence of a subsisting referred to in Sub-S. (1) (b). That is an order decree. An application under this provision is, for instalments made on an application by a judg-therefore, not maintainable after the executive. Act pre-supposes the existence of a subsisting therefore, not maintainable after the executing ment debtor after a decree has been passed. It has

BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT (1940).

Court has entered up satisfaction of the decree in full by the proceeds of a sale in execution.

Per Nasım Ali. J.—It may be that if the sale be set asıde later on under O. 21, R. 90 C. P. Code, the order of the executing Court entering up satisfaction of the decree will automatically be vacated and the decree would be revived. On the happening of such a contingency it would be open to the judgement-debtor to make an application for relief under S. 34 (1) (b) of the Act. (Nasim Ali and Blagden, JJ.) RADHICA LAL GOSSAIN D. -S. 34 (1) (b)—Applicability—New decree passed after re-opening decree.

Per Pal, J.—There is nothing in S. 34 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act to limit its operation only to the passing of a decree where there has been no decree at any previous stage. Even when the Court makes a new decree after reopening a decree in suits in respect of loans advanced before the commencement of this Act other than those referred to in Cl. (a) of that section, the order should be in terms of S. 34 (1) (b) and should direct that if default is made in making payment of any instalment, that instalment, and not the whole of the decretal amount should be recoverable. (Akram and Pal, IJ.) BIBHUTI BHUSAN PAL v. KUMAR KALI BANKING CORPORA-TION LTD. 47 C.W.N. 309.

S. 34 (1) (b)-If ultra vires, so far as it operates on decrees on promissory notes passed before Act—Provision, if in conflict with Negotiable Instruments Act or C. P. Code—Government of India Act, Sch, VII, Items 28 and 53 of List I and Items 4 and 15 of List III.

S. 34 (1) (b) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. so far as it operates on decrees in suits on loans. evidenced by promissory notes passed before the commencement of the Act, would not come under Item No.28 or 53 of List I of the seventh schedule of the Government of India Act, and is not ultra vires of the Bengal Legislature. Legislation with respect to decrees on promissory notes before th commencement of the Act is not legislation "with respect to promissory notes" (Item No. 28 of List I). The provisions of S. 34 (1) (b) (ii) are not in conflict with the Negotiable Instruments Act. These provisions are in conflict with Rr. 3 and 11, O. 21, and Rr. 2 (26). 3, O. 37 of the Code of Civil Procedure (an existing Indian law). They come under Items 4 and 15 of the Concurrent List, List III and the repugnancy has been cured by the assent of the Governor General. (Derbyshire, C.J. Panckridge and Nasım Ali, JJ.) HARSUKHDAS v. -S. 34 (2)—Applicability—Money decree reopened and new decree payable in instalments passed—Time for payment of instalment—If may be extended.

S. 34(2) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act

no application where a money decree has been re-opened and as part of the new decree that is passed an order for payment in instalments is made with a direction that in default in payment of an instalment the decree holder purchaser would be put back in possession of the property restored to the judgment-debtor under S. 36 (2) (e). In the latter case the Court has no jurisdiction to extend the time for the payment of any instalment. (Henderson, J.) Ananda Chandra Sen v. Suresh Chandra. 48 C.W.N. 453.

——S. 35—Applicability—Mortgage decrees— Duty of Court—Valuation of property.

There in nothing in S. 35 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act which excludes mortgage decrees from its operation. In carrying out the directions of that section, it is incumbent upon the Court not only to specify so much of the property of the Judgment-debtor which it considers saleable at a price sufficient to satisfy the decree, it must also specify the price of the property below which it cannot be sold. In cases coming under the section the Court has to determine the price of the property which is to be put up for sale on proper evidence, and one and only one valuation can be given in the sale proclamation. The section cannot be complied with by mere insertion of the two valuations given by the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor respectively. (Mukherjea and Pal, J.) Asharam Thikadar v. Bijoy Singh Chapra. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 166=47 C.W.N. 666.

-S. 35-Scope-Sale proclamation issued before Act.

There is nothing in S. 35 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act restricting it to cases of loans taken after the Act or to decrees passed after the Act. But that section has no application to a sale proclamation validly issued before the Act came into operation. (Mukherjea and Sen, II.) GIRISH CHANDRA DAS v. SIBA PRASAD JANA. 202 I.C. 125 =15 R.C. 292=75 C.L.J. 45=46 C.W.N. 275=A. I.R. 1942 Cal. 472.

-S. 35, Proviso-"Amount decreed"-Meaning of—Two mortgages of same property in favour of same Mortgagee—First mortgage executed by all three owners—Second mortgage executed by only two of them-Suit on both mortgages decreed—Difference between specified price and highest bid foregone by decree-holder-How to be deducted.

The expression "amount decreed" in the proviso to S. 35 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act means the principal and interest covered by the decree. Where two mortgages of the same property were executed in favour of the same mortgagee and the first mortgage was executed by all the three owners of that property while the second only by two of them on their shares and a suit brought by the mortgagee on both the mortgages is decreed against all the mortgagors, the "amount decreed" against the mortgagor who was not a party to the second mortgage would be less than the "amount decreed" against each of the other two mortgagors. The "amount decreed" against the former is the amount due in respect of the first mortgage, while the "amount decreed" against the other two mortgagors is the total of the amounts due under both the mortgages. such a case, the difference between the specified price and the highest bid which the decree-holder has consented to forego has to be deducted entirely out of the amount decreed in respect of the first mortgage, and not out of the total of the amounts decreed in respect of both the mortgages or proportionately according to the ratio between the two amounts decreed in of the first and v. Netai Chand Datta. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal 280=216 I.C. 57=17 R.C. 99=A.I.R 19 44 Cal.

-S. 36—Agreement remitting certain amount and settling principal at certain sum-Re-opening.

Where by an agreement between the lender and the borrower a certain amount is remitted and the outstanding principal is settled at a certain sum, the Court can under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, re-open the settlement regarding the principal but not the remission. (Mitter and Akram, JJ.) RAJANI KANTA PAL v. HRISHIKESH DAS. 48 C.W.N. 755=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 391.

-S. 36—Applicability—Loan advanced in Bihar but payable either there or at Calcutta-Decree passed by Calcutta High Court-If can be re-opened. See Bengal Money-Lenders Act, Preamble and S. 36. I.L.R. (1942). 1 Cal. 505.

-S. 36—Application under—Nature o/—C. P. Code, O. 47.

An application for relief under the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is an original application under that act and not an application for review under O. 47. C. P. Code (Derbyshire, CJ. and Panckridge, J.) LAL MOHAN CHATTEFJEE v. SURESH CHANDRA MUKHERJEE. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 116=208 I.C. 154=16 R.C. 148=46 C.W. N. 607=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 170.

-Ss. 36 and 2 (22)—Application under O. 21 R, 90, CP. Code-If suit to which Act applies-Termination of execution case before 1st January 1939-Application under O. 21, R. 90 pending on that date—Application for review—If competent. See Bengal Money-Lenders Act. Ss. 2 (22) and 36. 46 C.W.N. 659.

-S. 36—Decree allowing interest in excess of limits specified in S. 30-Whether can be re-opened when new decree would be for larger sum.

If a decree allows interest in excess of the limits specified in S. 30 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, prima facie it can and ought to be re-opened under S. 36 of that Act if the other conditions laid down in that section are complied with. It is immaterial that if calculation be now made, the new decree would be for a sum in excess of what was allowed by the original decree. (Mukherjea and Pal, JJ.) PROBHABATI MITRA V. ANIL KUMAR DAS. 209 I.C. 428=47 C.W N. 645 =A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 629.

-Ss. 36 and 2 (22)-Decree for money advanced on hundi-Execution proceeding pending-Decree, if may be re-opened.

BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940).

A decree for money advanced on the basis of a hundi in respect of which an execution proceeding is pending is not a decree passed in a suit to which the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies, as money advanced on a hundi which is a negotiable instrument other than a promissory note is not a loan within the meaning of the Act. Consequently such a decree cannot be re-opened under S. 36 of the Act. (Mukheriea and Blank JJ.) BARADA CHARAN NANDI v. EASTERN UNION BANK, LTD. 201 I.C. 349=15 R.C. 169=75 C.L.J. 425=46 C.W.N. 555=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 389.

——S. 36—Decree passed after 1st January, 1939 but before Act coming into force—If can be reopened.

Under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act a suit for the re-opening of a decree passed after 1st January, 1939 and before the Act came into force, is maintainable. (Mitter and Akram, II.) D. J. HILL v. RAMTARAN BANERJI. 50 C.W.N. 47.

——Ss. 36 and 2 (22)—Decree passed before 1st January, 1939—Decree remaining unsatisfied on that date but no execution proceeding pending —If can be re-opened, See BENGAL MONFY-LENDERS ACT, Ss. 2 (22) AND 36. 46 C.W.N. 557.

S. 36—Form of decree—Declaratory decree absolving judgment-debtor of all liability—If can be bassed.

A mere declaratory decree absolving the judgment-debtor of all liability cannot legally be passed on an application under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders, Act, without a proper accounting in the manner laid down in the section. (Chakravartti, J.) AJARADDI v. SONAI BIBI. 49 C.W.N. 638.

The Court cannot grant a decree under S. 42 of the Specific Relief Act or under the provisions of Civil Procedure Code, declaring that the judgment-debtor need pay no more under the decree. Such a result can only be reached by re-opening the decree under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act. (Lord Goddard.) RENULA BOSE v. MANMATHA NATH BOSE. 49 C. W.N. 491=A.I.B. 1945 P.C. 108 (P.C.).

S. 36—Grant of instalments-Discretion of Court.

Although the granting of instalments is to a large extent discretionary, the exercise of the discretion must be based on proper legal evidence. (Sen and Das, JJ.) RAJSHAHI PEOPLE'S BANK, LTD. v. DEBENDRA MOHAN MOITRA, 49 C.W.N. 709.

3. 36—Grant of relief—Decrees and loans for which no decrees have been passed—Subsistence of liability on 1st January, 1939—If sufficient.

Under S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders Act relief may be granted to a debtor in respect of a decree if the decretal liability subsists on the 1st January, 1939, when the transaction is otherwise liable to be reopened. There is nothing in the Act or in general principles which would make subsistence of that liability on the date of the suit or application or on the date of the commencement of the Act a further requirement.

Obiter: Even in cases of loans for which no decrees have been passed, it is sufficient if the liability subsists on 1st January, 1939. (Chakravartti, J.) AJARADDI v. SONAI BIBI. 49 C.W.N. 638.

BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940).

Ss. 36 and 30—Grant of relief in respect of liability under decree—Decree, if must be re-opened.

In order to grant relief to a borrower in respect of his liability under a decree in excess of the limits set out in S. 30 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the decree must be re-opened. (Sen. J.) JUGGANNATH ROY v. MADAN MOHAN. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 186=204 I.C. 602=15 R.C. 533=45 C.W.N. 1042=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 125.

_____S. 36-Grant of relief-Person other than borrower.

Under the provisions of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, it is open even to a person who is not a "borrower" to show to what extent a "borrower" is liable, if thereby he can obtain any relief. There is nothing in the Act preventing the granting of relief, if otherwise obtainable, at the instance of such a person. (Edgley and Biswas, JJ.) Saradindu Mukherjee v. Jaharlal Agarwalla. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 326=200 I.C. 353=74 C.L.J. 61=46 C.W.N. 33=15 R.C 174=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 153.

S. 36—Grant of relief—Renopening of decree—If necessary.

If the Court takes a fresh account between the parties on the basis of the rate of interest permitted by the Bengal Money-Lenders Act and arrive at a figure other than that mentioned in the decree, it has of necessity to re-open the transaction between the parties. That being so, the Court ought to consider granting to the applicant the relief mentioned in S. 36 (2) of the Act. The Court cannot leave the decree and the sale held there under in tact, and merely release the applicant of all liability as regards interest in excess of the limits specified in S. 30 of the Act, although the price realised at the sale is insufficient to satisfy the dues of the decree-holder calculated in accordance with the Act. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Panckridge, J.) LAL MOHAN CHATTERJEE v. SURESH CHANDRA MUKHERJEE. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 116=208 I.C. 154=16 R.C. 148=46 C.W. N. 607=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 170.

——Ss. 36, 34 and 30—If ultra vires—Governement of India Act, Ss. 292 and 299.

The provisions of Ss. 30, 34 and 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, 1940, so far as they authorise Courts to reopen decrees passed before the Act came into operation and to pass new decrees in accordance with the Act, are not ultra vires the Bengal Legislature. They do not offend either S. 292 or S. 299 of the Government of India Act. The subject-matter of the Act comes within Item 27 of List II in Sch. VII of the Government of India Act. (Derbyshire, C.J., Panckridge and Nasim Ali, J.). PROMODE KUMAR v. BENOY KRISHNA. ILR. (1941) 2 Cal. 85=196 I.C. 80=14 R.C. 161=73 C.L.J. 316=4 F. L.J. (H.C.) 288=45 C.W.N. 581=A1.R, 1941 Cal. 425 (S. B.).

If an application under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lender's Act is rejected, the remedy is by way of revision. If it is, however, successful, and the decree is re-opened and a new decree is passed, the decree-holder is entitled to appeal against the new decree. If on appeal the new decree is set aside and the original decree is restored a second appeal from that decision is competent. (Henderson, J.) GOLAM MAHIUDDIN v. HRISHIKESH DATTA. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 360 = 47_C W.N. 464=218 I.C. 158=17 R.C. 205= A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 319 (1).

S. 36—Order granting application—Appeal -Court-fees.

No appeal lies from an order granting an application under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. But the aggrieved party can file an appeal against the amended decree. If the subjectmatter of the appeal can be valued, ad valorem court-fees will have to be paid under Sch. I, Art. 1 of the Court-Fees Act on the memorandum of appeal. If the subject-matter of the appeal cannot be valued, the fixed court-fee provided for in Sch. II, Art. 17 (vi) will have to be paid. Whether the subject-matter of the appeal can be valued or not depends upon the nature of the grounds taken in the memorandum of appeal. (Mitter and Sen, II.) PRAN HARI BAIDYA v. JOGESH CHANDRA. 46 C.W.N. 681.

Revision—C. P. Code, Ss. 96 and 115.

An order reopening a decree under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is not appealable as such. But an appeal would lie against the new decree after reopening the old one under S. 96 C. P. Code. As the aggrieved party has the right of appealing against the new decree where all questions relating to the impropriety of the order reopening the old decree may be raised and decided, the High Court should not entertain an application for revision against the order reopening the decree unless it considers it to be absolutely necessary for the purpose of avoiding costs or protraction of litigation. (Mukherjea and Blank, JJ.) JADU NATH RAY v. KSHITISH CHANDRA ACHARJYA. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 479=79 C.L.J. 155=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 177.

-S. 36—Powers of Court—Power to release borrower from liability without re-opening decree.

Under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act the Court may re-open a decree if it contravenes the provisions of S. 30 and further in suitable cases may, even without re-opening the decree, release a borrower of all liability in excess of the limits specified in S. 30 (1) and (2) of the Act. (Edgley, J.) MANMATHA NATH BOSE v. RENULA BIBL. 45 C.W.N. 863=198 I.C. 71=14 R.C. 427=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 681.

S. 36—Power of Court to act suo motu.

Under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the Court may suo motu grant any relief to which a borrower may be entitled under the Act, and it is not necessary for him to come before it by a separate application. Consequently the Court can grant relief under the section on materials contained in an affidavit filed by him in opposition to an application for final decree in a mortgage suit. (Sen, J.) cant must show that their exercise will bring relief against the specific evils, such as unduly high rates of interest at which the Act is aimed. The powers under the section cannot be exercised merely on the ground that the borrower is able to show that the exercise of them will ease his burden generally without regard to the Act. (Panckridge, J.) KAMALA RANJAN v. BFPIN ВЕНАВІ. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 73=196 I.C. 290 =14 R.C. 205=45 С.W.N. 619=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 540.

-S. 36-Proceedings under-Decree-halder purchaser spending money on property purchased—Right to reimbursement.

In a proceeding under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the decree-holder who has spent money on the property purchased by him cannot claim that sum by way of reimbursement. He must seek his remedy, if any, in other proceedings. (Mitter and Akram. II.) D. J. HILL v. RAMTARAN BANERJI. 50 C.W.N. 47.

Rules as to affidavie—C. P. Code, O. 19, R. 3 (1)

An application to obtain relief under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is not an interlocutory application such as is mentioned in O. 19, R. 3 (1), C.P. Code. It is really a separate proceeding in the larger proceeding of the suit and the decision of the Judge, (subject of course to appeal) when given, is a final decision upon the rights of the parties under the Act. Therefore, the affidavit the Court must receive and act upon in such a proceeding must be confined to such facts as the deponent is able of his own knowledge to prove. An affidavit stating that the deponent learnt from somehody else that the loan was a commercial loan is not satisfactory evidence, nor indeed evidence upon which the Court could act. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Nasim Ali, J.) HAFIZ SHAMSED AHMED v. CHATOO LAL DEY. 46 C.W.N. 474.

-S. 36-Procedure for obtaining relief-Decree passed in suit before 1st January, 1939-No proceeding in execution pending. See BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS ACT, Ss. 2 (22) AND 36. 46 C.W.

ment-debtor may be entitled to have the personal decree reopened under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act but not the final decree, has no application to a case where the Court, instead of passing a final decree followed by a personal decree, has passed a composite decree. As such a decree cannot be split into two, the judgment debtor is entitled to have it re-opened. (Henderson, J.) SITA NATH NANDI v. MANGAL CHANDRA. 46 C.W.N. 856.

—S. 36—Re-opening of decree after sale by transferee Court to decree-holder and before delivery of possession—Re-opened decree directing delivery of possession to decree-holder purchaser on default in paying instalments—Jurisdiction of executing Court to deliver possession on such default without fresh transfer of decree.

After a decree was transferred to another Court for execution and the property was purchased by the decree-holder in execution sale, that decree was re-opened by the transferor Court under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act and instalments were granted. The re-opened decree contained a direction to the effect that on default by the judgment-debtor the decree-holder would get possession of the property sold. The judgment-debtor defaulted and the decree-holder thereupon obtained delivery of possession from the executing Court. On objection by the judgment-debtor,

Held, that as the decree-holder had not taken delivery of possession no question of making an order under S. 36 (2) (c) or (e) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act arose and that there was also no question of transferring the new decree for execution as the sale by the executing Court was in tact.

Held also, that as the new decree directed that the decree-holder would get possession on default by the judgment-debtor, the executing Court was bound to execute it as it was. (Henderson, J.) BABULAL BANIA v; HARINAM SHAW. 48 C.W.N. 674.

-S. 36—Re-opening of decree—Effect of—Old decree and adjudications implied therein-If wiped out. The powers given by S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders Act are to be exercised only for the purpose of giving relief to the borrower against specific evils sought to be remedied by the Act, that is to say, to give relief from all liability for interest in excess of the limits specified in the Act. If in the exercise of the powers conferred by this section the Court thinks fit to re-open a decree the Court has to pass a new decree. The old decree is re-opened only so far as it is necessary to give relief to the borrower and the passing of the new decree does not mean that the old decree and all the adjudications implied in that decree are gone for ever. Under S. 36 (2) (a) of the Act the decree is to be re-opened only to the extent necessary to substitute the method of accounting sanctioned by the Act for the calculation on which the original decree was passed and the parties are not relegated to their rights and liabilities on the original cause of action. (Das. J.) SAMBHU CHARAN DEY v. HRISHIKESH DEY. 49 C.W.N. 367.

The Court can re-open a decree under S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders Act only if it is necessary to do so for the purpose of exercising any of the powers which are conferred by sub-

S. (1) of that section. A claim for instalments is not one of the reliefs which comes under the purview of that sub-section and cannot by itself afford a ground for re-opening a decree. (Mukherjea and Sen, JJ.) ANATH NATH v. RAJENDRA NATH. 198. I.C. 810=14 R.C. 508=45 C.W.N. 975=A.I.R. 1942. Cal. 120.

Decree allowing interest in excess of statutory rate.

If a decree made in a suit to which the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies, allows interest in excess of what is permitted under S.30 of the Act, here is sufficient ground for reopening the decree. Asto whether it is worth while for the judgment debtor to have a new decree when considerable time has elapsed since the date of the decree, is absolutely immaterial, (Mukherjea and Blank, JJ.) HEMENDRA NATH SANYAL v. SASHIBHUSAN TALUKDAR 205 I.C. 640=15 R.C. 657=75 C.L.J. 427=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 101.

Court to allow.

There is nothing in S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders Act which by implication abrogates S. 34 C. P. Code. On the contrary, S. 36 begins with the words: "Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force." Hence the existing laws are only affected to the extent laid down in the section. There is nothing in that section itself to justify an inference that the power of the Court to allow interest for a period subsequent to the decree has been taken away. Accordingly the Court has jurisdiction to allow interest for the period between the passing of the original decree and the passing of the new decree, when a new decree in a money suit is passed on an application for review under S, 36 (6) of the Act. (Henderson, J.) Purnachandra Biswas v. Kshirode Sundari Dutt. 204 I. C. 507=15 R. C. 529=46 C.W.N. 915=76 C.L.J. 275=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 610.

S. 36—Re-opening of decree—Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court—Application pending before Debt Settlement Board.

A Small Cause Court Judge has jurisdiction to deal with an application under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act for reopening a decree passed by his Court, although another application is pending before the Debt Settlement Board in respect of the same matter. (Henderson, J.) Tirthapada Dey v. Kabiruddin. 206 I.C. 211=15 R.C. 686=75 C.L.J. 505=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 142.

S. 36—Re-opening of decree—New decree allowing full interest up to its date—Profits realised by decree-holder from property purchased by him in execution—Whether can be deducted therefrom.

If the decree-holder has purchased a property in execution of his decree which is reopened under S. 36 (6) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the Court may refuse to give him any additional interest for the period between the passing of the original decree and the passing of the new decree on the ground that he has realised profits from that property. But if the Court by the new decree gives him the full amount of interest allowable under the Act up to the date of that decree, it cannot deduct the value of the profits therefrom, as it would be thereby compelling him to make a refund of such profits for which there is no provision in the Act. (Henderson, I) POGRA BANK, I TD. v. RAMANI MOHAN. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 170=209 I.C. 165=16 R. C. 319=46 C.W.N. 1026=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 569.

no provision for an order setting aside a sale under a decree, when that decree is reopened and a new decree is passed, but is specifically confined to making an order for delivery of possession. (Henderson, J.) Indra Sekhar Chakravarti v. Bidhumukhi Devi. 46 C.W.N. 915.

-S. 36-Re-opening decree-Power of Court-

Decree by consent.

Under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, the power of re-opening a transaction extends to re-opening a decree. The fact that the decree was made by consent is immaterial, as is also the fact that the amount was agreed. (Lord Goddard.) RENULA BOSE v. MANMATHA NATH BOSE. 49 C.W.N. 491 = A.I R. 1945 P.C. 108 (P.C.).

S 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act does not empower a Court to re-open a decree which is otherwise in order simply because it is in contravention of S. 31 of the Act. (Mitter and Blank, JJ.) Devraj Ray v. Lalji Morarji. 48 C.W.N. 200.

-S. 36-Re-opening of decree-Profits realised by decree-holder purchaser-If can be taken into account towards payment of debt.

If the decree-holder has purchased a property in execution of his decree which is re-opened under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, the Court cannot take into account the mesne profits as going towards the payment of the debt, although it may be justified in taking them into account in considering what rate of interest it would allow for the period since delivery of possession or whether it would allow any interest for that period at all. (Chakravartti, J.) AJARADDI v. SONAI BIBI. 49 C.W.N. 638.

-S. 35-Re-opening of decree-Proper test-Interest decreed exceeding statutory limit-Decree holder claiming less in execution—Relief if may be refused.

If an application is made by a judgment-debtor under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act for re-opening a decree passed against him, the proper test is to weigh the actual amount of the liability in respect of total interest under the decree as against what the amount would be if calculated at the appropriate rate specified in S. 30. It is wrong in applying as a test of the relief to be obtained by the debtor what the decree-holder may choose to claim in execution of his decree. If, therefore, the amount decreed in respect of interest exceeds the amount that could be decreed if the limits applicable under S. 36 (2) read with S. 30 (1) (c) are applied in calculating the liability of the judgment debtor, the decree is to he re-opened under S. 36 (1) (a) and S. 36 (6) at the instance of the judgment-debtor, although the amount claimed by the decree-holder in execu-

Power of Court to award.

The Court, while re-opening a decree under S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders Act and ordering restoration to the judgment-debtor of the property acquired by the decree-holder in execution of the same, cannot direct investigation of the mesne profits with regard to that property for the period that it was in possession of the decree-holder. There is no provision in the Act for giving such mesne profits to the judgment-debtor. (Mukherjea and Sen, IJ.) TAMIUK LOAN OFFICE CO., LTD. v. GANGA NARAIN KAR. 46 C.W N. 919.

-S. 36-Re-opening of mortgage decree-All items of mortgaged properties rot sold

A final mortgaze decree is not fully satisfied when all the items of the mortgaged properties have not been sold, and it can therefore be re-opened. (Mitter and Blank, JJ.) MONMOHAN MUKHOPADHYAY v. MADARIPORE I OAN OFFICE, LTD. 48 C.W.N. 87.

-8. 36-Re-opening of mortgage decree- Fresh money decree if can be passed—One of mortgagors applying for relief also under Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act-Entire proceedings-If must be stared.

If a mortgage decree is re-opened under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, a fresh mortgage decree, and not a simple money decree, has to be passed. As under the law a mortgage decree has to be passed in the presence of all the mortgagors, a mortgage decree cannot be re-opened and a fresh mortgage decree passed under the section in the absence of one of the mortgagors. Where two mortgagors apply for relief under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act and one of them subsequently applies for relief before D. S. Board under the Bengal Agricultural Debtors Act. the Court on receipt of a notice from the Board should not merely stay the proceedings so far as he is concerned and continue the hearing as against the other, but should stay the entire proceedings until the matter before the Board is disposed of, as the mortgage decree cannot be re-opened in the absence of one of them. (Sen and Das, JJ.) RAJSHAHI PROPLE'S BANK, LTD. v. DEBENDRA MOHAN MOITRA. 49 C.W.N. 709.

-S. 36-Re-opening of mortgage decree-Interest haid in excess of statutory rate-If may be appropriated towards principal

In taking fresh accounts on the reopening of a mortgage decree under S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders Act, any interest which had been paid by the mortgagor in excess of the rate permitted by the Act should not be appropriated towards principal, but should be credited against interest due. All that the borrower is allowed under S. 36 (1) (d), is a refund of the excess paid. If the excess is allocated to principal, it would be a refund in effect of an additional rebate of interest. By allocating the excess payment to a reduction of principal, interest payable on that reduced principal is similarly reduced and the mortgagor will obtain a greater advantage than seems to have been intended by S. 36. (Mc. Nair, J.) KUMAR PRAMATHA NATH ROY v. KANAKENDRA NATH TAGORE. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 199=15 R.C. 464=204 I C. 165=77 C.L.J. 24=46 C.W N. 873=A I.R. 1943 Cal. 17.

-S. 36-Re-opening of mortgage decree-Refusal on ground that applicant would have to pay larger sum as interest-Propriety.

The Court cannot refuse to re-open a mortgage decree on an application made under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act on the mere ground that if that was done the applicant would have to pay a larger sum by way of interest in order to redeem the property than he had to pay under the original preliminary decree. -S. 36—Re-opening of mortgage decree after

The Court re-opening a mortgage decree under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act after the mortgaged property is sold in execution of that decree, has no juri diction to set aside the sale. -S. 36-Re-opening of transaction-Rate of interest in mortgage bond above permitted rate -Duty of Court.

Where the rate of interest in a mortgage bond is above the permitted rate, and such interest has been paid for some time, it is the duty of the Court to re-open the transaction between the lender and the borrower and to take an account of what has been paid and also what ought to have been paid according to the Act, and on such re-opening and taking of accounts to give the borrower such relief as he is entitled to under the Act. # BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940). BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940)

Once a borrower establishes that the interest which has been claimed and ordered under a preliminary mortgage-decree exceeds the rate permitted by the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, he is entitled to have the transaction re-opened, and if the transaction is re-opened he is entitled to such relief as the Court ought to grant under the provisions of the Act. The decree-holder, cannot, by relinquishing his claim to the excess interest, bar him from such relief. (Derbyshire, C. J. and Panckridge, J.) KUMUB BEHARI SEN V. SATYA BRATA SEN. 46 C.W.N. 605=206 I.C. 196=15 R.C. 685=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 169.

-S. 36-Right to relief-Purchaser of portion of equity of redemption made party in mortgage suit.

A purchaser of the equity of redemption in some of the mortgaged properties who was made a party in the mortgage suit along with the mortgagor and who was affected by the preliminary decree passed in the suit, is entitled to apply to the Court for re-opening the transaction between the lender and the borrower on the lines laid down in the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. If such resopening gives relief he will get the henefit of the new decree. (Derbyshire. C.J., Nasim Ali and Gentle, IJ.) JUENDRA NATH GHOSE v. HRISHIKESH BANERJEE. 46 C.W.N. 692.

S. 36—Satisfaction of decree—Foreclosure suit—Compromise decree amount payable in instalments—Mortgagee entitled to recover possession on default of any instalment-Decree, if satisfied on default.

A suit for foreclosure culminated in a compromise decree which provided that the mortgage money was payable in certain instalments and that on default in payment of any one of the instalments the entire sum would become due and the mortgagee would be entitled to recover possession of the mortgaged property by taking out execution. There was default in 1938 and execution proceedings were started in 1940.

Held, that the decree could not be said to have been satisfied as soon as default occurred in 1938, that although the liabilities of the mortgagor might have been at an end as soon as the decree had become final, the decree itself was not satis-fied unless execution proceedings were taken and the mortgagee decree-holder got possession of the mortgaged property, and that, therefore relief could be granted under S. 36 of the Act. (Mukherjea and Sen. JJ.) SAMIRUDIN MALTEY v. NOBA KUMAR SAHA 201 I.C. 476=15 R.C. 206=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 224.

suit under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act for relief.

Held, that the judgment-debtor must deposit in Court the surplus amount withdrawn by herself and her creditors before she could be allowed to proceed further with her suit. (Mitter and Akram, II.) D. J. HILL v. RAMTARAN BANERJI. 50 C.W.N. 47.

-S. 36 (1)—Grant of relief—Loan fully satisfied before Act-Mortgage amount deposited by mortgagor under S. 83, T. P. Act and withdrawn by mortgagee before Act-Mortgage debt, if extinguished.

Where a loan has been fully satisfied before the Bengal Money Lenders' Act came into force, there can be no scope for the grant of relief in a suit under S. 36 (1), subject to the express provision to the contrary in Cl. (d) of S. 36 (1). Where before that Act came into force, the mortgagor deposited the mortgage amount under S. 83 of the T. P. Act and the mortgagee with drew that amount producing the mortgage deed in Court for return to the mortgagor, whether the deposit was in fact sufficient or not, it had the effect of completely extinguishing the mortgage debt so far as to bar an application for relief by the mortgagor under the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act. (Biswas and Akram, BHUPENDRA NATH ROY v. SUSHIL CHANDRA. 49 C.W.N. 542 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 370.

-8. 36 (1)—Loan fully satisfied by amicable settlement before 1st January, 1939-Relief, if can be granted.

Where there was no suit in respect of a debt but it had been discharged by amicable payment before the 1st January, 1939, the Court has no power in a suit by the borrower for relief filed after the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act came into operation to direct a refund to the borrower of the amount which may be found to be in excess of what may be found out on calculating interest in terms of S. 30 of the Act. It makes no difference in principle where the loan had been fully satisfied prior to the 1st January, 1939, either by payment in cash or in kind or by accord and satisfaction. (Mitter and Khund-BHUPENDRA NATH v. MANORANJAN kar, JJ.) BHURIA. 49 C.W.N. 189.

-S. 36 (1)—Power of Court to reopen decree -'Transaction'-If includes decree.

Under S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the power of re-opening the decree flows from and is dependent on powers which the Court has been authorised to exercise under Cls, (a) to (e) of that sub-section. It is, therefore. restricted to cases where the question of the exercise of all or any of these powers arises. Even if the word "transaction" in S. 36 (1) (a) is interpreted to include a decree, that power can be exercised only when the decree is to be reopened and accounts between the parties are to be taken. If there is no question of taking accounts, the Court has no power to reopen the decree under S. 36 (1) (a). The power of the Court to order payment by instalments and thereby to give relief to the debtor under S. 36 (2) (d) cannot be

(1) (a) as that power can be exercised only after the decree has been re-opened and not before. (Derbyshire, C.J., Panckridge and Nasim Ali, J.) ACCOWRIE MUKHERJEE 2. SALLENDRA MOHAN, I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 169=195 I.C. 779=14 R.C. 135=45 C.W.N. 548=73 C.L.J. 287=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 495.

-S. 36 (1) and (6)—Remedies open to borrower— Application to Court which passed decree made more than a year after commencement of Act-Execution proceedings pending in another Court - Application, if competent.

Reading sub-sections (1) and (6) of S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders Act together the position of a person claiming relief under that section is as follows:-If the suit has not proceeded to a final decree, that is to say, if the suit is actually being heard, the borrower may apply in that suit for relief under the Act. No separate formal application would be necessary. He may raise the plea in his written statement or he may claim relief at the time of the hearing of the suit by placing such facts before the Court as would entitle him to relief. After the suit has proceeded to a final decree the borrower has four remedies, namely, (a) he may apply for relief by instituting a suit for that purpose before the Court having jurisdiction to entertain such suit; this is provided for in sub-S. (1) of S 36; (b) he may apply to the Court which passed the decree if there are proceedings in execution pending before that Court; this is provided for by S. 36 (6) (a) (i); (c) he may apply to the Court, which passed the decree, for a review of such decree, provided he makes that application within one year of the commencement of the Act; this is provided for by S, 36 (6) (a) (ii); and (d) if an appeal is pending he may apply to the appellate Court : vide S. 36 (6) (b). It is clear from the above that no application lies to the Court which passed the decree under S. 36 (6) (a) (i), if execution proceedings are pending before another Court and not before that Court, and that the borrower cannot avail himself of the provisions of S. 36 (6) (a) (ii) if more than one year has clapsed since the passing of the Act before the making of his application. (Sen. J.) S RAY v. KARUNA KIS-HORE KAR. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Cal. 70.

-S. 36 (1) (a)—"Reopening a transaction"— Meaning of-Order releasing judgment-debtor of liability in excess of statutory limits and directing fresh accounts to be taken-Effect of.

On an application filed by a judgment-debtor for relief under the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the Court released him of all liability in excess of the limits specified in S. 30 (1) and (2) of the Act and ordered an account to be taken and a report made of his liability. The Court however observed in its order that it was not necessary to re-open the decree and did not pass an order for payment by instalments under S. 36 (2) (d) of the Act.

Held, that the Court by ordering a fresh account between the parties on the basis of the interest allowed by the Act had in fact re-opened the transaction between them, and that being so, it was bound to give effect to S. 36 (2) (d) of the Act. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Nasim Ali, J.) BHUPENDRA KRISHNA MUKHERJEE v. GUNENDRA KRISHNA ROY. 46 C.W N. 814.

-S. 36 (1), proviso (i)-Agreement "purporting to create new obligations"-Meaning of-Agreement keeping alive original obligation and invoked for re-opening the decree under S. 36 modifying some of its terms-If amounts to.

An agreement "purporting to create new obligations" referred to in proviso (1) to S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act covers only the case where the original obligation undertaken by the borrower at the time of the loan is completely superseded and a substituted obligation created, and not a case of mere taking of accounts or of a mere agreement to pay on the basis of the original obligation what is found to be the amount due on the taking of accounts. An agreement which does not extinguish the original obligation but keeps it alive modifying only some of its terms, is not one creating new ohligations and is not therefore covered by the proviso. Where in the agreement on the basis of which the original loan was given does not contain a stipulation for compound interest but later on the arrears of interest on the loan is by agreement between the parties added to the principal then outstanding and the horrower agrees to pay interest on it on the footing that it is to be the principal, this new transaction is one which creates a new obligation, for it creates a completely substituted obligation on the closing of the previous dealings and so would come within the proviso. S. 36 (1), proviso (i)—Applicability—Proceeding under S. 38.

S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act together with proviso (i) is applicable to a proceeding under S. 38 of the Act. In the case of such a proceeding, the date mentioned in the proviso is the date when the borrowers make the JADU NATH ROY v. JAGAT PRASANNA MUKHERJEE. 48 C.W.N. 625=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 320.

-S. 36 (1), proviso (i)-" Date of the suit"-Execution proceeding, if such suit.

Where the question of the application of proviso (i) to S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money Lenders' Act arises in the course of execution, that is to say, in a "suit to which this Act applies," which happens to be an execution proceeding, the date of the suit will be the date of the application in execution. 46 C.W.N. 906, foll. (Akram and Blank, ff) BARODA PROSAD SUKUL v DURGA PROSAD ROY. 49 C.W.N 216=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 320.

-S. 36 (1) Proviso (1)—"Date of the suit"-Interpretation.

The suit referred to in proviso (i) to S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act must be that type of the three types of suit contemplated by sub S. (1) in the course of which the relief is being given, and in which therefore the question of the application of the proviso arises. If the question arises in the course of a straight-forward suit by the creditor for his dues, the date will be the date of commencement of his suit, if it arises in the course of execution, that is to say in a "suit to which this Act applies", which happens to be an execution proceeding, the date will be the date of the application in execution, and if the question arises in a suit by a borrower for relief, the date will be the date of the borrower's suit. -S. 36 (1) Proviso (i)—'Date of suit'--Meaning of.

The words "the date of the suit" in S. 36 Cl. (1) proviso (i) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act mean "the date" when the suit contemplated by S. 36, Cl. (1) is brought and not the date of any application by the borrower under that Act. Nasim Ali and Pal, JJ.) NRISINHA CHANDRA PAL v. Kanaklata Dasi. 201 I.C. 306=15 R.C. 166 =46 C.W.N. 457 (1)=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 369 (2).

-S. 36 (1), proviso (i)-" Date of suit"-Meaning of-Review application under S. 36(6) (a) (ii)-If such suit.

The suit referred to in proviso (i) to S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act is the suit contemplated by S. 36(1); that is to say, it is either a suit to which the Act applies and in connection with which relief is claimed by the borrower or a suit expressly brought by the borrower for relief under the sub-section itself. Accordingly where the borrower files an application under S. 36 (6) (a) (ii) for review of a mortgage decree the suit for the purposes of proviso (1) to S. 36 (1) is the mortgage suit itself and not the review application, and any transaction within twelve years from the date of the commencement of the mortgage suit can be re-opened. (Mukheriea and Ellis, 11.) SURENDRA NATH v. KUMARKALI BANKING CORPORATION, LTD. 49 C.W.N. 214 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 333.

-S. 36 (1) proviso-"Suit"-Meaning of-Adjustment made less than 12 years prior to start of execution proceeding and more than 12 years prior to its revival-If barred.

In 1926, a settlement of account was arrived at between the parties calculating interest at a rate in excess of the maximum allowed by the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act. In 1930, a suit was filed and a preliminary mortgage decree was passed in 1931 and a final decree in 1934. Soon after an execution proceeding was started but this was struck out for non-appearance of parties in 1935. In 1944 the execution proceeding was revived by the decree-holder, and in that proceeding the judgment-debtor made an application under the Bengal Money Lenders' Act.

Held, (i) that the "suit" in S. 36 (1) proviso of the Act refers not to the application made under the Act. but to the suit filed in 1930 or the execution proceeding started in 1934 and as in either case the adjustment has been arrived at within 12 years, its re-opening is not barred by the proviso; (ii) that in re-opening the adjustment the Court should, in effect ignore it as it has been arrived at calculating interest at a rate in excess of the statutory rate. (Ormond, J.) RADHA-BALLAV SHAH v. NARENDRA NATH SHAH. 49 C. W N. 343.

——S. 36 (1) Proviso (i)-"Suit by the parties"

—Meaning of—If includes application under section during execution proceedings.

The "suit by the parties" mentioned in proviso (1) to S.36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act means the suit that is spoken of in sub-S. (1) (i.e.) it is either a suit to which this Act applies and in which relief has been claimed by the borrower, or the suit that is instituted under sub-S. (1) itself. It does not mean an application made under the section during execution proceedings. Where such proceedings relate to a mortgage decree, the "suit by the parties" is the mortgage suit itself.

v. MRITYUNJOY MUKHERJEE. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 441=48. C.W.N. 504=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 318.

-S. 36 (1), proviso (ii)-Final decree on mortgage by conditional sale before 1st January 1939-Application for possession by decree-holder after that date-Decree, if can be re-opened.

Where in a suit to enforce a mortgage by conditional sale, the final decree is passed before the 1st January, 1939, but an application for possession is made by the decree holder after that date, the decree is liable to be re-opened on an application by the judgment-debtor under S. 36 of the Bengal Money Lenders' Act. The judgment debtor's application is not hit by proviso (ii). The application made by the decree-holder for possession is one for the execution of his decree, and as it was pending after the 1st January, 1939, the decree is one passed in a "suit to which this Act applies." That decree is not fully satisfied until possession is delivered to the decree-holder in compliance with the directions in the decree. The explanation to proviso (ii) has no application to the case, as the decree-holder has not purchased the property in execution of a decree, (Sen, 1) BAZLU v. GOLAM MOSSAIN. 49 C. W.N. 467=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 281.

S. 36 (1) Proviso (ii)—Mortgage decree for sale—Preliminary and final decrees—When fully satisfied—Personal decree made after 1st, January, 1939—Preliminary decree, whether can be re-opened-Mode of giving relief.

(1) A final decree for sale in a mortgage suit is fully satisfied by the sale of the mortgaged property and the application of the sale p roceeds to the payment of the mortgage debt. In case the purchaser is the decree-holder himself. it is not fully satisfied till the proceeding for delivery of possession of the property sold is completed. If the final decree is satisfied before the 1st January, 1939, it cannot be re-opened even if the mortgage debt had not been satisfied in full, and a proceeding under O. 34, R. 6, Civil Procedure Code, was pending on or after the 1st January, 1939. (2) A preliminary decree passed in the usual form is not satisfied by the sale of mortgaged property but it becomes satisfied as soon as the personal decree under O. 34, R. 6. Civil Procedure Code is obtained, and the only decree that remains executable after that is the personal decree. If a preliminary decree incorporates a personal decree as is contemplated by Cl. (3) added to O. 34, R. 4, Civil Procedure Code, it cannot certainly be satisfied till the personal liability is also satisfied. (3) If a personal decree has been made before the 1st January, 1939, the preliminary decree must be regarded as satisfied before that date and cannot be re-opened, and the only decree that can be reopened is the personal decree, provided any proceeding in connection with the same was pending on or after the 1st January, 1939. (4) If the personal decree is made after the 1st of January. 1939 the preliminary decree can be re-opened, but it cannot be re-opened in such a way as to affect the final decree for sale already satisfied. The result will be that the sale of the mortgaged property will stand and the personal liability of the mortgagor will be scaled down and re-adjusted. (5) In both the cases coming under paragraphs (3) and (4) the mode of giving relief to the borrower would be the same. The Court is to look to the original claim in the mortgage suit and the amount decreed to the mortgagee in the preliminary with the provisions of the Money-Lenders Act. From that, the amount realised by sale of the mortgaged property is to be deducted and for the balance only, if any, a new personal decree should be passed. (Musherica and Blank, JJ.) Bhaba-NI Prasad Moitra v. Satyendra Nath Mukher-Jee. J.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 417=77 C.L.J. 373= 209 I.C. 34=16 R.C. 275=47C.W.N. 524=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 372.

S. 36 (1) Proviso (ii)—Mortgage executed before 1939 to satisfy decree passed on earlier mortgage—Earlier mortgage carrying interest in excess of maximum allowed under Act-Decree passed in 1940 on later mortgage—If can be reopened so as to affect earlier mortgage decree.

A mortgage was executed before the 1st day of January, 1939, in satisfaction of a decree passed on an earlier mortgage which carried interest at a rate higher than the maximum rate of interest allowed under the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. A decree was passed in 1940 on the later mortgage which fixed interest within the limits specified in the Act. On an application made for re-opening this decree, Held, that having regard to S. 36 (1), proviso (ii) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the Court in granting relief was not permitted to do anything which affected the earlier mortgage decree, as it was not a decree passed in a suit to which the Act applied, and that consequently the Court could not re-open the earlier mortgage and grant relief by a refund of the interest paid in excess of the maximum allowed under the Act. (Sen.J.) PROMODE KUMAR ROY v. TINCOWRIE DEV. 197 I.C. 817=14 R.C. 395=I.L.R (1942) 1 Cal. 157=45 C.W.N. 1006=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 37.

-S. 36 (1), proviso (ii) Preliminary and final mortgage decrees-When fully satisfied-Preliminary, final and personal decrees passed before 1st January, 1939—Execution of personal decree pending there after-Decrees, if can be re-opened.

A preliminary mortgage decree gives the mortgagee the right to realise the amount declared to be due on the mortgage, and until that amount is realised in full the decree cannot be said to be satisfied. Where, therefore, the proceeds realised by the sale of the mortaged property in execution of the final decree fall short of the decretal amount and the execution of the personal decree passed for the balance is still pending, the preliminary decree cannot be said to have been satisfied merely by reason of the sale and the passing of the personal decree. But a final decree for sale is fully and completely satisfied if the mortaged property mentioned in the preliminary decree is sold and the sale proceeds applied in payment of the decretal amount, even if the entire mortgage money is not realised. Where in a case in which the preliminary final and personal decrees were passed before 1st January, 1939, and the proceeding in execution of the personal decree was pending thereafter, an application for re-opening the decree under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act was made.

Held, (i) that the preliminary decree was not fully satisfied before 1st January.1939, but that the final decree was, and that, therefore, the fordecree, and calculate what the amount should be mer decree was not protected from interference if a new decree was then made in accordance by the proviso (ii) of S. 36 (1) of the Act, but that the latter decree was; (ii) that the scaling down of the preliminary decree would affect the final decree and the sale held there-under and consequently it would amount to a disregard of the prohibition contained in the proviso, and that for this reason the preliminary decree could not be re-opened; (iii) that the only decree that could be re-opened was the personal decree, that the Court would have to calculate the amount that could be allowed to the mortagee if a new preliminary decree was made and deduct from this the amount realised by sale of the mortgaged properties and pass a personal decree for only the balance, and that if the balance was negative, nothing would be recoverable under the personal decree but that the mortgagor could not claim refund of any amount as that would be doing something which affected the final decree. (Mukheriea and Sen. IJ.) NARESH CHANDRA GUPTA v. LAI MAMUD BHUIYA. I.L R. (1942) 2 Cal. 243=202 I.C 343=15 R.C. 323=76 C.L., J. 41=46 C W.N. 457 (2)=A.I R. 1942 Cal. 379 followed in Nilmony v. Chandra Madhu. 46 C.W.N. 463.

-S. 36(1) (a), proviso (ii)—Sale in execution of final mortgage decree held before 1st January, 1939 Personal decree for unrealised balance not passed, but not barred by limitation on that date-Preliminary and final decrees, if can be re-opened.

A mortgage suit remains pending on the 1st January, 1939, although the preliminary and final decrees have been passed and the sate held in execution of the final decree confirmed before that date, if the amount mentioned as due in the final decree has not been realised in full by the sale and on the 1st January, 1939, an application for a personal decree has not become barred. The circumstance that no personal decree has been actually passed or has been applied for is immaterial. It follows that the preliminary and final decrees being decrees in a suit which has been pending on the 1st January, 1939, are decrees in a suit to which the Act applies and neither of them has been fully satisfied by that date. The bar of the second proviso to S 36 (1) is thus crossed. (Chakravartti, J.) AJARADDI v. SONAI BIBI. 49 C.W.N. 638.

-S. 36 (1) (a) proviso (ii)—Sale in execution of final mortgage decree held before 1st January 1939-Personal decree remaining unsatisfied on that date-Preliminary, final and personal decrees-Whether can he re-opened.

Where in a suit for the recovery of money lent upon a mortgage, the final decree was executed by the sale of the mortgaged property before the 1st January, 1939, but a personal decree for the unrealised balance remained unsatisfied on that date and a proceeding for its execution was instituted thereafter, the Court can in the exercise of its powers under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act re-open the preliminary decree and final decree as well as the personal decree so as to affect all the three. Each of the three decree in the suit is a decree to which the Act applies, and none of these three decrees was fully satisfied by the 1st January, 1939. 46 C.W.N. 457 and 47 C.W.N. 524, overruled. 75 C.L.J. 299, approved. ### BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940). | BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940).

-S. 36 (1), Proviso (ii)—Scope—Mortgage decree passed in 1939—Consideration for mortgage being sums due under prior decrees—Mortgage, if may be re-opened—Such prior decrees, if may he "affected".

Where a decree was passed on a mortgage in a suit which was pending on the 1st day of January, 1939, and the consideration for the mortgage was the total of two sums which were due under two prior decrees, an application for re-opening the mortgage transaction under S 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is hit by the second proviso to sub-S. (1) of that section, which lays down that in re-opening transactions the Court is not to do anything which "affects" any decree of a Court. The re-onening of the mortgage transaction must necessarily involve a re-opening of the two prior decrees. It is no answer to say that the decrees had ceased to exist by reason of the execution of the mortgage bond in lieu thereof, and that, therefore, there were no decrees to be affected. Proviso (ii) does not mean that a decree may not be affected within the meaning thereof, if it is no longer subsisting. On the other hand, it seems clearly to contemplate the affecting of decrees which were already satisfied. The exception within the Proviso (ii) is of no avail to the applicant. The two prior decrees cannot obviously be said to be decrees in suits to which the Act applies, as neither the suits nor any execution proceedings in connection therewith were pending on the 1st January, 1939. Nor can it be said that the decrees were decrees which were not fully satisfied by that date. The decree had ceased to exist on execution of the mortgage hand in lieu thereof, and that would doubtless be satisfaction of the decrees. In any case, the decrees must be deemed to have been satisfied, if their execution had become barred by limitation. (Mukheriea and Ristuas, J.J.) TARAPADA BANFRIEE v. AJIMADDIN MALLICK, 197 I.C. 821=14 R C. 393=45 C.W.N. 969=74 C.L.J. 7=A.I.R 1941 Cal. 699.

-S.36 (1), proviso (ii)—Time-barred decree— If fully satisfied.

A decree is fully satisfied when the obligation created by it is completely discharged; and the judgment-debtor cannot be compelled in law to do anything further in compliance with its directions. A decree which is time-harred can be treated as satisfied by operation of the law of limitation and will come under proviso (ii) to S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money Lenders Act. This proviso does not contemplate satisfaction of a decree by payment alone. (Mukherjea and Blank, JJ.) BHA-BANI PROSAD MOITRA v. SATYENDRA NATH MUK-HERJEE. 209 I.C. 34=16 R.C. 275=47 C.W.N. 524=77 C.L.J. 373=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 372.

-S. 36 (1) (b)—Mortgage—Application for sale-Application by defendant for relief under the Act-Agreement setting the issues-Defendant not receiving full benfit which Act gives him-Agreement, can be recorded and decree passed-C. P Code. O. 23 R. 3.

In th course of an application for sale in a mortgage suit, the defendant applied for relief under the Bengal Money-Lenders Act and for reduction in the amounts due under the decree. When the application was pending, an agreement was arrived at between the parties disposing of issues and disputes between them. The agreement was lawful and did not work a substantial injustice to the defendant although he did not receive the full benefit which the Act gave him.

Held, that the provision in S. 36 (1) (b) of the Act enabling the Court to re-open any account taken between the parties not withstanding any agreement purporting to close previous dealings did not prevent the plaintiff from having the agreement recorded, and a decree passed in accordance therewith. (Gentle, I.) UPENDRANATH DAS v. DURLAY CHANDRA KUNDU. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 373=218 I.C. 140=18 R.C. 4-AI.R. 1944 Cal. 334.

decretal amount in excess of limits prescribed by S. 30—If re-opens decree—Duty to make new decree.

If the Court reduces the amount due under a decree by a sum which, according to it, is the excess amount allowed in contravention of S. 30 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, and makes proportionate alteration in the order for costs also, it in reality re-opens the decree and it is bound to make a new decree as contemplated by S. 36 (2) of the Act. If it is a mortgage decree the new decree has got to be made in accordance with S. 34 of the Act. (Mukherjea and Sen, JJ.) Anath Nath v. Rajendra Nath. 198 1.C. 810 = 14 R. O. 508=45 C.W.N. 975=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 120.

-S. 36 (1) (c)—"Liability"—If must subsist on date of application.

In a case where relief is asked for in a suit to which the Act applies or in an independent suit, the word liability in S. 36 (1) (c) cannot be taken to mean liability which is subsisting at the date of the application or suit or at the dete on which the Act came into operation. (Biswas and Latifar Rahman, JJ.) BALAI CHAND DE v. AKSHAYA KUMAR. 48 C.W.N. 596.

S. 36 (1) (c) and (2)—Mortgage decree Court relieving judgment-debtor from liability to pay interest in excess of limits specified in S 30—i/bound to re-open decree.

Where after a decree has been passed on a mortgage the judgment-debtor seeks relief from liability to pay interest on the mortgage in excess of the limits specified in S. 30 of the Bangal Money-Lenders Act, the Court cannot grant him relief without re-opening the decree. Once the decree is re-opened, the Court must under S. 36 (2) pass a new decree in accordance with the terms of S. 34 (1) (a) of the Act. 45 C.W.N. 859 and 863, dissented from. (Sen. J.) Under S. 36 (1) (c) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the Court may in a proper case, vithout re-opening a decree, treat it as fully atis fied by writing off the amount by which the lecree holder's dues under the decree exceed the mount calculated at the rate of interest prescribed in S. 30. # BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT,(1940).

—S. 36 (1) (c)—Relief in respect of preliminary mortgage decree—Duty of Court to ropen decree and pass new deree—Power to grant instalments and interest.

The Court exercising the power contained in S.36 (1) (c) of the Bangal Money-Lenders Act in respect of a preliminary mortgage decree which allows interest in excess of what is allowable under S. 30 (1) (c) of the Act, should reopen that decree and pass a new decree in accordance with the provisions of the Act. With the supersession of the preliminary decree, the final decree passed on the basis there of mustialso go. The new preliminary decree which has to be passed must be in accordance with S 34 (1) (a) (i) of the Act and must therefore give instalments to the Mortgagor if there is an application by him. It may impose conditions, with a view to see that the decree holder does not lose the full benefit of his security during the period that the instalments may be spread over by reason of any act or default on the part of the judgment-debtor. The Court has power to grant simple interest at the rate of 8 percent, per annum on the principal of the loan from the date of the institution of the mortgage suit up to the date of the passing of the new preliminary decree and there after at the same rate up to the date of default, should the judgment-debtor fail to pay the instalments provided the amount of interest directed to be paid together with the amounts already paid does not exceed the principal of the loan. (Mitter and Akram, JJ.) PROMODE NATH SINHA V. RASESHWARI DASSI. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 414 = 204. I C 502=15. R.C. 525 = 77 C.L. J. 174= 46 C.W.N 153=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 128.

3. 36 (2)—Costs that may be added to new decree.

For the purposes of S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act all that the Court can add to the new decree are those amounts provided for in S. 36 (2) of the Act, namely, the costs in respect of the re-opened decree and even that is left to the discretion of the Court. It cannot add to the decretal amount, (c.g.) costs incurred by the purchaser in a partition suit or in improvements effected by him. He is left to recover his dues in other proceedings but not in the proceedings for relief by the debtor under this section. (Mitter and Waight, JJ) SUHASHINI PODDAR v. SREENATH CHAKRAVARTY. 49 C.W.N, 769.

S. 36 (2)—Re-opening of final mortgage decree

New preliminary decree for sale—If and when may be passed—Right of decree-holder purchases to personal decree—Restoration of property to judgment-dehtor—
Liability of decree-holder purchases for mesne profits—Restoration of property to decree-holder purchases on judgment-debtor's default—Basis of title of former.

Although a final mortgage decree in execution of which the decree-holder has purchased the mortgaged property is re-opened and a new decree is passed the title to the property continues to remain in the decree-holder purchaser. The rights conferred on the judgment-debtor to whom possession is restored under S. 36 (2) (c) of the Rengal Money-Lenders' Act are therefore of the nature of lure in re alieno, the title being still in the decree-holder purchaser but burdened with the enjoyment of the judgment-debtor as long as he pays the instalments payable under the new decree. When the new decree is fully paid up, he becomes the owner.

The consideration being extinguished, the sale becomes void from the date of the payment of the last instalment payable under the new decree. From the above, the following conclusions follow:—(i) where all the mortgaged properties have been sold in execution of the re-opened final mortgage decree and purchased by the decree-holder, a new preliminary mortgage decree followed on default of payment of instalment by a new final mortgage decree would be meaningless, for such decrees would have to be for sale of the mortgaged properties. In such a case there would be at the time nothing to sell, as the title to the mortgaged properties would not then be with the judgment debtor but with the decree-holder himself by reason of his purchase in execution of the re-opened final mortgage decree; (ii) if all the mortgaged properties had not been sold in execution of the re-opened final mortgage decree, there would be the necessity of passing a new preliminary decree for sale of the remaining unsold properties. That preliminary decree must provide for two things on default being made by the judgment-debtor in the payment of the instalments payable under the new decree, namely, (i) that possession of those properties which had been purchased by the decree-holder in execution of the re-opened final mortgage decree is to be restored to him and the amount at which he had purchased the same to be set-off against the balance of the new decree, and (ii) that if after the set-off there remains a sum still payable to the decree-holder, the latter will have the right to apply for a new final decree for the sale of those unsold mortgaged properties in terms of S. 34 (1), Cl. (a) (ii); (iii) that the decreeholder purchaser is not accountable to the judgmentdebtor for mesne profits from the date at which he had taken possession of the properties parchased in execution of the re-opened decree till the date when the order for restoration of those properties to the judgment-debtor is made at the time of the re-opening of the old decree, although he is accountable for such profits to the judgment-debtor from the date of the order for restoration if he keeps him out of possession in spite of that order, as (e.g.) when he files on appeal from the order re-opening the decree or from the new decree and obtains an ad interim order for stay of delivery of possession; (iv) if the judgment-debtor commits default in the payment of any instalment payable under the new decree the decree-holder on getting back the properties from the judgment-debtor in terms of S. 36 (2), Cl. (2). would enjoy the same on the basis of the title he had acquired by his purchase in execution of the re-opened decree. The third and the fourth propositions would be equally applicable when the re-opened decree is a simple money decree. As the decree-holder purchaser would hold the properties restored to him on judgmentdebtor's default on the title acquired in execution of the final mortgage decree (though re-opened), the words of O. 34, R. 6, C.P.Code, would not stand in his way if he were to apply for a personal decree for the balance even if by reason of the sale of all the mortgaged properties in execution of the re-opened decree the new decree has to take, and takes, the form of a decree for a sum of money which simply directs payment of the decretal amount in instalments. -S. 36 (2) (a) and (b)—Effect of—Attaching creditor of decree holder of mortgage decree-If decree-holder of that decree - Property purchas ed bona fide by him in execution-If may be restored to judgment debtor of that decree on being re-opened.

The effect of Cls. (b) and (c) of S. 36 (2) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is that if the decree-holder of the re-opened decree is the purchaser, possession must be restored to the debtor. If any other person is the purchaser, possession cannot be restored to the debtor, provided that such a purchaser had purchased bona fide. An attaching creditor of the decree-holder of a mortgage decree which is re-opend cannot be regarded as the "decree-holder" of that decree within the meaning of those two sub-clauses, by reason of the fact that he attached that decree and carried on the proceedings in execution. Consequently the judgment-debtor of the mortgage decree cannot have the possession of the properties which the attaching decree-holder had bona fide purchased at the Court-sale, restored to him. (Mitter and Blank, JJ.) MONMOHAN MUKHOPADHAYAY v. MADRIFORE LOAN OFFICE, LTD. 48 C.W.N. 87.

-S. 36 (2) (a)—New decree—If should be in terms of S. 34.

When a decree is reopened under S. 36 (1) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the new decree under sub-S. (2) (a) must be passed in terms of BIBHUTI BHUSAN PAL v. KUMAR KALI BANKING CORPORATION, LTD. 47 C.W.N. 309.

-S. 36 (2) (a)—Re-opening of decree— Extent.

S. 36 (2) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act does not relegate the parties to their rights and liabilities on the original cause of action. The decree is re-opened only to the extent necessary to substitute the method of account-taking sanctioned by the Act in place of the calculation on tioned by the Act in place of the calculation on which the original decree was passed. -S. 36 (2) (a)—Re-opening of decree—Position of parties-Plea of payment rejected in suit-If can be given effect to.

S. 36 (2) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act does not relegate the parties to their rights and liabilities under the original cause of action but authorises the re-opening of the decree only to the extent necessary to substitute the method of accounting sanctioned by the Act in place of the calculation on which the original decree was passed. The Court re-opening the decree cannot, therefore, give effect to the debtor's plea of payment prior to the suit which, in the suit, he had advanced unsuccessfully. (Chakravartti, J.) AJA-REDDI v. SONAI BIBI. 49 C.W.N. 638.

BENGAL MONEY-LENDERS' ACT, (1940).

S. 36 (2) (b)—Right of purchaser at Court sale to complete sale-If protected.

The right to which reference is made in S. 36 (2) (b) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is not necessarily a right in respect of the property which was sold at the Court sale. The language used is sufficiently wide to include the right which a purchaser, who has as required by the conditions of sale deposited 25 per cent. of the purchase money, has to apply to have the sale completed. The position of such a purchaser, if he is not the decree-holder, is safeguarded by S. 36 (2) (b) of the Act. (Edgley, J.) KIRONBALA v. HIRALAL. 196 I.C. 413=14 R.C. 230=45 C.W. N. 621=A,I.R. 1941 Cal, 492.

—S. 36 (2) (b) and (c)—Scope—Decree-holder purchasing undivided share of fudgment dibtor in execution of re-opened decree—Separate allotment given to him in partition suit—Right of judgment-debtor to restoration of possession of that allotment.

Where the decree-holder purchases an undivided share of the judgment-debtor in certain property at a sale in execution of the re-opened decree and on the basis of the title thus acquired by him a separate allotment is given to him in a partition suit, the property so acquired is acquired by him "in consequence of the execution of the re-opened decree' within the meaning of S. 36 (2) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, and the judgmentdebtor is entitled to get restoration of possession of that allotment. The right of the judgment-debtor to get restoration is not taken away by S. 36 (2) (b). No doubt under this clause there cannot be any restoration of possession to the judgment debtor if the decreeholder purchases the judgment-debtor's property in execution of the re-opened decree and thereafter conveys the property to a bona fide purchaser for value, and it would not make any difference whether that bona fide purchaser for value gave cash money as consideration for his purchase or a bond or another property of his in exchange. But a partition is neither an exchange nor a conveyance, and by it a co-sharer gets a separate allotment by virtue of his antecedent title as co-sharer and there is no acquisition of property in another independent right. This clause, therefore, is not attracted to it. (Mitter and Waight, JJ.) SUHASHINI PODDAR 2. SREENATH CHAKRAVARTY. 49 C.W.N. 769.

—S. 36 (2) (c)—Decree-holder purchaser also acquiring another title to same property by purchase at putni sale, rent sale and certificate sale—Restoration when may be directed,

Under S. 36 (2) (c) of the Beugal Money-Lenders Act, the Court is not only competent but bound to restore possession of those properties only which the decree-holder acquired in consequence of the execution of the decree which is reopened. But if after purchase in execution of the re-opened decree, the decree holder acquired another and an independent title to the same property, which destroys or defeats the title previously acquired, the Court could not order restoration of possession in such cases. It would be otherwise, however, if the subsequent acquisition was subject to the previous purchase and did not override it. Accordingly on re-opening a mortgage decree the Court can direct restoration of the property purchased by the decree-holder in execution there of, (1) where that property was again purchased by the decree-holder at a subsequent certificate sale, which was subject to extended the content of the property and the decree-holder at a subsequent certificate sale, which was subject to extended the content of the property and the decree-holder at a subsequent certificate sale, which was subject to extended the content of the property was subject to extended the case of the property was subject to extended the case of the property was subject to extended the case of the property was subject to extended the case of the property was subject to extended the case of the property was subject to extended the case of the property was subject to extended the propert had the effect of transferring merely the right title and interest of the debtor, and (2) where that property was again purchased by the decreeholder at a subsequent rent sale held at the instance of a superior landlord at a time when the property had already vested in him and he was not made a party to the execution proceeding the Court cannot, however, direct restoration of the property (1) where that property was again purchased by the decree-holder at a subsequent putnisale, although the putni rent for which the sale was held accrued after his purchase at the mortgage sale and (2) where that property had been purchased by him at a putni sale held prior to the mortgage sale. (Mukherjea and Blank, IJ.) Kamalakshya Chowdhary v. Joychand Lal. 48 C.W.N. 105.

——S. 36 (2) (c)—Property purchased by decreeholder along with stranger in equal shares—Restoration of half-share of decree holder—If proper.

Where in execution of the re-opened decree, the property had been purchased by the decree-holder along with a stranger, in equal shares an order under S. 36 (2)(c) of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act restoring to the judgment-debtor the half share purchased by the decree-holder is proper. (Mitter and Warght, JJ). Subhashini Poddar v. Srinath Charravary. 49 C.W.N. 714.

—Ss. 36 (4) and 2(22)—Applicability—Property sold and possession delivered to decree-holder before 1st January, 1989—Subsequent suit by him for declaration of title and possession on allegation of dispossession—If one to which Act applies—Application to set aside safe by judgment-decree enaing in settlement that it money is paid by certain date sale would be set aside—liflect of.

A suit for a declaration of title and recovery of possession of property filed after 1st January, 1939 by a decree-holder auction-purchaser who had taken delivery of possession before that date on the allegation that he was subsequently dispossessed, is not a suit to which the Act applies within the meaning of S. 2 (22) of the Bengal Money-Lender's Act, and the judgment-debtor cannot, therefore, maintain an application under S. 36 of the Act relying on such a suit. The fact that an application filed by the judgment-debtor under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, ended in a settlement whereby it was agreed that if a certain sum was paid within a certain time the sale would be set aside, but no payment was made, does not make the title suit a suit to recover, a loan or to enforce an agreement. S. 36 of the Act does not, therefore, apply to the suit by virtue of the provisions of sub-S. (4) (Henderson, J.) GOLAM Mohiudding. Hrishikesh Datta, 218 I.C. 158. =I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal 360=47 C.W.N. 464=17 218 I.C. 158. R.C. 205=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 319 (1).

would be otherwise, however, if the subsequent acquisition was subject to the previous purchase and did not override it. Accordingly on re-opening a mortgage decree the Court can direct restoration of the property any property from one member to another either by purchased by the decree-holder in execution there of, (1) where that property was again purchased by the decree-holder at a subsequent certificate which was subject to encumbrances and assignee of the interest of the other members, and assignee of the interest of the other members, and assignee of the interest of the other members, and assignee of the interest of the other members, and assignee of the interest of the other members, and assignee of the interest of the other members.

such cannot seek the protection of S. 36 (5) of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act. (Sen and Das, JJ.) Das, JJ.) KHIRODE SUNDARI v. CHUNI LAL. 49 C.W.N. 779.

-S. 36 (5)—Pre-Act assignee—If exempted from S. 30.

S. 36 (5) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies to an assignee who became such even before the Act. Consequently a decree obtained by him cannot be re-opened under that section. Other provisions of the Act do however apply. There is nothing in S. 30 which makes its provisions subject to their being invoked under S. 36. If, therefore, the borrower shows that the sum he has paid is equal to or exceeds twice the amount of the principal of the original loan, his liability is discharged by S. 30 which prevents the pre-Act assignee from recovering from him any further sum. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Gentle, J.) HEMANTA KUMAR v. BASANTA KUMAR. 46 C.W.N. 677=75 C.L J. 338=204 I.C. 296=15 R.C. 494=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 26.

—S. 36 (5)--Pre-Act, Assignee-If protected. Per Derbyshire, C.J.-S. 36 (5) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act includes a pre-Act bone fide transferee within its protective provisions, since a pre-Act transferee cannot have had the notice prescribed by S. 28 (2) of the Act. The case in S. 36 (1) (d) is, however, a special one, and a transferee coming under this provision is not protected by S. 36 (5).

Per Nasim Ali, J.—S. 36 (5) of the act protects only bona fide assignees for value after the Act who did not receive the notice referred to in S. 28 (1) (a) of the Act, but not the assignees before the Act. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Nasim Ali, J.) MANMATHA NATH BOSE v. RENULA BOSE. 45 C. W.N. 1091.

S. 36 (5)—Pre-Act assignee—1f protected. Under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders' Act, the Court cannot grant relief to a judgment-debtor against a bona fide assignee for value of the decree, where both the decree and the assignment took place before the Act came into operation. S. 36 (5) affords protection to the rights of a bona fide assignee for value who has not received the notice referred to therein. It includes a pre-Act bona fide assignee to whom no such notice could have been given. (Lord Goddard.) RENULA BOSE v. MANMATHA NATH BOSE. 49 C.W.N. 491=A.I.R. 1945 P.C. 108 (P.C.)

S. 36 (5)—Pre-Act Assignee—If protected. S. 36 (5) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies to both ante-Act and post-Act assignees. Consequently a bona fide assignee for value who took his assignment before the Act is entitled to claim the benefit of this provision. (Sen, J.) BHUPENDRA NATH DUTT v. DEBENDRA NATH ASH. 201 I.C. 273=15 R.C. 164=46 C.W.N. 368=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 370.

S. 36 (5)—Pre-Act assignee—If protected. A bona nde assignee who took his assignment before the Bengal-Money-Lenders Act came into force, is not protected by the provisions of S. 36 (5) of the Act. (Roxburgh, J.) Krishnadhon Mondal v. Nalini Chandra. 46 C.W.N. 388.

-S. 36 (5)—Pre-Act assignee—If protected. S. 36 (5) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act should be interpreted in its plain grammatical sense which would bring a pre-Act assignee within the fold of its protection. It would be applicable to cases where the proviso to S. 36 (1) (d) applies. Mukherjea and Blank, IJ.) PRAFULLA Kumar Das v. Kamini Kumar Chakravarthi. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 389=75 C.L.J. 288=206 I.C 253=15 R.C. 693=46 C.W.N. 673=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 476.

-S. 36 (6)—Ground for refusal of relief— Applicant unscrupulous.

The fact that the applicant is an unscrupulous man is not a valid reason for rejecting his application under S. 36 (6). (Henderson, J.) Purnach-ANDRA BISWAS v. KSHINODE SUNDARI DUTT. 204 I.C. 507=15 R.C. 529=46 C.W.N. 915=76 C.L. J. 275=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 610.

-S. 36 (6)—Re-opening of decree—Interest between dates of that and new decree-Award of-Power of Court-C. P. Code, S. 34.

When a new decree in a money suit is passed on an application for review under S. 36 (6) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, the Court has jurisdiction to allow interest for the period between the passing of the original decree and the passing of the new decree. There is nothing in that section to justify an inference that the power of the court under S. 34, C.P. Code to allow interest for a period subsequent to the decree has been taken away. (Henderson, J.) INDRA SEKHAR CHAKRA-VARTI V. BIDHUMUKHI DEVI. 46 C.W.N. 915.

-S. 36 (6) (a)—Applicability—Decree passed after 1st January, 1939.

S. 36 (6) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies to a decree passed after 1st of January, 1939, in a suit pending both on and after that date (Mukherjee and Blank, JJ.) SAILABALA DASI v. HARISHCHANDRA DE. 46 C.W.N. 875.

-S. 36 (6) (a)—Decree barred by limitation

-If decree fully satisfied.

Per Henderson, J.-A decree which is barred by limitation is not a decree which has been fully satisfied within the meaning of S. 36 (6) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act. (Nasim Ali, Muter and Akram, JJ.) APARNA KUMARI v. GIRISH CHANDRA CHOWDITURY. 48 C.W.N. 406.

-S. 36 (6) (a)—Decree passed before 1st January, 1939-Execution pending on that date-Application concerning that decree—If competent.

Where a decree has been passed before the 1st January, 1939, but an execution case in connection therewith is still pending on that date, the decree is one pasted in a suit to which the Bengal Money-Lenders Act applies within the meaning of S. 36 (6) (a) of that Act. An application under this provision concerning such a decree is, therefore, competent. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.) Mohini Ranjan v. Surendra Chandra. 200 I.C. 268=14 R.C. 698=45 C.W.N. 973=74 C.L.J. 88=4 F.L.J. (H.C.) 319=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 149.

-S. 36 (6) (a) (i)—Order dismissing application-Appeal-Revision.

An order dismissing an application under S. 36 (6) (a) (i) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act is not appealable under any provision of law. The remedy of the judgment-debtor is to come up to the High Court for revision of that order under S. 115, C. P. Code. (Mukherjea and Blank, II.) SAILABALA DASI v. HARISH CHANDRA DE. 46 C. W.N. 875.

-S. 36 (6) (i) and (ii)—Order refusing to re-open decree-Appeal.

Where on an application under S. 36 (6) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act the Court refuses to re-open a decree, the order is non-appealable, whether it is made under sub-Cl. (1) or sub-Cl. (2). The Act certainly confers no right of appeal against such an order, and in so far as the order is made under sub-Cl. (ii), an appeal will be expressly barred by O. 47, R. 7 (1), C. P. Code, treating the application as one for review. treating the application as one for review. (Biswas and Roxburgh, JJ.) BUDHAN MIA v. -S. 36 (6) (a) (i) and (ii)—Order rejecting application for relief—Appeal.

No appeal lies from an order rejecting an application for relief under S. 36 of the Bengal Money-lenders Act, whether such application is made in the execution proceeding under S. 36 (6) (a) (i), or by way of review under S. 36 (6) (a) (ii). ——S. 36 (6) (a) (i) and (ii)—Orders under—Appeal—C. P. Code, Ss. 47 and 96.

An order made under S. 36 (6) (a) (i) of the Bengal Money Lenders Act, either granting or refusing a prayer for re-opening a decree does not come under S. 47, C. P. Code, and is not appealable as such. If the decree is re-opened and a new decree made, an appeal would undoubtedly lie against the new decree which supersedes the old, under S. 96, C.P. Code. Such an appeal could be taken not only by the decreeholder who is prima facie aggrieved by the amendment but by the judgment debtor also on the ground that it did not go far enough in his favour. But if the application of the judgment-debtor under S. 36 (6) (a) (i) of the Act is refused, there is no provision of law under which an appeal would lie against the order of refusal and the only remedy of the aggrieved party

Code. The remedy of the aggrieved party is practically the same whether the order is made under sub-Cl. (i) or sub-Cl. (11) of S. 36 (6) (a). (Mukherjea and Roxburgh, II.) PROMODE NATH Sinha Roy v. money realised by payment and sale before Act-Personal decree not barred on date of application made after Act but barred on date of order-Decree, if can be re-opened.

A mortgage decree was passed for a sum in excess of the limits specified in S. 30 (1) (a) of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, but only a sum which was less than twice the principal money was realised by payment and sale prior to the passing of the Act. When the Act was passed and when the application for re-opening the decree was made under S.  $3^{(i)}(6)(a)(ii)$ , the remedy of the mortgagee decree-holder to apply for a personal decree under O. 34, R. 6, C. P. Code, was not barred, but it was barred at the date of the order.

Held, that the fact that no steps were taken by the mortgagee decree-holder after the passing of the Act to obtain personal decree and that he allowed the remedy to be barred does not affect the right of the mortgagor to have the decree reopened. A deposit of the principal amount due under a usufructuary mortgage made by the mortgagor under S. 83 of the T. P. The provisions of S. 36 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act including proviso (1) to the first sub-section are attracted in a proceeding under S. 38 of the Act. Therefore in an application under the latter section for taking accounts in respect of a loan secured by a mortgage executed more than twelve years before the date of the application, the amount mentioned as the principal in the mortgage bond must be treated as the principal of the loan for all purposes, although that amount includes in addition to the sum actually amount includes in addition to the sum actually advanced the arrears of interest thereon. interest according thereafter.

In taking accounts under S. 38 of the Money-Lenders Act in the case of a mortgage where interest had been paid before the commencement of the Act at a rate in excess of the statutory rate up to a certain period and at less than the statutory rate thereafter, the excess interest paid during the first period ought to be credited towards the outstanding principal at the end of that period and not towards interest accruing after that period. If there is a stipulation in the mortgage bond entitling the mortgagor to make part payments towards the principal by specified instalments, the excess amount of interest should be credited towards the principal subject to that stipulation. In order to determine whether there was an excess payment before the commencement of the Act, it is not correct to find out the sum which has been paid as interest for the whole period from the date of the bond up to the commencement of the Act and to see whether this amount exceeds the amount calculated at the statulory rate for the same period. In a proceeding under S. 38 of the Bengal Money-Lenders Act, a mortgagee who has been put in possession in lieu of interest under a mortgage created before the Act came into force is not absolved from accounting, notwithstanding S. 77 of the T. S. 3 (36) -'Owner'—If includes lessee.

The definition of "owner" in S. 3 (38) of the Bengal Municipal Act is wide enough to cover both the person in whom the title to the property lies and the lessee of that property. -S. 3 (54)—Definition of Magistrate—If exhaustive.

The definition of the term "Magistrate" in S. 3 (54) of the Bengal Municipal Act is exhaustive. Consequently, a Magistrate of the first class to whom the District Magistrate has not made over any duties under this Act has no jurisdiction to Pass an order of demolition under S. 330 of the Act. ### BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT (XV OF 1932).

It is wrong to limit the operation of S. 52 of the Bengal Municipal Act only to the powers referred to in S 51. The functions of a chairman under S. 149 are not excluded from the scope of the delegation contemplated by S. 52. A vice-Chairman is therefore, competent to act for the chairman in the Review Committee by virtue of a delegation of authority under S 52. (Bistous, J.) If the minutes of an adjourned meeting are duly signed and confirmed, the meeting is to be deemed to be free from all defects and irregularity under the provisions of S. 92 (2) of the Bengal Municipal Act, although the meeting transacted business which was not on the agenda of the previous meeting contrary to R 31 of the Model Rules framed under the Act. --S. 103 (3) - Contract between Municipality and private individual not signed and scaled-It binds latter-Party receiving advantage-If liable to comperisate.

A contract between a Municipality and a private individual which is not in writing or signed or scaled as required by S. 103 of the Bengal Municipal Act is binding neither upon the Municipality nor upon that individual. It makes no difference whether the contract is executory or executed. S. 65 of the Contract Act, however, applies to such a case although an imperative provision of an Act has rendered the contract unenforceable and so void. Under this section, the party who has received any advantage under the contract is liable to make compensation to the other party, if the latter has suffered any loss. If their only loss is the loss of the benefit of the contract, no compensation can be recovered. (Roxburgh, J.) AKSHOY KUMAR BANERJEE v. MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONER, TOLLYGUNGE 46 C.W.N. 393.

When a transferee applies for mutation, the Municipality has implied authority to call for the production of his document or title before the issue of notice under S. 138 (2) of the Bengal Municipal Act, although both the transferor and the transferee have given notice of the transfer. If the Municipality calls for the production of that document repeatedly before the Vice-chairman, Chairman and the Commissioner, its action may not be business-like but cannot be considered unreasonable or improper. A suit by the transferee for a declaration that he is an assessee of the Municipality and is entitled to be mutated as such without the production or further production of his docu-Scope of -Chairmanship of Review Committee-If can ment of title, is not maintainable under S. 42 of the Specific Relief Act, as there is no denial by the Municipality of his legal character. Further, even if the demand by the Municipality for the production of the document is irregular, it is an irregularity not affecting the merits under S. 92 (1) (c) of the Bengal Municipal Act; and the suit is, therefore barred under this section. -S. 145 (3)—Appointment of person outside panel as assessor-Approval of Government-If can be obtained subsequently.

S. 145 (3) of the Bengal Municipal Act expressly authorises the Commissioners to appoint any person approved by the Local Government as assessor, though he may not be included in the panel, referred to in sub S. (1). The fact that the approval of the Local Government was obtained after the appointment, and not before it, makes no difference. (Biswas, J.) HARI BHUSAN DE 2. MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS OF KAMARHATI, 45 C.W.N. 1113.

-S. 148 (3)-Failure of committee to give notice to assessor-Irregularity.

The failure of the Review Committee to give notice to the assessor as required by sub-S. (3) of S. 148 of the Bengal Municipal Act which subsection has since been repealed, is nothing more than a mere irregularity, when the Assessor had ceased to be in the service of the Municipality (Biswas, J.) HARI BHUSAN DE v. MUNICIPAL, COMMISSIONERS OF KAMARHATI. 45 C.W.N. 1113.

-S. 149 (before amendment)—Constitution of Review Committee-Resolution appointing three, instead of two Commissioners-Sittings attended only be two of them-Constitution of Committee-I vitiated.

The fact that the resolution passed by the Commissioners by which the Review Committee was constituted mentioned three instead of two Ward Commissioners besides the chairman, does not vitiate the constitution of the Committee, when in point of fact the sittings of the Committee were attended by only two of them besides the chairman. (Biswas, J.) Hari Bhusan Dr v. Municipal Commissioners of Kamarhati. 45 C.W.N. 1113.

-S. 149—Compliance with formalities—Onus of proof.

It is for the plaintiff to show that the formalities required by S. 149 of the Bengal Municipal Act were not duly carried out, if he wishes the Civil Court to interfere with the assessment on that ground. (Roxburgh, J.) MUNICIPAL COMMIS-SIGNERS OF THE PABNA MUNICIPALITY v. NABA GOVINDA CHOWDHURY. 46 C.W.N. 830.

-S. 149-Objection to assessment disallowed by Commissioners—Absence of notice under Ss. 138 (2) and 147 (2)—Civil suit—If maintainable.

An assessee whose objection to the assessment of his holding has been decided against him by the Municipal Commissioners, cannot by means of a civil suit re-open the question of the assessment on the ground that the correction in the assessment list was made without giving him notice under S. 138 (2) of the Bengal Municipal Act or on the ground that the assessment was enhanced without giving him notice under S. 147 (2) of the Act. A suit by the assessee for a declaration that the assessment was illegal and ultra vires on either of the above grounds is, therefore, not maintainable in a Civil Court. (Roxburgh, J.) MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS OF THE PABNA MUNI-CIPALITY v. NABA GOVINDA CHOWDHURY. 46 C. W.N. 830.

-S. 198-"Keeping"-Casual mooring in course of plying-If amounts to.

Mere casual mooring in connection with setting down and picking up passengers in the course of plying the boats does not amount to "keeping" within the meaning of S. 19% of the Bengal Municipal Act. It is impossible to say that the word "keeping" is wider than and includes the word "plying". They are really totally different things. (Henderson, J.) Dula Mia v. Dacca Municipa-Lin y. I.L R. (1944, 1 Cal. 438=212 I.C. 600=17 R.C. 3=45 Cr.L.J. 646=48 C.W.N. 271=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 160.

- S. 215—Rules framed under, R. 1—Appointment of assessor without allowing interval of three months to kim to complete work-Irregularity. The fact that an assessor is appointed at a time which does not allow him the necessary interval of three months between the completion of his work and the date on which the assessment is to take effect as required by R.1 of the Rules framed by the Local Government under S. 215 of the Bengal Municipal Act, is no more that mere irregularity. An objection to the appointment on this ground will fail when there is no evidence that the shortness of time in any way affected the work of the assessor or that it resulted in any prejudice or injustice to any party concerned. (Biswas. J.) HARI BHUSAN DE v. MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS OF KAMARHATI. 45 C.W.N. 1113.

-S. 215—Rules framed under Rr. 4 and 9-Notice by assessor to owner or occupier-If obligatory -Failure to fill up last two columns of Form B-

Validity of assessment list.

Neither under S. 134 of the Bengal Municipal Act nor under R. 4 of the Rules framed under S. 215 of that Act, is it obligatory on the assessor to issue a notice to the owner or occupier; he may do so, whenever he thinks fit. If the assessor had otherwise all necessary information before him regarding the holding, and he also actually inspected it, the failure, to issue notice under S 134, cannot be regarded as an illegality. When there is no notice under S. 134 and therefore, no return submitted by the owner or occupier in Form B, there can be no question of he assessor filling up the last two columns of this form. The failure to do so will not, therefore, render the assessment list/invalid. (Biswas, J.) ARI BHUSAN DE v. MUNICIPAL COMMISSINERS OF LAMARHATI, 45 C.W.N. 1113.

-8.215-Rules framed under, R. 9-Absence of certificate by assessor-Validity of assessment list.

The failure of the assessor to endorse a certificate on the assessment list under the latter part of R. 9 does not render the assessment list invalid in law. The object of the rule evidently is to ensure the authenticity of the assessment list as submitted by the assessor to the chairman. If the assessment list, as published under S. 147 of the Bengal

-S. 215 -Rules framed under, R. 10-Absence of note by assessor showing basis of assessment-Validity of assessment list.

It does not appear that the note by the assessor under R. 10 showing the basis on which the annual valuation had been determined, is required to be incorporated in the assessment list itself as an integral part thereof. If, therefore, the Commissioner has not under S. 136 of the Bengal Municipal Act directed the inclusion of a statement on this point, the absence of it does not necessarily invalidate the assessment list. Where the Municipality has not taken any proceedings under S. 241 of the Bengal Municipal Act for the removal of an encroachment on a public street, a suit by the plaintiff for declaration of his right to maintain the encroachment and for an injunction to restrain the Municipality from taking proceedings for its removal is premature and is liable to be dismissed for want of cause of action. Any structure or fixture projecting over a public street is liable to be removed under S. 241 of the Bengal Municipal Act, and the owner or occupier cannot acquire a right to retain it by prescription. If it was constructed before the date mentioned in the proviso to S. 241, he is entitled to get some compensation if he suffers any damage by its removal. If however it was constructed after the dates specified in the proviso, he is not entitled to get any compensation. (Nasim Ali and Blank, JJ.) DACCA MUNICIPALITY. But if the conditions prescribed by the proviso to S. 312 of the Act were operative no special notification under sub-Ss. (1) and (2) of that section would be required. (Edgley and Blank, IJ.) A lessee of land with structures on it erected by the landlord is not a non-agricultural tenant within the definition of S. 2 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act, and he is not, therefore, entitled to relief under S. 3 or S. 6 of the Act. (Mukherjea and Bisreas II.) JAHUR MIA v. ABDUL GAPFUR. 196 I.C. 346=14 R.C. 223=45 C.W.N. 603=A.I R. 1941 Cal. 452.

-S. 2-Non-agricultural tenant-Ownership of his huts passing to landlord under compromise decree for ejectment—Effect on status - Subsequent execution of decree-Tenant, if protected.

A decree for ejectment of a non-agricultural tenant was passed on a compromise before the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act came into force. Under the terms of the compromise the tenant was given three years' grace in which to evacuate the land and remove the huts, and if he failed to do so, the ownership of the huts would pass to the decree holder. He failed to do so with the result the decree-holder became the owner of the huts from 1942. On an execution case filed in 1943, Held, that on the date of the execution case the tenant was not a non-agricultural tenant within the meaning of S. 2 of the Act, as the ownership of the huts had passed to the decree-holder, and he was, therefore, not protected by the provisions of the Act. S. 2 -'Tenant'—If includes ex-tenant.

The word 'tenant' in S. 2 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act is used not in its strict legal sense, but in its wider popular sense and includes not only the current tenant as set out in that section but the ex-tenant remaining in occupation who formerly held in the manner described in the section as non-agricultural tenant. (Derbyshire, C.J., Nasim Ali and Muter, JJ.) SUKUMARI DEVI v. RAJ-DHARI PANDEY. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 497=198 I.C. 136=14 R.C. 435=74 C.L.J. 485=5 F.L.J. -S. 2--Tenant of land and buildings; who has erected ekchalas-If non-agricultural tenant.

A tenant of both the land and buildings is not a non-agricultural tenant within the meaning of S. 2 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act, although he has himself erected some ekchalas. (Henderson, I.) AJIT KUMAR DAS v. ANUKUL CHANDRA. 198 I. C. 176=14 R.C. 443=45 C.W.N. 678=73 C.L.J. 527=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 718.

-S. 3-Appeal by tenant-lf liable to be stayed.

A tenant's appeal cannot be regarded in any sense to be a suit or proceeding for ejectment and is not liable to be stayed under S. 3 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act. (Chakravartti, J.) Kali PROSAD SAHA v. NAIHATI JUTE MILLS CO. LTD. 221 I.C. 561=50 C.W.N. 50.

-S. 3-Appeal by tenant against decree for electment-If liable to be stayed.

An appeal by a tenant against a decree allowing ejectment does not come within the meaning of the expression "suit or proceeding in any Court for ejectment" in S. 3 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act, and the hearing of such an appeal is not liable to be stayed under that section. (Rissuas and Dis, JJ.) ABDUL HAMID BEPARI v. NRIPENDRA KUMAR ROY. 49 C.W.N. 681.

-Ss. 3 and 6—Applicability — Appeals— Appeal by tenant against decree for ejectment.

The provisions for stay contained in Ss. 3 and 6 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act do not apply to an appeal. The words "every suit and proceeding in any Court for ejectment of a non-agricultural tenant" used in these sections cannot be said to include an appeal. In any case, a tenants' appeal against a decree for ejectment can in no sense be brought within the words "suit for ejectment". (Edglev and Biswas, JJ.) PRANKRISHNA MUKHERJEA V. JNANANDA ROY. I.L.R. The provisions of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act relating to stay of proceedings for the ejectment of non-agricultural tenants for a period of two years, are not beyond the law-making powers of the Bengal Legislature. That legislature in curtailing the powers of the Court to grant possession has acted under Item 2, taken in conjunction with that part of Item 21 which deals with rights in or over land, of List II (i.e. Provincial Legislative (1811) of Sch. VII of the Government of India Act The above provisions of the Bengal Act are not void under S. 107 of the Government of India Act as being in conflict with the provisions of O. 21, as being in conflict with the provisions of 0.21, R. 24, C.P. -S. 3—Suit for arrears of rent and ejectment -If liable to be stayed.

A suit for the recovery of arrears of rent and for ejectment is one for ejectment because of non-payment of rent and is, therefore, not liable to be stayed under S. 3 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act. 46 C.W.N. 1025, foll. A suit for the recovery of arrears of rent and for ejectment brought by the landlord against a monthly non-agricultural tenant after serving a notice upon him to pay up the arrears and to quit the land, is one for ejectment because of non-payment of rent, and the landlord is entitled to an order for ejectment subject to the provisions of the proviso to S. 3 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy Act. -S. 3-Suit for ejectment "on account of nonpayment of rent"-Suit for arrears of rent and electment-Allegation by defendant that claim for arrears is false-Duty of Court.

BEN. NON-AGRI. TEN. (TEM. PRO.) ACT (1940).

A suit against a tenant for arrears of rent and for ejectment is one for ejectment on account of non-payment of rent and is not liable to be stayed under S. 3 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy Act. A plaintiff cannot, however, deprive a defendant of the protection given him by the Act merely by putting forward a false claim for arrears of rent. When the defendant raises such a plea it is the duty of the Court to see whether the plaintiff's claim is a mere pretence, and if it is, to stay the suit. (Henderson, J.) RADHA-RAMAN PAL v. SASADHAR PRAMANIK. 48 C.W.N. 673(2)

-S. 3-Suit for electment of defendant as tenant -When may be stayed - Suit for ejectment of defendant as trespasser -- Pro edure to be followed.

A suit for ejectment may be one to eject a tenant on the ground that the defendant was a tenant under the plaintiff and his tenancy has subsequently ceased to exist, or it may be one to eject a trespasser on establishment of the plainuff's title. In the former case, if the plaint itself shows that the defendant is a non-agricultural tenant, and ejectment was not sought on the ground of non-payment of rent, the Court is bound to stay the suit under S. 3 of the Non-Agricultural Tenancy Act at its very inception. If any dispute arises as to the character of the tenancy, the Court is bound to take evidence and if it comes to the conclusion that the defendant in fact is a nonegricultural tenant, then also the suit must be stayed. If on the other hand, the suit purports to be one for ejecting a trespasser, different considerations arise. As the plaintiff does not admit the defendant to be a tenant, the suit cannot be stayed in limine. The Court must proceed to hear the suit in the ordinary way and take evidence. If after taking evidence it forms an opinion that the defendant is really a tenant and non-agricultural tenant within the meaning of the Act, it is not bound to stop the proceedings forthwith unless it futher finds that the suit, as it stands could be regarded as a suit to evict the defendant as a tenant on the ground that the tenancy has been determined in any lawful manner. If the Court allows the plaintiff to convert a suit for possession against a trespasser into one for ejectment of a tenant it is certainly bound to stay the suit. But if, on the other hand, the suit is one which must necessarily fail, if the defendant is found to be a tenant and the plaintiff does not want to treat it as a suit for ejectment of a tenant, the Court should dismiss the suit on the finding that the plaintiff failed to prove his case, and the question of stay will come, if and when the plaintiff institutes a fresh suit against the defendant, seeking to eject him on the ground that the tenancy which was found in his favour in the previous suit had since then been determined. (Mukherjea and Biswas, II.) PROVABATI DEBI V. PROTAP CHANDRA MAZUMDAR. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal 49=200 I.C. 453=:15 R.C. 3=45 C.W.N. 991=74 C.L.J. 104=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 145.

S.3-"Suit for ejectment on account of the non-payment of rent"—Interpretation.

The words "ejectment on account of the non-payment of rent" in S.3 of the Bengal Act IX of 1940 are not used for purposes of indicating that the cause of action for ejectnest must be the non-payment of rent, as under the substantive law non-payment of rent cannot be a ground for ejectment of a non-agricultural tenant. Legislature meant that if a tenant was in arrears, a suit for ejecting such a tenant would be a suit for ejectmeent "on account of the non-payment of rent". (Mitter, J.) PURNENDU NATH TAGORE v. NARENDRA NATH. 194 I.C 581=14 R.C. 1=45 C.W N. 22=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 302. Referred to in 201 I C. 516=15 R.C. 221=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 136.

--- S. 3-Suit for ejectment "on account of non-payment of rent"-Interpretation.

Per Mukherjea, J,-Obiter: The words "suit or proceeding for ejectment on account of non-payment of rent" in S. 3 of the Non-Agricultural Tenancy Act refer to that class of cases where under the terms of the lease itself the lessee forfeits his tenancy by reason of non-payment of rent. As a relief against forfeiture in such cases is provided in S. 114 of the T. P. Act, the Legislature probably thought it proper to exempt this Class of cases from the operation of S. 3 of the Non-Agricultural Tenancy Act. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.) PROVABATI DEBI V. PROTAB CHANDRA MAZUMDAR. I.L.R (1942) 1Cal. 49= 45 C.W.N. 991=74 C.L.J 104=200 I.C. 453= 15 R.C. 3=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 145.

ment and for rent-If can be stayed-Decree passed in such suit-Proper order for stay.

In order to attract the operation of S. 3 of Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act, what is necessary is that the suit or proceeding must be one for ejectment of a non-agricultural tenant and the ejectment must be sought for on a ground other than non-payment of rent. The words "suit for ejectment on account of non-payment of rent" refer to cases where the lease contains a condition that it will be forfeited if there is default in the payment of rent for a certain period. A suit for ejectment of a tenant on a ground other than non-payment of rent must, therefore, be stayed under the section, although rent is also claimed in such a suit. What the legislature intended is that only the suit for the ejectment should be stayed and that the Court should proceed with the suit so far as it relates to the recovery of rent. If the application for stay is made after such a suit is decreed and the decree is put into execution. the Court should stay the proceeding for the delivery of possession only and allow the decree-holder to proceed with the execution of the decree so far as it relates to recovery of arrears of rents and costs. The proviso to S. 3 of the Act has no application to such a case. (Mukherjea and Sen. JJ) RELIANCE JUTE MILLS CO., LTD. v. DUKHI SHAH. 203 I C. 184=15 R.C. 400=76 C.L.J. 489=46 C.W.N. 889=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 550.

-Ss. 3 and 6-Suit-If includes appeal.

The word 'suit' as used in S. 3 or 6 of the act must be taken to exclude every kind of appeal, whether it be an appeal by the landlord against a decree refusing ejectment or an appeal by the tenant against a decree granting ejectment. (Biswas, J.) DULICHAND MAHESRI v. PROHLAD CHANDRA, 220 I.C. 22=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 50.

-Ss. 3 and 6-"Suit or proceeding"-If includes appeal-Appeal by tenant against decree for ejectment.

I'er Biswas, J.—The words "Suit or proceeding" used in S. 3 or S. 6 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural (Temporary Provisions) Act do not include an appeal. Even assuming that an appeal is not excluded from the scope of these provisions, a tenant's appeal against a decree for ejectment cannot be deemed to be a proceeding for ejectment. It is a proceeding against ejectment. The provisions of Ss. 3 and 6 would not consequently apply to it.

Per Mukherjea. J .- It cannot be laid down that the expression "proceeding" as used in Ss. 3 and 6 of the Act is not sufficiently wide to include an appeal or that an appeal arising out of a suit for ejectment of a non-agricultural tenant is not hit by the provisions of these sections. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.) JAHUR MIA v. ABDUL GAFFUR 196 I.C. 346=14 R.C. 223=45 C.W.N. 603= A I.R. 1941 Cal. 452.

The expression "date of the decree" in the proviso to S. 3 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act means the date on which the judgment was delivered and not the date on which the decree was signed.

The proceeding in the expression "costs of the proceeding" in the proviso is the execution case in the course of which the application for stay of delivery of possession was filed.

S. 4 of the Bengal Non-Agricultural Tenancy Act is not ultra vires the Provincial Legislature, being a piece of legislation covered by items Nos. 2 and 21 taken together of the Provincial List under the Government of India Act If there is really any conflict between the provisions of this section and those of S. 51 or O. 21 R. 35, C.P. A Zamindar after creating a patni tenure in respect of certain lands can grant another valid pathi tenure in respect of those and other lands in favour of another person, provided it does not operate in derogation of the right of the first patnidar. A zemindar is not bound to recognise as his tenant a transferee of a fractional part of a patni taluk. He is entitled at his option to treat the transferor only as his tenant, ignoring the transferee altogether. In such a case, he is not bound to implead the transferee as a defendant in a rent suit brought by him, and the entire tenancy would be represented in that suit by the transferor and the other patnidars. -Ss. 5 and 6-Scope and effect of - Patni tenure -Sale for arrears of rent averted by farment by one sharer-Right to contribution from others-Transfer by other sharers prior to period of arrears- Effect of.

All the co-sharers in a fatni tenure are personally liable for the raini rent payable to the zamindar, and the liability of each co-sharer subsists even after he has transferred his share in the tenure and parted with possession to the transferee, except when the transfer has been effective as against the landlord under S, 5 of the Bengal Patni Regulation of 1819 Where therefore a patni tenure is put up for sale for arrears of rent, and the sale is averted by one co-sharer paying the entire rent, the latter is entitled to contribution from the other co-sharers who are it default in proportion to their shares even though they are not in possession and had transferred their shares with possession to another prior to the period in respect of which the rent was in arrears if it is found that the transfer was not effective against the zamindar. (Manohar Lall and Dass ff.) MAHI-DHAR v. BANSIDHAR. 24 Pat. 401 - A.I.R. 1945 Pat.

-Ss. 8, 11 and 15-Applicability and scope-Non-compliance-Effect-Sale-If automatically annul, darpain.

Both the Patni Regulation and the Bengal Tenancy Act exist side by side. Each of them has its own provisions relating to the realisation of rent in respect of patni tenures and a zamindar is at liberty to proceed either under the one or the other for the purpose of recovering arrears of rent from the defaulting patnidar. This being so, it must follow as a logical sequence that if the zamindar elects to proceed under the Bengal tenure, when the other part-owners are not Penancy Act, then in order to cancel a darpatni, parties to the compromise. The effect of the he must proceed under S. 167 of the Act; but if on the other hand, he wishes to proceed under the Patni Rugulation, then he must conform to the provisions or Ss. 8, 11 and 15, etc., of that Regulation in order to put an end to the darpatni tenure. Each of these enactments contain a special procedure for annulling the under-tenures which would have been wholly unnecessary, if the under-tenures were annulled automatically upon the sale of the superior tenure. The darpatni is not automatically annulled by a sale of the patni tenure. (Fazl Ali, C.J., Manohar Lall and Chatterji, Jl.) Piri Hyi CHAND LAL v. S. 8—Applicability—Tenure created under sale deed in 1878 and treated as patni—Character not challenged at all—Admission in deed by tenurcholder that in case of arrears they may be realised by two six-monthly sales—Effect of.

Where a tenure has been treated as a patni tenure since 1879, and the patni character has never been challenged at all, and there is an admission by the patnidar in the sale bond evidencing the creation of the tenure in 1879 that if he failed to pay the arrear rents they could be realized by two six-monthly sales as provided under the provisions of the patni Regulation, it must be held that the tenure is patni falling under the Regulation and saleable under S 8 of the Regulation. (Middleton) RAMNI MOHAN ROY v. DEB PRASANNA MUKHARJEE. 8 B.R. 399.

—— Ss. 8, 9 and 17—Patni sale not realising full amount of demand—Suit for unrealised balance—Maintainability—Covenant to pay rent in patni leave—If binds assignee of lessee—Bengal Tenancy Act, S, 168-A.

The Patni Regulation does not expressly or by necessary implication forbid the institution of a suit for the recovery of the unrealised balance of a demand for which a sale was held under the Regulation itself. Such a suit is maintainable where the patni lease contains an express stiputation that if the whole of the arrears of rent are not realised by putni sale, the balance would be recovered from other properties belonging to the defaulter. Such a covenant is not a mere personal covenant; but binds the assignees of the lessee as well. The fact that S. 168-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act may stand in the way of the execution of the decree that may be passed in the suit is no ground for refusing to pass the decree. Whether this section is at all attracted to a particular case can only be decided when the decree is put into execution. (Mukherjea and Ellis, Jf.)

——S. 8 (second)—Presentation of petition to Deputy Collector—Validity—Collector's duty to accept petition—Whether can be delegated.

A petition by a Zemindar for the sale of patni presented under S. 8 (second) of the Patni Regulation need not be received by the Collector himself. It is within the competence of the Collector to delegate his duty of receiving such petition to a Senior Deputy Collector and when the petition is presented to such Deputy Collector, it is presented to the Collector within the meaning of the above provision. (Nasim Ali and Pal JI.) DHARRINDRA KRISHNA MUKHERJI V. NIHAR GANGULY 208 I C 378=16 R C. 181=76 C.L. J. 138=47 C.W N. 156=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 266.

Neither the area nor the hastabud can be regarded as the true or only criterion for deciding the question whether a village is to be regarded as the principal village within the meaning of S. 8, second, of the Patui Regulation. The importance of the village is the guiding test. (Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) KAMALARANJAN ROY v. BHOLANATH. 45 C.W.N. 727.

——S. 8, (second)—Publication of mofussil notices—Publication at cutchery or at principal village—Zemindar, if has option—Cutchery of patnidar—If includes that of dar-patnidar.

The manner in which Mosussil notices are to be served is regulated by the provisions of S. 8 (second) of the Patni Regulation. This part of the Regulation does not authorise two alternative methods of service to be chosen at the option of the zemindar. If there is a cutchery in existence which satisfies the description given therein, the publication must be at that cutchery. If there is no cutchery on the land of the defaulter, that is to say, a cutchery of the patnidar on the land of the patni taluk, it is then and then only that it would be open to the zemindar to publish at the principal town or village of patni mahal. The cutchery on the land of the defaulter, that is to say, on the land of the patni taluk must be a cutchery of the patnidar. If there be no cutchery of the patnidar on the land of the patni, but there are cutcheries of the darpatnidars or subordinate tenure-holders or others holding under the patnidar, the zemindar is not required to effect the Mofussil service on such curcheries. —S. 8 (second)—Service of notice—Statutory mode of proof not followed—Sale, whether hable to be reversed.

The requirements of S. 8 (second) of the Patni Regulation as to the procuration of receipt, attestation and certificate are merely directory. The service of the notice can be proved by evidence other than what is required by the section to be proved by the peon. When the service (a) is either not controverted or (b) though controverted, is proved to the satisfaction of the court by the evidence on record, the defect or irregularity in or the total absence of the statutory evidence (i.e.), receipt, signature of attesting witnesses or certificate of the Munsif, etc., will be irrelevant considerations and will not in the least affect the sale. amount in petition and notice—Validity of sale.

It is mandatory that the balance actually due to the Zemindar from the patnidar should be specified in the petition under S.8 (second) of the Patni Regulation. S. 11-Sale of patni tenure—Liability of purchaser for rent for previous period.

When a patni tenure is properly and validly sold under the provisions of Regulation VIII of 1819 for arrears of rent due in respect of the same, the purchaser cannot be saddled with the rent charge for any previous period. He takes it free and clear of any such obligation and the utmost that can be said is that, liability for rent for any previous period is transferred to the surplus sale proceeds. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Mukherjea, J.) Gouri Sankar v. Jatindra Nath. 199 I.C. 893=14 R.C. 659=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 255.

Annulment of subordinate howla.

Per Pal, J.—The Putni Regulation does not contemplate sale of portions of a putni tenure and consequently if it be possible for the putnidar to get his putni sub-divided into several putni tenures, each having the incidents of an entire putni, yet keeping the integrity of the original putni unaffected so far as it stood in relation to subordinate howla, then the infirmity of the subordinate howla, may infinitely be increased by acts to which the howladar is no party. This will be opposed to all principles and such unreasonable departure is not at all necessary to safeguard the interest of the landlords. (Akram and Pal, II.) Luffur Rahman v. the clause which purport to contain the reason for the cancellation of the intermediate tenure make it clear that the tenure which is thus liable to be cancelled must be the one carved out of the interest of the defaulting putnidar and consequently must necessarily be the one created after the putni that is sold. (Akram and Pal, II) LUTFUR RAHMAN v. JOGJIBAN GHOSH. 75 C.L.J. 471.

A darpatni is not automatically annulled by the purchase of the patni by the zamindar in execution of a sent-decree.

It can be annulled by the zamindar doing some unequivocal act showing his intention to annul it. Notice to the darpatnidar is not a condition precedent to the annulment. But failure to give notice will give the darpatnidar an equitable right to re-imbursement for sums spent by him subsequent to and in ignorance of the annulment.

Service of notice of annulment need not be in the manner provided by C.P.Code. It is enough if the notice is received.

The right to annul is not merely personal to the zamindar and can be exercised either by a vendee or by a lessee. The right has to be exercised within a reasonable time. Ordinarily such a time would be before the zamindar parts with his interest. Where the zamindar has taken proceedings to annul a darpatni under S 167 of the B.T. Act, but they have been rendered ineffective through the laziness or dishonesty of some Government Officer, it is unrea enable to hold that the rights of a person with whom the patni has been settled should be adversely affected thereby. In such a case, it is open to the latter to annul the dirpatni within a reasonable time from a decree declaring the subsistence of the darpatni. (Henderson, J.) ANADI NATH v. On the reversal of a pathi sale under S. 14 of Regulation VIII of 1819, the auction-purchaser is entitled to apply to the Court which set aside the sale for a decree against the zamindar for the purchase-money deposited by him in the collectorate and for the amount of rent paid by him to the zimindar between the date from which the sale took effect and the date of its reversal together with interest at a reasonable rate from the date of payment till repayment. The auction-purchaser is not bound to apply to the Collector for refund of the surplus sale proceeds. The zamindar should move the Court for an order requiring the Collector to send the money to that Court and the Court should adjust the amount sent towards the decree against the zamindar. Further, the auction purchaser is not bound to show that the collections, less the collecting charges, made by him fall short of the amount of rent which he paid to the zamindar and claim only the difference between the two as the amount of his loss. For, the legal effect of the decree reversing the sale is as if the sale had never been held and any retention by the zamindar of the amount of rent paid to him is itself a loss to the auction-purchaser, such retention being another's the auction purchaser's money. It is well established that a purchaser at a paini sale gets the paini as it existed at the time of its creation and that tenures created prior to the creation of that paini are not affected by the sale. S. 17 (3)—Suit for balance due after sale— If maintainable.

The Patni Regulation does not expressly or by necessary implication forbid the institution of a suit for realisation of the balance of any demand for recovery of which a sale was held under the Regulation. The utmost that can be said is that there is no provision in the Regulation itself expressly dealing with the situation which arises when the ale proceeds fall short of the demand. S. 17 (3) of the Regulation obviously has got no application to such cases and as no fresh sale of the tenure can be held for the realisation of the balance, the only remedy of the zamindar must be to enforce his contractual rights against the tenant. As these rights have not been in any way affected or taken away by the statute, they must be deemed to exist. (Mukherjea and Ellis, Jl.) Usha Prova De v. Sachindra Kumar. A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 216.

BENGAL PERMANENT SETTLEMENT REGULATION (I OF 1793) Art. 6—Effect of —Rights of zamindar, if affected by Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act.

Regulation I of 1793 contains no assurance or undertaking to the zamindar that he would for ever thereafter be immune from taxation such as that imposed by the Bihar Agricultural Incometax Act. The Regulation merely contains an assurance that the jama or land revenue payable by the zamindar would never be increased. What was to be fixed for ever was the annual payment which the zamindar had undertaken to pay as a condition of holding their estates. The Zamindars were recognised as proprietors and payment which was a condition such recognition was declared to be for ever fixed. The effect of the Regulation is that re-assessment and re-settle-ment of the lands should be for ever barred and the Government would no longer be entitled to increase the jama by reason of an increase in the zamindar's income. The Bihar Agricultural Income Tax Act does not in any way purport to affect, vary or repeal any proviway purport to all the control of the regulation (Harries, C.J., Fazl Ali and Manohar I.all, JJ) JHALAK PRASAD SINGH v. #### BEN. PUB DEMANDS RECOV. ACT, (1913).

A patni patta expressly stated the total patni jama and provided that out of it the patnidar should pay a certain sum direct to the Collector on behalf of the landlord on account of revenue and pay the balance to the landlord direct. It was further provided that in case of default on the part of the patnidar to pay the Government revenue as stipulated and consequent sale of the estate for arrears, the patnidar would be liable in damages to the landlord. As regards the net patni rent payable directly to the landlord, provision was made for its payment in instalments and for the payment of interest on arrears in default of payment by the due date.

Held, that on a true construction of the pathi patta, the amount which the pathidar bound himself to pay direct to the Collector on behalf of the landlord on account of revenue was revenue and not rent that the arrear of that amount was not, therefore a public demand although the estate was managed by the Court of Wards on behalf of the landlord, and that consequently no certificate could be filed under S. 6 of the Public Demands Recovery Act in respect thereof. A certificate against a dead man is a mere nullity. S. 4—Certificate in respect of arrears of incometax—Name of certificate-holder given as "Secretary of State on behalf of Income tax Officer"—Period for which demand is due not mentioned—Validity of certificate.

No objection can be taken to the validity of a certificate issued in respect of arrears of income-tax on the ground that in col. 2 of the certificate the name of the certificate-holder is entered as "Secretary of State on behalf of Income-tax officer, Howrah". The addition of the words "on behalf of Income-tax officer. Howrah" does not in any way alter or qualify the name of the certificate-holder which is given as the Secretary of State. Nor can an objection be taken to its validity on the ground that no period for which the demand is due is mentioned in Col. 4. Income-tax is calculated and assessed by reference to the income of the assessee for a given year, but it is due when demand is made under Ss. 29 and 45 of the Income tax Act. ——Ss. 7 and 52—Scope—Certificate against dead man—No order of substitution and no notice sent to heirs—Helect—Heirs—If bound.

S. 52 of the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act applies only where a certificate debtor dies after the issue of the certificate and before it is fully satisfied. It does not apply to a case where the original certificate itself is issued against a dead man. The entire proceedings based upon the certificate so issued against a dead person are wholly inoperative to affect the heirs of the deceased, when no order for substitution of the heirs was ever passed in the proceedings and no fresh notice sent as is provided under S. 7 of the Act. Where the debtor dies after the proceedings are properly started against him, but no notice served on the heirs or steps taken under S. 50 to appoint a guardian for a minor beir, the heirs cannot be said to be on record and the proceedings and sale will not bind the heirs and their shares will not be affected by the sa'c. S. 7—Scope—Proceedings for arrears— Separate accounts opened in respect of some cosharers after period of arrears and payment of quota by them—Proceedings against all—If bad.

Where certificate proceedings have been started to realise dues from all the co-sharers of an estate or village, the fact that separate accounts have been opened with regard to some of the co-sharers after the period for which the arrears are due would not make the proceedings without jurisdiction though they may have paid their own quota. Such payment does not do away with the liability of the entire estate to pay the arrears due from the whole estate. (Manohar Lal, J.) NISAR MAHOMED KHAN v. TANQUIR AHMAD. 194 I.C. 479=13 R P. 729=7 B.R. 782=23 Pat.L.T. 195 =A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 529.

-S. 15-Certificate Officer accepting bid obtained by peon-Sale, if valid.

There is nothing in S. 15 of the Public Demand Recovery Act to suggest that the certificate officer must himself do everything is connection with the sale and not have the work carried out by his Nazir or other officers. The mere fact that the certificate officer directed a peon to go to the Mofussil and obtain bids and accepted a bid so obtained, does not affect the validity of the sale. (Henderson, J.) -S. 20—Certificate sale for arrears of rent— Representation of tenancy by some of tenants-Applicability of principle—B. T. Act, S. 146-A.

Although S. 146-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act may not in terms apply to a certificate sale for arrears of rent, the principle of representation of the tenancy by some of the tenants embodied therein will. The certificate procedure is no doubt a summary mode for recovery of arrears of rent, but S. 20 (3) of the Public Demands Recovery Act makes it clear that the certificate holder may yet bring the tenure or holding to sale. He can of course, do so by joining as certificate-debtors all the persons interested in the tenancy but even where he has not done so, he can succeed by showing that the persons against whom the proceedings are taken also represent the interest of those who have been left out, in other words, that the persons named in the certificate as debtors do in fact represent the tenancy in its entirety. Whether one or some of the co-sharer tenants can be regarded as a representative of the whole body of co-tenants is essentially a question of fact which has got to be determined on evidence like any other fact, and where as here it has to be decided de hors the provisions of S. 146 A of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the tests laid down therein may only serve as a guide so far as they go. It cannot be said that consistently with the provisions of this section, there may not still be other conditions in which the presence of even one or some of the tenants as defendants will be as effective as that of all. (Biswas, J.) NURJAN BIBI v. SAYEMALI MULLA. 45 C.W.N. 460.

-S. 20-Representation of tenancy-Bengal Tenancy Act, S. 146-A.

S. 146 A of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not codify the general law regarding representation and does not apply to certificate sales. The question whether the defendants represented the entire interests of the tenants for the purposes of the Public Demands Recovery Act must be decided under the general law without reference to that section. It does not follow from the fact that the defendants are the only persons whose names appear in the rent roll that they represent the entire tenancy right. A sale of the property not only for the amount of the certificate but also for the arrears of subsequent years for which no certificate had been issued is illegal. (Sen. J.) FAZALAR RAHIM v. KHORSED ALAM. I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 339=45 C.W N. 277=199 I.C. 403 =14 R.C. 542=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 333.

S. 20 (3)—Applicability—Certificate sale at instance of Receiver appointed by Collector— Estate attached by Collector under S. 99 of Cess Act.

To bring a case within the purview of S. 20 (3) of the Public Demands Recovery Act, it is necessary that the certificate in execution of which the sale took place must be obtained by the landlord (i.e.) either by the sole landlord or by the entire body of landlords. Where an estate was attached under S. 99 of the Cess Act by the Collector who appointed a Receiver and a holding was put up for sale for arrears of rent on a certificate issued on the requisition of the Receiver.

Held: that the provisions of S. 20 (3) of the Public Demands Recovery Act were not attracted to the case as neither the Collector nor the Receiver appointed by him could be said to be the land lord with regard to the holding which was sold, and that consequently the purchaser had no right to annul the incumbrances. (Mukherjea and Akram, JJ.) FAYEZUDDIN AHMAD v. NATABAR CHANDRA SAHA. 218 I.C 136=18 R.C. 1=48 C. W.N. 685=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 445.

S. 20 (3)—Title of purchaser—Interest of tenant who is neither certificate debtor nor represented by him-If passes.

S. 20 (3) of the Public Demands Recovery Act pre-supposes that there has been a sale of the entire interest of all the tenants of the tenure or holding. It does not and cannot mean that the interest of a tenant of the holding or tenure who is neither a certificate debtor nor represented by a certificate debtor can be sold in execution of a certificate. (Sen, J.) FAZALAR RAHIM V. KHOR-SED ALAM. I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 339=199 I.C. 403=14 R.C. 542=45 C.W.N. 277=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 333.

S. 29-Scope-Suit to declare that sale did not affect interests of plaintiff—Bar of.

S. 29 of the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act applies only to the case of a proper certificate, the section assumes that the certificate was a proper certificate. But when there was no proper certificate at all, having been issued against a dead man, the heirs to whom no notice was sent and who were not at all on the record are not debarred from bringing a suit to have it declared that the sale did not affect their interests in the property. (Manohar Lall, J.) NISAR MAHOMED KHAN V. TANQUIR AHMAD. 194 I.C. 479=23 Pat. L.T. 195=13 R.P. 729=7 B.R. 782=A.I.R 1941 Pat. 529.

——S. 34—Point taken in petition under S. 9 but not pressed—If can be raised before Civil Court.

S. 34 of the Public Demands Recovery Act does not debar the plaintiff from raising before the Civil Court a point mentioned in his petition under S. 9 of the Act but not pressed by him. (Biswas, J.) ——S. 36—Parties to suit—Secretary of State—If necessary party.

The Secretary of State, if he is the certificate-holder, is a necessary party to a suit under S. 36 of the Public Demands Recovery Act for setting aside a sale. (Nasim Ali and Blank, II.) BAIKUNTHA CHANDRA DAS v. SURESH CHANDRA DUTTA. 46 C.W.N. 975.

—S. 36—Parties to suit—Secretary of State—If necessary party—Limitation for suit—Exclusion of period of notice—C. P. Code, S. 80.

Where the Secretary of State is a certificate-holder he (now the Province of Bengal) is a necessary party to a suit brought under S. 36 of the Public Demands Recovery Act to set aside certificate sale. It follows, therefore, that the period of the notice served on the Secretary of State under S. 80, C. P. Code, namely two months, can be excluded in computing the period of limitation for the suit. (Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) Gaibanda Loan Office v. Salyadunnessa Khatun. 46 C.W.N. 967=I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 22=205 I.C. 523=15 R.C. 639=76 C.L.J. 17=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 114.

-S. 36 Proviso-Suit under-Limitation.

A suit instituted more than one year from the date of the delivery of possession of the property to the purchaser is barred under the proviso to S. 36 of the Public Demands Recovery Act, unless fraud is established under S. 18 of the Limitation Act. When a certificate officer is satisfied that the certificate-debtor is a minor, S. 41 of the Public Demands Recovery Act requires that a guardian should be appointed, and it makes it incumbent upon the certificate officer to see that the minor is thereafter represented by that guardian. itself are defective by reason of the fact that a minor whose interests have been affected has not been properly represented by a guardian, it is open to the minor to challenge the validity of the certificate in so far as it affects him. BENGAL PUBLIC GAMBLING ACT (II OF 1867), S. 3-Conviction under-Proof required.

A conviction under S. 3 of the Bengal Act (II of 1867) cannot be sustained in the absence of a finding that the premises in question were being used as a common gaming house within the meaning of the definition in S. I. In order to establish this point, the prosecution would have to prove that the instruments of gaming found in the place were kept or used for the profit of the lessee of the premises. # BENGAL RATIONING ORDER, Cls. 67&9. | BEN. REV. COMMRS. REGULN. (1829)

A warrant issued under S. 5 of the Bengal Public Gambling Act must indicate that the Magistrate has reason to believe that the house which he directs to be searched is used as a commongaming-house, or, in other words, as a house which is used by its owner or occupier for the purpose of making profit out of gambling transactions which take place therein. A warrant which merely states that the Magistrate has reason to believe that the house is used for certain gambling is not legal, and if the house is searched under such a warrant, the presumption which is raised under S. 6 of the Act cannot arise from the instruments of gaming found therein. In such a case, it must be proved by independent evidence that the owner or occupier of the house derived a profit from the use of these instruments of gaming. (Edgley. J.) JITENDRA BHUBAN Das v. EMPEROR. I.L R. (1941) 1 Cal 58=195 I.C. 7=14 R C. 39=42 Cr. L.J. 643=45 C.W.N 24=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 413.

-S. 6-Instruments of gaming-Evidentiary value.

S. 6 of the Bengal Public gambling Act merely provides that the finding of the instruments of the gaming shall be evidence that the premises used is a common gaming house. It is for the Magistrate to say whether he is prepared to come to such a finding or not. (Henderson, I.)

-S.6-Race-books found in house-Eviden-

-S.6–When can be invoked.

Before S. 6 of the Bengal Public Gambling Act can be invoked in aid of the prosecution, it must be established that before the search the Police Officer had reason to believe that the premises in question were used as a common gaming house. Evidence to the effect that he had reason to believe that gambling was going on there is not sufficient. (lienderson, J.) ABDUL v. EMPEROR. 202 I.C. 677=43 Cr. L.J. 887=15 R.C. 392=A. BENGAL RENT ACT (X OF 1859), S.6-Part of land held by cultivation and part for residential purposes-Raiyat, if can acquire occupancy rights.

Under S. 6 of the Rent Act, a raiyat holding, by cultivation at least a portion of the land comprised in the tenancy for a period of 12 years can acquire occupancy rights therein. The tenancy being one, the landlord cannot split it up and say that because a portion of the tenancy land is being used for another purpose, the tenancy ceases to be governed by the Act. (Akram and Pal, JJ.) RAJKUMARI BAISHNABI v. MIRJA SAMSUDDIN. 200 I.C. 314=14 R.C. 702=75 C.L. J. 29 SUDDIN. 200 I.C. 314=14 R.C. 702=75 C =46 C.W.N. 277=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 330.

BENGAL RENT RECOVERY UNDER-TENURES ACT (VIII OF 1865), S. 16— BENGAL "Incumbrance which may have accrued thereon by any act of any holder, etc."—Meaning of—Under-rawat with occupancy right—If affected by sale for arrears of rent under Chota Nagpur Tenancy Act.

Although an under-raiyati interest is an incumbrance accrued on the holding by an act of the raiyat, the occupancy right which is acquired by the under-raisat by custom is not a creation of the raiyat. It is a creation of custom, and therefore of law, custom having the force of law. Hence the interest of an under-raiyat who acquires occupancy right by custom cannot be said to be an "incumbrance which may have accrued thereon by any act of any holder of the said under-tenure" within the meaning of S. 16 of the Bengal Rent Recovery (Under-Tenures) Act of 1865. The section does not therefore entitle the purchaser of an under-tenure to eject an occupancy raiyat in actual possession of the land in a holding which is sold for arrears of rent under S. 208 of Chota Nagpur Tenancy Act. Nor does the section entitle the purchaser of a raiyati holding to eject an under-raiyat having occupancy right in the land. (Fasl Ah and Chatterji, JJ.) GHASHI SAHU v. An arrest under a warrant of commitment and Bengal State Prisoners Regulation (III of 1818) is arrest by a lawful process akin to criminal process. (Derbyshire C. I., Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) NIAHARENDU DUTTA MAZUMBAR, In re. I.L.R. (1944) I Cal. 489 SB.)=47 C. W.N. 854 (S.B.)=AIR. 1945 Cal. 107.

Since S. 7-A, Bengal State Prisoners Regulation, was brought into existence in the discharge of the functions of the Crown in its relations with Indian States, it does not come into conflict with S. 2 of the Constitution Act. The effect of the introduction of the amendment of S. 7-A in the Pengal Regulation III of 1818 would hence be that its validity is not open to challenge. (Harris, C.J., Abdur Rahman and Manne, J.) A purchaser of an occupancy holding before the amending Act of 1928 was passed whose purchase was recognised by one of the co-sharer landlords is a tenant within the definition in S. 3 of the B.T. -S. 3 (17), proviso -Scope and effect-Whether creates statutory tenancy.

The operation of S. 3, (17), proviso of the B. T. Act is this: As soon as it is proved that a person cultivates the land of another person under a system generally known as adhi, barga, or blag, prima facie he is not a tenant. He connot be held to be a tenant by any authority other than a Civil Court unless (i) he has been expressly admitted to be a tenant as in proviso (i); or (ii) he has been held to be a tenant by a Civil Court; or (iii) is (now) held to be a tenant by a Civil Court. In other words if the question whether or not such a person is a tenant arises in a Civil Court, that Court can decide the question on evidence before it without the requirement of prior admission as prescribed by proviso (i) or of prior decision of a Civil Court as prescribed by the first part of proviso (ii). This will be the effect of the words "or is" in proviso (ii). If, however, the question arises elsewhere, either before a Revenue Officer or in a Rent Court or before any authority other than a Civil Court, that authority is debarred from deciding the question unless either there is (1) the required prior admission contemplated by proviso (i), or, (2) the prior decision contemplated by the first part of proviso (n) or (3) any subsequent decision by a Civil Court while the matter is still pending before that authority. This last proposition again follows from the words "or is" in proviso (11). Accordingly the section does not intend to create any statutory tenaucy and it cannot be made to mean that as soon as either of the requirements of the proviso is present the person shall be held to be a tenant. The fulfilment of the requirements will only remove the bar to the establishment of the tenancy so that the authority may now proceed to determine the question on evidence. (Pal, J.) BASA-RADDI V. applicable to sub-lease.

Where the lands included in the holding of an agricultural raiyat consist partly of agricultural and partly of homestead lands, and the portion which can be used as homestead is let out for residential purposes, the under-tenant will be an under-raiyat within the meaning of S. 4 of the B.T. Act, and the provisions of the T.P. Act will not be applicable to the sub-tenancy. (Mukherjea and Rexburgh, JJ.) ARUN KUMAR SINHA v.

-S.5-Status of tenant-Tenure-holder or raiyat.

A kabuliyat executed prior to the Bengal Tenancy Act did not clearly indicate whether the tenant was to cultivate the land himself or lease it out to others. In one place it said that besides enjoying the land in raiyati right the tenant would have no right of sale or transfer without the consent of the landlord and there were further restrictions on his right to cut away and appropriate trees. The executants of the kabuliyat was Rajbansi by caste and Jotedar by profession. At the inception of the tenancy the area was considerably less than 100 bighas and the C.S. records described the tenant as settled raiyat.

Held, that in the circumstances of the case the presumption raised by the C.S. records in favour of the tenant was not rebutted and that he was a raiyat and not a tenure-holder. (Mukherjea, J.) SURENDRA MOHAN SARDAR v. NAGENDRA CHANDRA LAHIRI. 196 I.C. 121=14 R.C. 178=73 C.L.J. 73

=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 480.

-S. 5 (5)—Tenant claiming to be raiyat—

Onus of proof.

Where the land demised has more than 100 bighas in area, the presumption arising under S. 5 of the B.T. Act is that the settlement holders are tenure-holders. The onus is on those who claim to be raivats to rebut the said presumption, and this they can do by a reference to the lease itself if the lease is of an unambiguous nature, but if it is ambiguous, the surrounding circumstances must be looked at. (R.C. Mitter and Latifur Rahman, JJ.) Syed Uddin Ahamed v. Hemanta Kumari Devi. 72 C.L.J. 402.

-S. 12—Transfer of permanent tenure—Liability of original tenant for subsequent rent.

As soon as a transfer of a permanent tenure is complete under S. 12 of the B.T. Act, the liability of the transferor, if he is the original tenant, to pay rent for the period subsequent to the transfer comes to an end in spite of his personal covenant. The rule of English Law that his lia-bility will only cease by reason of a privity of contract after the transferee is accepted a tenant by the lessor, is not applicable to such a case. The effect of a transfer being completed with all the formalities required by S. 12 of the Act is that there is a statutory obligation on the part of the lessor to recognise the transferee as a tenant. Of course if there is a contract between a landlord and a tenant that the transfer shall not be valid and binding unless security is given or some other condition is fulfilled, the original tenant might still remain liable for the rent. But when there is no such condition, the lessor has got no other option but to recognise the transferee. (Mukherjee and Blank, JJ.) SARADINDU MUKHER-JEE v. Under S. 22 of the B. T. Act, as it stood before its amendment in 1908, a co-sharer landlord who purchases an occupancy holding becomes liable after his purchase to pay rent as a tenant to the whole body of landlords including himself. His liability is for rent and not for compensation for use and occupation. Consequently a suit for such rent is excepted from the cognizance of a Court of Small Causes. (Biswas, I.) Per Shearer, J. (Meredith, J. contra)—Where a co-proprietor purchases a raiyati holding prior to the amendment of S. 22 of the B. T. Act, in 1907, the purchase must be held to be for the benefit of all the proprietors and to be merely an acquisition to the bakasht of the estate, the purchased lands by the purchase immediately becoming bakasht lands. If, therefore, as a result of partition it is allotted to another proprietor, the purchasing co-proprietor is not entitled to recover possession of it. (Meredith and Shearer, IJ.) -Ss. 23 and 76-Land let out as raivati for agricultural purpose—Conversion of portion into tank and raising remainder for crection of house—It prohibited by S. 23-Such user, if constitutes improvements -Remedy of landlord.

Where one portion of the land which was let out as raiyati land for the purpose of agriculture is converted into a tank and the remaining portion is raised for the purpose of the creetion of a dwelling house thereon, so that no portion of the land can be used for agriculture, the land is used in a manner which is prohibited by S. 23 of the B. T. Act. The excavation made on the land and construction proposed to be made do not constitute improvements within the meaning of S.76 of the Act under this section, the improvement must be an improvement to the holding in which the construction is made. The Act does not empower a tenant to utilise one holding for the purpose of improving another holding irrespective of the question whether such use would impair the value of the former holding. Again, the improvement must be consistent with the purpose for which the holding was let and it must add to the value of the holding. In the above circumstances, the landlord is entitled to a mandatory injunction upon the tenant directing him to restore the land to its original condition and also to an injunction restraining him from using the land in such a way as to render it unfit for the purpose of agriculture. -Ss. 26-B and F-Raiyat transferring portion of occupancy holding before 1928 and residue afterwards - Landlord taking possession of residue by preemption-If entitled to recover possession of first sold portion.

If a raiyat transfers a portion of a non-transferable occupancy holding prior to the amendment of the Bengal Tenancy Act in 1928 and the residue of the holding in his possession after 1928, the mere transfer of the residue of the holding will not by itself constitute abandonment so as to entitle the landlord to recover possession of the first sold portion. But if the landlord exercises his right of pre-emption under S. 26-F of the B. T. Act, as it stood prior to its repeal by Act VI of 1938, with regard to the residue of the holding and takes possession of the same, or, if the second transferee gets the tenancy subdivided and the rent apportioned under S. 88 of the B T. Act, the landlord has the right to recover khas possession of the portion sold to the first purchaser. (Mukherjea and Blank JJ.) NRIPENDRA CHAND SAHA v. JOWADALI MONDAL. I.L.R. -Deed of exchange of raiyati lands not registered -Admissibility-Part performance-Applicability of

A deed of exchange of raisati lands is required to be registered under S. 26-C of the B. T. Act, which is expressed in absolute terms. If it is not registered, it cannot affect title or be received in evidence of the transaction of exchange. Although Acts in the nature of part performance may have taken place, there is no equity on which a plaintiff can found a claim of title any more than a defendant his defence. The English doctrine of part performance cannot be applied in India with such a result as to create without a registered instrument an interest which a statute says can only be created by such an instrument. It is not correct to say that where specific performance is not barred, the equity of part performance is still available in India to support a claim based on title, even though no registered instrument of transfer, as required by law, has been obtained; nor that there is any contract of transfer which can be proved in such a suit by the unregistered instrument, (Chakravartti, J.) -S. 26 E-Application for confirmation of sale-

S. 26-E of the Bengal Tenancy Act could be made. When the repealing enactment repeals a substantive right as well as the procedure by which the right was enforced, in such cases if the right is saved in respect of any transaction which was completed prior to the introduction of the Act, the remedies in respect of such rights are also saved under S. 8 of the Limitation—Limitation Act, Art. 181.

On an application by co-sharers under S. 26-F of the B. T. S. 26. G of the B. T. Act as amended by the Amendment Act of 1940 affects every mortgage in which possession of land is delivered. A mortgage of an occupancy holding executed in 1926 under which possession was delivered for a period of nine years and which provided for the appropriation only of the interest on the loan and the rents payable to the landlord from the usufruct and for separate payment of the principal, falls within the purview of the section and must be deemed to take effect as a complete usufructuary mortgage with all the resultant consequences. The period of nine years mentioned in the mortgage deed should be regarded as "the period mentioned in the instrument" for the purpose of the section and the mortgage must under S. 26-G (5) he deemed to have been extinguished on the expiry of that period even though the principal amount had not been paid. -S. 26-G (5)-Mortgage deed providing that mortgagor roould get back possession only on paying for buildings constructed by marigagee-Order for pos. session in terms thereof-Legality.

At the time of the execution of the mortgage the land was producing nothing. The intention of the mortgagee was to build and there was a clause in the deed to the effect that the mortgagor would only get back possession of the land on paying a fair price for any buildings which might be constructed by the mortgagee. On an application by the mortgagor under S. 26-G (5) of the Bengal Tenancy Act to recover possession, the Munsiff put the mortgagor on terms that she was to pay a certain sum at which he assessed the value of the structures, as a condition precedent to being put into possession. This order was reversed on appeal. Agreeing with the munsiff, Held, (1) that the mortgagee had an equitable claim to remain in possession in terms of the agreement; (2) that the doctrine against clog on the equity of redemption could not be invoked by a mortgagor against an equity which he had himself created in favour of the mortgagee. S. 26-G-Validity.

The provisions of S. 26-G of the B. T. Act relating to the re-transfer of the mortgaged property are matters wholly within the legislative competence of the Provincial Legislature as provided by Item 21 of List II of Sch. VII of the Government of India Act. The provisions are easily severable from those relating to the extinguishment of the debt secured by the mortgages dealt with, so that even if it were held that the latter provisions were void for repugnancy to any existing Indian Law, this would not affect validity of the former provisions. (Roxburgh and Blank, JJ.) Monomohan Das v. Parswanath Das. 209 I.C. 457=47 C.W.N. 789=16 R.C. 369=77 C.L.J. 483=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 588.

-S. 26-G-Validity-Transfer of Property Act, Ss. 68 and 98.

The provisions of S. 26-G of the B. T. Act relating to the re-transfer of the mortgaged property are covered by Item 21 of List II, and no question of repuganancy to any existing Indian law can, therefore, arise. As regards the question whether the section is repugnant to Ss. 68 (1) (a) and 98 of the T. P. Act in extinguishing debts due and secured by the mortgages therein referred to, it may be remarked that there is nothing in the latter provisions which provides that a contract, otherwise illegal, must be enforced. S. 37 of the Contract Act also specifically exempts performance of contracts where performance is dispensed with or excused under any law. (Roxburgh and Blank, II.) SAHARADDIN DEWAN v. ALTAFUDDIN AHMED. 210 I.C. 264=16 R.C. 422 =77 C.L.J. 426=47 C.W.N. 791=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 590.

-S. 26-G (1-a)-Mortgage by conditional sale executed by two persons-One of them taking sub-tenancy under mortgagee—Suit for rent by mortgagee against him—Plea of extinction of mortgage by him—If barred—Co-mortgagor not being party to suit—If material.

Where a mortgage by conditional sale is executed by two persons and one of them takes a subtenancy under the mortgagee, in a suit by the mortgagee for rent he can plead that the mortgage has been extinguished under S. 26-G (1) (a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act and that the relationship of landlord and tenant no longer exists. The fact that the co-mortgagor is not a party to the suit is immaterial. (Henderson, J.) Mohendra Nath Haldar v. Mohendra Nath Sardar. 48 C.W.N. 571=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 305.

S. 26-G (1-a) and (8) (b)—Scope and effect—Mortgage by conditional sale with possession—If extinguished at end of fifteen years.

A mortgage by conditional sale with possession comes within the terms of S. 26-G (1-a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act and should be deemed to be extinguished at the end of 15 years. There is no repugnancy between sub-S. (1-a) and sub-S. (8-b) and these provisions are mutually exclusive. Under sub-S. (8-b), the mortgagee is only given an opportunity to show that in fact it has not been so extinguished. If the mortgagee fails to obtain a declaration in a properly framed suit under this sub-section, the mortgage will be extinguished by the operation of sub-S. (1-a). (Henderson, J). MOHENDRA NATH HALDAR v. MOHENDRA NATH SARDAR. 48 C.W.N. 571=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 305.

S. 26-G (1) (a) and (5) (after amendment in 1938)—Validity—If ultra vires Provincial Legislature—Section, if conflicts with Ss. 62 and 68 of T. P. Act.—Scope of section—Personal covenant in nature of indemnity clause in usufructuary mortgage—If alters nature of mortgage.

S. 26-G of the B. T. Act as it stood after amendment in 1938 is not ultra vires the Provincial Legislature. Sub-S. (1) (a) of this section which was introduced by Act VI of 1938, so far as it allows the mortgagor of an occupancy holding in any form of usufructuary mortgage which was entered into before Act IV of 1928 to recover possession of the mortgaged property after the expiry of 15 years or the period mentioned in the bond, whichever is less is undoubtedly in conflict with the provisions of S. 62 of the T. P. Act. But this repugnancy is perfectly immaterial, as this is a matter which is not covered by the concurrent list. This relates to transfer of or contracts relating to. Agricultural lands and the Provincial Legislation is valid, even though it contradicts any existing Indian Law. If the Provincial Legislature has power to make a legislation with regard to future transfers, it can certainly, in virtue of its plenary powers, give retrospective effect to such provision so as to affect transfers made before 1928. S. 26-G (5), so far as it provides that the consideration shall be extinguished, is not in conflict with S. 68 (1) (a) of the T. P. Act under which the mortgagee has a personal remedy against the mortgagor. It is only a pure usufructuary mortgage that conforms to the type defined in S. 58 (d) of the T. P. Act, which comes within the purview of S. 26-G of the B.T. Act. If there is a personal covenant to pay the mortgage, will cease to be a usufructuary mortgage and it can rank only as an anomalous or mixed mortgage, which is excluded from the purview of that section. If this construction is sound, no conflict with S. 68 (1) (a) of the T. P. Act is possible, for in cases where that section will come into operation S. 26-G of the B. T. Act will have no application at all. But the presence of a personal covenant to pay in a usufructuary mortgage, which is in the nature of an indemnity clause as when the mortgagor undertakes to pay interest or compensation or the whole or a portion of the mortgage-money if the mortgagor is dispossessed from the mortgaged property, will not alter the nature of the mortgage, and the case will still come under S. 26-G of the B. T. Act. Such an agreement is no part of the mortgage transaction, for it comes into effect only when the mortgage fails. It is a collateral agreement, and whether it is enforceable or not is another matter. (Mukherjea and Roxburgh, JJ.) AKBAR ALI v. MAFIJUDDIN. 45 C.W.N. 823=74 C.L.J. 370=198. # BENGAL TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885). | BENGAL TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

Where in respect of a mortgage by conditional sale, the mortgagor makes an application under S. 26-G (5) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and the mortgagee institutes a suit under sub-S. (8), the Court should first decide whether the application under sub-S. (5) should succeed or not. If it succeeds, the mortgagee's suit becomes entirely infructuous. (Henderson, J.) OMARJAN BIBI v. AJGAR ALI. 49 C.W.N 307.

-S 26-G sub-S. (5) (before amendment)— Application for restoration of possession dismissed for default by Revenue officer-Second application before Civil Court-Maintainability-C.P. Code, S. 141.

Although an application by a mortgagor for restoration of possession of the mortgaged holding under S. 26-G (5) of the B. T. Act (as it stood prior to Bengal Act XVIII of 1940) was previously di-missed for default by a revenue officer, a second application under the same provision before the Civil Court is maintainable in law. The right of the mortgagor to recover possession is a recurring right and continues, so long as possession is not restored to him. If the right to recover possession is negatived by a competent tribunal, it cannot certainly be reagitated in the same Court or another Court, but, if the application is merely dismissed for default, a subsequent application cannot be barred, as the latter is not based on the same cause of action.

Obiter: It is extremely doubtful whether the revenue officer was a Court exercising civil jurisdiction within the meaning of S. 141, C P. Code. (Mukherien and Sen, J.) SASHI BHUSAN MISRA 21. MADHU SUDAN Manpal. I L R (1942) 2 Cal. 28=202 I.C. 601 =15 R C. 371=A.I R. 1942 Cal. 522

-S. 26-G (5)—Application in respect of mortgage by conditional sale-Not maintainable.

An application under S. 26-G (5) of the B. T. Act in respect of a mortgage by conditional sale is not maintamable. (Henderson. J.) ABDUL RAHMAN v. ADA-MALI. 48 C.W N. 606 (1).

revision-Recovery of possession by mortgagee-Properremedy-C P. Code, S. 144.

An application under S. 26-G (5) and (6) of the B. T. Act by the mortgagor to be put into possession was dismissed by the Munsif but was allowed by the District Judge and in accordance with that decision the mortgagor was put into possession. In revision the decision of the District Juage was set aside and that of the Munsif restored. The mortgagee applied for restitution under S. 144, C,P. Code.

Held, that the proper remedy of the mortgage was by an application under S. 144 C.P. Code, and that a suit by him would be barred. (Henderson, J.) GURU PROSAD v. SHFIKH KARIM BUX. 45 C.W N. 346

An order rejecting an application for restoration of property under S. 26-G (5) of the Bengal Tenancy Act is an order under sub-S. -S. 26-G (8)—Applicability—Mortgage extinguished under sub-S. (1-a) before Amendment Act of 1940.

Sub-S. (8) of S 26 G of the Bengal Tenancy Act only applies to mortgages subsisting on the date of the commencement of the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment) Act of 1940, and not to mortgages which have been extinguished

-Ss. 38 and 52 (b)—Raiyat at fixed rate—If can claim abatement of rent on ground of part of tenancy leing covered by deposit of sand—"Deficiency in area"-Meaning of.

In so far as S. 18(2) of the Bengal Tenancy Act enacts that the provisions of S. 38 among other sections, shall not apply to raiyats holding at fixed rates, a raiyat holding at fixed rates cannot claim under S. 38 (1) abatement of rent on the ground that part of the holding has been covered by a deposit of sand rendering it unfit for the purposes of the tenancy. Nor can he claim such abatement under the provisions of S. 52 (b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act. "Deficiency in area" cannot be construed to mean and include deficiency in the area fit for cultivation or for the purposes of the tenancy. (Riswas and Akram, JJ.) KAMADA KUMAR v. HARAPADA BANERJEE. 49 C.W.N. 417=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 295.

-S. 38 (1) (b)—Reduction of rent on ground of fall in prices-Finding that such fall was due to temporary cause-Question of fact or law-Second appeal.

Where in a suit for recovery of arrears of rent the defendant claims a reduction of the rent under S. 38 (1) (b) of the B. T. Act on the ground that there has been a fall in the average local prices of staple foodcrops, the question whether the economic depression as causing the fall in the prices does or does not tend to last indefinitely is a question of fact. But the question as to what facts are required to be established in order to show that the cause is only temporary will be a question of law or atleast a mixed question of fact and law. to eject defendant as trespasser. KHODADAT BIBI v.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885).

Therefore, a finding of the lower appellate Court that the cause is a temporary one can be set aside in second appeal, if the premises of its reasoning are not correct. (Pal, J.) RAM TARAK SINGH v. SALAGRAM SINGH. I L R. (1943)2 Cal. 192=212 I.C. 567=16 R.C. 614=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 153.

-S. 48 (c)—Decree for ejectment against under raiyat-If binds his sub-lessee.

The principle that a decree for eviction against a lessee is binding on the sub-lessee even though the latter has not been made a party to the suit is not applicable to the case of a tenancy under the Bengal Tenancy Act. A sub-lessee under an under-raigat who acquires the status of an under-raiyat, can be ejected only under the provisions of S. 48 (c) of that Act and not otherwise. (Mukheriez, J.) SFRAJUL HUO MIA 7. -Ss. 48-D and 75 A-Decree for enhancement of rent and decree for electment-If mutually exclusive.

The provisions of S. 48 -D of the B. T. Act lead to the conclusion that a decree for enhancement of rent and a decree for ejectment are mutually exclusive. Under S. 48-D (ii), the Court has to fix a fair rent. If the defendant agrees to pay, the decree would be one enhancing the rent and within the terms of S. 75-A of the Act. If the defendant does not agree, the only decree which can be passed is one for ejectment which is entirely outside the scope of that section. (Henderson, 7.) RAJ MOHAN SAHA v. JOGENDRA NATH SARKAR. 201 I.C 323=15 RC 167=75 C.L.J. 84=46 C.W.N. 255 = A I.R. 1942 Cal. 353.

-S.48-F-Applicability-Sub-lease created before 1928.

-S. 48-F-Sub-lease by under-raivat-Landlord's consent-If necessary.

The word 'transfer' in S. 48-F of the B. T. Act is sufficiently wide to include a sub-lease as well, and an under-raiyat cannot sub-let his land except with the consent of the landlord. -S. 48-G—Retrospective operation.

S. 48-G of the B.T. -S. 52-Excess area found on re-measurement-Settlement of increased rent-Previous measurement not proved to be in accurate—Deduction from total area-If may be allowed-Rule of

Where on re-measurement an increase in the area of the land settled with a tenant is found, deduction from such increased area can be allowed for the purpose of settling increased rent although it is not proved that the previous measurement, on the basis of which the settlement was made, was in any way inaccurate or wrong. When the subsequent measurement is made during the cadastral survey operation and the previous measurement was a private measurement made by the landlord without the aid of any scientific instrument, it would not be improper for the Court to make some deductions from the survey area with a view to reduce the two areas to a common standard for comparison. In the absence of any better materials, it would be proper for the Court to adopt as a matter of practice the rules laid down by the settlement authorities according to which a deduction of 5 per cent. from the total area is allowed when the previous measurement is proved to have been done with more than usual accuracy and in all other cases a deduction of 10 per cent. is permitted. BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885).

on account of diluvion, in S. 52 (1) (b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act and in that sense what was common law before became statutory law. It further stated that the rights so defined in that section are not to be curtailed or modified by any contract between the landlord and the tenant except in one class of cases precisely defined in S. 179. In S. 179 the legislature contemplates only contracts made after the passing of the Act. So, a contract, if made after the passing of the Act between the landlord and any class of tenant of agricultural land in a permanently settled area other than a mourasi mukurari tenant, and a contract between the landlord and every class of tenant of agricultural land in a non-permanently settled area, is to be regarded as illegal, if such a contract precluded the tenant from claiming abatement of rent on any ground mentioned in S. 52 of the Act. But contracts of that nature between landlords and tenants which were in existence at the time of the passing of the Bengal Penancy Act are outside the purview of that Act and would not be affected by S. 52 of that Act. There is no express provision or any provision in the Bengal Tenancy Act which by necessary implication has taken away the vested right of the landlord under a pre-Bengal Tenancy Act contract to realise the full rent in spite of deluvion. Therefore, an agreement that the tenant would not claim abatement of rent on the ground of diluvion contained in a pre-Bengal Tenancy Act contract is valid and enforcible after the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act. By reason of S. 3 (1) of Act XIII of 1939, the proviso which was added by that Act to S. 52 (1) (a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act applies to a suit which is pending on appeal on the date when that Act came into force. - S. 52 (1) (a) proviso-Scope and effect-Claim for additional rent for accreted land-Proof required of landlord.

According to judicial decisions interpreting S. 52 (1) (a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act as it stood before the proviso was added in 1939, the landlord was entitled to additional rent as soon as he proved alluvial accretion to the tenure. The proviso merely gives effect to those decisions and lays no additional burden on the landlord. It does not require the landlord to prove further that the area of the land of the tenure including The legislature embodied the common law of the accreted portion is in excess of the area the last adjustment of rent. (Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) MIDNAPORE ZEMINDARY CO., LTD. v. KUMAR CHANDRA SPNGH. I.L.R. (1943) 2 Cal. 245=210 I.C. 594=16 R.C. 472=77 C.L.J. 347=47 C.W.N. 733=A.I R. 1943 Cal. 544.

—S. 52(1) (b)—"Deficiency in area"—Landlord undertaking to maintain embankment existing on boundary of tenure—Embankment washed away by river and new embankment erected encrowing upon demised lant—Tenant, if can claim reduction of rent.

In a mourashi moharari lease, it was agreed that the tenant would not be entitled in future to claim a reduction of the rent settled for any reason whatsoever and that the landlord should maintain an embankment which existed on the boundary of the tenure for its protection against the inroads of a river. The embankment was later washed away by the river and the landlord erected a new embankment on a position of the demised land reducing thereby its area. It was not proved that the lands lay in a permanently settled area.

Held, that the area taken from the tenure by the embankment amounted to a deficiency in the area of the tenure of the tenant such as entitled him to claim reduction of rent under S. 52 (1) (b) of the B. T. Act. (Khundkar and Bisvaas, JJ.) SARAT CHANDRA MITRA v. SARADINDU. 49 C.W.N. 462.

Under the Bengal Tenancy Act the right to bring a tenure or holding to sale in execution of a rent decree is dependent on the existence of the relationship of landlord and tenant at the time. If, therefore, after the passing of a rent decree, the tenant transfers his interest and the transferee is not made a party to the execution proceeding, the sale will not pass the holding and the transferee's interest will be unaffected by it. S. 75 A—Suit for enhancement filed before 27th August 1937—Decree passed after that date but before 18th August, 1938—Suit pending in appeal on latter date—Proper procedure.

Where a suit for enhancement of rent was instituted before 27th August, 1937 and decreed after that date but before 18th August, 1938, the date on which S. 75-A of the B. T. Act came into force, and the suit was pending in appeal on latter date, Held, that as the decree of the first Court was rendered inoperative till 27th August, 1937 by Cl. 2 of S. 75-A of the B.T. Act, the appeal should be kept pending till that date and thereafter disposed of accordance with law. (Akram and Pal, JJ.) Prassinna Dev Raikat v. Bisseswar Das. I.L.R. -----S.75-A (2)--Applicability-Decree for enhancement under S. 105—Decree passed before section coming into force.

S. 75-A, sub-S. (2) of the B.T. Act, applies to a decree for enhancement of rent made by a Revenue Officer under S. 105 of that Act. It is immaterial that the decree was passed before that section came into force, as the decree is one made under the provisions of the Act and is, therefore, within the terms of that section. (Henderson, J.) NAGENDRA CHANDRA LAHIRI V. MOULVI MD. ABDUS SOBHAN SAHIB, I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 58=199 I.C. 800=14 R.C. 676=45 C.W. N. 1001=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 142 (1).

The provision for surrender as contained in S. 85-A of the B.T. Act is totally incompatible with and contrary to the essential incidents of a patnias laid down in Regulation VIII of 1810, and in view of the provisions of S. 195 (e) of the B.T. Act it cannot be made applicable to a patnitenure. Even if it applies, it cannot possibly entitle a fractional patnidar to surrender his undivided share in the taluk unless his co-sharers also joined with him. (Derbyshire, C.J. and Mukherjea, J.) NITYA RANJAN MUKHERJEE V. NIRANJAN CHANDRA. 195 I.C. 79=14 R.C. 43-74 C.L.J. 393=45 C.W.N. 137=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 330.

____S. 86-Validity of surrender-Non-transferable holding-Surrender subsequent to sale.

If a tenant sells his holding, although the holding is not transferable, the vendee acquires a right in the tenancy, which is binding on the landlord, and the landlord, though he has not consented, is not ordinarily entitled to recover possession of the holding, unless there has been an abandonment or a relinquishment of the holding or a repudiation of the tenancy. It follows therefore that the original tenant is not competent therafter to surrender the tenancy which he has already sold. (Edgley, I.) KALA MIA V KSHETRA MOHAN PAL. 199 I.C. 430=14 R.C. 544=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 269.

-S. 86-A-Retrospective effect.

S.86-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act merely lays down a rule of evidence, but has no retrospective effect. It has no application to a case where the diluvion and the abatement of rent took place before its enactment. (Henderson, I.) GOPAL VAKTA v. GOPAL MUNSHI. 195 I.C. 450=14 R. C. 100=45 C.W.N. 679=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 432.

——S. 87—Under raiyati holding transferred before Amendment Act of 1938—Landlord, if can take steps to re-enter after that Act came into force.

Where an under-raiyati holding was transferred before the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act of 1938 which made it transferable came into force but the landlord took steps to re-enter under S. 87 of the Bengal Tenancy Act only after the former Act came into operation.

Held, that the new Act did not abrogate the right to re-enter which accrued to the landlord before it came into force, and that the date on which he actually took steps under S. 87 of the Bengal Tenancy Act was immaterial unless any question of limitation arose. (Edgley, J.) KALE JODDAR v. TAPEE BIBI. 48 C.W.N. 827.

——S. 88—Rent of tenure distributed without lands being partitioned—Decree against co-sharer for his share of rent—If executable as rent decree.

A decree obtained against a co-sharer, in respect of his share of the rent is a rent decree where as a result of the distribution of the rent of the tenure under S. 88 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, he has become the sole tenant of the decree-holder though the lands have not been partitioned. As the interest of the judgment-debtor is a tenure within the meaning of the Act, there is nothing which can prevent the decree-holder from bringing it to sale under Chap. XIV. (Henderson, J.) NIRMAL CHANDRA V. JOGINDRA NATH. 49 C.W.N. 161 (1).

Rent without partition of lands-Effect of-

Decree, by landlord, if rent decree.

There is nothing in the definition of a tenure in S. 3 (18) or in the provisions of S. 5 (1) of the B. T. Act to support the proposition that there cannot be a tenure comprising an undivided interest in the land. If on an application by the co-sharers of the judgment-debtor under S. 88 of the act, the rent was distributed although the lands were not partitioned, the law does not make it impossible for the handlord to obtain a rent decree. As the interest of the judgment-debtor is a tenure within the meaning of the Act, there is nothing which can prevent the decree holder from bringing it to sale under chapter 14. (Henderson, I.) Godindra Chandra Roy v. Jogindra Nath Roy. A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 325.

S. 88. proviso (i)—Division of tenure—Consent of landlord—Presumption from rent

Receipts for aliquot parts of the cash rent from each of several tenants are sufficient to raise the presumption mentioned in the first proviso to S. 88 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, that the landlord had given his express consent in writing to a division of the tenure. (Khundkar, J.) AMAR NATH MISRA v. TRILOCHANDAS DUTIA. 209 I C. 292=16 R.C. 347=76 C.L.J. 251=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 565.

S. 88 (2), proviso (c)—Interpretation.
S. 88 (2), proviso (c) of the B. T. Act does not lay down that a tenant who does not join in the application for division of rent will not be debarred from re-agitating the matter in some subsequent proceeding. It goes much father than that. It prohibits a Court from making an order at all with respect to the share of such a tenant (Henderson, J.) RAJ RAJESWAR THAKUR V. LAKSHMI KANTA PRAMANIK. 217 I.C. 16=17 R. C. 151=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 287.

— S. 88 (6)—Order refusing application for sub-division on ground that applicant and opposite party are not co-sharers—Appeal, if competent.

The Civil Court hearing an application for the subdivision of a tenancy is entitled to decide whether or not the applicant and the opposite party are co-sharers and a decision on this point is clearly a decision under S. 88 of the B.T.Act, and as such appealable under sub-S. (6) of that section. (Mukherjea and Sen, JJ.) JIBANDHAN. ATUL CHANDRA. 46 C.W.N. 401 = 77 C. L.J. 12.

S. 88 (6)—"Prescribed fee"—Meaning— Fee not prescribed by Local Government—Appeal, if competent without any fee being paid.

The words "prescribed fee" in S. (6) of the B.T. Act do not mean the "mutation fee" mentioned in sub-S. (4) but mean the fee prescribed by the Local Government. But the fact that the Local Government, has not prescribed any fee cannot take away the right of appeal granted by sub-S. (6). The reasonable interpretation of the sub-section would be that until the fee is prescribed, the appeal would lie without any fee being paid. (Mukheriea and Sen, J.) JIBANDHAN v. ATUL CHANDRA. 46 C.W.N. 401=77 C.L.J. 12.

-Ss. 93, 94, 95, 98 and 99-Appointment of com mon manager in respect of loint properties not belonging to same set of owners by one order on one application-Legality-Law before and after Amending Act of 1928.

Where there are several items of joint property which do not belong to the same set of co-owners, one application for appointment of a common manager is not maintainable, but the properties must be divided into groups and there must be a separate application for each one of such groups, each group consisting of properties in which the co-owners are the same set of persons. If in such a case only one application is made resulting in one order of appointment, the order is an illegal one, and a suit lies at the instance of any co-owner to recover possession from the common manager, as his appointment is not a valid one. This represents the law under Ss. 93, 94, 95, 98 and 99 of the Bengal Tenancy Act both before and after the Amending Act IV of 1928. (Mitter and Lati/ar Rahman, JJ.) HARIPADA BISWAS  $\nu$ . Md. -95-Common Manager and Proprietors-Powers of borrowing.

Per Nasim Ali, J .- There is no authority or principle which precludes a proprietor or a set of proprietors of an estate under the management of a common manager appointed by the District Judge under S. 95 of the Bengal Tenancy Act from borrowing money without the Permission of the District Judge for purposes un-connected with the management of the estate. He can pay off the debt incurred by him out of his share of the income of the estate which may be paid to him by the common manager or in any other way he likes provided he does not interfere with the management of the common manager. A creditor, therefore, can lend money to him agreeing to the repayment of the debt by such proprietor or set of proprietors. The common manager is not bound to pay driectly to such a creditor out of the share of that particular proprietor or set of proprietors in the profits of the estate unless the order of the District Judge to that effect is obtained as under S.98 (4) of the Act the common manager is to deal with and distribute the profits of the estate in accordance with the orders of the District Judge. If a proprietor or a set of proprietors want to borrow money for purposes unconnected with the management of the estate and desires that the debts to be incurred by him or them is to be paid out of his or their shares of the profits of the estate in the hands of the common manager, such a proposal can be considered by the District Judge as a , matter dealing with the profits of the estate. Although the common manager is an officer of the Court, there is nothing in law which prevents a particular proprietor or a set of proprietors from authorising him to raise in his own name a particular loan as their agent. He will not be personally liable for its repayment, unless he pledges his personal credit. (Nazim Ali and Pal, 11.) SUKUMARI GUPTA v. DHIRENDRA NATH ROY. 197 I.C. 869=14 R.C. 401=73 C.L.J. 356=A.I. -S. 103 (1) before 1928 amendment and S. 103 B-Entries in respect of non agricultural land -Presumption.

A record of rights could be lawfully prepared in respect of non-agricultural land under S. 101 (1) of the Bengal Tenancy Act even before its amendment in 1928, and entries therein would attract the stautory presumption under S. 103-B of the Act. -S. 103-B-Presumption from entry in record of rights-Evidence showing foundation for such entry -If necessary.

An entry in the record of rights must be presumed to be correct unless the contrary is proved. A party relying on such presumption is not bound to adduce evidence to show that there was foundation for the entry. Roxburgh J.) HARSHAMUKHI DASI v. governed by Act-Entry as to its permanency-Presumbtion.

Per Pal,—An entry in the record of rights as to the permanent character of a tenancy which is not governed by the B.T. Act gives rise to the statutory presumption under S. 103 B (5) of that Act, when such entry was made under an order made by the local Covernment under S. 101 after its amendment in 1928. S. 102 (h) of the Act authorises a Revenue Officer to make such an entry and the authority is not taken away by the proviso to that section. (Nasım Ali and Pal, JJ.) JOGENDRA KRISHNA v. -S 104-Settlement of rent-Rent fixed under pre-Act contract-If can be ignored-Revenue settle. ment not accepted by proprietor.

In settling rent under S. 104 of the B.T.Act, the Revenue Officer is not only not competent to disregard or alter the terms of the contract entered into between the proprietor and the tenant before the passing of the Act, but on the other hand is bound to fix the rent on the basis of that contract. It is immaterial that the revenue settlement is not accepted by the proprietor and it is made with a stranger or that the Government has taken khas management of the estate under Regulation VII of 1822. A person aggrieved by the decision of the Revenue officer may institute a suit under S. 104-H of the Act. (Mukherica and Ellis, J.) PROVINCE OF BENGAL v. MIDNAPORE ZEMINDARY CO., LTD. 49 C.W.N. 395=A.I.B. 1945 Cal. 341.

A perusal of the grounds of appeal specified in S. 104-H affords complete conviction that the entry of rent settled in the settlement rent roll prepared under Ss. 104-A to 104-F, included a decision as to liability to the payment of rent. The Settlement Officer is not entitled to disregard, or to alter, contractual rights, but is bound to regard them and to give effect to his view of them. (Lord Thankerton.) Kumar Chandra Singh v. Midnapore Zemindary Co. 69 I.A. 51=I.L.R. (1942) Cal. 1=8 B.R. 627=14 R.P.C. 128=46 C.W.N. 802=I.L.R. (1942) Kar. (P.C.) 23=199 I.C. 545=A.I.R. 1942 P.C. 8 (P.C.).

Ss. 104-H and 111-A-If provide alternative remedies.

S. 111-A of the B. T. Act cannot be construed to provide an alternative remedy, when the remedy provided by S. 104-H is no longer open. The specific provisions of Ss. 104-H and 104-J cannot be cut down by any such construction, as it would render nugatory the period of limitation of action provided by S. 104-H and the finality provided by S. 104-J. When in a proceeding instituted under S. 105 of the Bengal Tenancy Act for settlement of rent a special issue is raised by the landlord under S. 105-A as to the correctness of certain entries in the settlement record, the Court has jurisdiction to hear and decide that issue although the landlord subsequently withdraws his substantive application under S. 105. -----S. 106-Scope of suit-Dispute regarding entry as to amount of rent payable.

A dispute regarding an entry in the Record of Rights as to the amount of rent payable is within the scope of the suit under S. 106 of the B. T. Act. The decision of such a dispute will not be a settlement of rent within the meaning of S. 113 of that Act, but will only settle the dispute as to what should be the correct entry under the head "amount of rent payable". But an order that the amount of rent decided to be payable will come into effect from a certain date, is uncalled for in such a suit. (Pal, I.) Sarat Chanlea Mitra v. Santosh Kumar Haldar. 209 I.C. 569=47 C.W.N. 544=16 R.C. 374=AIR. 1944 Cal. 145.

—S. 106—Scope of suit—Enquiry into title—Power of Revenue officer.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

The suit contemplated by S. 106 of the Bengal Tenancy Act is for decision of a dispute regarding any entry made in or omission from the record. If investigation of title is necessary for such a purpose it will certainly be within the competence of the Revenue officer exercising jurisdiction under this section to do that. No doubt in a suit under this section the Revenue officer has primarily to go on the question of actual possession. But there may be cases where the determination of the question of possession itself may be dependent on the question of title, as when the character of the disputed land is not such as to admit of continuous occupation by either party and both the parties claim title to it and assert their respective possession of the same by reason of some occasional acts of enjoyment. In such a case who is in possession is to be determined by the fact of the title, each having the same apparent actual possession. (Pal, J.) CHAIRMAN, DISTRICT BOARD RANGEUR v. JAGATPAT SINGH DUGAR. 198 I,C. 23=14 R C. 416=73 C.L.J. 397=45 C.W.N. 797=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 676.

S. 106—Scope of suit—Question if person in possession is benamidar for another.

A suit under S. 106 of the B. T. Act only calls for a decision on the question of actual possession on the date of the entry in the Record of Rights, and not of the title to possess. The question whether the person in possession is a benamidar for another does not, therefore, fall to be decided in such suit. (Pal, J.) SARAT CHANDRA MITRA v. SANTOSH KUMAR HALDAR. 209 I.C. 569=47 C.W.N. 544=16 R.C. 374=AIR. 1944 Cal. 145.

A decree for costs passed by a Special Judge in permitting the withdrawal of a suit brought under S. 106 of the B. T. Act with liberty to institute a fresh suit can be executed by a Civil Court to which it is transferred for execution. (Henderson, J.) SAHA SAMSUDDIN AHMED v. SERAJAL HAQ. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 121=203 I.C. 222=75 C.L.J. 503=15 R.C. 407=46 C.W. N. 696=A.I R. 1942 Cal. 567.

——S. 108-B (5)—Entry as to rate of rent in record of rights—Presumption—Production by tenant of earlier rent decree showing lower rate—

If shifts burden of proof.

The presumption of correctness attaching to an entry in the record of rights as to the rate of rent for an occupancy holding, is not rebutted by the tenant by the mere production of a rent decree passed between the predecessors of the same parties many years before the records of rights was framed showing a lower rate of rent. The burden of proof is not in such circumstances shifted to the landlord's shoulders and it is not his duty to prove by other evidence that the rent was enhanced after the date of the decree or that the enhancement was within the limits prescribed by law. (Khundkar, J.) JUGAL KISHORE BANERJEE v. SREERAM CHATTERJEE. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 554=207 I.C. 436=16 R.C. 56=76 C.L.J. 384=47 C.W.N. 144=A.I.R. 1943 Cal.

The proviso to S. 111-A of the B. T. Act is satisfied apart from any matter covered by S. 104-H by holding it to be applicable to cases where the challenge is, for instance, as to the right of the Settlement Officer to deal with the subjects under Ss. 104-A to 104-F. (Lord Thankerton.) KUMAR CHANDRA SINGH v. MIDNAPORE, ZEMINDARY CO. 69 I.A. 51=I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 1=8 B.R. 627=14 R.P.C. 128=46 C.W.N. 802= I.L.R. (1942) Kar. -S. ·146A (3)—Interpretation.

The proper interpretaion of sub-S. (3) of S. 146-A of the B. T. Act is that the four sub-clauses must be read in a disjunctive way. If the landlord institutes a rent suit against a person falling within any one of the descriptions in any one of the said four sub-clauses and gets a decree, that decree will be regarded as a rent decree and the sale in execution thereof as a sale under Chap. XIV of the Bengal Tenancy Act provided that the parties who have interest in the tenancy and who have been left out of the suit do not fall within any one of the categories described in the other three sub-clauses of sub-S. (3). (Mitter, J.) RAMANATH BANERJEE v. GIRISH CHANDRA SINHA, I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 278=196 I.C. 602=45 C.W.N. 119=A.I R. 1941 Cal. 515

-S. 146-A (3)—Scope and effect—Representation in rent suits.

The doctrine of representation in rent suits does not rest solely on the provisions of S. 146 A of the B.T. Act. Sub-S. (3) of that section enacts no more than this that if the defendants in the suit include all the persons mentioned in the various clauses of that subsection, then the entire body of co-sharer tenants shall be deemed to be represented by them, or in other words that in that case there will be an irrebuttable presumption that the entire tenancy has been represented in the suit. It does not say that the non-joinder of any such persons of any other persons having an interest in the tenancy will of itself negative representation. The question of representation is one of fact, and must depend on the particular circumstances of each case. There is no reason why, apart from the provisions of sub-S. (3), it may not be still open to a party interested to show that, in point of fact, the entire tenancy was represented in the suit by the persons who were actually joined as defendants. (Biswas, J.) SURATAN BIBI v. LUTU GOPAL BHATTACHARIYA. I.L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 523=205 I.C. 66=15 R.C. 570=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 51.

-S. 146-A (3)—Scope—Representation of entire body of co-sharer tenants-Meaning of.

The four clauses of sub-S. (3) of S. 146-A of the B.T. Act are disjunctive, but the Court cannot hold two holdings and these holdings were in possession of that the defendants in the suit represented the entire body of the co sharer tenants, if it is found that even one co-sharar tenant answering any of the descriptions in the four clauses has been left out. -Ss. 148-A and 162 to 166-Rent decree obtained by some of co-sharer landlords-Application for its execution by them-Amount payable to them stated therein as amount payable under decree and not total amount-Effect of sale.

Where a rent suit instituted by some of the co-sharerlandlords was in compliance with all the relevant provisions of the B. T. Act, particularly of S. 148-A of that Act, and the decree obtained in that suit was a valid decree available against the holding in the manner provided in Chapter XIV of the Act and the execution of the decree complied with all the requirements of Ss. 163 to 166 and S. 148-A (7) and also of S. 162 excepting that in naming the amount recoverable under the decree the total amount so recoverable was not stated but only the amount payable to the applicants for execution was given as the amount recoverable, but the application for execution contained all other descriptions of the decree and was for the benefit of the entire body of the decree-holders, Held, (i) that this non-compliance with S. 162, if non-compliance it was, did not in any way affect the execution proceeding and the sale held in it would have the effect of passing the entire holding to the purchaser as contemplated by S. 65 and Chap. XIV of the B. T. Act and that the character and effect of the execution was not in any way affected by the fact that the application by the other cc-sharers for joining the execution case as co-applicants was disallowed, (ii) and that consequently a purchaser at another rent sale held subsequently to the above sale did not acquire any title to the holding by his subsequent purchase- (Pal, J.) S- 148-A-Rent suit-Rent for earlier period covered by award of Debt Settlement Board tacked to claim in suit-Deccree, if rent decree.

A decree passed in a suit to recover rent due for a certain period does not cease to have the effect of a rent decree merely because the landlord has included in the suit the rent due for an earlier period which was covered by an award made by a Debt Settlement Board. It is necessary to examine the award and to see whether if it were a decree passed in a rent suit, it could be executed as a rent decree. If it could, then it may be so executed in the absence of any other obstacle in the way of the decree-holder. But if the award includes rent which could not be recovered in the suit on account of the bar of limitation, the decree passed in the suit cannot be executed as a rent decree but must be executed as a money decree. (Henderson, J.) JOGEN-DRA NARAYAN MAZUMDAR v. NURMAHAMMAD-ULLA SARKAR. 77 C.L. J. 67. Affirmed on L. P. Appeal in A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 32=219 I.C. 109=18 R.C. 67.

-S. 148-A-Single suit for rent in respect of two holdings in possession of different persons and for different periods-Decree passed in suit-Validity-If has effect of rent decree-C. P. Code, S. 99.

Where an original holding had been split up into different persons but a single suit had been brought to recover rent for different periods in respect of the two holdings, there can be no doubt that two separate causes of action were improperly joined in the suit for rent. But the decree passed in the suit could not be reversed merely on the ground of misjoinder even in a proceeding by way of appeal if it has not affected the ments of the case, in view of the provisions of S. 99, C P. Code. If there was no appeal from the decree and no objection was raised by any of the defendants concerned to the frame of the suit, they cannot be heard to say in a subsequent suit that the decree was without jurisdiction. If in passing the decree, the Court moulded the decree in such a manner as to enable the decree to apply distributively to the two holdings in respect of which the suit was brought and the execution proceedings were also moulded on the same lines so that each set of detendants knew what they had to pay, the decree has the effect of a rent decree. (Harries, C.J. and Fazl Ali, SUNDAR PANDIT v. MAHADEO PRASAD. 197 I.C. 476=8 B.R. 228=14 R.P. 312=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 243.

A co-sharer landlord who is made a defendant in a suit framed under S. 148-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act remains only in name as a party, if no notice or summons of the suit is served on him and he does not appear. In that case he is not a party to the suit in the eye of law and the decree would not be in that event a rent decree. But if he is either served with the summons of the suit, or if he appears and is represented in the suit, the decree would be a rent decree, if other material conditions of S. 148-A are fulfilled. If in such a case the special notice under sub-S. (2) is not served on him the only effect of the non-service is that he does not lose his right to sue for his share of the rent for that period in a separate suit. (Mitter and Bisquas J.). S. 148-A (4)—Non-consolidation of rent suits -Effect of decree passed in main suit.

Non-compliance with sub-5. (4) of S. 148-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act would be at most an inregularity, and could not alter the nature of the decree passed in the main rent suit with which the other suits were not consolidated. If would be a rent decree. (Mitter and Biswas, J.) JATIS CHANDRA PAL v. KSHIRODE KUMAR I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 274=208 I.C. 309=16 R.C. 155=76 C.L J. 83=47 C.W.N. 186=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 319

S. 148-A (6)—Separate decrees passed in favour of different co-plaintiffs—Validity.

S. 148-A (6) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, no doubt requires one decree to be passed specifying the amount payable to each co-sharer landlords or to each set of co-sharer landlords, separately. If however, instead of drawing up one decree in that form, separate decrees are drawn up in favour of the different sets of co-plaintiffs, the matter is only one of form and not of substance; (Mitter and Biswas, J.) ——S. 149 (3)—Order under—Appeal, if lies— Appeal filed against order—Further appeal or revision to High Court—If competent.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

No appeal lies from an order under S. 149 (3) of the B. T. Act. But if an appeal is filed against the order a further appeal to the High Court from the decision of the appellate Court is competent, and not an application in revision. (Henderson, J.) RAMAN CHANDRAT, KEDAR NATH, 197 I.C. 15=45 C.W.N. 930=14 R.C. 305=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 441.

— S. 153—Decision on amount of rent annually payable—Decision groung effect to tenant's plea of suspension of rent—If amounts to.

Whether, when the Court gives effect to the tenant's plea of suspension of rent, it can be said to have decided a question relating to the amount of rent annually payable by the tenant as is contemplated by the proviso to S. 153 of the B.T. Act depends on the nature of the pleadings and the facts of a particular case. When the tenant has not been put in possession of any portion of the demised premises or has been permanently deprived of it and the court either directs suspension or abatement of rent generally it cannot be said that a question of the amount of rent payable by the tenant is not decided in such cases. Even if a case of total suspension of rent is different in principle from one of abatement or apportionment of rent it may be fairly argued that in a case where the plea taken by the tenant is one of partial dispossession by the landlord a question would always arise as to whether the rent should be suspended in its entirety or would be apportioned merely and if the Court allowed suspension that would amount to an implied decision that there should not be any apportionment in that particular case. (Mukherjea and Roxburgh JJ.) ATAR MIAN v. INDRA KUMAR, 196 I.C. 639 =45 C.W.N. 761=14 R.C. 265=76 C.L.J. 29= A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 556.

S. 155—Suit for electment of occupancy tenant

-Allegation of several acts if waste—Kight to sucWhen accrues—Limitation Act, Art. 32.

A suit for ejectment of an occupancy tenant and for compensation on the ground that he had used the lands in a manner which rendered the same unfit for the purposes of the tenancy, such as is contemplated in S. 155 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, is governed by Art. 32 of the Limitation Act. It is well settled that if there is a misuse by the tenant even of a portion of the land comprised in the tenancy, the landlord's right to eject may and must be exercised in respect of the whole holding, and he cannot bring a suit for the ejectment only from the But this does not portion which was actually misused. mean that where the tenants affect only a portion of the land by any acts of waste, the landlord shall be bound to sue at once and that he may not wait till further acts of waste are committed on the rest of the tenancy. Similarly, it does not follow that because a suit for ejectment may be barred, if it is founded on any particular act of waste or misuse, it may not yet be within time as regards other acts of a similar kind which might equally found a fresh cause of action. Therefore, in order to decide whether a suit is barred or not, it is necessary for the Court to come to an express finding as to when the plaintiff first came to know of each of the several acts of misuse or waste alleged. It is also necessary to see when the various acts complained of produced the result which would give the plaintiff the right to sue. The right to sue does not accrue until and unless the land has been rendered unfit for the purposes of the tenancy. The result is not neces sarily reached as soon as the act is commenced. Neither can it be said that it is not reached until the act is finally completed. It is a question of fact, which depends on the evidence as to when and at what stage the land may be regarded as having become unfit by reason of any acts committed by the tenants. (Biswas. J.) PROBHATI DEBI v. TARAK NATH KUNDU. 46 C.W.N. 786.

-S 155-Suit for electment of occupancy tenant -- Limitation-Exclusion of period of notice-Limitation Act, S. 15 (2).

In computing the period of limitation for a suit for ejectment of an occupancy tenant on the ground that he had used the land in a manner which rendered the same unfit for the purposes of the tenancy, the landlord is entitled to claim the exclusion of the period of the notice served by him on the tenant under S. 155 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Such a notice is a notice of a suit within the meaning of S. 15 (2) of the Limitation Act. (Biswas, J.) PROBHATI DEBI v. TARAK NATH. KUNDU. 46 C.W.N. 786.

-S. 158-B (2)—Absence of notice—Legality of Per Mukherjea, J.—A sale held in execution of a rent decree without complying with the provisions as to notice in S. 158-B (2) of the B. T. Act (which is now S. 148-A (7) of the present Act) is not a nullity out and out, and void for want of jurisdiction. The sale is still good as a money sale and it would pass the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor. It is not correct to say that it is an irregular sale, which will mean that it has to be set aside by a proper proceeding.

Per Roxburgh, J.—The issue of notice under S. 158-B (2) is not mandatory and is not a condition precedent to give the Court jurisdiction to sell. In omitting to give proper notice under this provision, the Court commits an irregularity and the sale of the entire holding remains good subject to proceeding under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code. The irregularity cannot have the effect of turning that sale into something of a different character, namely, a sale merely of the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor. (Mukheriea and Roxburgh, JJ.) JAB ALI KHAN v. BHUPATISH CHANDRA P.OV. 201 I.C. 574=15 R.C. 242=74 C.L.J. 360=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 61.

-S. 158-B(2)—Absence of notice—Waiver by cosharers.

Per Mukherjea, J .- The provision for giving notice in S. 158-B (2) of the Bengal Tenancy Act is intended merely to safeguard the interests of the other co-sharer landlords. It is the co-sharers alone who can impeach the sale on the ground of notice and it is open to them also to waive their right to notice, and treat the sale as a rent sale. If the co sharers after being apprised of the sale keep quiet and do not take any steps, it would amount to waiver of their right to notice. (Mukherjea and Roxburgh, J.). RAJJAB ALI KHAN v. BHUPA TISH CHANDRA ROY. 201 I.C. 514=15 B.C. 242=74 C.L.J. 360=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 61.

-8. 159—Annulment of encumbrance—Right of purchaser of under raivati holding.

S. 159 of the B. T. Act by itself cannot give the purchaser of an under-raiyati holding at a sale in execution of a decree for rent the right to annul incumbrances as provided for in that section. The purchaser will have this right only if the decree for arrears created a charge under S. 65 of that Act. (Mukherica, J.) ABDUS SAMAD MOLLA v. ABDUL GOFUR MOLLA. I.L.R. (1941) 1 Cal. 409=196 I.C. 357=14 R.C. 227=45 C.W.N. 367 = A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 396.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885). BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885).

-S. 159-Purchaser of holding after rent decree not impleaded in execution proceedings -Whether bound by execution sale.

A purchaser of a holding after the passing of a rent decree is bound by the sale held in execution of that decree, although he was not made a party to the execution proceedings. There is no statutory provision which requires a decree-holder to give a notice to a person who is not the judgment-debtor or a representative of the judgment-debtor. (Henderson, J.) SURENDRA NATH HALDAR v. PRATAP CHANDRA MAJAI. 76 C.L.J. 248.

-Ss. 159, 160 and 167—Rent sale—When subject to under-raivati interest.

A purchase of a holding at a sale in execution of a rent decree is subject to the under-raiyati interest therein only if the under-raiyati interest was an "incumbrance" within the meaning of S. 161 of the B. T. Act but it had not been annulled by the purchaser under S. 167, or if it was a "protected interest" as defined in S. 160 of the Act. S. 159 in fact makes it clear that on no other basis could the under-raivati interest be held to be binding on the purchaser. This is a section which purports to enact an exception to the general rule that the tenure or holding itself shall pass at a rent sale, and it makes an exception only in favour of "protected interest" on the one hand, and in incumbrances" on the other, provided in the case of the latter the purchaser takes no steps to annul the same. It follows that all other interests will ipso facto stand determined by such sale. In other words, an interest will subsist, if it is a protected interest, it will also subsist, if it is an incumbrance and is not annulled; but an interest, which is neither a protected interest nor an incumbrance, must yield to the rights of the purchaser. As the definition of the term "incumbrance" in S. 161 (a) shows, if an interest is a protected interest, it cannot be an incumbrance, but the converse does not follow that if it is not an incumbrance, it must be a protected interest. An interest is not therefore necessarily saved from a rent sale by merely showing that it is not an incumbrance, it can be saved only where it is not an incumbrance because it is a protected interest. (Biswas, J.) KHATERUDDIN v. TRIPURASUNDARI DEBI. 46 C. W.N. 383=201 I.C. 344=15 R.C. 170=A.I.B. 1942 Cal. 375.

-Ss 159 and 167-Several purchasers-Power to annul incumbrance—If must be exercise jointly.

The power to annul the incumbrances under the B.T. Act is given to "the purchaser" meaning there by the entire body of purchasers when there are more than one purchaser of the tenure or holding. Such power must therefore be exercised by the entire body of the auction-purchasers jointly. (Akram and Pal, JJ) SARALA SUNDARI v. PURNA CHANDRA. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 52=46 C.W.N. 409=205 I C. 272=15 R.C. 593=76 C.L.J. 377=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 52.

Dwelling houses in S. 160 (e) of the B. T. Act. mean permanent dwelling houses. The collocation of the words in this clause goes to show that the object is to protect leases on which permanent structures have been erected. (Biswas, J.) LATIM SEKH v. TRIPURA SUNDRI. 46 C.W.N. 383. =201 I.C. 344=15 R.C. 170=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 375.

-Ss. 164 to 167—Sale of tenure at rent sale -Sub-tenant under defaulting tenant-Position of -If becomes tenant under purchaser till annulment

When a tenure is purchased at a rent sale a sub-tenant under the defaulting tenant does not become automatically a tenant under the purchaser and remain a tenant till the tenancy is put an end to by a notice under S. 167 of the B. T. Act. If the purchaser exercises his right to annul the incumbrance the position of the subtenant will be that of a trespasser from the very moment of the sale. He can be treated as a tenant if the time for exercising his right of annulling incumbrances has expired. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.) PROVABATI DEBI v. PROTAB CHANDRA MAZUMDAR. I L.R. (1942) 1 Cal. 49= 200 I.C. 453=15 R.C. 3=45 C.W.N. 991=74 C. L.J. 104=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 145.

-Ss. 165 and 163-Sale proclamation with power to avoid all encumbrances ordered-Further proceeding stayed by Debt Settlement Board -Stay order vacated beyond one month from date fixed for sale—Nature of fresh proclamation to be issued—C. P. C. O. 21, Rr. 67 and 69.

Where after a proclamation of sale with power to avoid all encumbrances was ordered under S. 165 (1) of the B. T. Act further proceedings were stayed by a notice issued by a Debt Settlement Board under S. 34 of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors Act and the order of stay was vacated beyond the period of one month from the date fixed for the sale, R. 69 of O. 21, C. P. Code, will operate to require a fresh proclamation to be issued and the proclamation will be one of the kind leading to the part of the sale, which is being adjourned namely a proclamation under S. 165 (1) for sale with power to annul encum-S. 165 (1) for sale with power to annual checking brances and not a proclamation under S. 163 of the B. T. Act for sale free from encum-Brances. At this stage the words "under R. 67" in R. 69 of O. 21, C. P. Code, are to be interpreted to mean R. 67 as varied by S. 165 (1) of the B. T. Act read with S. 163 (3). It follows that the proclamation must be for a sale with power to annul encumbrances and fixed for a date not less than fifteen or more than thirty days" from the date of the postponement" which date of postponement must be the date on which fresh proclamation is ordered. -S. 167-Landlord purchasing-holding-In execution of rent decree—If entitled to hold it free of incumbrance without annulling same.

A landlord who purchases a holding in execution of his rent decree is not entitled to hold it free of the mortgage to which it is subject without annulling the same under S. 167 of the B. T. Act. The procedure provided by this section is the only mode of annulling an incumbrance, and the purchaser must have recourse to it within the specified period for the purpose. If that is not done, the landlord purchaser must hold the property subject to the mortgage, and will be entitled to redeem. In this respect the statute recognises no distinction between a landlord purchaser and a stranger purchaser under a rent decree. (Biswas, J.) Chunnu Lalv. Amluk Chandji. 46 C.W.N 706.

-S. 167—Mortgage of non-transferable occupancy holding-If amounts to incumbrance-Land lord purchaser at rent sale not annulling such mortgage-Mortgagee's right to sue on mortgage-Mortgagee purchasing at mortgage sale-If can sue for possession against landlord-Landlord not made party to mortgage suit-Remedy of mortgagee purchaser.

A transfer by way of mortgage of a nontransferable occupancy holding or of a portion of it is certainly a limitation of the interest of the tenant and hence amounts to an incumbrance with in the meaning of S. 161 of the B. T. Act and as an incumbrance it does not stand ipso facto cancelan under raiyati jama, although it consists of led by the rent sale, but has to be annulled by the homestead lands within the jurisdiction of a purchaser under S. 167 of the Act. It would make no difference that the purchaser was the landlord himself and not a stranger. If the landlord purchaser does not annul the mortgage, then in a suit to enforce the mortgage bond to which he is made a party, no question of transferability of the holding could be raised by him. But such a question could certainly be raised by him if the mortgagee purchases the holding in execution of his decree and sues to recover possession of the same from the landlord purchaser or the persons with whom the land has been settled by him. The plea, however is of no help if the mortgage sale took place after 1928 when the occupancy holdings were made transferable by law. If however, the mortgagee purchaser did not make the landlord purchaser a party to his mortgage suit, he cannot maintain a suit for possession against him and his only remedy, would be a suit to enforce his mortgage security. -S. 168-A (as amended in 1940)—Applicability and construction—Decree for arrears of rent—Transfer outside Bengal for execution— Right of decree-holder to execute by arrest or by attachment of property other than holding-If

S. 168 A of the B. T. Act, as amended by Act XVIII of 1940, does place a restriction on the mode of executing a decree for arrears of rent in Bengal. There is nothing in the section preventing an application being made under S. 39, C. P. Code, to the Court passing the decree to transfer the decree for execution by a Court outside Bengal, and there is nothing on the face of the section to prevent the decree-holder executing the decree by arrest of the judgment debtor. What it actually says, is that if execution is to be by attachment and sale of property, then the only property which can be proceeded against is the property in respect of which arrears of rent were recovered. If the decree is transferred for execution to another province, the section cannot limit the powers of a Court outside Bengal. The section must be read as applying only to Bengal and must not be read as prohibiting transfers of the decree for execution or as attempting to govern the rights of litigants in Courts of other provinces. A darpainidar holding possession of a patni as girbidar, is not a tenant of the Zemindar. A decree for a sum of money obtained by the latter against the former on the basis of an agreement by which the former agreed to pay to the latter a sum of money which was equal to the patni rent for a year, is not one for rent, and as such, S. 168-A of the B. S. 168-A-Applicability-Patni tenures.
S. 168 A of the B. T. Act is applicable to patni tenures. (Mukherica and Akram, JJ.) UDOY CHAND MAHATAB v. AJIT KUMAR ROY. 80 C.L.J. 41.

-S. 168 A-Applicability-Patni tenures-Section, if affects Patni Regulation.

The operation of S. 168-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not withdrawn from the putni tenures by reason of S. 195 (e) of the Act. There is nothing in S. 168-A which can be said to affect the Putni Regulation itself. No doubt it affects the putni tenures. But as there is nothing in the Putni Regulation relating to the execution of any decree for arrears of rent due in respect of the putni and as S. 168 A only gives certain special provisions relating to such execution, the provisions contained in the Putni Regulation are not affected by S. 168-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act. (Nasım Ali and Pal, JJ.) SATISH CHANDRA v. SUDHIR KRISHNA GHOSH. 201 I.C. 24=15 R.C. 110=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 131=75 C.L.J. 190=46 C.W.N. 540=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 429.

-S. 168-A-Applicability-Pending proceed. ings.

Sub. S. (2) of S. 168-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act shows that pending proceedings are not outside the scope of the section. If the sale of any property other than the defaulting tenure was completed before the section came into force the sale would certainly stand but if the property was attached and not sold, the judgment-debtor is given the right to apply for release of the property on payment of costs. The words of the Act and consequently comes within its mischief. The sub-section are wide enough to include a case where the landlord having put up to sale the defaulting tenure before the section is introduced proceeds against other properties of the judgment debtor which are attached but not sold when the section comes into force. Such cases would be governed by sub-S. (1), Cl. (a) and the expression "shall not be executed" occurring in that clause would impose limitations upon all proceedings in execution commenced or continued after the new section comes into force. (Mukherlea and Blank, Jr.) ATUL CHANDRA CHAKRAVARTHI v. UPENDRA NARAYAN. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 397 = 202 I.C. 147 = 15 R.C. 297 = 75 C.L.J. 267 = 46 C.W.N. 684 = A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 473.

S. 168-A which was introduced in the Bengal Tenancy Act by the Amending Act of 1940 prohibiting the attachment and sale of the property of the judgment-debtor other than the defaulting tenure, was not intended to affect sales which were confirmed before the amending Act came into operation. (Nasim Ali and Pal, JJ.) PRAFULLA KUMAR ROY v. BIBHABATI ROY. 201 I.C. 319=15 R.C. 165=46 C.W.N. 549=A.I.B. 1942 Cal. 369 (1).

Where an attachment of property took place before S. 168-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act came into force and the judgment-debtor did not apply to have the attachment released under sub-S. (2) of that section, a sale held after that section came into force in pursuance of the attachment is valid. (Henderson, J.) UDAY CHAND MAHTAB v. PHANINDRA LAL GHOSH. I.I. B. (1944) 1 Cal. 28=218 I.C. 198=18 B.C. 17=A.I.B. 1944 Cal. 384.

5. 168-A—Attachment of decree passed in favour of judgment debtor—If barred.

An attachment of a decree passed in favour of a judgment-debtor under O. 21, R. 53, C. P. Code, in execution of a rent-decree obtained against him, is not hit by S. 168-A (i) (a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act. (Mukherjea and Sharpe, JJ.) ANIL KUMAR BASU v. BIMAN BIHARI MITRA. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Cal. 340=217 I.O. 101=17 R.C. 163=48 C.W.N. 344=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 240.

-S. 168-A-"Decree-holder"-Meaning of. The word "decree-holder" in S. 168-A of the B. T. Act must be given its natural meaning. It does not mean "landlord". Where, therefore, a rent suit was instituted by several co-sharer landlords but the execution proceedings were taken by only some of them who purchased the holding making the others, who refused to join in the execution petition, as parties, a purchaser of the interest of the latter at a putni sale held prior to the institution of the execution case cannot file an application under S. 168-A (1) (b) praying that the purchasing co-sharer landlords should be compelled to deposit the rent which had become due between the date of his purchase in the putni sale and the date of the confirmation of the rent sale. (Hendersan. J.) SARAT KUMAR RAY v. KIRAN CHANDRA RAY. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 408=212 I.C. 120=16 R.C. 582= A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 110, ijaradars for appropriation towards interest— Decree obtained by mortgagee for such rent— If hit by section.

Where a zemindar after granting an ijara lease in respect of his zemindari mortgages it to another and assigns to the mortgagee his right to recover rent from the ijaradars and empows him to appropriate so much of it as is necessary to pay the interest due to him, the rent paid to the mortgagee by the ijaradars is rent in the proper sense of the word. Consequently a decree obtained against the ijaradars by the mortgagee for such rent cannot but be a decree for rent which is hit by S. 168-A of the B. T. Act. (Mukheriea and Blank, JJ.) SATISH CHANDRA v., BISHNUPADA PAL, I.L.R. (1942) 2 Call 325=202 I.C. 488=15 R.C. 352=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 144=46 C.W.N. 628=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 470.

A decree-holder purchasing a holding in execution of his rent-decree under S. 168-A of the B. T. Act is not liable to deposit in Court the rent which has become payable between the date of the institution of the suit and the date of the confirmation of the sale. (Henderson, J.) JAGADISH CHANDRA SINHA v. MUNSUR MOLLA. 46 C.W.N. 920.

S. 168-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not bar the execution of a rent decreee by the appointment of a receiver of the judgment-debtor's property under S. 51 (d) C.P. Code. (Nasim Ali, Mitter and Sharpe, J.). SUDHIR KRISHNA GHOSE v. SATISHCHANDRA. 218 I.C. 41=17 R.C. 194-48 C.W.N. 835=78 C.L.J. 343=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 418.

——S. 168-A—Property other than holding attached before section coming into force—Whether can be sold subsequently.

Where in execution of a decree for rent the decree-holder attached property other than that to which the decree relates before S. 168-A of the B. T. Act came into force, there is nothing to prevent him from selling that property in execution of the decree after that section has come into force when the judgment-debtor has not availed himself of his right to get the property released from attachment under sub-S. (2) of that section. (Henderson, J.) NAKUL CHANDRA GANGULI E. NAKUL CHANDRA GANGULI. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 561=207 I.C. 203=16 R.C. 35=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 237.

S. 168-A-Property sold before section coming into force—Delivery of possession—If can be obtained subsequently.

S. 168-A (2) of the Bengal Tenancy Act does not apply to a case where a property other than the defaulting tenure, was attached and sold before the Amending Act of 1940 which introduced that section came into operation. Sub-R. (2) really contemplates a case where the property was attached before the Amending Act came into force but was not actually sold. But where the property was sold before the Amending Act the section is no bar to the decree-holder purchaser obtaining delivery of possession of such property after that Act came into operation. -S. 168-A-Rent due after suit-Liability of auction purchaser-Landlord obtaining decree for such rent-Effect of-Produce rent-Money equivalent-Basis of calculation.

Under S. 168-A of the B. T. Act, an auctionpurchaser of a holding in execution of a rent decree is liable for rent due subsequent to the suit when such rent has not in fact been paid by the judgment-debtor. although the landlord has obtained a decree for such rent. The auction-purchaser cannot, however, be made liable for the decretal amount. If the tenancy is held on a produce rent, the auction-purchaser is entitled to pay in kind. If he is unwilling to do so, the money equivalent is to be calculated on the basis of the value of the produce when the rent accrued due. (Henderson, J.) SARAJ BASHINI DEBI v. -S. 168-A—Retrospective effect.

S. 168-A of the B.T Act has no retrospective effect except as provided for in sub-S. (2). (Henderson, 1.) KALIDAS SAHA v. KIRAN CHANDRA. 202 I.C. 614 =15 R.C. 373=46 C.W.N. 864=76 C.L J. 472 =A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 521.

-S. 168-A-Sale of portion of holding sufficient to satisfy decree-Decree-holder, compelled to sell whole holding.

S. 168-A of the B.T. Act is obviously made to help tenants and not landlords The use of the word "entire" shows the limits which are placed upon the right of the decree-holder. To hold that although the decree can be satisfied by the sale of a small portion of the holding, the decree-holder against his own wishes and in spite of the protest of the judgment-debtor is compelled to bring the whole tenure to sale, would be to the disadvantage of the tenant. (Henderson, J.) ABDUR RASHEED v. SRISHCHANDRA NANDY. 48 C.W.N. 172 (1) =A. I.R. 1944 Cal. 301 (2).

—— S. 168 A—Scope—Section prevents execution and not passing of decree.

S. 168-A Bengal Tenancy Act, might stand in the way of the decree-holder executing a rent decree in a particular way and whether this section at all is attracted to a particular case can only be decided when the decree is put into execution. It cannot be a ground for refusing to pass a decree that the decree if passed, could not be executed in a particular manner. (Mukheriea and Ellis, JJ.) USHA PROVA DE v. SACHINDRA KUMAR. S. 168 A—Scope—If in conflict with Bengal Patni Regulation, S. 17, proviso.

S. 168-A of the B. T. Act does not, in any way, affect the right of instituting a suit or obtaining a decree. The only restriction it imposes is upon the mode of execution of the decree and as no particular mode of execution is prescribed in the Patni Regulation itself, it cannot be said that S. 168-A of the B. T. Act is in conflict with the proviso to S. 17 of the Patni Regulation. 47 C.W.N 523, Referred to. (Mukherjea and Akram, JJ.) UDOY CHAND MAHATAB v. AJIT Kumar Roy. 80 C.L.J. 41.

-S. 168-A-Validity-Repugnancy to S. 51, C. P. Code-Government of India Act, S. 107 (1).

S. 168-A of the B. T. Act is a valid piece of legislation which is quite within the competence of the provincial legislature under items Nos. 2 and 21 of the provincial list. Item No. 21 of List 2 is wide enough to cover all matters of the remedial or adjective law in relation to land, and land tenures, arising out of relationship of landlord and tenant, and includes provisions for collection and realisation of rent by the landlord from the tenant. Under item No. 2 of the provincial list, the provincial legislature is capable of regulating the powers and jurisdiction of a Civil Court with regard to any of the matters included in item No. 21. The Legislature by enacting S. 168-A of the B. T. Act has done nothing else except to curtail or take away the powers of the Court to allow the landlord decree-holder to proceed against any property of the tenant other than the tenancy in arrears, for realisation of the decretal dues. This undoubtedly, it is competent to do. Really, a case of repugnancy does not arise if no aspect of any provincial legislation encroaches upon any field other than that of the provincial legislature. But assuming that the operation of S. 107 (1) of the Government of India Act is not excluded from cases where the provisions of the provincial law are exclusively on provincial subjects, it is certainly necessary to attract the operation of the subsection that the existing Indian law with which the provincial law is said to have come into conflict relates to one of the matters enumerated in the concurrent list. It is not enough to say that S. 168-A of the B. T. Act has introduced a provision differing from that contained in S. 51, C. P. Code. The rival existing Indian law is not S. 51, C. P. Code; but the provision of that section as incorporated into the B. T. Act, but as that provision. so far as it deals with the question of procedure in a suit or proceeding between the landlord and the tenant comes under items Nos. 2 and 21 of the provincial list, there is no existing Indian law on any matter enumerated in the concurrent list with which S. 168-A of the B. T. Act can be said to have come into conflict. Further S. 168-A of the B. T. Act is not repugnant to S. 51. C. P. Code, and repugnancy is avoided by the express words of S. 4, C. P. Code. Consequently it is not void under S. 107 (1) of the Government of India ACT. (Mukherjea and Akram, JJ.) UDOY CHAND MAHA-TAB v. AJIT KUMAR ROY. 80 C.L.J. 41

The newly enacted S. 168-A of the B.T. Act inserted by the Amending Act of 1940 is not rendered void to any extent by 5.107 (1) of the Government of India Act, 1935. It cannot be repugnant to the provisions of Ss. 51 and 60, C.P.Code, because of the saving provisions of its S. 4 (1) which withdraws the operation of the relevant provisions of the Code from the field covered by the new provision of the BT.Act to the extent to which the latter covers that field and thus saves the latter from being repugnant to the former. As regards the Putni Regulation of 1819, its provisions do not fulfil the requirements of S. 107 (1) of the Government of India Act at all. A putni enure is certainly a land tenure and the Regulation in "pith and substance" is one with respect to such land tenures. This is not one of the matters enumerated in the concurrent legislative list at all and consequently any repugnancy to its provisions is not made by S. 1 7 (1) a vitiating cause affecting the provisions of a Provincial Law. (Nasim Ali and Pal, Jf.) SATISH CHANDRA v. SUDHIR KRISHNA GHOSH. 201 I.C 24=15 R.C 110=5 F.L.J. (HC) 131=75 C.L.J. 190=46 C.W.N. 540=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 429.

S. 168-A-Validity-Whether repugnant to existing Indian Law-Government of India Act. S. 107.

S. 168 A of the B.T. Act is a valid piece of legislation and is not void under S. 107 of the Government of India Act as being repugnant to any provision of an existing Indian Law to the extent that it limits sales in execution of decrees for rent to the property in arrears.

Per Sen, J.-(1) There is no conflict between S. 168-A of the B.T. Act and S. 51, C.P.Code, because these two diverse provisions occupy different fields. The B.T. Act provides its own special procedure, although most of it has been borrowed from C.P. Code, S. 168-A is merely an item of that special procedure and does not in any way encroach upon the domain in which S. 51, C.P.Code, functions. (2) There can be no conflict or repugnancy between any provision of C.P. Code and S. 168 A which deals with the special form of procedure under the B.T. Act, in view of the provisions of S. 4, C.P. Code. (3) Even if S. 168-A is repugnant to the B.T. Act as it stood at the time of the amendment, it is not void under S. 107 of the Government of India Act as the B.T.Act is not an existing Indian Law with respect to a matter enumerated in the concurrent list but it is a law with respect of item 21 of the Provincial Legislative List.

Per Pal, J.—(1) The Provincial Law in question in the present case is a provision contained in the Bengal Council Act XVIII of 1940, and as this Act in pith and substance is one with respect to Item No. 21 of the Provincial List and not with respect to any matter in the Concurrent List, it does not come within the mischief of S. 107 (1) of the Government of India Act. (2) If the rival existing Indian Law be taken to be S. 51, C P. Code, as adapted by S. 143 (2) of the B.T. Act, even the provision of the existing Indian Law will not be with respect to any matter in the Concurrent List as that will, in pith and substance be a part of the law relating to landlord and tenant, and consequently S. 107 of the Government of India Act will not be applicable. (3) As S. 51, C.P. Code, does not give to the decree-holder a right to execute his decree against all the properties of the judgment debtor but simply gives the procedure in execution, there is no repugnancy between this section and S. 168-A of the B.T. Act. (4) Even without the help of S. 4, C.P. Code, there will be no repugnancy between S. 51, C.P. Code and S. 168-A of the B.T. Act, as according to the recognised rules of construction the general provision of C. P. Code must give place to the spe ial provision contained in S. 168 A of the B. T. Act. (Sen and Pul. J.) BIR BIKRAM KISHORE v. S. 168-A (1) (a)—Applicability—Tenancy expiring before section coming into force.

To attract the proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the B. T. Act, it is not necessary to show that the tenance expired after the section came into force, 49 C.W.N. 684 foll. (Mukerjea and Ellis, 1/) ISWAR RADHA BALLAV v. MAHIMA RANJAN ROY. 49 C. W.N. 629.

S. 168 A (1) (a) proviso—Applicability—"Expires"—"Application"—Meaning of—Rent decree obtained in 1935—Tenure annulled in 1935 by purchaser of superior interest in revenue sale—Execution case filed between 1931 and 1939 proving infructious—Application for execution against judgment-debtor's other properties made in 1942—If maintainable.

The word "expires" in S. 168-A (1) (a), proviso, of the B. T. Act, extends also to the expiry of tenancy that took place before the section came into force. The word "application" in the proviso refers to the particular application for execution against the other properties of the judgment-debtor, which, but for the proviso, would have been barred under sub-S. (1) (a). It may not be the first or initial application for execution and there may have been other applications filed before the expiry of the tenancy. The application may be one made after S. 168-A came into force, or it may be one commenced before, but pending at that time. The proviso does not apply where the term of the tenancy has expired by reason of purchase of the tenancy by the landlord in execution of the same decree. Where a tenure in respect of which a rent decree was obtained in 1930 was extinguished in 1935 as a result of annulment by a stranger who purchased the superior interest in revenue sale, and after several execution cases filed between 1931 and 1939 proving infructuous an application for execution against the other properties of the judgmentdebtor was made in 1942.

Held, that S. 168-A (1) (a), provise, of the B. T. Act, was attracted to the case and the application was maintainable. (Khundkar and Biswas, J.) AMRITA LAL CHATTERIEE v. MANINDRA NATH. 49 C.W.N. 389 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 300.

——S. 168-A (1) (a), proviso—Applicability— Patni tenure.

The expression "term of the tenancy" as used in the proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the B. T. Act does not indicate that the proviso contemplates only a tenancy having a limited term. A zamindar who has obtained a decree for rent in respect of a patni tenure is entitled to avail himself of the proviso, if there has been a merger of the patni interest in the superior interest of the zamindar. (Mukherica and Blank, JJ.) UDAY CHAND MAHTAB v. KURORAM MUKHERJI. ILR. (1944) 1 Cal. 671 = 219 I.C. 277 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 99.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885). BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885).

The proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the B. T. Act is not limited in its application to a tenancy for a particular period only. Merger may be one of the methods by which a tenancy can expire within the meaning of that proviso. (Mukherjea and Blank, JJ.) ATUL CHANDRA CHAKRAVARTHI v. Upendra Narayan. I.L.R. -S. 168-A (1) (a), proviso—Applicability -Tenure sold in execution of decree.

The proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the B. T. Act contemplates a case where the defaulting tenure did not exist at the initial stage when the decree was first sought to be executed. It does not apply where the tenure was sold in execution of the very decree, for the balance due under which the subsequent execution case was started. The words "before an application is made for execution of such a decree" as used in the proviso refer to the first or initial application for execution and not to the subsequent proceeding which is started by the landlord after the defaulting tenure is purchased by him in execution of the same decree. It would make no difference whether the tenure was sold before or after the section came into force. (Mukherjea and Blank, JJ.) ATUL CHANDRA CHAKRAVARTHI v. UPENDRA NARAYAN. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 397=202 I C 147=15 R.C. 297=75 C.L.J. 267=46 C.W.N. 684=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 478.

-S. 168-A (1) (a) Proviso-"Application"-Meaning of-If refers to first or original application

The proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the B. T. Act applies even if the application for execution mentioned therein is not the first or original application 49 C.W.N. 389 foll. (Mukheriea and Ellis, JJ.) ISWAR RADH 4 BALLAV v. MAHIMA RANJAN ROY. 49 C.W.N. 629.

-S. 168-A (1) (a), Proviso-"Application"-Meaning of -Tenancy expiring after section coming into force by sale in execution of another decree-Decreeholder applying for execution by sale of other properties before section coming into force-If debarred from benefit of proviso.

In cases in which the "term of the tenancy" expires after the commencement of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act, 1940, by the sale of the tenure or holding in execution of another decree the "application" referred to in S. 168-A (1) (a) proviso of the Bengal Tenancy Act must be held to refer to the particular application for execution against other property of the Judgmentdebtor which would have been barred under sub-S. (1) (a) but for the operation of the proviso. Accordingly in such cases the decree-holder will not be debarred from the benefit provided by the proviso S. 168 A (1) (a), although he had made application for execution by sale of other properties prior to the commencement of the Amendment Act whether those applications were fructuous or infructuous. (Mitter and Sharpe, IJ) Lakshan Chandra Roy v. Birfndra Kumar Singha. 48 C.W.N. 837=-A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 24.

-S. 168-A (1) (a), proviso—Purchase of holding by co-sharer landlord in execution of rent decree-Term of tenancy, if expires.

Where a co-sharer landlord obtains a rentdecree for his share of the rent in suit framed in accordance with the provisions of S. 148-A of the B. T. Act and purchases the holding in execution, and the case comes within S. 22 (2) of the Act, the term of the tenancy expires on such purchase within the meaning of the proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the Act. Another co-sharer landlord who has obtained a decree for his share of the rent for the period prior to such purchase is, therefore, entitled to attach and sell other properties of the judgment debtor. (Henderson J.) HARENDRANATH v. SAKIRADDI GAZI. 50 C. W.N. 85.

S. 168-A (1) (a) of the B. T. Act plainly and clearly prohibits execution by the attachment and sale of any property other than the entire tenure or holding to which the decree relates, and the proviso to cl. (a) withdraws this prohibition only when the defaulting tenancy which is the primary source of realisation of the decretal amount is no longer in existence. The words "term of the tenancy expires" in the proviso mean and refer to the extinction or cessation of the tenancy itself and not merely of the interest of the judgment-debtor in the tenancy. The proviso is not limited in its operation only to the cases where the defaulting tenancy is one for a fixed period, but extends to all classes of tenures or holdings. (Nasim Ali and Pal, JJ.) SATISH CHAN-DRA v. SUDHIR KRISHNA GHOSH, 201 I.C. 24=15 R.C. 110=5 F L.J. (H.C.) 131=75 C.L.J. 190=46 C.W.N. 540=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 429.

-S 168-A (1) (a) proviso—Scope—Execution against other property of judgment-debtor-When permissible.

The word "expires" in the proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act must be interpreted to refer to expiry after the commencement of the amending Act of 1940, and the words "an application" to refer to the particular application which is otherwise barred under sub-S. (1) (a) but for the operation of the proviso. The proviso as a whole is to be taken as permitting the landlord to proceed against other property of the judgment-debtor if he can show that the tenancy has expired after the commencement of the amending Act and before the application made to proceed against such property. (Roxburgh and Blank JJ.) SWARNAMANJURI DASSI ". FAKIR CHANDRA 216 I.C. 292=17 R.C. 149=48 C.W.N. 220=77 C.L.J. 506=A I.R. 1944 Cal. 203.

-S. 168-A (1) (a) proviso-Term of tenancy-If may expire by merger.

Merger is one of the methods by which the tenancy can expire within the meaning of the proviso to S. 168-A (1) (a) of the Bengal Tenancy Act. (Mitter and Sharpe, J) LAKSHAN CHANDRA ROV v BIRENDRA KUMAR SINGHA. 48 C.W.N. 837=A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 24.

-S. 168-A (1) (b)-Applicability - Landlord decree-holder purchaser.

It is doubtful if S. 168-A (1) (b) of the B. T. Act applies where the purchaser is the landlord decreeholder himself. 48 C.W.N. 210, doubted. (Mitter and Waight, JJ.) JOGENDRA CHANDRA v. BHAWANI CHARAN. 49 C.W.N. 552.

posit by him of rent payable after date of suit—
If necessary.

The word "purchaser" occurring in cl. (b) of sub-S. (1) and in sub-S. (3) of S. 168-A of the Bengal Tenancy Act is not restricted to a third party purchaser but includes the decree-holder purchaser. A decree-holder purchaser is, therefore, bound to deposit under sub-S. (3) the rent that has become payable between the date of the institution of the suit and the date of the confirmation of the sale. A cash deposit by him is, however, not necessary. It is sufficient if he certifies to the Court that nothing is due or payable to him on that account. (Mukherita and Pal, JJ.) PHANI BHUSAN MUKERJEE v. PURNA CHANDRA BAGCHI. I L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 297=214 I.C. 114=17 R.C. 20=48 C.W.N. 210=A.I R. 1944 Cal. 199.

S. 168-A (1) (b)—Retrospective effect.

S. 168-A (1) (b) of the B. T. Act creates a new obligation on the purchaser and also interferes with his vested right to have the sale confirmed on payment of the price he had offered at the sale and nothing more and it can, therefore, have no retrospective effect as it has not by plain words or by necessary implication been made retrospective. Consequently, where a tenure is sold in execution of a rent decree before the enactment of this section, the tenant continues to be liable to pay the rent that fell due from the date of the institution of the suit up to the date of the confirmation of the sale. ——S. 168-A (2) (as amended by the Amendment Act XVII of 1940)—Applicability and scope—Decree for rent transferred for execution to Court in Bihar before Amending Act came into force—Rights of parties—If affected by Amending Act.

Sub-S. (2) of the new S. 168-A of the B. T. Act which was enacted by S. 5 of the Bengal Tenancy Amendment Act of 1940 does make the new section applicable to pending proceedings; but if execution proceedings were pending outside the jurisdiction of the Bengal Legislature, such proceedings can never be affected by the Act of the Bengal Legislature. Where a decree for rent obtained in Bengal had been transferred for execution to a Court in Bihar and proceedings were well on the way in the Court of Bihar before the Amending Act was passed in Bengal, such Amending Act can never take away the right of the parties before the Bihar Court to have their dispute determined according to the law administered by the Bihar Court. (Harries, C.J. and Manohar Lall, J.) JAGDAMBA PRASAD v. KALYANI PRASAD SINGH DEO, 1943 P.W.N. 70.

——S. 171—Applicability — Co-sharer tenant suing for contribution for amount paid under rent decree—If can claim interest.

A co-sharer tenant who pays the amount due under a rent decree and sues the other co-sharers for contribution is not entitled to claim interest under S. 171 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. This section was enacted for the benefit of persons whose interests are affected by the sale but who are not responsible for the rent. (Henderson. J.) NIRMAL CHANDRA v. NARESHCHANDRA. 48 C.W.N. 845.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885).

S. 171—Person making deposit—If necessary party to rent suit—Such person, if personally liable for rent.

By virtue of S. 171 of the B. T. Act, a person who makes a deposit to avert an intended rent sale becomes a mortgagee of the tenure, but his mortgage is postponed to the first charge of the landlord for rent. That being his position, he in his character as second mortgagee is a necessary party to a suit for rent by the landlord. As there is no privity of estate between such depositor and the landlord, he is not personally liable for the rent. (Mitter and Khundkar, JJ.) SAILENDRA NATH v. MADAN MOHAN MALLICK. 46 C.W.N.704.

——S. 171 (1)(b)—Statutory mortgage acquired by depositor—I/ available against lessee of putnidar.

The statutory mortgage acquired by a depositor under S. 171 of the B. T. Act will not be available against a lessee of the putnidar for a fixed term, who was not a party to the execution proceeding, as the interest created in favour of such a lessee is not a "charge" within the meaning of the section. (Pal, J.) JASHODA KUMAR MAJUMDAR v. KALINATA MAJUMDAR. 76 C.L.J. 475.

—— S. 174—Application under—Allegation of fraud—Application prima facie time-barred—Points for consideration—Limitation Act, S. 18.

Where an application presented under S. 174 (3) of the B. T. Act to set aside a sale on the ground of fraud is prima facie barred by limitation, the Court ought to, first of all, consider whether the applicant's case of fraud has been established, or not. If it is satisfied that the fraud alleged is established, it should then proceed to consider whether the case comes within S. 18 of the Limitation Act, that is to say, whether the auction-purchasers were parties to the fraud; if they were not, the application would be barred by limitation. Thirdly, if the auction-purchasers were parties to the fraud, the effect of that fraud would go on until knowledge of the sale was obtained by the applicant. If the auction-pur-chasers wished to show that, in fact, the applicant had knowledge of the sale at some earlier date than that alleged in the petition, the burden of proving it lies upon them. (Henderson, J.) JAGISWAR DAS v. DEB-NARAIN ROY. 46 C.W.N. 403.

S. 174—Application under—Nature of—Compromise—Whether can be recorded—C. P. Code, O. 23, R. 3.

An application under S. 174 of the B. T. Act is not a proceeding in execution within the meaning of O, 23, R. 4, C. P. Code. Therefore a compromise arrived at is the Course of such an application can be recorded under O. 23, R. 3 C. P. Code, by virtue of S. 141, C. P. Code, (Henderson, J.) KAMALA KANTA CHATTOPADHYA v. NIHARIKADEBI. 197 I.C. 70=14 R.C. 304=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 559.

Ss. 174 (3) 174-A (5) and 167—Application to set aside sale disallowed by trial Court, allowed by appellate Court and ultimately disallowed by High Court—Confirmation of sale by trial Court while disallowing application—Effect on—Application under S. 167—Limitation—Starting point.

Where an application under S. 174 (3) of the B. T. Act for setting aside a sale is disallowed by the Munsif who confirmed the sale, is allowed by the District Judge in appeal, but is ultimately disallowed by the High Court in revision, the effect of the High Court decision is to restore the original order of the Munsif confirming the sale with effect from the date on which it is passed. Limitation for an application under S. 167 for annulment of an encumbrance will, therefore commence to run from that date. (Biswas, J.) CHUNNU LAL v. AMLUK CHANDJI. 46 C W.N. 706.

The Court has no jurisdiction to extend the time fixed for payment of the decretal amount under S. 174 (3) of the B. T. Act. (Henderson, J.) DWARKA NATH v. PRAMATHA NATH. 49 C.W.N. 243.

——— S. 174 A—Confirmation of sale—Duty of Court—No application made under S. 174 (1).

If no application is made under S. 174 (1) of the B.T. Act to set aside the sale, it is not only open to the Court, but its statutory duty, to confirm the sale at the end of 30 days. (Biswas, J.) CHUNNU LAL v. AMLUK CHANDJI. 46 C.W N. 706.

——S. 178 Proviso (1)—Scope—Reclamation lease—Stipulation for interest contravening S. 67—Validity.

S. 178, proviso (1) of the B. T. Act is a limitation upon the entire section and not upon sub-S. (3) only. If therefore, a lease is granted bona fide for reclamation of waste lands, that proviso will apply and any stipulation for payment of interest, even though it contravenes S. 67 of the B. T. Act, will be valid and operative. (Mukherfea. J) SRIKANTA MRIDHA v., PRAFULLA CHANDRA GHOSH. 200 I.C. 235=14 R.C. 692=74 C.L.J. 139=A.I R. 1942 Cal. 133.

——Ss. 178 (1) (i) and 179 proviso—Scope and effect—Contract to pay interest on rent in terms inconsistent with S. 67—Such pre-Act and post-Act contract in respect of mourashi mukurari tenure in permanently settled area—How far valid.

A contract to pay interest on arrears of rent in terms which are inconsistent with the provisions of S. 67 is affected by S. 178(1) of the B. T. Act and the whole contract, the rate and the term relating to the calculation of interest, is void, and the landlord is entitled to claim interest only in terms of S. 67. But the substantive part of S. 179 (that is to say the first paragragph of that section) creates an exception to S. 178 (1)(i). The result is that a contract in respect of a mourashi mukurari tenure in a permanently settled area to pay interest in terms which impose a burden on the tenant greater than that provided for in S 67 is still valid inspite of S. 178 (1) (i) if the contract had been made after the passing of the B. T. Act. But such a post-Act contract is affected by the proviso to S. 179 which touches the rate only if it is higher than that mentioned in S. 67, but does not touch the agreement relating to the mode of calculating interest. There is thus an anomaly namely, that where as in pre-Act contracts in respect of a mourashi mukurari tenure in a permanently settled area both the rate of interest and the mode of calculation of interest as agreed upon by the parties are affected, in post-Act contracts only the first is affected, but not the second. This anomaly results from the words used by the Legislature in the proviso and so cannot be avoided. (Mitter and Blank, JJ.) NANDA LAL BANERJEE v. ASKARAM BABU. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Cal. 263 = 48 C.W.N. 321 = A.I.R. 1944. Cal. 310.

S. 178 (3) (e)—Applicability—Tenure-holders. S. 178 (3) (e) of the B. T. Act does not apply to all tenants, but only to raiyats. Tenure-holders are not included within the scope of this provision. (Khundkar and Biswas, J.). SARAT CHANDRA MITRA v. SARADINDU. 49 C.W.N. 462.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT (VIII OF 1885).

——Ss. 179 and 52—Scope and effect—Post-Act and pre-Act agreement not to claim reduction of rent on account of diluvion—Validity. See B.T. ACT, Ss. 52 AND 179. 48 C.W.N. 321.

Ss. 179 and 52 (1) (b)—Tenant contracting out of his rights under S. 52 (1) (b)—Burden of proof.

It is clear from a reading of S. 52(1)(6) together with S. 179 of the B. T. Act, that the right given to a tenure-holder to apply for an abatement of rent on account of deficiency in the area of his tenure cannot be taken away by any contract except one which answers the description contained in S. 179. In order that a tenure may fall within S. 179, it must have been granted by a permanent mokarari lease and the lands must lie in a permanently settled area, the burden of proving which is on the landlord. A recital in the mokarari lease that the present estate had been redeemed from rent or revenue is not sufficient to show that it had been permanently settled. (Khundkar and Biswas, J.) SARAT CHANDRA MITRA v. SARADINDU. 49 C.W. N. 462.

——S. 179. proviso—Rate of interest—Rate mentioned in S, 67 at time of decree not when arrears fell due.

The word "recover" in the proviso to S. 179 of the B T. Act means "secure by legal process". The date when the arrears fell due is therefore of no importance. The landlord can get a decree for interest at that rate which was mentioned in S. 67 of the Act at the time when the decree is to be passed. (Mitter and Blank, //.) NANDA LAL BANERIEE v. ASKARAN BABU. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Cal. 263-48 C.W.N. 321-A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 310.

S. 182 (as amended in 1928)—Applicability—Actual use of land as homestead—If necessary.

S. 182 of the B. T. Act, as amended, by its terms, applies only to the homestead of a raiyat or under raiyat which he may hold otherwise than as a part of his raiyati or under raiyati holding and the language requires that the land should actually be used as a homestead or at least still be possessed of its homestead character when the section is sought to be invoked for its protection (Chakravartti. J) KALIPROSAD SAHA v. NAIHATI JUTE MILLS CO., LTD. 221 I.C. 561=50 C.W.N. 50.

S. 182 (as amended in 1928)—Applicability—Landlord, if must have status under Act—Raiyat acquiring rights of a raiyat in respect of homestead under old section—Position of.

S. 182 of the B. T. Act, as amended in 1928 requires that in order that the B. T. Act may apply to a home stead held by a raiyat or an under-raiyat otherwise than as a part of his holding, the landlord of the homestead must have a status under the Act and such a one that the tenant may be a raiyat or under-raiyat under him. Where the same is not possible, the section does not, attract the Act to the home-stead at all. In the case of a raiyat who held his homestead otherwise than as a part of his holding when the old S. 182 was in force and thus acquired the rights of a raiyat in recpect of his homestead tenancy, there being no question of any local custom or usage, his homestead will continue to be governed by the old section even after the amendment if he is still holding it as before. The amended section would not apply and the fact that the landlord of the home stead has no status under the B. T. Act would make no difference, in as much as the existence of such status was not a requirement under the old section and the rights accrued without it. The position would be the same if the raiyati holding is situated not in the same village as the homestead or a contiguous village but in some other village, since the limitation as to the village is also an addition made by the the new section. (Chakravartti, J.) KALIPROSAD SAHA v. NAIHATI-JUTE MILLS CO., LTD. 221 I.C. 561=50 C.W.N. 50.

-S. 182 - Applicability - Raiyat having more than one homestead - Homestead not held for actual cultivation.

The homestead referred to in S. 182 of the B. T. Act need not be the only homestead of the raivat. The section applies even where the raiyat has more than one homestead. It is not a sine qua non for the applicability of the section that the homestead must be held by the raiyat for the purpose of actual cultivation. The requirements of the section will be satisfied if the homestead is one from which the raiyat may, if necessary, carry on agricultural operations in his rayati holdings, if and when the occasion arises. (Biswas, I) RUKNINI MAHESRI v. PRAHLAD CHANDRA ILR (1944) 1 Cal. 221=220 I C. 22=47 C.W.N. 702 =A I.R. 1945 Cal. 50.

-S. 182-'Homestead'-Meaning of.

The word "homestead" used in S. 182 of the B T. Act means the place where the raiyat acutally resides. If there is a piece of bastu land which is not held as a part of an agricultural tenancy and on which the raivat does not actually reside, that section would not be attracted. (Mitter, J.) RAMNAUH BANERJEE v. GIRISH CHANDRA SINHA. I L.R (1941) 1 Cal 278=196 I C 602=14 R C 263=45 C.W.N. 119 =A.1.R. 1941 Cal. 515.

-S. 182-"Homestead"-Question of fact.

The question whether the disputed premises are the homestead of a raiyat is mainly one of fact. If as a matter of fact the raiyat resides in those premises even though he is living elsewhere at times, it is open to the Court of fact to conclude that they are his homestead. (Biswas, J.) RUKMINI MAHESRI v. PRAHLAD CHANDRA. I.L.R. (1944) 1 Cal. 221 = 220 I.C. 22 = 47 C.W.N. 702 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 50.

-S. 182 (as amended in 1928)—'Landlord' If means original landloard or landlord for time being.

The landlord contemplated by S. 182 of the B. T. Act, as amended in 1928, is not the landlord who originally inducted the tenant into the homestead or was the landlord of the homestead at the time when the tenant first came to possess both homestead and a holding. The tenor of the amended section is that in cases where it applies, the position must be judged by reference to the landlord for the time being, except perhaps in cases where there has been a change in the landlord since the section became applicable and some such consideration as that a status once acquired by a tenant cannot be lost, intervenes. (Chakravariti, J.) KALIPROSAD SAHA v. NAIHATI JUTE MILLS CO., LTD. 221 I.C. 561=50 C.W.N. 50.

--- Chap. XIV-Execution proceedings-Revision-Locus standi of judgment-debtor-C. P. Code, S. 115.

A judgment-debtor who is a party to the execution proceedings under Chap. XIV of the B. T. Act is entitled to see that they are conducted correctly according to law. The Court conducting the sale should certainly hear and decide any objections he may make as to the procedure being adopted. It follows that prima facte the judgment debtor may move the High Court in revision to interfere if the procedure is illegal. In view of the discretionary nature of the power given in S. 115 C. P. Code, the Court might well take into consideration the fact that a person not substantially concerned as to the particular point was moving it, and might make that a reason for refusing to interfere. Cede, -Claim in suit comprising arrears for period of his possession and prior period-Non-joinder in rent suit of purchaser at unconfirmed money sale held before rent decree-If affects character of decree.

A mortgagee entering into possession of a tenure on the basis of an order made under O. 39, R. 9, C. P. Code, becomes a landlord within the meaning of the B. T. Act, and a decree obtained by him in a rent suit against the tenants is a rent decree, although the claim in that suit comprises of arrears for the period of his possession as well as for the period prior to it. The nonjoinder in the rent suit of a purchaser of the tenure at a sale in execution of a money decree held before the rent decree but not confirmed till after the sale in execution of that decree, does not affect the character of the decree passed in the rent suit as a rent decree. The purchaser at the money sale acquires, therefore, no title to the tenure on the basis of his purchase. (Nusim Ali and Blank, J.) PASHUPATI NATH PAL 2. DURJOD-HAN ROY. I L R. --- Chap. XIV-Rent decree-Suit for putni rent -Some of plaintiffs having fractional share in putni impleaded as defendants also-Frame of suit-If bad -Decree, if rent decree.

Where in a suit to recover arrears of a putni rent, the entire body of landlords are plaintiffs and the entire body of the putnidars are defendants, the frame of the suit is not bad merely because some the plaintiffs who have a fractional share in the putni are also impleaded as defendants. Consequently, the decree passed in the suit is rent decree as contemplated by the B. T. Act. (Nasim Ali and Pal, J.). KUMAR RAMENDRA NATH ROY v. BIBHABATI ROY. 46 C.W.N. 691.

-Sch. III, Art 3-Applicability-Dispossession by landlord through Court-Landlord not plaintiff's landlord at date of dispossession.

Art. 3 of Sch. III of B. T. Act applies to a case of dispossession by the landlord although by the machinery of the Court. It is not necessary that the dispossession should be by a person who was the plaintiff's landlord at the date of the dispossession. It is sufficient if the dispossession was by the landlord of the holding of which the plaintiff seeks to recover possession. (Rau and Biswas, J.). KHATUN JINNAT SAHEBANI v. ISHA PROKASH GANGOOLI. I L R (1944) 1 Cal. 11 = 211 I C. 348 = 16 R.C. 520 = 77 C.L.J. 186 = A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 44.

——Sch. III, Art. 3—"Dispossession"—Possession taken through Court—Dispossession of agent in actual occupation—If constitutes dispossession of principal.

Art. 3. Sch. III of the B. T. Act will apply even if the landlord obtained delivery of possession through Court after having purchased the holding in a certificate proceeding for arrears of rent, and thereby dispossessed the tenant. Where a person is in possession of a holding through the agency of another by realising the usufruct from him, the dispossession of the agent by the landlord will constitute a dispossession of the principal within the meaning of the article. As possession may be acquired through agents, it may equally be lost through them. (Pal. J.) Sashi Kanta Acharlya v. Nayjan Bewa. 204 I.C. 34=15 R.C. 460=46 C.W N. 938=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 611.

BENGAL VILLAGE CHAWKIDARI ACT (IV OF 1870). Ss. 26 and 27—Warrant issued without publication of list of defaulters—Legality—Defect, if cured by service of notice on defaulter.

The publication of the list of defaulters under S. 26 is a condition precedent to the issue of a warrant under S. 27 of the Bengal Village Chawkidari Act. The Panchayat has no jurisdiction to issue a warrant unless this condition has been fulfilled. The defect is one of jurisdiction and not a mere irregularity, and cannot, therefore be cured by a notice served personally upon the defaulter. (Henderson I) DHARANI DHAR JANA v. EMPEROR. I L.R. S. 27 of the Bengal Village Chawkidari Act

S. 27 of the Bengal Village Chawkidari Act empowers the issue of a warrant only for the realisation of the arrears of Chawkidari tax. Clearly a warrant for the realisation of a sum which includes an instalment which is not due is altogether without jurisdiction. While S. 34 is good enough to cure irregularities, it certainly is not meant to legalise a warrant issued without jurisdiction. (Henderson, J.) DHARANI DHAR JANA v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. Obiter.—A District Magistrate who appoints a member of a Union Board under S. 6 (3) of the Bengal V.llage Self-Government Act and notifies it in the Gazette, has power, by virtue of the provisions of Ss. 17 and 22 of the Bengal General Clauses Act, to cancel the appointment by a subsequent notification. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.) ASIMUDDIN AHMED v. MAIZUUDIN KHAN. 206 I.C. 500=15 R C. 711=47 C.W.N. 326= A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 189.

S. 8—Election of President of Union Board—Jurisdiction of Civil Court. See BENGAL VILLAGE LOCAL SELF GOVERNMENT ACT, S. 17-A. A.I R. 1941 Cal. 115.

S 8—Election of President—Suit for declaration that rival candidate is not properly elected—Plaintiff, if entitled to declaration that he is President.

In a suit by the plaintiff for a declaration that his rival candidate is not properly elected as President of a Union Board the plaintiff is not entitled to a declaration that he is the President unless it has been found that under the rules made by the Local Government he has been duly elected as President. (Henderson, J.) GOLAM MORTUZA V. MANIRUDDIN AHMAD. 194 I.C. 116=13 R.C. 490=A,I.R.1941 Cal. 115.

——S. 17-A-Election of President of Union Board-Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

There can be no question that the Civil Courts have jurisdiction, unless their jurisdiction has been definitely taken away. There is no section in the Bengal Village Local Self-Government Act which takes away the jurisdiction of Courts to decide questions about the election of a President of a Union Board. S. 17-A is concerned only with the election of members of a Union Board. (Henderson, J.) GOLAM MORTUZA v. MANIRUD-DIN AHAMAD. 194 I.C. 116=13 R.C. 490=A.I. R. 1941 Cal. 115.

Ss. 17 A and 17-B-Election of President— Jurisdiction of Court-Rules by Local Government taking away such jurisdiction—If ultra vires.

Under Ss. 17-A and 17-B of the Village Self-Government Act the jurisdiction of the Courts to interfere with the election of members of a Union Board is expressly taken away. There is no such provision with regard to the election of Presidents. The proper inference, therefore, is that it was the intention of the legislature to preserve the jurisdiction of the Courts in connection with this matter. The rule making power under S. 101 of the Act is conferred on the Local Government to carry out the purposes of the Act, not to enable them to defy the Legislature. When the jurisdiction of the Courts is preserved by the Act itself, it is not open to the Local Government to take it away by rules made under the power conferred by this section. If and in so far as they purport to do so, they are ultra vires. (Henderson, J.) Keramatulla Ahmed v. Hari Mohan Roy. 50 C.W.N. 10.

Ss. 17-A and 17-B and Notification No. 908 L.S. G., dated 8th July, 1941—Suit for declaration that plaintiff was duly elected as President of Union Board—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

BEN. VIL. LOCAL SELF-GOVT. ACT (1919).

A civil suit for a declaration that the plaintiff was duly elected as President of the Union Board is not barred by Ss. 17-A and 17-B of the Village Self-Government Act or by the Notification No. 908, L. S. G. dated 8th July, 1941. (Akram and Blank, J.). RAHIMUD-DIN AHMED v. UMESH CHANDRA. 49 C.W.N. 223 = A.I.R. 1945 Cal. 362.

——S. 17-A (iii)—Injunction against appointed member—Jurisdiction of Court—Legality of appointment questioned.

S. 17-A (iii) of the Bengal Village Self-Government Act refers to appointed members as well as to elected members and ousts the jurisdiction of Court to issue an injunction as much in the case of disputed appointments as in that of disputed elections. The Civil Court has, therefore, no jurisdiction to issue an injunction restraining an appointed member of a Union Board, the legality of whose appointment is questioned, from functioning as such member. (Mukherjea and Biswas, JJ.) ASIMUDDIN AHMED v. MAZUDDIN KHAN. 206 I.C. 500=15 R.C. 711=47 C.W.N. 326=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 189.

_____S. 17-C—Meeting held for election of President irregular—Effect.

The election of a President of a Union Board at a meeting held in contravention of the rules made by the Local Government as to the time and place of the meeting, is irregular and not void in view of the provisions of S. 17-C of the Village Self Government Act. (Henderson, J.) KERAMATULLA AHMED v. HARI MOHAN ROY. 50 C.W.N. 10.

—S. 37—Licensee not "Occupier"—Husband and wife co-sharers of zemindary—Gomastha using room in husband's building—Wife, if licensee in respect of room. Obiter.—A mere licensee is not an "occupier" under S. 37 of the Village Self Government Act. The person in question must have a right of some kind to be there. Where a husband and wife are co-sharers in a zamindary and their gomastha uses as his office a room in the husband's building the wife is not the licensee of her husband with regard to this room. The actual licensee is the gomastha. (Henderson, J.) RANI BROVA ROV v. SUBODH CHANDRA BISWAS. 47 C.W.N.533=77 C.L.J. 191=213 I.C. 352=17 R.C. 11=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 112.

To claim the benefit under the Note to R. 2 of the Assessment Rules under S. 101 of (Ben. Act V of 1919), it is necessary that a servant must by his contract of service be required for the performance of his duty to live in a building owned by his employer and the provision of quarters should not be a matter of mere convenience to him. The word "convenience" occurring in the Note refers to the convenience of the employee or the servant, and it excludes the class of cases where the servant gets the accommodation as a reward or part of his remuneration. (Mukherjea and Blank, J.). C. J. BRACE v. UNION BOARD OF LILLOOAH. 209 I.C. 625=I.I.B. (1943) 2 Cal 546=16 R.C. 384=47 C. W.N. 534=A.I.E. 1943 Cal. 442.

It is clear from the proviso to R. 12 that R. 11 does not apply to a meeting convened for the election of a President. (Henderson, J.) KERAMATULLA AHMED B. HARI MOHAN ROY. 50 C.W.N. 10.

8. 101, B. 29, proviso (iii)—Meeting held for election of President failing for want of quorum—Whether can be adjourned.

BENGAL WAKF ACT (XIII OF 1934).

If a meeting held for the election of the President of a Union Board fails for want of a quorum, there is no procedure for its adjournment for a stated period. Under R. 29, proviso (iii), if further steps are to be taken in the matter, another meeting has to be convened. (Hunderson, J.) KFRAMATULLA AHMED v. IIARI MOHAN ROY. 50 C.W.N. 10.

BENGAL WAKFACT (XIII OF 1934), S. 6

"Descendants"—If include descendants of wakif's family.

Obiter.—The Word "descendants" in S. 6 (11) of the Lengal Wakf Act denotes the descendants of the Wakf only and not of his family. (Akram and Pal, JJ.) SYED SHAH MAJUBAL ISLAM v. COMMISSIONER OF WAKFS. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 457 = 77 C L.J. 70 = 210 I C. 520 = 16 R.C. 463 = 47 C.W.N. 315 = A I.R. 1943 Cal. 635.

-S. 6 (11)-"Family"-Meaning of.

Per Pal, J.—The word "Family" as used in the Bengal Wakf Act bears the ame meaning as in the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act. It means not only the collective body of persons who live in one house and under one head or manager inclusive of servants, but also persons descended from one common progenitor and having a common lineage. (Akram and Pal, JJ.) SYED SHAH MAJUBAL ISLAM v. COMMISSIONER OF WAKFS. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 457 = 77 C.L.J. 70 = 47 C.W.N. 315 = 210 IC. 520 = 16 R.C. 463 = A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 635.

S. 6 (11)—Net available income—If may be payable as salary.

Per Akram, I.—Obiter: The net available income mentioned in S. 6 (11) of the Bengal Wakf Act should not be payable solely as salary for the performance of any duty imposed. (Akram and Pal, Jf.) SYED SHAH MAJUBAL ISLAM v. COMMISSIONER OF WAKFS I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 457=77 C.L.J. 70=47 C.W.N. 315=210 I.C. 520=16 R.C. 463=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 635.

——S. 6 (11)—Wakf al-al aulad—Annual salary of mutwali—Whether benefit accruing to member of Wakit's family, if mutwalli is to be such member.

For the purpose of determining whether a wakf is a wakf al-al aulad as defined in S. 6 (11) of the Bengal Wakf Act, the annual salary of the mulwalli must be taken to represent the expenditure connected with the management of the estate and not a benefit intended by the wakf to accrue merely to the advantage of one of the members of his family when the mutwalli is to be such a member. (Edgley, J.) RADARY JAHAN BIEI v. DALIRUDDIN AHMAD. 47 C.W.N. 381.

S, 40—Appointment of mutwalli by Commissioner—If needs confirmation by Court.

The appointment of a mutwalli by the Commissioner of Wakfs under S. 40 of the Bengal Wakf Act is by the terms of that section "subject to any order of a competent Court," but this does not mean that the appointment needs confirmation in anticipation by a Civil Court before it is actually challanged. (Khundkar and Biswas, JJ.) MIRZA MUMTAZALI v. BANEWARI LAL. 48 C.W.N. 598.

——S, 46-A—Ex-parte Order of Commissioner amending Register altering classification of wakf—Whether final order.

An ex-parte Order of a Commissioner of wakfs on a petition filed by some interested persons amending the Register whereby the classification of a certain wakf was altered, falls within S. 46 of the Bengal Wakf Act and is of a purely administrative character. Such an order is not a final order within the purview of S. 46-A of the Act which gives finality to a decision by the Commissioner with reference to the points specified therein only if any question relating there to had been definitely put in issue before him and had been decided by him judicially or at least in a semi-judicial manner. (Edgley, J.) BADARY JAHAN BIBI v. DALIRUDDIN AHMAD. 47 C.W.N. 381.

-Ss. 46 A and 92-Enrolment of wakf-Suit to revoke decision of Commissioner-If lies -Commissioner, if necessary party-His right to notice—Commissioner added as party—If can be treated as intervener—Irregularity in procedure.

A'decision' of the Commissioner and "an order made under the Act" stand on different footings. When any wakf is enrolled by the Commissioner this enrolment may imply two things, namely, (1) a decision that the property is wakf and (2) an order of enrolment. No suit lies for setting aside the order. But the decision is always subject to revocation or modification by a competent Court. So far as this decision is concerned, the Commissioner discharges a quasi-judicial function and in a suit for revoking or modifying the decision he is not at all a necessary party. Rather it would be improper to add him as a party defendant in his capacity of the officer giving the decision. But he is entitled to a notice of the suit under S. 70 of the Bengal Wakf Act and is entitled to intervene under S.71 of the Act. When he comes in as intervener, the suit does not become a suit against him in respect of any act purporting to be done by him in his official capacity and no question of notice to him under S. 80, C. P. Code can arise. If, however, he is added as a party defendant, the procedure is irregular. But if he contests the claim on its merits he can be treated as an intervener under S. 71 of the Act. The irregularity in the procedure does not affect the merits of the Case or the jurisdiction of the court (Mukherjea and Pal. JJ.) COMMISSIONER OF WAKES BENGAL v. SHAHEBZADA MAHOMED Lahangir Shah. 214 I.C. 160=17 F 48 C.W.N. 157=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 206. 214 I.C. 160=17 R.C. 31=

S. 70—Decree passed without Commissioner being made party—If void or voidable.

A decree or order passed in a suit or proceeding without the Commissioner of Wakfs being made a party is not void but voidable and the Commissioner must apply within one month of his coming to know of the suit or proceeding. (Lodge J.) MUZAFAR AHMED v. INDRAKUMAR DAS 211 I.C. 470=16 R.C. 546=77 C.L.J. 159=A I. R. 1944 Cal. 40.

-S. 70—Scope—Property not admitted to be wakf-Notice if necessary.

S. 70 of the Wakf Act is not limited in its application to a suit in respect of property which is admittedly wakf. A notice to the Commissioner of wakfs under the section is necessary even if the claim that the property is wakf is contested. (Mukherjea and Sen JJ.) Benoy kumar Acharjee v. Ahammad ali. 202 I.C 76=15 R.C. 284=75 C.L.J. 33=46 C.W.N. 339=A.I.R. 1942 Cal. 467 (1).

-Remedy of Commissioner

A notice under S. 70 (2) of the B.T. Act is necessary only when the property is sold as wakf property and not when it is sold as the private property of the judgment-debtor who is not sued as a mutwalli or a representive of the wakf estate. In the latter case if the property really belongs to the wakf the purchaser does not acquire any title to the property as against the wakf and the remedy of the Commissioner is to file a suit as is provided for in S 72 and not to file as an application under S. 70 (5) of the Act. (Mukherjea and Blank, JJ.) GOURISHANKAR SUKUL v. COMMISSIONER OF WAKFS, BENGAL. I.L.R.(1943) 2 Cal. 313=77 C.L.J. 399=207 I.C. 309=16 R. C. 52=47 C.W.N. 436=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 240.

BERAR INAM RULES (1859).

Effect of R. 3 upon it.

R. 3 of the Berar Inam Rules must be construed as declaring that the estate that is certified as having been granted is a restricted estate, but that it is larger than a life-estate, and has to be continued, after the death of the first certificate holder into his widow, lineal heirs, undivided brothers, etc. When one comes to collateral heirs of two removes one reaches the end of the rolationship to which the estate may pass, and further degrees of relationship are disallowed except under special orders. That makes this a restricted tenure and it is further restricted and differentiated from a fee simple tenure by conditions as to payment of legacy duty. In the case of Hyderabad Jagir, by custom, it is not personal to the grantee but continues to his descendants and R. 3 limits who those descendants are and declared that any one outside the degree of relationship mentioned therein will not take unless special orders are passed. (Stone, C. J. and Bose, J.) RAJE VINAYAKRAO v. KAJE SHRINIWASRAO. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 526=197 I.C. 794=14 R.N. 197=1941 N.L.J. 503 = A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 334.

---- R. 4-Successor-Meaning.

Though the term successor in R. 4 of the Berat rules is not of equal import to the term 'lieneal heirs' it is of a wider import. (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) RAJE VINAYAKRAO v. RAJE SHRINIWASRAO. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 526=197 I.C. 794=14 R.N. 197=1941 N L.J. 503=A I.R. 1941 Nag. 334.

The words 'he will be allowed the benefits of CI. (2), of R. 5 but without the option of refusal' in R. 5 (5) of the Berar Inam Rules is a misprint for 'he will be allowed the benefits of CI. (3), Rule 5 but without the option of refusal'. The option in CI. (3) is one given in all cases of an inamdar and it consists in this the the grantee has the option to turn his restricted tenure into a free-hold. All he has to do is to consent to payment of a quit rent of a certain amount. Where an inam certificate stated that it was granted for mainte nance and under the column headed. 'Tenure and condition attached to the continuance of the grant' were the following remarks 'upheld under Inam Rule 5 S. (5) one-fourth assessment being levied on the next and three following successions until full assessment is Held:—The grant was of an ordinary heritable estate of unlimited duration (the 'freehold' of the Inam Rules) the holder or holders after the fourth paying full assessment, and that all such heirs—those equal in right—would hold as co-tenants and any one of them could ask for partition which would only last for his lifetime. mutation cases under the Berar Land Revenue Code. (Binney, F.C.) DATIATRAYA YADA RAO GOSAWI 2, TUKARAM SHANKAR MORE AND ANOTHER. 1942 N.I. J. 223.

BERAR LAND REVENUE CODE (1928), Ss. 24, 25, 38 and 159—/rregularity in prolamation—Ground for setting aside sale—Provision of law—Scope of revisional powers.

S. 24 of the Berar Land Revenue Code gives the requirement as to publication of proclamation. S. 25 does not save from being void the publication of proclamation in which a vital incident prescribed in the process of publication has been omitted. The inference is that a proclamation which is not completed in the prescribed is void without reference to the terms of S. 159. The omission of posting the proclamation at a place of public resort on or near the land concerned is a very serious defect that leaves the local publication anything but complete. In such a case the Revenue Officers have the power to set aside the sale, It is open to the Commissioner to undertake revisional proceedings under S. 38 suo notu with reference to such sales. (Burton, F.C.) RAMAWATAR v. NARAYAN-DAS. 1941 N.L.J. 555.

Ss. 32 and 110—Order certifying entry in mutation register—Appealability.

There is nothing in the Berar Land Revenue Code to exclude the operation of S. 32 in mutation cases and hence an appeal would lie from an order certifying an entry in the mutation register maintained under S. 111. (Binney, F.C.) NARAYAN MADHOJI MARATHA V, WASUDEO MADHOJI MARATHA. 1942 NLJ. 366.

Where the proceedings before a Collector are governed by rules under S. 70 (1) C. P. Code, as applied to Berar which are to be found in Berar Revenue Book Circular III-8, neither the Collector nor the Deputy Commissioner hearing appeals act as a Revenue Officer under U. P. Land Revenue Code. The provisions of S. 39 alone of the Code have been applied by R. 15 (3) and it cannot be inferred that S. 33 of the Code is attracted. Under R. 15 (1) an appeal lies from every order passed in exercise of the authority conferred by these rules. (Binney, F.C.) DAJIBA v. RAMDAYAL. 1948 N.L.J. 113.

S. 38—Scope of revisional powers. See BERAR LAND REVENUE CODE, SS. 24, 25, 38 AND 159. 1941 N.L.J. 555.

S. 41 (1) of the Berar Land Revenue Code does not throw the burden of showing that the land in dispute was not private land on Government. All it does is to make a simple statement of fact regarding the vesting of title. (Bose, J.) JANEFAL MOSQUE v. PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT, C. P. AND BERAR. I.L.R. ——S. 55—Land settled, for grazing purposes— Land revenue in arrears—Proper course—Sale or cancellation of lease.

Land settled on fair assessment for grazing of the village cattle, should not be sold for arrears of land revenue. The only interest left to the defaulter in the grazing fields is the right to recover arrears of grazing fees which alone can be put to sale. The proper course is to cancel the lease under R. 3. (Binney, F. C.) SADASHIV v. RAMPHAN. 1944 N.L.J. 155.

BERAR LAND REVENUE CODE (1928).

—S. 59 (4)—Tenant for agricultural purpose— Right to eject stranger in possession of structures erected for non-agricultural purposes.

Where a stranger erects structures for non-agricultural purposes on land granted to an occupant for agricultural purposes the latter is entitled under S. 59 (4) of the Berar Land Revenue Code to secure the former's summary ejectment. (Greenfield.) SHESHRAO v. NARAYAN. 1942 N.L.J. 158.

If possession goes into the hands of strangers in the case of an ante-alienation tenant, there is no continuity of possession within the meaning of either S. 73 or S. 72 of the Berar Land Revenue Code. (Stone, C. J. and Bose, J.) Shri Raghunath Swami Deosthan v. Doma. 1942 N.L.J. 431.

The wording of sub-S. (2) of S. 96, Berar Land Revenue Code, clearly shows that the advantage of the concession conferred by it is in favour of one who is the recognized izardar of the village and it is to him alone that the concession is made with respect to the entire village. Payment of half the amount of assessment is a right in the izara and not a right in any individual land in the izara. It is a right in the izara as a whole and hence a transferee of a part from the izardar cannot claim the benefit of the concession. (Puranik, J.) SAMBHASHIO NARAYAN v. KASHINATH NAGOJI. I.L.B. (1943) Nag. 278 = 206 I.C. 447=15 B.N. 261=1943 N.L.J. 121=A.I.B. 1943 Nag. 158.

Ss. 111 and 192—Correction of entry in Record of Rights—Suit for—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

S. 111 of the Berar Land Revenue Code gives the Civil Courts jurisdiction to decide disputes relating to rights recorded in the Record of Rights, but it does not give them jurisdiction to correct an entry in the Record of Rights. S. 192 of the Code prohibits a Civil Court from entertaining any suit to obtain a decision on any matter which any revenue officer is, by this law empowered to determine, except as otherwise provided in this law. The entry to be made in the Record of Rights is a matter to be determined by the revenue officer, and the Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to decide what that entry shall be. (Pollock, J.) VISWANATHAPPA v. KEDAR NATH. 1945 N.L.J. 379.

S. 112 (2)—Dismissal of suit for failure to file certified copy of entry in record-of-rights—Propriety. It is not proper for a Court to dismiss a suit for failure to file a certified copy of the entry in the record-of-rights. The Court should give the party an opportunity to produce it. A claim should not be defeated by a mere technical flaw. (Gruer, 1.) BALASAHIB DEOSTHAN v. BAJRANG DAS. 1942 N.L.J. 396,

S. 129—Scope of power under—Reasonable access, meaning—Facts to be proved by objecting owner.

S. 129 of the Berar Land Revenue Code gives to the Revenue Officers the power to override civil rights in order to give cultivators reasonable access to their fields. Where access is only possible along boundary strips belonging to others it is obvious that reasonable access will ordinarily mean the most convenient line of approach. Before his objection can be considered the owner of the boundary strip which is the most convenient line of approach must show that the use of this strip will cause him much more inconvenience than would be caused by the use of an alternative line to the owners of the strips on that line. (Binney, F.C. LAXMANJI HANGAJI PATEL v. KASHIRAO SAMBHAJI 1943 N.I. J. 66

— S. 149—Proclamation signed by Sub-Divisiona. Officer not specifying place of sale—Sale held in Tahsio office—Validity.

S. 149 of the Berai Land Revenue Code requires that the place of sale should be specified in the proclamatior and it is obvious that sale proceedings will be vitiated if it is not clear from the proclamation where the sale will be held. When a sale is advertised to be held in a large town without specifying the place, the presumption is that it will be held at the office or place of business of the person advertising it. If, therefore, a proclamation signed by a Sub-Divisional Officer does not specify the place of sale and the sale is held not at his office but in the Tahsil office, the proceedings are void (Binney, F.C.) SHEIKH TAMIZ v. MAHEBUB KHAN 1943 N.L.J. 275.

S. 149—Sale proclamation not giving name of defaulter—When and if an irregularity justifying setting aside of the sale

Though S. 149 of Berar Land Revenue Code does not specify that the name of the defaulter should be stated in the proclamation, there is a place for the occupant's name in the form of proclamation published under R. 1 of S. 194 (2)(a) of the Act and hence it can be assumed that this is one of the particulars considered necessary. It is an irregularity to omit that name and would justify the setting aside of the sale if the circumstances lead to the inference that the low prices were partly due to that omission. (Binney, F.C.) SYED KASAM v. AMRU. 1943 N.I.J. 68.

3. 152—Applicability—Sale for recovering instalments fixed by Debt Conciliation Board.

Under S. 152 of the Berar Land Revenue Code every sale under Chapter XII must be stayed if the amount due and the costs, which are recoverable under S. 152 as part of the arrear, are paid before the sale is complete. The section is not confined in its application to proceedings for recovery of land revenue. It also applies to proceedings for recovery of instalments due through an agreement under the Debt Conciliation Act. (Binney, F.C.) MULTANMAL v. SWARUPCHAND. 1943 N.L.J. 248

The deposits required by S. 155 of the Berar Land Revenue Code must be made either in the treasury or in Court and cannot legally be accepted by an officer after both Treasury and Court have closed for the day. (Binney F.C.) WASUDEO v. ABHIMAN. 1943 N.L. J. 247.

----S. 155-Right to apply under-Creditor who had agreed with debtor for conciliation of debt and obtained a charge over debtor's property.

Where a Co-operative Society being a creditor agrees with his debtor before the Debt Conciliation Board to conciliate the debt due to him and obtains a charge over the property of the debtor for the payment of the amount due and the agreement between the parties is duly registered, the Co-operative Society is a person having an interest in the property (of the debtor) by virtue of a title acquired before the sale within the meaning of S. 155 of the Berar Land Revenue Code and is hence entitled to apply under the section and make the necessary deposit. (Binney, F. C.) Distributed.

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY NO. 175 v. KASHINATH APPAJI KOSHTI. 1942 N.L.J. 216.

-S. 155-Right to apply under-Person who has filed a suit for pre-emption.

As a pre-emptor who has filed a suit for pre-emption but has not obtained a decree or paid the purchase price before the date of the sale does not hold "an interest in the property by virtue of the ritle acquired before sale' he cannot apply for setting aside the sale. (Binney, F. C.) DIPCHAND v. MAROTI. 1943 N.L.J. 118.

Ss. 159 and 155—Discretion under S. 159— Limits to exercise of—Deposit beyond time fixed by S. 155-If a ground to refuse confirmation.

S. 159 of the Berar Land Revenue Code no doubt gives a discretion to refuse confirmation of the sale for good reasons. But this discretion cannot be used to override mandatory provisions of another section of the Code. Hence if the deposit required by S. 155 of the Code to be made within a particular time is not so made that cannot be a ground for the exercise of the discretion to refuse confirmation of a sale. (Binney, MOHANLAL v. MST. ANASUYABAI. 1942 N.L.J.

-S. 159—Exercise of discretion under— When justified.

Mere suspicion of failure to proclaim a sale of property is sufficient justification for the exercise of the discretion given in S. 159, Berar Land Revenue Code, when the property was purchased by a Village Officer at a low price. (Binney, F.C.) SHRIDAR NAGORAO v. WAMAN SHIVARAMJI. 1943 N.L.J. 507.

patel—Liability to be set aside.

Where though a revenue sale was perfectly legal under the Berar Land Revenue Code it was shown that the village officers colluded to get that particular field sold so that one of them the patel could purchase it for an inadequate price held, that (i) the patel far from having acquired an equity as auction purchaser had acquired a definite disqualification (ii) that the fraud of the village officers was a fraud to which Government itself was indirectly a party and that therefore the auction sale must be set aside. (Greenfield, R. A.) VENKATA SUBBAYYA v. KESHO PANDURANG. 1941 N.L.J.52.

S. 159—Setting aside sale—When justified.

It is accepted law that only exceptional circumstances justify interference with a Court sale other than under the authority of Ss. 155 and 156. The reasons which have to be recorded must be sound. Where irregularites in the publishing of the sale are alleged in an application under S. 159 or emerge in the course of the proceedings they must be examined as critically as if they had formed the basis of an application under 156. It is of course essential that it should be proved that substantial injury has been caused by such irregularities. (Binney F. C.) RAM RRISHNA v. RAGIRKHAN. 1944 N.L.J. 59.

-S.161—Title of purchaser—When accrues— Date of sale or confirmation,

BERAR LAND REVENUE CODE (1928).

The title of a purchaser at a sale held under the provisions of the Berar Land Revenue Code does not accrue until the date of confirmation and it does not relate back to the date of the sale (Bose, J.) -Ss. 162 and 192 (k)—Appropriation of surplus sale proceeds by Revenue Court for Crown debts in spite of prohibitory order from Civil Court-Jurisdiction of Civil Court to question.

The Civil Court has no jurisdiction to question the appropriation of surplus sale proceeds for other arrears payable to the Crown made by the Revenue Court under S. 162 of the Berar Land Revenue Code in spite of a prohibitory order from it under O. 21, R. 52, C. P. Code, particularly when such arrears were payable to the Crown. (Puranik, J.) JAGANNATH v. PROVIN-CIAL GOVERNMENT C. P AND BERAR. I.I.R. (1945) Nag. 496=1945 N.I.J. 111=A.I.R. 1945

-S. 164(a)—Applicability—Recovery of commission in respect of sale for arrears of land revenue.

Where on a sale for arrears of land revenue the defaulter deposits the amount due along with the commission and the sale is set aside on the ground of an irregularity and the defaulter is permitted to withdraw the commission the auction purchaser can recover it under S. 164(a) in as much as it is apportionable as costs in respect of the case. (Burton F. C.) LAXMIBAI NARAYAN 1941 N.L.J. 228.

-S. 183—Co-occupants also mortgagor and mortgagee-Sale of a portion of mortgaged property-Claim to pre-empt by co-occupant mortgagee-Amount payable.

Where two person persons were occupants of the same survey number and where also in the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee and the mortgagor sold a portion of the mortgaged property free from encumbrance and the mortgagee co-occupant claimed to pre-empt on payment of a sum representing the balance after deducting the fair price the sum which could be allocated in respect of the mortgage debt to the plot sold, held that he was not so entitled to calculate the amount payable and the interest transferred was only the equity of redemption for which the fair price was fixed and which should be paid. (Stone C. J.) Kondo v. Sarubal. 1942 N.L. J. 370.

-S. 183 and C. P. Debt Conciliation Act-Pre-emption in case of transfer in conciliation of debt.

Where in the settlement of a debt by the Conciliation Board certain property of the debtor was transferred to the creditor, it is not desirable to encourage applications for pre-emption in respect of such transfers. (Stone. C. J.) DHANRAJ v. VITHOBA. 1941 N.L.J. 623.

-S. 183—Right of pre-emption—Occupant of survey number foreclosed also occupant of another subdivision,

Under S. 183 of the Berar Land Revenue Code, the occupant of the survey number forcelosed cannot claim pre-emption simply because he is also the occupant of another sub-division of that survey number, It is some other occupant who was not the occupant of the survey number foreclosed that can claim pre-emption. (Puranik, J.) RAMKRISHNA TUKARAM v. NAMDEO SONAJI. I.L.R (1944) Nag. 848=210 I.C. 387=16 R.N. 154=1943 N.L.J. 568=AI.R. 1944 Nag. 31.

—S. 183 (1)—Defendant's vendor having interest in sub-division of survey number and also interest in trees standing in plaintiff's sub-division—Sale by him of both—Plaintiff's right to pre-emption in respect of trees.

The plaintiff was an occupant of sub-division No. 23-1 in Survey No. 23. The defendant's vendor owned the other sub-division No. 23-2 and had a half-interest in trees standing in the plaintiff's sub-division. He sold to the defendant his interest in both. The plaintiff's claim for pre-emption was decreed in respect of Survey No. 23-2 but dismissed in respect of the trees, On appeal.

Held,(i) that the Survey No 23 did not cease to exist by reason of its sub-division, and the defendant was, therefore, an occupant in that survey number within the meaning of S. 183 (1) of the Berar Land Revenue Code; (ii) that as trees are deemed to be part of the land on which they are situate under S. 46 of that Code, the defendant's vendor who had a half-interest in those trees had an interest in the Survey No. 23 in so far as those trees were concerned, and the plaintiff had, therefore, a right to pre-empt the half-share in the trees which was sold, (Bose, J.) RADHAKISAN v DAULAT. I.L.R. (1945) Nag. 239=1944 N.L.J. 204=A.I R. 1944 Nag. 197.

——S. 183 (2)—Suit under—Power of Court to increase the figure of value.

The Court is not bound by S. 183 (2) of the Berar Land Revenue Code, to accept the price paid, if it is below the market value. If the price is fixed decidedly above the market value, it is not fixed in good faith. The same is equally true if the price is much below the value of the land. Where the price fixed in a sale deed was very low and it was so fixed on an understanding that the transaction was really to be a mortgage and not a sale, on an application for pre-emption the Court could go into the question of fair price, and direct the pre-emptor to pay the nominal price mentioned in the sale to the vendee and the balance to the vendor. (Grille, J.) SHEOLAL PANDU v. YEDU VYANKAT SING. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 584—198 I.C. 402—14 R.N. 222—1941 N.L.J. 491—A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 353.

S. 184—Scope—Buildings, if covered by section.
S. 184 of the Berar Land Revenue Code which speaks of 'survey numbers' and 'land' contemplates only agricultural land and has nothing to do with buildings. (Gruer, J.) LAXMAN PANDHARI v. MUNNUSINGH. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 315=200 I.C. 297=14 R.N. 330=1942 N.L.J. 218.

_____S. 184 (2)—'Consolidation'—Interpretation— Mere convenience if a criterion.

The word 'consolidation' has not been defined in the Berar Land Revenue Code. The word 'consolidate' implies that there are no intervals between these parts of the body; nor is the discontinuity a negligible one. There is no reason for holding that the legislature intended the word 'consolidation' in S. 184 (2) to be used in a loose sense and to do so would lead to difficulties. The general rule is to allow pre-emption in case of exchange and the exception should be strictly applied. Mere convenience of cultivation is neither the criterion nor is it sufficient. The safer rule is to confine 'consolidation' to configuity. (Gruer, J) LAXMAN PANDHARI: MUNNUSINGH. I L.R. (1942) Nag 315 = 200 I.C. 297=14 R.N. 330 = 1942 N.L.J. 218.

BERAR PATELS & PATWARIS LAW (1900).

The fair price as contemplated by S. 184 (3) of the Berar Land Revenue Code would be the market value of the property exchanged. (Gruer J.) LAXMAN PANDHARI v MUNNUSINGH. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 315=200 I.C. 297=14 R.N. 330=1942 N.L. J. 218.

The appointment of a mahar has to be made in accordance with the custom of the village subject to the provisions of Rule 2. Under the Rules, revenue officers have for the first time been made responsible for checking appointments made by patels. It is their duty when vacancies occur whether on the death or removal of a mahar or at the beginning of a rotatory period to see that appointments are made according to the present rules. Neither custom nor previous decisions can override the rules and these do not permit the appointment of a person who is unable to work or the appointment of a substitute except in a leave vacancy. (Binney F. C.) Modya v. Anusuya. 1943 N.L.J. 291.

R. 5 of Village Mahars Rules—Appeal.

An appeal lies against an order passed by a Tahsildar under R. 5 of the Village Mahars Rules under S. 194 (2) (g), Berar Land Revenue Code. Such an order is not passed by one of the revisional authorities empowered by S. 38 and must be considered as an original order. (Binney, F. C.) SHIONYA v. GOMYA. 1943 N.L.J. 361.

— Ch. XIV—Pre-emption—Sale by father manager of Hindu joint family—Minor members—If vendors—If can sue for pre-emption.

Where a Hindu father manager of joint family sells family property in his own name and in the name of his minor son as well, the latter can under Ch. XIV of the Berar Land Revenue Code pre-empt. Addition of the minor's name in the sale-deed does not make him a vendor. (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) DAMODAR v. NARAYAN. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 325=195 I.C. 671=14 R.N. 54=1941 N.L.J. 296=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 199.

BERAR PATELS AND PATWARIS LAW (1900)—Claims of families rejected in past—Whether can be re-opened.

The claims of families which had been rejected in the past after full and fair consideration, should not be re-opened at any subsequent vacancy. A change in case-law will not justify reconsideration. (Binney, F.C.) RAMCHANDEA NAGOJI v. BHAGWANT SHAMRAO. 1948 N.L.J. 289.

BERAR PATELS & PATWARIS LAW (1900).

—Dismissal of patel—Procedure -Appeal

In Berar in matters of dismissal of patels, the practice is to seek sanction of the Commissioner after the enquiries are complete. A hearing is usually given by the Commissioner to the village officer and then when the proceedings are returned the Deputy Commissioner passes the formal order. Hence the order is virtually that of the Commissioner and an appeal against it cannot therefore lie to him, as a Court cannot hear an appeal against an order which has been passed by it after full consideration. The remedy of the village officer is to appeal to the Revenue tribunal. (Binney, F.C.) Roghoji Ganpat Patil v. Dewaji Symbhaji Kunbi. 1942 N.L.J. 597.

—Hereditary claims by Muslims to offices—Law applicable—Rule of seniority—Adoption, if recognized.

Mahomedan Law does not recognize adoption. Where hereditary claims are made by Muslims to village offices, it is the accepted practice in Berar to apply the rule of seniority. (Binney, F.C.) HAKUMDDIN v. GULAM MOHIUDDIN. 1941 N.L.J. 554.

challenged in appeal—Vacancy, if deemed to have been filled up.

A vacancy in the office of a patel can only be deemed to have been filled up when a final order binding upon the parties is passed. It cannot be said to have been filled up when the appointment made to it is being challenged in appeal. (Raghavendra Rao, H.M.) BHASKARRAO v. HIMMATRAO. 1944 N.L.J. 343.

Review of order—No application by aggrieved person—Permissibility of review.

It is of course true that an application from an aggrieved person is necessary before a review can be undertaken under O. 47, R. 1, C. P. Code. But there is a distinction between matters which fall within the purview of the C. P. Code, and those which fall within the Patels and Patwaris Law. Under that law, when administrative questions arise review must be permitted when the necessity is made clear. (Roughton, F.C.) NARAYAN v.BABURAO. 1945 N.I.J. 399.

S. 5—Adoption made by widow of former patel after his death and after appointment of his successor—Adopted son—If qualified to be appointed at next vacancy.

A son adopted by a widow of a former patel after the latter's death and after a successor to him has been appointed to the patelki, is qualified to be appointed patel when the next vacancy arises in preference to the son of the late incumbent. The words "and shall not appoint a woman if a male relative of the late incumbent of the office exists" used in S. 5 (3) (c) of the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law, no doubt, postpone the rights of a woman to those of a male relative; but they do not affect the rights of the adopted son who claims, not through her deceased husband into whose family he has been adopted. It follows that the right of the adopted son will be determined according to the law of inheritance applicable to the family into which he has been a lopted. (Burton, R.M. and Roughton, H.M.) LAXMAN v. TUKARAM. 1943 N.L.J. 255.

5. 5-Appointment by Commissioner contrary to ruling 96-Propriety.

An appointment made by the Commissioner contrary to ruling 96 which is binding upon him, is improper and cannot be maintained. (Binney, F. C.) GULAB v. SHANKAR, 1944 N.L.J 138.

S. 5—Appointment of malik patwari—Candidate representing brunch which has waived preferential claim on account of seniority in agreeing to partition—It has preferential claim over one who is a nearer heir to deceased incumbent.

A candidate who by the law of inheritance is a nearer heir to the deceased incumbent has a preferential claim to the office of malik patwari held by him over another who represents a branch which had definitely waived any preferential claim on account of seniority in agreeing to the partition among the family. (Binney, F.C.) Dattatraya v. Bhujangarao. 1944 N.L. J. 237

S. 5-Appointment of patel—Claim not made regularly—Duty to consider.

In a proceeding for the appointment of a patel, the Revenue Court should not reject the claim of a person on the ground that it is not made in a regular way. (Binney, F.C.) MAHADEO v. MOTI RAM. 1943 N.L.J. 362.

S. 5—Appointment of patel for period of five years in 1866—Claim to rotation not put in at end of period—Effect.

The practice of appointing patels for a period of five years began in 1866. The position at the expiry of that period was that rotation was discouraged to such an extent that it amounted to practical prohibition. No importance can therefore be attached to the failure to put in a claim to rotation on the expiry of that period. (Greenfield, F. C.) VITHAL JANOJI v. HARI BALWANT. 1943 N.L.J. 538.

——S. 5— Appointment to non-watandari office— Principle of equity—Exercise of discretion—Revision— —Interference.

It is a reasonable principle of equity to appoint the son, or perhaps even some more distant relation, of a non-watandar village officer who has served Government faithfully and well. But as the appointment of a non-watandar village officer is a matter of discretion, it is a fundamental principle that after all rights of appeal have been exhausted a Court will not interfere in revision, where no questions of law are involved and the only question is with regard to the exercise of a discretion unless there has been a grave misuse of that discretion. This is all the more true when all the lower Courts are agreed. (Greenfield.) DATTATRAYA z, PRALHAD NARAYAN. 1945 N.L.J. 319.

-S. 5—Claims of senior branch against junior family continuously in office.

No hard and fast rule can be applied in cases where it is necessary to weigh the lapse of time against the claims of seniority. The decision must be taken on merits. It would, therefore, require very strong reasons to justify interference in revision with the decision of the final court of appeal refusing to oust the junior family after 80 years' continuous office on the strength of the claim of the senior branch. (Binney, F.C.) SURYABHAN v. SHANKAR. 1943 N L.J. 187.

BERAR PATELS & PATWARIS LAW (1900). | BERAR PATELS & PATWARIS LAW (1900).

-Ss. 5 and 7—Claim to rotation—Re-opening of -Retrospective application of case-law.

A claim to the introduction of rotation in a patelki cannot be re-opened by applying case-law retrospectively. (Binney F.C.) SITARAM v. DEVI-DAS. 1943 N.L.J. 294.

-S. 5—Effect of postponed adoption on succession to watandar Patel or Patwari.

The effect of a postponed adoption (i.e.) adoption to a Watandar Patel or Patwari which is made after the office held by him has been filled by appointment of another member of the family in the case of a village where there is no rotation is, that on the death of the member so appointed the watan would go back to the adopted son in preference to the son of the appointee. where there is rotation, on the death of the watandar in the midst of his turn of office, the next rotatory patel would come into office, if there is no adoption by the widow of the deceased patel before the final order appointing a successor is passed. If there is an adoption made before such final order, then the adopted son would succeed to the unexpired term though he be a minor and would continue to be so for the unexpired period of rotation. Where the next rotatory patel steps in for the unexpired portion of the turn of a deceased patel and completes such turn and also completes his own turn, he would continue to work till the end of his life. He is not supposed to vacate at the end of his turn. A son adopted after the expiry of the term can claim against a person who was not appointed on his own merits, but he cannot claim against a person who was appointed on his own merits, as they existed at the time of the appointment. The appointment of a major to complete a term in preference to an existing minor does not settle the question of title between them. The question remains to be settleed when the minor attains majority. But the appointment of a major when the minor has not come into existence in a final decision of title and is permanent. (Greenfield, R. A.) RADHAKRISHNA v. Dinkar. 1942 N.L.J. 168.

-S. 5-Government Patwari-Appointment-Discretion-Relationship to prior incumbent-If of any value.

The appointment of a Government Patwari is matter of discretion and the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law does not recognise any claim based on relationship to the previous incumbent of the office. Any such recognition is also a matter of discretion. (Greenfield, R. A.) HARISH CHANDRA v. JAISHIRAM. 1942 N.L. J. 55.

-S.5-Person appointed under misconception as to custom, holding office for brief period-If obtains hold on watan.

A person who is appointed to be malik patel under a misconception as to the custom in regard to inheritance as between the sons of two wives, and who performs the duties of a patel for a very brief period, cannot be said to have obtained a firm hold on the watan. (Greenfield.) KESHEORAO v. SHEORAO. 1945 N.L.J. 311.

-8. 5-Resumption of jagir-Appointment of patel-Law of inheritance prior to resumption-If applicable.

If a jagir is resumed, and the jagirdar falls out of the picture, the law of inheritance must be held to continue to govern the appointment of a patel with effect from the time prior to the resumption of the jagir. (Roughton, F.C.) BABARAO v. KUBERRAO. 1945 N.L.J. 499.

-S. 5-Right of substitute patwari to interfere in disputes between malik, his successor and Government.

The provisions of the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law no doubt give the substitute or agent very considerable security of tenure, but it would be contrary to first principles to allow a subsitute to have any right of interference in a matter which lies solely between malik, his successor, and Government. (Greenfield R.A.) VITHAL SONAJI v. BHIKAJI RAJARAM. 1942 N.L.J. 54.

-S. 5—Scope and applicability.

S. 5 of the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law makes no distinction between appointments for life or in rotation. There is no warrant for holding that S. 5 does not apply at all to offices held and to be filled in rotation and that at the expiry of one family's period of rotation the person of the other family who held office in its last turn automatically and ipso facto steps into that office again so that no appointment is required to be made. (Burton.F. C.) NAMDEO BALIRAM v.PARASHRAM. 1942 N.L.J. 27.

-Ss. 5 (3) (a) (b) and 16 (as amended)-Preferential rights of members of family of dismissed officer other than his lineal descendants and co-parceners—If must be considered.

The provisions of S. 5(3)(a) and (b) of the Patels and Patwaris Law are not entirely disturbed by S. 16 of that law as amended in 1934, but only to the extent that the claims of lineal descendants and co-parceners of the suspended or dismissed officer may be disregarded. The right of the remaining members of his family must, therefore, be considered for appointment in preference to outsiders. (Burton, F.C.) P. SAKHARAM v. BHIKU JANU. 1944 N.L.J. 290.

S. 5 (3) (a)—Rules as to appointment of person fittest from the point of view both of Government and village community-When applicable.

The rule as to the selection out of the claimants to the patelki enquiry and appointment of the fittest person from the point of view of both Government and village community is applicable only to cases "where there are several persons having equal rights under the law of inheritance. (Binney, F.C.) VINAYAK SURYABHAN PATEL v. YADAO RAO AMRIT RAO. 1942 N.L.J. 286.

----S. 5 (3) (c)-"Male relative of the late incumbent"-Interpretation.

The words "male relative of the late incumbent" in S. 5 (3) (c) of the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law, must be interpreted to mean just what they say, viz., a male relative according to the law of inheritance applicable to the family. (Burton, F. C.) RENUKABAI v. 1945 N.L.J. 595. VYANKATESH.

5.5 (3) (c)—Substitute not having ghali-fications appointed—Subsequent appointment as principal—Absence of qualifications if material— Duty of Revenue Officer in regard to appointments.

According to Cl. (c) of sub-S. (3) of S. 5 of the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law the qualifications required of a substitute to the office of patel are exactly the same as those required in regard to principals and where there have been sufficient reasons for appointing an unqualified person as a substitute, the same reasons will apply to his appointment as a malik in the same post in the same village. In such matters a revenue officer unlike a Civil Court is required to base his decision on principles of right and equity and on considerations of administrative convenience and not merely on rules. (Greenfield. R.A.) CHOUDAJIRAO v. UTTAMRAO. 1942 N.L.J. 62.

——S. 6—Appointment of substitute—Several maliks.

The Patels and Patwaris Law makes no provision for the appointment of a substitute where there are several maliks. Whenever there is a change of malik, the new malik can exercise his right of nomination, but the old maliks cannot make fresh nominations. As long as the substitute remains the nominee of the majority, he cannot be ousted. There is no difference in the principle involved whether or not the su stitute is a malik. When each candidate has equal support, it is equitable that the status quo should be maintained. (Binney, F.C.) VINAYAKRAO v. DEORAO. 1943 N.L.J. 288.

S. 6 (2)—Nomination by Jagirdar—Rule of seniority.

A Jagirdar in making a nomination under S.6 (2) of the Patels and Patwaris Law has to have regard to the same matters as are specified in S.5 (3) (a) and (b) and must follow the rule of seniority as well as other principles which have been applied by case law to successions to khalsa villages. (Binney, F.C.) JAGANNATH v. SAHEBRAO. 1944 N.L.J. 78.

-----S. 6-A-Appointment of malik and patel-

Voice of each sharer.

In an Izara village each sharer has a voice in the appointment of the malik and patel which carries weight according to the interest he possesses or represents in the village. (Binney, F.C.) LAXMAN PUNJA RAO v. RAM RAO. 1943 N.L.J. 153.

S. 6-A and Waste Land Rules, Cl. (vi)— Co-sharer nominated as malik and patel—Obligation of personal service.

S.6-A of the Patels and Patwaris Law makes it clear that all co-sharers have a say in the nomination of the malik and patel. A co-sharer nominated as malik and patel under sub-Ss. (1) and (2) of that section must work in person. Cl. (vi) of the Waste Land Rules is not affected by anything expressly provided in the Patels and Patwaris Law. If he is unable to do so, he can be removed. (Binney, F.C.) TARACHAND v. SHANKAR. 1943 N.L.J. 292.

S. 6-A-"One of their number"-Interpretation.

The words "one of their number" in S. 6-A of he Berar Patels and Patwaris Law refer to one of the recorded proprietors or patels as the case may be and cannot be read as including a nominee who is not a recorded proprietor or patel. If the Deputy Commissioner for any good or sufficient reason considers it proper to ignore the nomination he can appoint only one of such proprietors or patels. (Raghavendra Rao, H.M.) BHAGWANJI v. RAMCHANDRA. 1944 N.L.J. 352.

If a patel who receives the emoluments from Government does not pay his co sharer his share thereof, the Revenue Court to which the patel is subordinate can order that the amount due should be deducted by Government for payment to the co-sharer. This is in accordance with the general principle that what a person is empowered to do can be done by an authority superior to that person. (Greenfeld, R.A.) ANANDRAO v. BAPURAO. 1945 N.L.J. 401.

The natural interpretation of the words "the sharers having the largest share" in S. 6-A (1) of the Patels and Patwaris Law is that the nomination rests not with the largest share-holder, but with the sharers whose interests represent the largest share in the village. (Binney, F.C.) LAXMAN v. RAM RAO. 1943 N.L.J. 376.

If a co-sharer agrees to the appointment of another co-sharer as malik and patel on the understanding that he would not be liable for his share of the patel's allowances, the mutual agreement between the parties cannot under S. 6-A(3) of the Patels and Patwaris Law be varied as between them. There is nothing in this provision or in clause VI of the Waste Land Rules, 1865, to justify the recovery from him of the emoluments of a deputy appointed by the co-sharer who is malik and patel. (Binney, F. C.) GANPAT v, SHAMRAO. 1943 N.L.J. 406.

S. 7—Appointment of substitute patel—Rotation—Desirability.

There were two maliks in a village and they could not agree about their substitute. One person was appointed as a substitute on behalf of one of them till the other malik produced a better substitute. The other malik died and was succeeded by a distant cousin who applied to work in person. Held, that the ten-yearly rotation should be introduced between the two families and that as neither family had an obvious claim to the first period, the proper course was to maintain the status quo. (Binney, F.C.) VENKATESH v. MT. RADHABAI. 1944 N.L.J. 150.

heir—Scheme of rotation—If comes to an end.

If a person in office dies without a visible or apparent heir who could take his place in the scheme of rotation, the scheme of rotation ceases to exist. There is no provision in the Patels and Patwaris Law which provides for a scheme of rotation being kept alive or being considered to be kept alive indefinitely to provide for the possible contingency of an heir being available or being made available at a later date. (Burton WASUDEO v. MADHAO. 1945 N.L.J. 560.

-S. 7—Decisions made after Resolution of 1905—Rule of res judicata.

The rule of res judicata must apply to all decisions however erroneous, if made after the publication of the Resolution of 1905. (Binney, F.C.) VISHVANATH v. PUNDLIK. 1943 N.L.J. 562.

-S. 7—Enquiry into claim of family to rotation-Failure to move Resident in revision against prior adverse order-Value of.

In an enquiry into the claim of a family to rotation in the office of patelki, weight should not be given to a failure of the family to move the Resident to exercise his revisional powers against a previous adverse order of the Commissioner. A distinction should be drawn between the failure to exercise a right of appeal, and the failure to move a higher Court in revision. In the former case there is a definite right of which no use has been made. In the latter, the applicant has no right even to have his application considered. (Greenfield, R.A.) BAPUJI v. RAMCHANDRA. 1945 N.L. J. 567.

-S. 7—Patwaris—Rotation — Desirability— Substitute, one of the maliks-Nature of his position.

Though it may be administratively inconvenient to introduce rotation between so large a number of families as seven, it is more inconvenient to have seven malik patwaris continually disputing as to who should represent them. Further there is no community of interest between them such as might induce them to agree to a nomination. Hence rotation should be introduced. The legal position with reference to the substitute is that even if he were one of the maliks, he is not appointed in his own right as malik patwari but as a representative of the maliks. (Greenfield.) MANIKRAO v. MOTIRAM. 1941 N.L.J. 451.

-S. 7-Rotation-Proved claims-If override administrative convenience.

The Chief Commissioner's Resolution of 1905 emphasises the desirability of doing full justice to the claims of watandari families when they have been unjustly abrogated in the past. The trend of decisions since then has been that proved claims override considerations of administrative convenience. In point of fact the administrative inconvenience attaching to rotation is comparatively slight now that the period of rotation is 10 years. Normally, a family whose claims are admitted after having been excluded for a very long period secures the first period of rotation. (Greenfield, R.A.) MOTIRAM v. KISAN. 1945 N.L.J. 402.

-S. 7—Rotation system—Buldana District. In the Buldana District the authorities did not discourge the rotation system between 1866 and 1872. (Rinnev, F.C.) Ananda v. Sultan Khan. 1943 N.L.J 425.

-S. 7-Rotation vacancy-Minor, whether can be appointed.

The omission of the words "subject to the condition of personal fitness" in S. 7 of the Patels and Patwaris Law made in 1934 gives no option to the appointing officer to refuse to appoint a assumed.

An application for revision in respect of : appointment of a non-watandar patel or patwa is competent under the Patels and Patwaris Lav (Roughton, F.C.) DINKAR SHANKAR v PANDI RANG. 1943 N.L. J. 537.

-S. 21—Rules under—R. 10—Basis of rule Malik's nomination not in accordance with rule If entitled to consideration.

R. 10 of the rules framed under S. 21 of the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law is based on th principle that the watan belongs to the family ( sub-division and not to the individual. Hence when a malik does not care to conform to tl rules with regard to nomination of a substitu there is no reason why the interests of the mal should be taken into consideration at all. (Binne F.C.) LAXMAN v. WAMAN. 1942 N.L.J. 161.

-S. 21-R. X of Rules framed under-1 legitimate son, if member of watan family.

An illegitimate son cannot be considered to be member of the watan family for the purpose of R. X the Rules framed under S. 21 of the Berar Patels as Patwaris Law. (Roughton, F.C.) KHUSHAL RAO BAJIRAO. 1945 N.L.J. 489.

-S. 21-Rules under R. 10-'Same family'. Meaning of.

R. 10 of the rules framed under the Berar Pate and Patwaris Law requires the substitute to be of t same family or sub division of the family as the prinpal. This is a narrower expression than that occurring in S. 5 of the law. The use of the words "the sam instead of "the family" suggests that the family co cerned consists of the persons descending through mal from the original head of the family. In this sense, man's family means the stock to which he belong that is, the family tree which exhibits the various ma lines of descent from the head of the family. (Burto F C.) HASANMIYA v. ASHIK BAHADUR KHA 1945 N.L.J. 345.

BERAR WASTE LAND RULES (1865).

There has been no definition of the term 'subdivision' in the Berar Patels and Patwaris law. It is only used in the above and in the rules framed thereunder in connection with separated rights to hereditary offices of two or more families or two or more sub-divisions of the same family'. The trend of practice is to consider that a family has been sub-divided where there has been separation of the right of service. Sub-division can be assumed when there has been rotation, joint officiation of the separation of shares recorded in the early papers. It can also be assumed, where (as in many Deshmukh famil es) the elder branch has waived its rights to the office. In these cases a branch would be considered as sub-divided from the main watan family (Binney, F.C.) LAXMAN v. WAMAN. 1942 N.L.J. 161,

In view of the provisions of S. 21-A of the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law, the clauses of that law and the rules framed thereunder relating to the appointment of substitutes do not apply to the appointment of a substitute (or deputy) by the patel of an Izara village. (Burton, F.C.) RAGHUNATH v. WAMAN. 1945 N. L.J. 369.

BEBAR WASTE LAND RULES (1865), R. 11-Deputy approved by taluga officer-If entitled to continue in office after death of patel.

R. 11 of the Waste Land Rules of 1865 does not contemplate or require that the deputy approved by the taluga officer shall retain his appointment for life and that on the death of the patel whose deputy he is he has the right to continue in office irrespective of the wishes of the succeeding patel. -Validity of Act—Repugnancy to Permanent Settlement Regulation-Latter, if "Act of Parliament"—Power of Provinces to levy tax on agricultural income from permanently settled estates—Government of India Act, S. 108 (2) (a); List I, Entry 54 and List II, Entry 41.

The Permanent Settlement Regulation (I of 1793) is not an Act of Parliament within the meaning of S. 108 (2) (a) of the Government of India Act. It was only an enactment of a subordinate legislative authority which derived its own authority from an Act of Parliament. The Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act is not therefore invalid on the ground that the previous sanction of the Governor-General was not obtained before its introduction in the Bihar Legislature. Before applying the rule of construction that general words in a later statute should not be held to repeal earlier legislation upon a particular matter, it must be found that both pieces of legislation deal with the same subject-matter. Regulation I of 1793 relates to the subject of Jama to be settled in respect of each estate, while the Bihar Agricultural Incometax Act operates upon the income derived from land used for agricultural purposes. The two enactments do not deal with the same subjectmatter. The Bihar Act does not in any way whittle down or derogate from the assurances given to zamindars and land-holders by Regulation I of 1793 and there is no ground for confining the operation of the Act to income from estates settled otherwise than under the Permanent Seitlement Regulation. Entry No. 54 of the Federal Legislative List with regard to "taxes on income other than agricultural income" and entry No. 41 of the Provincial Legislative List with regard to "taxes on agricultural income" are complementary to each other and the tax imposed by the Bihar Act is, within the limits of the power vested in the provinces, a general measure of property taxation. —Validity of Act—Definition of 'Agricultural income in Act wider than that in Income-tax Act in some respects and narrower in other respects—How far affects its validity—Road cess collected under Bengal Cess Act for District Board—Whether assessed and collected by "officers of the Crown as such"—Government of India Act. S. 311

(2); List II, Entry 41.

The Bihar Agricultural Income tax Act is not ultra vires the Bihar Legislature and was validly enacted. The validity of the entire Act cannot be questioned on the ground that the definition of "agricultural income" adopted by the Act is in some respects wider and in other respects nar rower than the definition of that expression in S. 2 (1) of the Indian Income-tax Act. The fact that the definition in the Act is narrower cannot render the Act invalid. Inasmuch as entry No. 41 of List II of the Seventh Schedule to the Government of India Act empowers the Provincial Legislature to make laws with respect to taxes on agricultural income generally, a Provincial Legislature is entitled to impose a tax on some categories of agricultural income and not impose it on others. Local cesses or rates imposed upon lands within municipal limits which are used for agricultural purposes are not assessed and collected in the Province of Bihar by officers of the Crown as such, and income, if any, derived from such of these lands as are revenue-free would fall within the purview of the Bihar Act, VII of 1938, though such income is not agricultural income within the definition of that expression in the Indian Income-tax Act. But, even assuming the existence of such land in the Province of Bihar, the Act would be only inoperative so far as it includes such income. This would not affect the validity of the rest of the Act if it was otherwise validly enacted. The definition of agricultural income in the Bihar Act should be so read as to confine its operation to income which can be properly classified as "agricultural income" within the meaning of the definition in the Income-tax Act, and in respect of which alone the Provincial Legislature was competent to legislate. Road cess levied upon land outside municipal limits in Bihar under the Bengal Cess Act, 1880, is assessed and collected not by the District Board but by the Collector, and the Collector in performing these functions acts as an officer of the Crown as such and not as a delegate or functionary of the District Board. The capacity in which the Collector assesses and levies the cess is not affected by the destination of the proceeds of the cess when collected. A person who is invested by the Board of Revenue with powers of a Collector under S. 100 of the Bengal only of such income.

——S. 2 (a)—Act if ultra Vires—Levy of tax on revenue free estate in Municipalities and permanently settled Estates—Legality—Omission to tax all kinds of agricultural income—Omission to obtain Governor's sanction before introduction of Rill.

The Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act is ultra vires in so far as it purports to tax income from revenue-free estates in a municipality, but this does not affect the remainder of the Act which applies to all other income rightly within its scope. In so far as it deals with other agricultural income, the Act is intra vires inasmuch as the offending portion of the Act is severable from the remainder of the Act.

No real distinction can be drawn between the expressions 'rent or revenue' in Sec. 2 (1) of the Indian Income-tax Act, and 'rent or income' in Sec. 2 (a) of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act and it cannot be said that by the use of the words 'rent or income' in Sec. 2 (a) of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act, the Provincial Government are taxing something more than is permissible by the definition of agricultural income in Sec. 2 (1) of the Indian Income-tax Act.

The expression 'local rate' in Sec. 2 (1) of the Indian Income-tax Act is wide enough to cover cess which is a term used in Bihar for local rates levied on immovable property for the benefit of local authorities. That being so, the addition of the words 'local cess' in the definition of 'agricultural income' in Sec. 2 (a) of the Bihar Act does not in any way extend the field of taxation. As cess in Bihar is assessed and collected by officers of the Crown as such, there is no real difference between the two definition as far as the assessment and collection of cess is concerned.

The income of a raiyat is income derived from land by agriculture and clearly falls within the definitions given both in the Income-tax Act and Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act. Income of tenure holders of revenue-free land also falls within the definition given in both the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act and the Incometax Act and therefore the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act cannot be held to be ultra vires because it taxes the aforesaid incomes.

The omission to include Cl. (c) of Sec. 2 (1) of the Income-tax Act in the definition contained in the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act cannot make the the latter Act ultra vires, because the greater must include the less, and if the Provincial Government are entitled to 'ax all agricultural income as defined in S. 2 (1) of the Income-tax Act, then they are entitled to tax a part only of such income.

The tax imposed on agricultural income of Zamindars of permanently settled estates by the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act, 1938, is in no way an infringement of the rights granted to zamindars by the Permaneut Settlement Regulations. The Act does not in any way purport to affect, vary or repeal any provision in the Permanent Settlement Regulations and therefore cannot be said to be ultra vires on this ground.

Although the Governor's previous sanction under Section 209 (3) of the Government of India Act was not obtained before enacting the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act, as the Governor assented to the Bill, having regard to Section 109 (2) (a), the Bihar Act cannot be said to be invalid by reason of Section 200 (3). -S. 2 (a)—Agricultural income—Cess received by proprietor of estate from tenure-holders and raivats-If agricultural income or rent-Tax-

There can be no question that the cess payable by the proprietor of an estate under the provisions of the Bengal Cess Act are proper deductions from their gross income as such deductions are expressly provided for by S, 6 (b) of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act. The cesses received by the proprietor from their tenureholders and raiyats cannot, however be regarded as part of the rent for the purposes of the Agricultural Income-tax Act and therefore taxable. But it can be taxed if it can be regarded as part of the agricultural income of the proprietor. It is clear from the provisions of the Cess Act that the cess received by the proprietor who is the only person liable to pay the cess due to the local authorities and the only person entitled to the cess payable by the tenure-holders and raiyats, is income derived from land used for agricultural purposes and does form part of this income. It is part of his agricultural income and is liable to be taxed under the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act. It makes no difference whether the cess money is received by reason of an agreement or by reason of a right given by statute. (Harries, C. J., Fazl Ali and Manohar Lal, JJ.) PROVINCE OF BIHAR v. -Ss. 6 and 7-Total agricultural income-Computation and Assessment-Mode of.

When an assesse is being taxed on his total agricultual income calculation should be made by adding up his gross receipts from all the Villages and by deducting from it the total expenditure which is allowed to him by S. 6 of the Bihar Agricultural Income Tax Act. The difference will be his total agricultural income which will be assessable if it exceeds Rs. 5,000. If the income of the assessee is also derived from land which is in his actual cultivation or which is let out by him on produce rent, the income which he gets is still agricultural income though in such a case the Act provides by S. 7 a mode of calculating the income and also provides for similar deductions as in a case falling under S. 6 provided the deductions are not allowed twice over. But the gross income must be added up and also the proper deductions as stated above.

S. 6 (a) of the Act does not warrant the splitting up of the assessee's agricultural estate into groups and limiting the deductions to the actual income from each group. The assessee is entitled to claim deduction of the payments made by him under S 6. (a) and (b) of the Act against his total agricultural income from his entire estate and the entire amount of Government revenue, cesses and malik are paid by him can be deducted under S. 6 (a) and (b) of the Act. -S. 6 (c)—Cess—Collection charges—Right of assessee to deduct.

Rent under S. 6 (c) of the Bihar Agricultural income-tax Act does not include cess though cess is recoverable as rent under the Tenancy Act. An assessee is not therefore entitled to the deduction of 12.5 per cent. of the amount of cess as collection charges on the total amount of cess collected by him. -S. 6 (c)-"Rent"-If includes interest on rent.

Rent in S. 6 (c) of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act means rent only and does not include interest thereon. (Harries, C.J., Fazl Ali, and Manohar Lal, JJ.) RAM RAN VIJAY PRASAD SINGH v. —S 6 (c)—Total amount of the "rent which accrued due in the provious year"—Meaning of "Rent which accrued due in the previous year," in S. 6 (c) of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act, can only mean rent which actually fell due and first became pavable in that year, and cannot mean all rent which was then payable though part of it had actually fallen due in earlier years. -S. 6 (f)-"Expense incurred on the maintenance of any irrigation or protective work, etc."-Interestand talbana on irrigat on tax-Claim to deduction Sustainability.

Though the deduction of irrigation tax is allowed under S. 7 (2) (d) of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act, interest and talbana on irrigation tax are penalty for non-payment and do not form part of the irrigation tax, and hence interest and talbana on the irrigation tax cannot be deducted under S. 6 (f) of the Act. -S. 8-Scope-Maintenance paid to saijadanashin by custom.

The wording of S. 8 of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act is wide enough to cover reasonable maintenance allowed by custom to a sajjadanashin who is a religious preceptor. (Swanzy.) SHAH HAMID HUSSAIN v. PROVINCE OF BIHAR: 11 B.R. 293.

S. 8 (1)-"Trust"-What amounts to-Holder of impartible estate establishing and maintaining religious and charitable institutions-Will expressing wish that successors should maintain them and spend income as he did-If creates trust -Exemption-Right to.

The assessee was holding an impartible estate and was maintaining certain charitable, religious and educational institutions, which had from time to time been established and maintained by his predecessors. A previous holder executed a will which provided, interalia: "My predecessors and I have from time to time established and convenient machinery for collection of the tax Q.D.--26

BIHAR AGRIC, INCOME-TAX ACT (1938).

I at present support various religious and charitable institutions in various parts of the country and it is my wish and I direct my executrix and executor and whoever may be in the enjoyment of my property either as my heir or under the provisions of this my will, do preserve and maintain and support such institutions in the manner I am doing and to avoid all difficulty in the matter, I have annexed hereto a schedule giving the names of the institutions aforesaid and the amount which I spend yearly for their respective support" It was found that the assessee was in fact maintaining the institutions ramed in the schedule and spending actually on those more than the total sum stated by the testator. The assessee claimed exemption from agricultural income-tax is respect of the sums thus spent by him under S. 8 of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act, elleging that the income was derived from land held by him on trust. No land was, however, set apart for the mainte-nance and support of the institutions. Nor was the income from any particular property earmarked for those objects.

Held, that the clause in the will was merely an expression of a pious wish of the testator that those following him should carry on the charitable and religious work which he had been and was actually doing, and did not create a trust for that purpose. The assessee was not therefore a trustee holding under a trust and the income of the Act. (Harries, C.J., Fazl Ali and Manohar Lall, JJ.) RAM RAN VIJAY PRASAD SINGH v. PROVINCE OF BIHAR. 21 Pat. 488=202 I.C 128=8 B.R. 856=15 R.P. 94=1942 I.T.R. 446=23 Pat.L.T. 652=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 435 (F.B.).

11 - "Beneficiaries" - If includes single beneficiary.

The word "beneficiaries" in S. 11 of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act though in the plural replication in the plural includes the singular and it applies even where the beneficiary is a single person. (Fazl Ali, C.J., Manohar Lall and Beevor, II.) LAL CHOUDHRY v. PROVINCE OF BIHAR. 23 Pat. 393=218 I.C. 23=11 B.R 236=1945 I.T R 309=(1944) P.W.N. 180=A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 352 (S.B.).

-S. 11 Explanation-,,Beneficiary"-"Partion"-Meaning of-Scheme of Act.

The object of the explanation to S. 11 of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act is to make it clear that the word "beneficiary" in this section refers only to persons actually entitled to receive a part of the agricultural income and not to persons who might indirectly be entitled to some benefit by reason of that income. The word "portion" in explanation to S. 11 should not be read as equivalent to an aliquot part or share so that the extent of the beneficiary's income would vary with any variation in the total income. There is no reason why a person entitled to a fixed sum out of fluctuating agricultural income should be exempt from agricultural income-tax thereon while a person entitled to a fluctuating share would be liable to such a tax.

The whole scheme of the Act is to provide and for this purpose the tax is assessed on the person who holds the land, whether the agricultural income derived from that land is his income or the income of others. (Sinha and Beevor, JJ.) JAGDISH CHANDRA DEO v. DHANDATI SINGH DEB. 23 Pat. 414=1945 I.T.R. 64=11 B.R 172=217 I.C. 211=17 R.P. 168=1944 P.W.N. 296=A.I.R 1944 Pat. 280.

-- S. 11-Property held by assessee-Portion of agricultural income payable to beneficiary -Whole income - Taxability in hands of assessee.

Though there may be a beneficiary entitled to portion of the income from agricultural property in the possession of an assessee, the latter is assessable on the entire agricultural income of such property received by him without any deduction for the amount payable or paid to the beneficiary. (Fasl Ali, C.J., and Manohar Lall, and Beever, JJ.) LAL CHOUDERY v. PROVINCE OF BIHAR. 23 Pat. 393=218 I C. 23=1945 I.T.R. 309=11 B.R. 236=(1944) P.W.N. 180=A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 352 (S.B.).

-S. 11-Property held by receiver-Income from-Assessment of owner of property in respect of income-Propriety.

Where a receiver appointed by the Court is in possession of properties from which agricultural income is derived, he holds the property for the benefit of the owner. The receiver cannot be treated as the agent of the owner being an officer of the Court, which appointed him. Hence it is the receiver who must be assessed in respect of the agricultural income from the property held and managed by him and not the owner of the property. (Fazl Ali, C. J., and Manohar Lal and Beevor, JJ.) LAL CHOUDHRY v. PROVINCE OF BIHAR. 23 Pat. 393=218 I.C. 23=1945 I.T R. 309=11 B. R. 236=(1944) P.W.N. 180=A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 352 (S.B.).

S. 12—Applicability—Executor holding estate as legatee.

S. 12 of the Bihar Agricultural Income-Tax Act does not apply, if a person holds the estate as a legatee and not as an executor although he may be the executor of a will. (Sinha and Beevor, JJ.) -S. 12-"Each such person" - Meaning of. The words"each such person" in S 12 of the Bihar Agricultural Income Tax Act refers to to the person jointly interested in the land or the agricultural income derived there from, and this section cannot mean that an administrator is personally responsible for the agricultural income-tax and yet cannot deduct that tax from the amounts payable to the persons by whom that tax is payable. Ss. 24 (3) and 25—Order in revision by Commissioner of Agricultural Income-tax—Power of Board of Revenue to revise—Reference ligh Court-Competency.

BIHAR AGRIC. INCOME-TAX ACT (1938).

Where an assessment is made under the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act by the Agricultural Income-tax Officer, and an appeal is preferred under S. 22 of the Act to the Assistant Commissioner and a revision is heard by the Commissioner under S. 24, the order passed by the Commissioner is final under S. 24 (3) and the Revenue Board has no power to revise the order. Nor can the Board make a reference to the High Court under S. 25 of the Act where the question is not one of law but one of fact, vis., whether the assessee is a trustee only and therefore exempt under S. 8, and when the question arises not from the order under S. 24 but out of the assessment and appellate orders. (Middleton.) Jagdish Dass v. Government of Bihar. 9 B.R. 298.

-S. 25—Reference—Duty of Board--To state findings of fact and law.

_ Under S. 25 of the Bihar Agricultural Income-Tax Act, the Board must draw up, a statement of thecase and refer it with its own opinion thereon to the High Court. Not only must the Board state the case but it is directed also to give its own opinion thereof. In stating a case care must also be taken to set out clearly what are the findings of fact and what are the conclusions of law based on such facts. The two should not be confused, for it must always be remembered that the High Court is bound by the findings of fact but not by the conclusions of law which may be based on such facts. (Harries, C.J., Fozl Ali and Manohar Lall, JI.) PROVINCE OF BIHAR v. HARIBHAJAN DAS. 200 I.C. 857=15 R.P. 17= 8 B R 742=23 Pat. L.T 523=1942 I.T.R. 399 =A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 267 (S.B.).

-S. 25-Reference under-Findings of fact —If binding on High Court.

In dealing with a reference under S. 25 of the Bihar Agricultural Income-Tax Act, the High Court is not a Court which can find facts. It must accept the findings of fact of the authority stating the case always provided there is evidence to support such findings. (Harries, C.J., Fast Aliand Manohar Lall, JI) PROVINCE OF BIHAR V HARIBHAJAN DAS. 200 I.C. 857=15 R P. 17=8 B.R. 742=23 Pat. L.T. 523=1942 I.T.R. 399= A.IR. 1942 Pat. 267 (S.B.).

-S. 25 (2)—Scope of inquiry under—Contention that whole Act is ultra vires-If can be raised.

On a reference to the High Court under S 25 (2) of the Bihar Agricultural Income-tax Act, the assessee cannot raise the contention that the Act is ultra vires the powers of the Bihar Pro-vincial Legislature. The High Court special bench is a tribunal expressly set up by the Act to hear references under S. 25 of the Act, and an argument that the whole of the act is ultra vires cannot be urged before a tribunal which owes its very existence and jurisdiction to the Act itself. The question can be more appropriately and effectively raised in a suit challenging an assess-BIHAR BOARD OF REVENUE-Jurisdiction-Scope of.

The Board of Revenue is not a Court of first instance but a Court of appeal and revision. Consequently it, should be approached only when it is desired to have an order passed by the Court of first instance set aside either in appeal or in revision. (Sathe, J.M.) ALLIANCE BANK OF SIMLA LTD. v. SARDAR IQBAL SINGH. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 610=1941 R.D. 677=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 670.

----Resolution of Retrospective effect Order under Bihar Act IX of 1938 becoming final Subsequent resolution of Board, Application of-Pro-

It is contrary to accepted principles that a decision or Resolution of the Board of Revenue should be given retrospective effect, i.e., he made applicable to an order which had become final before such decision or resolution was passed. (Middleton.) RAJJAN SINGH v. MATHURA PRASAD. 9 B.R. 242.

-Revision—Finding of fact—Interference— Absence of jurisdiction or gross injustice—If ground of interference.

The Bihar Board of Revenue is always ready to interfere in cases where there is want of jurisdiction or where gross injustice has been done, even though the findings are findings of fact. (N F Peck.) BHOLA PRASAD v. LALDHARI KANDU. 7 B.R. 410=1941 P.W.N. 428.

The B. and O. Board of Revenue has very wide powers of review conferred upon it by S. 6 of the Bihar and Orissa Board of Revenue Act; they are not, however, powers which the Board will exercise lightly. Review by the Board as the highest Revenue Court should be granted only in exceptional cases where a serious error has been undoubtedly committed. The mere fact that one member of the Board might take a different view either of the law or of the facts if he heard the original application, is no sufficient reason for him to review the order of his predecessor. (Middleton.) SHYAM SUNDER KUER v. Dwarika Singh. 1941 P.W.N. 326.

-S 6-Review-Powers of Board of Revenuc-Grounds-Questions of fact

The powers of the Board of Revenue to review its orders are clear and unfettered, such powers being conferred on the Board by S. 6 of the Bihar and Orissa Board of Revenue Act. As a matter of practice, however, the Board would be reluctant to review its orders save in very exceptional circumstances, more so on questions of fact. The mere fact that one member of the Board might take a different view of the case, if he heard it originally, from that taken by his predecessor, is no ground whatever for review. (Middleton) RAM KESHWAR SINGH v. DEOKI SINGH. 1941 P.W N. 311=7 B.R.684.

BIHAR JAND ORISSA] CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT (VI OF 1935) S 4 (2) – Scope and effect—If retrospective—If revives liabilities or proceedings atready dead under old Act-Award under new Act after liability had ceased to exist before new Act-Validity.

S. 4 (2) of the Bihar and Orissa co-operative Societies Act is not retrospective in the sense that it revives liabilities and proceedings which have ceased to exist. It is a saving clause which can keep alive that which had life under the old Co-operative Societies Act of 1912, but cannot give life to something which was already dead or which had never existed at all under the old Act. Under S. 39 of the Co-operative Societies Act of 1912, the registration of a society was cancelled on 8-1-1932. After the Bihar Act (VI of 1935) came into force on 29-6-1935, the lignida or under S. 44 (3) of the new Act determined the amount due by a past member, and certificate proceedings were then started against that member-

Held. (1) that the member in question ceased to be a member on 8-1-1932 when the society ceased to exist and his liability for the debts of the society ceased on 7-1-1934 and for his own debts on 7-1-1935, in view of S 23 of the Act. Since he was neither a member nor a past member at the time the award was made against him, the award made against him must be held to be without jurisdiction; since no proceedings at all were started against him under the old Act, he had a right of immunity before the new Act came into force and nothing in the new Act could deprive him of that immunity. (Middleton.) DAMODAR THAKUR v. RAKTOO MAHTON, 7 B.R.

Ss. 7 (3) and 54-Order of apportionment -Right to object to-Debtor failing to prove that he has ceased to be member-Debtor shown to have applied to creditor for reduction of liability -Plea that nothing in due-Sustainability.

An apportionment order under S. 54 of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act is not one of the orders which under S. 7 (3) of the Act cannot be called in question on any ground except on that of want of jurisdiction. Where except on that of want of jurisdiction. the debtor against whom ment order is made is unal an apportionis made is unable to prove that he has ceased to be a member of the society and is shown to have applied to the society for reduction of his liability, he cannot object to the apportionment order and say that nothing was due from him. His liability is created by a bye-law having the force of law. (Middleton) RAJ KARAN SINGH v. JEHANABAD CENTRAL CO-OPERATIVE BANKING ASSOCIATION. 8 B.R. 642.

-S. 23—Scope—If refers to debts due by member to Society.

S 23 of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act merely deals with a liability of a past member for the debts of a society in winding up, and has no reference whatever to a debt of a member of a Society to the Society. (Wort, J.) BARHITOLA D. CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY v. SHAMBHU-NATH SINGH. 23 Pat. L.T. 104.

-S. 24-A—Scheme adopted and approved by Registrar-Effect-Decree obtained by creditor subsequent to scheme-Executability.

A composition arrived at in pursuance of the provisions of the Bihar Co-operative Societies Act does not stand on the same footing as a private agreement where pending a suit by a creditor against a Co-operative Society, a scheme of composition is adopted approved by the Registrar, that binds the plaintiff in the suit who is a party to the scheme. If he continues the suit and obtains a decree, the decree cannot be executed and the scheme can be pleaded in bar of execution. The creditor's remedy is to obtain satisfaction of the decree in the manner provided for in the scheme. (Rowland and Shearer, II.)

Ss. 32 and 44 (3) (c)—Jurisdiction of liquidator to determine liability or to enforce same after expiry of period of two years.

S. 32 of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act is not merely a time-limitation section, but is a clear statement that no liability exists after a period of two years from the date of a member's death. A liquidator has therefore no jurisdiction to determine the liability of a past member under S. 44 (3) (c) of the Act after the expiry of the time limit specified by S. 32 or to attempt to enforce that non-existent liability. (Middleton.) LIQUIDATOR, SISWAN CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY v. LACHO SINGH. 10 B.R. 546.

-S. 43—Jurisdiction of Registrar—Debt of past member to Society-Award-If invalid or without jurisdiction on ground of claim being barred by limitation or res judicata by reason of prior award.

The Registrar of Co-operative Societies has clearly no jurisdiction over a person who neither is nor has been a member of a Co-operative Society; but he has jurisdiction over a past member, under S. 43 of the Co-operative Societies Act. It cannot be said that his award is the award was a second award in respect of the same debt which was the subject-matter of a prior award. These points are clearly within the Registrar's jurisdiction and the fact that he falls into an error of law in deciding them does not make his award any the less valid. (Wort, I.)

B. AND O. CO OP SOCIETIES ACT (1985).

BARHITOLA D. CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY v. SHAM. BHUNATH SINGH. 23 Pat.L.T.104.

-S. 48—Award against estate of deceased

member-If nullity.

An award under the Co-operative Societies Act is not a decree, although it resembles a decree. Where an award is made against the estate of a deceased member of a Co-operative Society under S. 48 of the Act, it is not a nullity, because the Act makes definite provision for an award against the estate of a deceased member. Such an award cannot be held to be a nullity on the analogy of a decree against a dead man being a nullity. (Middleton.) RAMCHANDRA SINGH v. CENTRAL CO-OPFRATIVE BANK, NAWADA. 1941 P. W.N. 536=7 B R. 930.

-Ss. 48 (9) and 57 (3)—Scope—Award of Assistant Registrar not appealed from-Liability to be challenged in certificate proceedings in execution.

An award made by an Assistant Registrar which is not appealed from to the Registrar, becomes final under S. 48 (9) of the Bengal and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act; and under S. 57 (3) it is not liable to be challenged, set aside, modified, reversed or declared void in any Court upon merits or upon any ground whatsoever except want of jurisdiction. A certificate officer cannot therefore strike off execution proceedings taken out upon such an award on the mere ground that the certificate debtor had mortgaged his house as collateral security for a loan for a period of 12 years from 1939 and that therefore the certificate-holder could not have recourse to the certificate procedure simply because he could not get possession of the house. (Middleton.) BIHAR AND ORISSA POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS Co-operative Society, Ltd. v. Azharul Haque. 10 B.R. 41.

-S. 54-Order under-If part of award-Finality.

An order of apportionment by the Registrar under S 54 of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act is not part of award under S. 48, so as to clothe it with finality under S. 48 (9) of the Act. The two things are entirely different. The apportionment order under S. 54 is nowhere declared in the Act to be final and cannot therefore be regarded as final in the sense that it cannot be challenged in any Court. (Middleton.)
RAMAUTAR MAHTON v. CENTRAL CO-OPERATIVE BANK. 7 B.R. 686.

-Ss. 54 and 55-Relative scope and effect-Deceased member-Apportionment of estate-Award within two years of death-Requisition for certificate to enforce award made after two years-If barred.

S. 54 of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act only applies to sums recoverable from registered societies under S. 48 and other without jurisdiction merely on the ground that sections, but not to sums due to a society from the claim was barred by limitation or because its members. S. 54 is subject to S. 55 which is virtually a proviso to it. The effect of S. 55 is that the estate of a deceased member for the debts of a registered society as they existed on the death of the deceased would continue for a period of two years from such date. If an apportionment of the estate of the deceased member is made under S. 54 of the Act, his heirs are not liable for a longer period than two years from the date of his death. Where, though an award was made within two years of the death, the requisition for a certificate to enforce the award is not made within two years of the death, it is clearly barred by time. (Middleton.) RAMCHANDRA SINGH V. CENTRAL CO-OPERATIVE BANK, NAWADA. 1941 P.W.N. 536=7 B.R. 930.

B. AND O. CO-OP. SOCIETIES ACT (1935).

—S. 57 (2)—Applicability—"Touching the affairs of the society"—Award against member—Certificate for enforcement under Public Demands Recovery Act—Attachment of house—Objection to attachment overruled—Suit to restrain liquidator from selling and to raise attachment—Leave of Registrar—If condition precedent.

The realisation of a sum due to a Co-operative Society is an affair of the society, and unless such debt is realised "the affairs of the society cannot be wound up under S. 44 (7) of the Cooperative Societies Act. A dispute between the parties as to the manner of enforcement of payment, (a certificate having been obtained under the Public Demands Recovery Act for enforcing an award made by the Registrar) is a dispute touching the business of a society according to the Act. The Registrar of Co-operative Societies made an award against the plaintiff, who was a member of a Co-operative Society which went into liquidation, in respect of a sum of Rs. 1,200 and odd. To enforce the award the liquidator took proceedings under the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act for the realisation of the amount, and the certificate officer attached a house belonging to the plaintiff. The plaintiff's objection to the attachment based on various grounds was overruled and the plaintiff thereupon filed a suit to restrain the liquidator from selling the house and to obtain release of the house from attachment. Leave of the Registrar was not obtained and it was pleaded that therefore S. 57 (2) of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act was a bar to the maintainability of the suit.

Held, that the object of the suit was to prevent the liquidator who was proceeding as liquidator to realise the debt due to the society from realising the debt in question by sale of the house and therefore the suit must be held to be one on a matter touching the affairs of the society. The dispute being one touching the business of a registered society, it was a suit touching the affairs of the society and could not be instituted or proceeded with under S. 57 (2) of the Act except by leave of the Registrar. ## BIHAR COTTON CLOTH ETC. ORDER (1944).

The liquidator is empowered by S 44 (3) (a) of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act to take proceedings to execute an award issued by the Registrar against a member of the Co-operative Society in liquidation. If the member is aggrieved by the liquidator's action, he may apply to the Registrar to interfere with the liquidator's act under S. 56 or to grant leave for the institution of a suit under S. 57 (2) of the Act. A suit by him against the liquidator is not maintainable in the absence of the Registrar's sanction for its institution. (Agarwala, J.) LIQUIDATOR, NAWADAH BAZAR CO-OPERATIVE. SOCIETY v. Pending an appeal from a decree in a suit against a Co-operative Bank the Bank went into liquidation. The liquidator was made a party respondent on the application of the appellant who also applied to the Registrar of Co-operative Societies for leave to proceed with the appeal under S. 57 (2) of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act, but received no such leave.

Held, that the appeal was not maintainable and was therefore liable to be dismissed. (Manohar Lall and Sinha. JJ.) SHAMJI LIRE v. CENTRAL CO-OPERATIVE BANK, LTD. (1944) P.W.N. 172.

A wrong decision on a question of limitation may not amount to a defect of jurisdiction under S. 57 (3) of the Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act; but an order determining a liability after the expiry of two years from the death of a past member of a Society, when the Act says that there is no liability at all after the expiry of such period, is an order without jurisdiction and therefore it can be declared void and ignored. of one for act of another.

The phrase "under his control" in cl. 13 (1) (e) of the Bihar Cotton Cloth Control Order may be wider than the phrase "in his possession," but there are definite limits to the phrase "under his control," and it is clear that not everything found on premises belonging to a man is necessarily under his control. Nor can one co-proprietor be held liable for the act of another co-proprietor. (Beevor, J.) RAM NARAIN KEDIA v. EMPEROR. (1945) P.W.N. 383. A.I.R. 1946 Pat. 30. Cl. 8 of the Bihar Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers (Licensing and Control) Order, 1944, does not create an offence; it has to be read along with, and as supplemental to, the Cotton Cloth and Yarn Control Order of 1943 passed by the Central Government. A prosecution for an offence under S. 8 of the Provincial Order cannot be launched without the previous sanction of the Provincial Government. A conviction in a prosecution without such sanction is illegal. But a conviction under Cl. 3 of the Provincial Order for refusing to issue a cash memo, is not vitiated by the absence of sauction of the Provincial Government to the prosecution. The object of Cl. 8 of the Bihar Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers (Licensing and Control) Order (1944), is to make it clear that the mere issue of a licence is not intended to exempt the licensee from the operation of the Central Government's Cotton Cloth and Yarn Control Order (1943) and to make it clear that he is bound to keep his prices within the limits fixed by the Textile Commissioner. No prosecution for contravention of Cl. 8 of the Bihar Order of 1944 can be started without the sanction of the Provincial Government. (Agarwala and Mered th. Jf.) KAPILDEO PANDE v. Commissioner, on 16-1-1942 held that the rejection of the respondent's nomination paper was wrong, and held the election of the petitioner void as it had resulted from the improper rejection of the nomination paper of the respondent. Against this order, the petitioner moved the High Court, alleging that the respondent's remedy was not an election petition but a suit and that the election Commissioner had no jurisdiction to entertain the election petition.

Held. (1) that the difference in the description of the electoral circle as given in the nomination paper from what ought to have been given was so slight that it could not possibly have caused any confusion as to the identity of the electoral circle number and the rejection of the nomination paper by the returning officer was therefore wrong and improper; (2) that, by necessary intendment, the new rules must apply to those elections, in which the names of the successful candidates had not been published in the Gazette before 8-7-1939; (3) that the only right which a defeated candidate had was to have his dispute determined by an election tribunal, and it was only in the absence of an election tribunal having been set up by the Provincial Government that he would be forced to go to a Civil Court; (4) that it was an essential condition to the exercise of the rights which were the creation of statute that they should be determined in the manner prescribed in the Statute to which they owed their existence, and in such a case there was no ouster of the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts for they never had any; (5) that it was not for the petitioner, the successful candidate, to complain or to insist that his opponent, should have gone to a Civil Court and not to an election tribunal; and (6) that the District Judge, as election. Commissioner, had therefore full jurisdiction to entertain the election petition. (Manohar Lall, J., on difference of opinion between Meredith and Chatterji, JJ.) ABDUL RAZAK v. BIHAR AND ORISSA EXCISE ACT (II OF 1915), S. 19 (4)—Construction—"Any person or class of persons"—If mean public generally—Power of Local Government to enforce total prohibition under S. 19 (4).

The phrase "any person or class of persons in S. 19 (4) of the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act must be considered as a whole and should not be split up, so as to take the words "any person" separately as meaning every one in the province or in any particular part thereof. The phrase, taken as a whole and given its natural meaning means not the public-generally in the province or in any particular area therein, but means any person or class of persons designated by name or description. The words "any person" cannot mean any or all persons in the province or any part thereof. The Local Government under S. 19 (4) of the Act can prohibit by notification the possession of any intoxicant by any designated person or class of persons; the words of the sub-section are not wide enough to empower the Local Government by notification to prohibit the public generally from being in possession of intoxicants or any form thereof. S. 19 (4) is an exception to the other provisions of S. 19, and the powers contained therein are intended to meet special cases such as habitual drunkards addicts, classes of persons addicted to drink or drug or such like. It was never the intention of the Legislature to confer on the Provincial Government the power to enforce total prohibition of alcoholic liquor or intoxicating drugs throughout the province or in any particular district. The main object of the Act is to collect excise duties, though it undoubtedly contains provisions for the regulation and governance of the trade in intoxicants as well as imposition and collection of duties upon such intoxicants. But powers of regulation and governance of a trade do not, however, give the Provincial Government a right totally to prohibit all trade in intoxicants unless there are express words in the statute giving such a power. ——S. 19 (4) as amended in 1940—Notification under—Legality.

Notification N. 3914-L S.G. issued on November 18, 1940, by the Governor acting under S. 19 (4) of the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act as amended by the Bihar Excise (Amendment) Act, 1940, is legal and effective. The latter Act, in so far as it enables prohibition to be enforced in parts of the province is not ultra vires, the powers of the Provincial Legislature and the Governor who had before 1940 partial by proclamation issued under S. 93, Government of India Act, 1937, assumed all the powers vested in the Provincial Legislature. (Harries, C.J. and Fazl Ah, J.) Emperor v. Bhola Prasad. 21 Pat. 178=197 I.C. 618=8 B.R. 249=1942 P.W. N. 47=43 Cr.L.J. 220=14 R.P. 359=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 34=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 351.

There is no reason why in theory or principle an Excise Act should not have a double object, the benefit of the revenue and the improvement of the public health or morals by a greater control of the liquor trade, and there is nothing in the Bihar Excise Act of 1915 which leads to the inference that the Legislature did not intend to deal with the question of Prohibition in the excise legislation. On the other hand, the language of the Act leads to a different inference altogether. (Gwyer, C.J., Varadachariar and Zafrulla Khan JJ.) Bhola Prasad v. Bihar Excise Amendment Act VII, of 1940 is ultra vires, provincial Government in so far as it dealt with dangerous drugs, and hence the Excise Act of 1915 still remained unaffected by the Amendment Act. Hence the possession by a person of ganja weighing three annas on 31-10-1941, cannot be held to be an offence in as much as the notification of the Bihar Government dated 30—12—1940 purporting to apply to all perons in a particular area is ultra vires, while "any person" in S. 19 (4) of the original Act of 1915 would mean only any designed person. The plaintiff who had obtained a license from the Government for two excise shops entered into an arrangement with the defendants under which the latter were put in charge of the shops on condition that they would pay to the plaintiff the advance license fee which he had paid to Government, the value of the stock on hand and also a profit of Rs. 35 per month. The defendants were also put in charge of the furniture of the shops which the defendants were to hand over to the plaintiff at the end of the year. The defendants conducted the shop till the end of the year, but did not pay the plaintiff his dues. The plaintiff therefore brought a suit for recovery of the amount of advance, the value of the stock and the amount of profit for one year at the rate of Rs. 35 per month. In the alternative he claimed an account from the defendants.

Held, (1) that the arrangement amounted to a transfer and perhaps also to a sub-lease and was therefore void under R. 143 of the rules framed under S. 89 of the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act; (2) that the transfer amounted to an offence punishable under S. 57 of the Act; (3) that the plaintiff could not therefore recover the dues on the basis of the void agreement; (4) that S. 65 of the Contract Act did not apply and the plaintiff was not entitled to recover from the defendants even the advance money and the value of of the stock the benefit of which they had received, as the Court would not aid persons in enforcing the performance of an illegal contract or assist them to recover property given under such an illegal contract when they are themselves in pari delicto in procuring that illegally. BIHAR EXCISE (AMENDMENT) ACT (VIII OF 1940)—If uitra vires—Government of India Act, Ss, 100, 108 and 297 (1).

The Bihar Excise (Amendment) Act of 1940, in so far as it enables partial prohibition to be enforced in parts of the province, is not ultra vires the powers of the Provincial Legislature and the Governor who had before 1940 by proclamation issued under S. 93, Government of India Act, 1935, assumed all the powers vested in the Provincial Legislature. S. 100 and Art. 31, List II of of Sch. VII Government of India Act give Provincial Legislatures power to legislate with respect to the production, manufacture, possession etc., of intoxicating liquors. The power is not confined to merely the regulation or restriction of such manufacture, production or possession etc. It is impossible to say that prohibiting possession of certain forms of intaxicating liquor in specified areas is anything more than legislation with respect to possession or transport of such intoxicating liquor in such areas. The Bihar Excise (Amendment) Act of 1940 is not invalid for want of the Governor-General's sanction to its introduction or enactment, owing to the provisions of S. 108 (2) (b) of the Government of India Act. This section merely limits the power of Provincial Legislatures to repeal or amend Governor-General's Acts or Ordinances enacted or promulgated under Ss. 42 to 44 of the Government of India Act. The Bihar and Orissa Excise Act of 1915 which was amended was in no sense a Governor-General's Act or even an Act of the Governor-Goneral in Council. It was an Act of the Bihar Legislative authority which at that time required the assent of the Governor-General for its validity under S. 5 India Councils Act. Even if the prohibition of export from the province or the import into the province of intoxicating liquors is one of the objects of the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act, 1915 as amended, it does not become invalid by reason of anything contained in S. 297 (1), Government of India Act. This section does not deal with intoxicating liquors but merely limits the power of the Provincial Legislature to legislate with respect to trade and commerce within the province and with respect to the production, supply and distribution of commodities. Intoxicating liquors are not included in the general terms "trade or commerce" or "producution, supply and distribution of commodities". In any event, the amending Act of 1940, in so far as it enables partial prohibition to be introduced, does not restrict legitimate import into, or export, from the province, and, therefore, cannot infringe upon the provisions of S. 297 (1), Government of India Act even if they applied to liquor. S. 11 of the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act as amended by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937 strongly suggest that S. 297 (1), Government of India Act was never intended to apply to dangerous articles such as intoxicating liquors or narcotic or dangerous drugs. (Harries, C. J. and Farl Ali J.) EMPEROR v. BHOLA PRASAD. 21 Pat. 178=197 I.C 618=8 B.R. 249=1942 P.W.N. 47 =43Cr. L.J. 220=14 R.P. 359=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 34=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 351.

Ss. 108 and 297 (1); List II Entry No. 31.

The Bihar Excise (Amendment) Act, 1940, which amended S. 19 (4) of the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act, 1915, was a valid Act and was within the powers conferred upon the Provincial Legislature by S. 100 (3) of the Government of India Act and entry No. 31 of the Provincial Legis-lative List A power to legislate "with respect to intoxicating liquors" would, unless the meaning of the words used is restricted or controlled by the context or other provisions of the Act, include the power to prohibit intoxicating liquors throughout the Province or in any specified part of the Province. The words "that is to say, the production, magnufacture, possession, transport, purchase and sale of intoxicating liquors, opium and other narcotic drugs" which follows "intoxicating liquors and narcotic drugs" in Entry No. 31 of the Provincial Legislative List, are explanatory of illustrative words and not words either of amplification or limitation. These words are apt to cover the whole field of possible legisla-tion the subject including the power to prohibit. The Amending Act of 1940 does not contravene the provisions of S. 297 (1) (a) of the Government of India Act, which refers only to legislation with respect to entry No. 27 and entry No. 29 in the Provincial Legislative List and has no application in respect to anything in entry No. 31. The Bihar and Orissa Excise Act of 1915 is not a Governor-General's Act within the meaning of BIHAR AND ORISSA FOOD AND DRUGS ADULTERATION ACT (II OF 1919), S. 3 (1)-Exemption from liability-Right to claim-Absence of labels on un-opened tins—Effect— S. 14.

In the case of a prosecution under S. 3 (1) of the Bihar and Orissa Food and Drugs Adulteration Act, the only exception which can be availed of in order to escape liability is contained in S. 14 of the Act. But in the absence of anything to indicate that the un-opened tins were labelled S. 14 cannot apply and there can be no exemption from liability. (Varma, J.) RAMCHAND RAM v. -S. 3 (1)—Master's liability for servant's act -Partnership-Servant of firm selling adulte-rated ghee-Liability of partner.

Although in certain set of circumstances, chiefly in the case of licensees, a master is liable for the act of his servant, on the theory that the master has control over the acts of his servant, where a firm consists of several partners, and a servant of the firm sells ghee which is not genuine, it cannot be held that a partner who does not sit in the shop and actually carry on the business, is guilty of an offence under S. 3 (1) of the B. and O. Act II of 1919, and liable to conviction under it even on the theory that a partner is an agent for the other partners. (Varma, J) RAMCHAND RAM v. GAYA MUNICIPALITY. 1945 P.W.N. 26=26 P.L. BIHAR HOUSE RENT CONTROL ORDER (1942), S. 12 — Applicability — "Tenant" — Person whose tenancy had been determined and against whom decree in electment had been passed before order came into operation—If "tenant."

The word "tenant" in S. 13 of the Bihar House

Rent Control Order, must be confined to persons who are either tenants under a tenancy agreement or are statutory tenants by reason of the provisions contained in S. 4 or S. 12 of the order itself. A person whose tenancy had not only been terminated before the coming into operation of the order but against whom a decree in ejectment had been passed cannot be held to be a "tenant." It is impossible to say that an ex-tenant against whom a decree in ejectment has been passed can still be regarded as a tenant within the meaning of S. 13 of the Bihar House Rent Control Order. ness premises instituted before Amendment—If affected -Right of action-If taken away-Order, if remedial piece of legislation.

The question whether a statute, be it a remedial statute or not, operates retrospectively is a matter which must be determined by the language used by the Legislature. There is nothing in the Bihar House Rent Control Order as amended in 1943, leading or tending to lead to the conclusion that it was the intention of the Legislature to take away from a plaintiff a right of action which had already accrued to him and on which he had instituted a suit before the Order was amended so as to apply to business premises.

Quarre: Whether the Bihar House Rent Control Order can, properly speaking, be described as a remedial statute. (Varma and Shearer, IJ.) MATRU-MALL SATNARAIN v. MT. RAMI. 24 Pat. 454=A. IR. 1945 Pat. 463.

A person whose tenancy by agreement had been terminated by a valid notice to quit, who had in spite of that notice declined to vacate the premises and against whom in consequence a suit in ejectment had been instituted is not a "tenant" within the meaning of that word as it occurs in S. 13 of the Bihar House Rent Control Order, as amended in 1943. BIHAR [& ORISSA] LAND REGISTRATION ACT (VII OF 1876) S. 55—Rival claims by reversioner of last male holder and by person claiming to be adopted son and legatee under unprobated will-Possession not satisfactorily proved by either-Procedure.

Where on the death of a Hindu widow, claims are made in Land Registration proceedings by a reversioner of the widow's husband and by a person claiming to be an adopted son and a legatee under an unprobated will, and neither party satisfactorily proves possession, it will be open to the Collector to record the name of the reversioner who has a better title than the person claiming under an unprobated will. The right of the reversioner to possession may be summarily determined under S. 55 of the Land Registration Act and possession delivered to him. (Middleton.) DOLDAR NARAIN SINGH v. The mandatory provisions of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act must apply even to certificates under the Local Fund Audit Act. The Local Fund Audit Act cannot override the mandatory provisions of the Public Demands Recovery Act. If the Legislature had intended that orders under S. 11 of the Local Fund Audit Act should be final and conclusive, they could easily have said so. Where in respect of a surcharge order under the Local Fund Audit Act after an appeal under S. 11 of the Act is ejected, a certificate under the Public Demand Recovery Act is requisitioned and the debtor files objections under S.9 of the latter Act -Section if applicable to claims on those hands BIHAR AND ORISSA MINING SETTLE. MENT ACT(IV OF 1920), S. 25 (1) (x)—Byelaws—Construction—"Nuisance"—Meaning of.

A Mines Board of Health constituted for a Mining Settlement area under the Bihar and Orissa Mining Settlement Act framed among others, two bye-laws, one of which defined "nuisance" as including "any act. omission, place or thing which in the opinion of the Medical Officer of Health is injurious to the public health." The second bye-law provided that "No person shall commit a nuisance, or allow a nuisance to continue on his premises.

Held, that though the definition of "nuisance" in the first bye-law was unreasonable in so far as it makes the Medical Officer of Health the sole judge of nuisance and left no option to the Court but blindly to act upon his opinion, since the definition was not exhaustive, the Court must in each case find out whether there has been any nuisance affecting the public health; (2) that in the second by e-law, the word "nuisance" must be taken to mean nuisance affecting the public health. BIHAR MONEY-LENDERS' ACT (III OF 1938)-Applicability - Mortgage suit - Puisne Mortgagee money-lender impleaded as defendant

-Right to claim benefit of Act.

The Bihar Money-Lenders' Act is intended to give relief to needy debtors as against moneylenders. Where puisne mortgagees who are themselves money-lenders are impleaded as defendants in a mortgage suit on the first mortgage, and a decree is passed, though the Puisne mortgagees are judgment-debtors, they connot claim the benefit of the Act as they are themselves moneylenders. Where by an arrangement between two co-sharers a common partwari should divide the collections from the tenants half and half and send to each his share, but the patwari instead makes over the entire amount to one of them, the latter is liable to pay the share of the other not as a loan but on account of the fact that he has received the money from the patwari on trust for or for the use of the other. The provisions of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act have, therefore, no application to such a case. (Harries, C.J.t, and Manohar Lall, J.) ADIT NARAYAN SINGH v. -S. 7:-Grant of relief to enforce earlier bonds

BIHAR MONEY-LENDER'S ACT, (III OF 1938), BIHAR MONEY LENDER'S ACT (III OF 1938)

Where the plaintiff is granted a relief to enforce the earlier bonds also and in fact the Court passes a decree to enforce the earlier bonds as a part of the relief given to the plaintiff to enforce the mortgage bond in suit, S.7 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act is equally applicable to the claims on the earlier bonds. (Harries, C.J., and Manohar Lall, J.) Tika Sao v. Hari Lal. 195 I C. 428=7 B.R. 924=14 R.P. 122=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 276.

-S. 7—Construction—Amount of Loan—Meaning of-Bond for past liability-Amount of loan-What is. From the concluding portion of S. 7 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, it is clear that two classes of cases are contemplated: (1) loan advanced and (2) loan based on a document. The section in not meant to limit the amount of in-terest in all cases to the "amount of loan adva-nced." The words "the loan" in the passage "if the loan is based on a document," mean the loan in respect of which the suit is brought, and must, when taken with the definition in S. 2 (5) be held to include a bond executed for past liability, which liability may be in respect of principal as well as interest. In the case of such a bond the amount for which it is executed, is "the amount of loan" within the meaning of S. 7. Although the expression "the amount of loan mentioned in or evidenced by such document." may suggest that to determine the amount of loan one must go behind the document, it could never have been the intention of the legislature, while enacting S 7 to override the provisions of the Contract Act or the Evidence Act. -8.12-Discretion-Order refusing to fix smaller number of instalments-Interference in revision.

The Court under S. 12 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act of 1938 has a discretion in fixing the number and amount of the instalments, having regard to the interests of the judgment-debtor and the decree-holders and other matters such as the amount of the decree and the number of years it would take for the decree to be satisfied. Where the lower Court after taking these matters into consideration refuses to fix a smaller number of instalments, it cannot be said that the Court has failed to exercise the discretion which the Act confers on it, and the order cannot therefore be interfered with in revision. - Ss. 13 and 14-Order for sale without fresh proclamation—Jurisdiction of Court—Waiver of fresh proclamation before application under S. 13 Effect of.

S. 14 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act makes it clear that after the property has been valued or such portion of it as is sufficient to satisfy the decree, a sale proclamation of the actual property to be sold must be drawn up, and in it must be stated the value of the property as determined by the Court under S. 13. The waiver of a fresh sale proclamation in the earlier stages of the case before an application under S. 13 was made, cannot possibly be construed as a waiver of an entirely new sale proclamation which S. 14 requires. The Court has no right or jurisdiction what so ever to direct an immediate sale without first directing the issue of a fresh sale proclamation containing the matters set out in S. 14 of the Act. (Harries, C.J, and Manohar Lall, J.) GUNJARI MAHATANI v. NIL KAMAL PANDE, 193 I.C. 176= 7 B.R. 590=13 R.P. 556=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 418. S.13-Valuation of property without notice to judgment-debtor-Right of latter to ask for fresh valuation. Under S. 13 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, a notice expressly stating that the Court would value the property must be given to both the parties. If a valuation takes place without a notice served on the judgment-debtor, the latter is entitled to ask the Court to value the property afresh. (Harries C.J., and Dhavle, J.) MEHI SAHU v. -S. 15-Construction and scope-Holding in possession of usufructuary mortgagee—If wholly liable to be sold in execution of decree.

Under S. 15 of Bihar Money-Lenders Act, the exemption from execution sales is not confined to land in the possession of the judgment-debtor. The section cannot be taken to be excluding land which has been parted with by the judgmentdebtor to a sudbharnadar (usufructuary mort-gagee). S. 15 does not speak of land in the BIHAR MONEY-LENDERS ETC., ACC, (1939).

possession of the judgment-debtor. It exempts from sale one acre of the land comprised in the holding. It cannot be held that because a holding is in the possession not of the judgment-debtor but of his sudbharnadar the whole of it can be brought to sale in executing of a decree. (Dhavle, J.) -S, 2 (f)—Applicability—Loan—Security bond in respect of future and contingent liability-If mortgage to secure loan.

A mortgage created by a security bond when there has been no advance of any kind to the executant is not a mortgage to secure a loan as defined by the Bihar Money-Lenders Act. A bond bearing interest in respect of a future and contingent liability does not fall under S. 2(f) of the Act. (Harries C.J., and Manohar Lall, J.) BHULAN PRASAD SINGH v. -S. 3-Government notification dated 19th July, 1939-'Year'-Meaning of.

The word 'year' in the notification dated 19th July, 1939, issued by the Provincial Government under S. 3 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, should be taken in its ordinary connotation to be the period from 1st January to the following 31st December. (Agarwala, J.) AJIT KUMAR MAITRA v. joy Narayan Agarwalla. 199 I.C. 86=23 P.L.T. 760=8 B.R. 493=14 R.P. 531=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 186=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 443.

-S. 4—Applicability—Considerations.

In order to apply S. 4 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, 1939, what is to be seen is whether the plaintiff is registered and if he is not registered whether he is entitled to the benefit of the notification issued by Provincial Government by reason of his total advances in the course of a year being not exceeding Rs. 500. It is immaterial that sometime during the year his advances were less than that amount. (Agarwala, J.) AJIT KUMAR MAITRA v. JOY NARAYAN AGARWALLA 199 I.C. 86=23 P.L.T. 760=8 B.R. 493=14 R.P. 531=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 186=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 443.

S. 4 — Applicability—Notification — Scope and object of—"Year"—Meaning.

BIHAR MONEY-LENDERS ETC., ACT, (1989).

By a notification issued on 19th July 1939 the Local Government exempted from the operation of S. 4 of the Act persons who in the course of a year have not advanced more than Rs. 500. The reason for the exemption as stated in the notification itself, was to avoid the necessity for the registration of persons who merely made casual advances to friends and so on, provided that the transactions of this nature did not exceed Rs. 500 in any one year. That was the test prescribed by the Local Government for the purpose of deciding whether a person should be exempted from registration. Ordinarily year means a period from 1st January to the following 31st December and there is no reason why in deciding whe ther a person is of that class to which the notification was intended to apply, this definition of year which is given in the General clauses Act, should not be enforced. In this view of the matter, a person who has advanced more than Rs. 500 during the period between January to December, 1939, is not exempt from registration although the amount advanced by him after the date when the Act came into force, that is to say, after 3rd May 1939, is less than Rs. 500. (Agarwala, I.) RAI SHYAM BAHADUR v. RAMESHWAR PRASAD. 203 I.C. 95=9 B.R. 59=15 R.P. 156=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 441.

-S. 4-1f ultra vires.

The Bihar Money-lenders Act of 1939 deals with money-lending generally and it is only in particular cases that it touches the question of money-lending transactions evidenced by the Nogotiable Instruments Act. S. 4 of the Act is therefore, not ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature on the pith and substance rule. (Agarwala, J.) AJIT KUMAR MAITRA v. JOYNARAYON AGAR-WALLA. 199 I.C. 86=23 P.L.T. 750=8 B.R. 493 =14 R.P. 531=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 186=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 443.

-Ss. 6 and 8—Compound interest on loan advance ed before Act-Power of Court to relieve-Discretion-Exercise of.

The Bihar Money-Lenders Act prohibits compound interest only on loans advanced after the commencement of the Act. There is no such prohibition with regard to loans advanced before the commencement of the Act. But S. 8 of the Act gives a discretion to the Court in the case of a loan advanced before the Act, to re-open the transaction and take an account and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of interest in excess of the rates specified in the section. The section, however, does not lay down any conditions under which the Court may exercise its powers; it gives a wide discretion. But this discretion cannot be exercised arbitrarily. S.7-"Amount of loan mentioned in or evidenced by such document"—Meaning.

S. 7 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act of 1939 is to be read with reference to the definition of "loan" in S. 2 (f) of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, 1938. Loan includes a transaction on a bond bearing interest executed in respect of past liability. The effect of S.7 is that the moneylender cannot get a decree for more interest than the amount of loan mentioned in the bond. under S. 8 (b), the Court has power subject to proviso (1) to re-open the account notwithstanding the bond which is an agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation. In a suit on a mortgage bond executed by the father and manager of a Hindu joint family, a finding that out of the sum due under the bond only a portion of it is binding on the joint family, does not imply that as between the lender and the borrower there was not a valid contract of loan under which the whole amount could be re-covered from the borrower by having recourse to his separate properties and from his share of the joint family property, it being found as a fact that the whole amount stated in the bond was really advanced. The other members of the family who impeach the validity and binding character of the transaction as against the family are no doubt entitled to rely on the rules of Hindu Law and to limit their liability to the binding portion of the debt; but on that portion interest will be calculated in accordance with the terms of the contract, except when the Court finds reason to reduce the contract rate. If and so far as the other members claim the benefit of S 7 of the Money lenders Act of 1939, the limitation on the amount of interest can only be imposed in terms of the section and not by reading into it any rule derived from the personal law of the parties. In determining the fiability of the other members for interest under S. 7 of the Act, therefore, the maximum payable up to the date of the institution of the suit cannot be held to be the amount held to be the debt binding on the joint family out of the amount borrowed under the hond, but it must be held to be the amount found to have been actually advanced. Where the defendants, the mortgagor, his sons and grandsons are sued as representing one family, and there is one debt for which the claim is brought there is no question of distinct and separate interests of the various defendants. Where the amount has been advanced to the father alone but is effective for creating a charge against the whole family in respect of a part of the amount only, the words "the amount of the loan advanced," or "the amount of the loan men-tioned in such document," must obviously mean the whole amount which passed, as that was the loan. The fact that a part of it is not effective loan. The fact that a part of it is not effective to create a charge on the family property is a different matter. (Gwyer, C.J. ____S 7_Mortgage suit—pendente lite interest _Power of Court to refuse—C. P. Code, O 34. Rr. 2 4, and 11.

S. 7 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act does not deal with the interest payable after the date of the mortgage suit. Pendente lite interest is governed by O. 34, R. 4, C. P. Code. Under that rule read with O. 34, R. 2, the Court in passing a preliminary decree is bound to grant interest up to the date of such decree O. 34, R. 11 does not affect the Court's power to allow pendente lite interest under O. 34, R. 2. Under that rule the Court has a discretion in the matter of awarding pendente lite interest but has no power refuse such interest altogether. (Harries, C.J. and Chatterji. I) SUKHRAJ RAI v. S. 7—Scope—Mandatory nature of.

S. 7 of the Bihar Money Landers Act is mandatory. It debars the Court absolutely from making a decree for an amount of interest for the period preceding the the institution of the suit which to gether with the interest already paid would amount to more than the loan advanced or if the loan is based on a document, the amount of the loan mentioned in or evidenced by such document. -Ss. 7 and 8—Scope—If override Ss. 32 and 77 Negotiable Instruments Act-Rights of holders in due course-if affected.

The Bihar Money Lenders Act as a whole was within the competence of the Provincial Legislature and is not therefore invalid. Although nothing in the Act can override the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act so far as the latter relates to rights and liabilities independent of contract, provisions in the Money Lenders Act affecting contractual rights will override such provisions of the negotiable instrument act as also deal with contractual rights. That Part of the Negotiable Instruments Act which can be affected is the part dealing with rights and liabilities as between parties in immediate relation. ship. Therefore where the suit is between the parties in immediate contractual relationship, the provisions of Ss. 7 and 8 of the Bihar Act VII of 1939 will override those of Ss. 32 and 79 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. -S. 8-Applicability-"Loan"-Procedure. S. 8 of the Bihar Money Lenders Act applies only in the case of suits brought by a money lender in respect of a loan advanced by him before the commencement of this Act The word "loan" must be taken to be the original loan and not the final transaction; and the proper course in apply. ing the section is to take the amount of the original loan advanced, calculate interest on that sum up to the date of suit and give a decree for the amount left unpaid as so ascertained, if anything is still found due. If on making this calculation, it is found that the interest already paid exceeds the interest so calculated, the creditor connot be called to repay the amount so paid in excess, nor can the amount of the principal of the loan be reduced; in other words, the decree must in any event include the principal sum unless it is found that anything has already been repaid towards the principal. Having applied S. 8 in this way, if the Court considers that it should be applied, the Court has then to consider whether any further reduction is necessary under S 7 of the Act. -S. 8—Premissive not mandatory—Discretion and duty of Court.

S. 8 of Bihar Act (VII of 1939) is permissive and not mandatory. Before applying it the Court should first consider whether the circumstances of the case are such as to justify its application and should give reasons for applying the section. It should not be applied arbitrarily and need not be applied at all. (Chatterji, Meredith and Sinha, JJ.) DEONANDAN PRASAD SINGH v. -S. 8-Re-opening of loan transactions-Principles.

Where in the case of a loan transaction the greater portion of the indebtedness is interest which has been bearing interest on itself the Courts will re-open the transaction and reduce the rate of interest. But where the transaction is not one in place of earlier indebtedness consisting largely of interest, the Court will not generally re-open the transaction. (Harries, C.J. and Fazi Ali, J.) the extent of that excess in spite of clauses (a) and (b) of S. 8. In the case of payments made before the Act where the creditor was entitled to charge interest at the rate specified in the bond, if on calculation the interest due to him be found to be in excess of what was paid to him actually, the creditor could appropriate those payments towards interest under the law. After the appropriation had been made the amounts so appropriated cannot be used to reduce the principal under S. 9, according to the proviso to S. 8 of the Act. (Harries, C.J. and Fazl Ali, J.) -S. 13—Applicability—Decree in suit on promissory note—Execution—Valuation of property—Power of Court to fix.

There is no foundation for the view that the valuation of property provided for by Sec. 13 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act cannot be fixed in execution cases relating to decrees upon promissory notes. S. 13 has nothing to do with promissory notes. It relates to procedure in execution only. (Chatterji, Meredith and Sinha JJ.) Deonandan Prasad Singh v. -S. 11—Applicability—Decree in suit on promissory note-Instalments-Power of Court to allow.

The Bihar Money Lenders Act as a whole, is a valid legislation and the fact that a suit is upon a promissory note is no reason for not applying the provisions of the Act which do not conflict with those of the Negotiable Instruments Act. Allowing instalments under S. 11 of the Bihar Act would not prevent the holder of a promissory note from recovering the full sum due under its terms, in execution of his decree, if the decree so provides, S. 11 deals merely with procedure in execution. It does not enable the Court to go behind the promiscory note or to scale down the decree passed in a suit on a promissory note. S. 11 can therefore be applied even in cases of decrees in suits on promissory notes. (Chatterji, Meredith and Sinha, JJ.) DEONANDAN PRASAD SINGH v. -S 11-Applicability-Decree on basis of promissory note passed before Act-Application under S. 11 for instalment- Dismissal on ground that Act does not apply to suit on promissory note —Propriety.

BIHAR MONEY LENDERS ETO. ACT, (1939),

Where a decree had been passed on the basis of a promissory note before the enactment of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, an application by the judgment-debtor under S. 11 of the Act for instalments cannot be dismissed on the ground that the Act does not apply to a suit on a promissory note. The liability on the promissory note had become merged in the decree debt on the passing of the decree before the act and the Court should therefore consider whether the case is one in which it should exercise its powers under S. 11 of the Act. -S. 11 - Discretion - Judgment-debtor voluntarily fixing date and amount of payment-

Interference by Court.

When the judgment-debtor has himself by voluntary agreement fixed the date and the amount which he can pay, the Court does not exercise a wise discretion in interfering with the arrangements made by the parties. Where a judgment-debtor whose property bas been attached transfers the property by way of gift to another, and the donee is made a party judgment-debtor in execution proceedings, and at the instance of the donee an order for payment by instalments is made under S. 11 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act of 1938, the decreeholder cannot in revision raise the objection that the order fixing instalments is without jurisdiction on the ground that the donee had no locus standi to apply under S. 11, not being a judgment debtor. The decree-holder having failed to raise the plea that the donee was not a judgmentdebtor in the Court of first instance, cannot be permitted to raise the plea in revision in the face of the order making the donce a judgment-debtor. That order too could not be attacked in revision as the proper time to raise such a question was the time when that order was passed. It would be too late to re-open that question in revision. (Rowland, J.) SUKH DAYAL V. PAWAN JAI KUMAR JAIN. 1941 P.W.N. 507=8 B.R. 439=198 I.C. 656=14 R.P. 481=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 35.

-S. 13—Applicability and scope—Decree on promissory note — Valuation—If mandatory— Duty of Court to fix value of proberty before sale — Application by judgment-debtor to fix valuation on date of sale—Dismissal—If justified —Revision—Interference by High Court.

There is no foundation for the view that valuation of the property as required by S. 13 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act cannot be fixed in execution cases arising from decrees on promissory notes. The section does not deal at all with promissory notes. Therefore even in the case of execution of a decree on a promissory note the execution Court is bound to make valuation of the property under S. 13, which is mandatory. If it does not determine the valuation, it fails to exercise a jurisdiction under S. 13, and its order is liable to be set aside in revision by the High Court. The Court is not justified to refuse an application by the judgment-debtor for valuation on the ground that the application was delayed and made only of the date of sale. S. 13 imposes a duty on the Court and the duty must be carried out before the sale is held. There can be no question of the judgment-debtor waiving be no described of the Judgment-declor warning his rights by refraining from making an application. (Meredith, J.) LAL BAHADUR SINGH v. BISHWANATH PRASAD SINGH. 198 I.C. 204—8 B.R. 335—1942 P.W N. 28—14 R.P. 412—23 P.L.T. 14—A.I. R. 1942 Pat. 237.

-Ss. 13 and 14-Construction-Order determining value of property to be sold in execution— No second appeal—C. P. Code, S. 47.

No second appeal lies against an order passed by the executing Court under S. 13 (1) of the Bihar Money-lenders Act (VII of 1939) determining the value of the property to be sold in execution of a decree. It is clear that the legislature has provided for only one appeal from BIHAR MONEY-LENDERS ETC., ACT, (1989).

such orders and such orders are not intended to have the force of "decree." Ss. 13 and 14 of the Act cannot be construed so as to make the valuation determined by the executing Court amount to an order conclusively determining any of the rights of the parties so as to attract the provisions of S. 47, C. P. Code, read with S. 2 (2) C. P. Code. The question of valuation is essentially one of fact and not of law. (Varma and Sinha, JI.) Kedar Nath v. Banwari Rai, 23 Pat. 427-219 I.C. 96=11B.R. 344=(1944) P.W.N 177=A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 292.

Once the executing Court has applied S. 13 of the Bihar Money lenders (Regulation of Transaction) Act, it acts without jurisdiction if it fails to act in accordance with S. 14 and to issue a fresh proclamation as required by that section. But although the decree under execution may be a decree passed in respect of a loan, a Court does not act without jurisdiction in proceeding under O. 21. R. 66, C. P. Code, if its attention is not drawn to the special nature of the decree requiring a special procedure before the sale took place. In such a case an applica-tion under O. 21, R. 90, C. P. Code, to set aside, the sale may also be barred by the proviso to O. 21, R. 90, as amended by the Patna High Court. Where a judgment-debtor, having a right to demand that the execution procedure should be according to the Money-lenders Act, accepts a sale proclamation made under O. 21, R, 66. C. P. Code, to be a valid one he must be deemed to waive his right; and he cannot afterwards be allowed to re-open and re-agitate the same objection and urge it as a ground for setting aside the sale under O. 21, R. 90. sale void or a nullity.

Under S. 13 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act of 1937, the Court is not entitled to hold a sale without previously valueing the property. But non-compliance with this provision, though it would be a ground for setting aside the sale, does not render the sale void or a nullity. In other words the sale is only voidable. There is nothing in S. 13 to warrant the Court in holding that failure to value the property goes to the root of the Court's jurisdiction to hold the sale so as to make it a complete nullity. -S. 13 — Valuation — Onus — Judgmentdebtor applying for re-valuation—Duty of— Valuation based on cess-re-valuation papers of 12 or 14 years ago—Sustainability.

Where a judgment-debtor comes forward and asks for a fresh valuation on the ground that he has had no notice of the prior ex parte valuation. it is for him to show that the valuation already made is wrong and to produce the necessary papers showing the correct annual income. relies on cess revaluation papers which it is open to him to do, it is plainly incumbent on him to show to the satisfaction of the Court how the figures in these papers had been modified by recent proceedings. It is not proper for the Court to fix the value on the cess revaluation papers of twelve or fourteen years ago minus a ten per cent. reduction, especially when owing to agrarian troubles including commutation and rent reduction, the income of the Zamindars have been reduced by thirty to forty per cent. and more. The onus is on judgment-debtor who has obtained an order regarding instalments on certain representations regarding the income to show that they are not inconsistent with any representations since made by him or to explain away the inconsistencies to the satisfaction of the Court. -Ss 13 and 14-Valuation of property-Duty of Court.

Before a sale to which the Bihar Money-Lenders Act applies, can take place, valuation of the property must be made in accordance with the provisions of S. 13 of that Act. If such valuation be not made, it is impossible to comply with the provisions of S. 14 of the Act. (Harries. C. J. and Manohar Lall. J.) BRIERAJ KUMARI V. S. 14—Sale bad under—Application by judament-debtor to set aside—If barred by failure to appeal from order accepting bid and recording part-satisfaction—res judicata.

If a sale is bad under S. 14 of the Bihar Money Lenders Act it is open to the judgment-debtor to ask the Court by means of a regular petition to hold that the sale was not binding on the parties. The fact that the property was sold for a smaller amount than that mentioned in the for a smaller amount than that mentioned in the sale proclamation as the value the property, and the judgment-debtor has not preferred an appeal from the order accepting the bid and recording partial satisfaction of the decree does not pre-clude him from doing so. The principle of constructive res judicata has no application in the circumstances of the case. (Fagl Ali, C.J. and Chatterji. I.) JAISRI STINGH V. S. 15—Applicability—"Holding" "Raiyat" Meaning of—If same as in Bihar Tenancy Act. Q.D.—28

B. & O. MUNICIPAL ACT, (VII OF 1922).

There is no reason which compels a Court to apply the definition of "holding" and of "raiyat" given in the Bihar Tenancy Act to the words "holding" and "raiyat" used in the Bihar Money Lenders Act. Once it is conceded that the land held by a judgment-debtor is exclusively his, and can be sold to satisfy his debts, though it may not be a "holding" as defined by the Bihar Tenancy Act, it is clear that the land is held by him or his "holding" for purposes of the Money-Lenders Act. Similarly the word "raiyat" in the Money-Lenders Act has a wider meaning than that given to it under the Tenancy Act and denotes actual cultivators or agriculturists as opposed to zamindars, tenure-holders, ijardars, etc. The land held by the judgment-debtor formed part of a larger area held by a number of cosharers; the co-sharers divided the land amongst themselves without taking the necessary steps to create vis-a-vis the landlord distinct tenancies to each portion so divided. But it was held exclusively by each co-sharer.

Held, that for the purposes of S. 15, the judgment-debtor was a raivat cultivating a holding. (Harries, C. J. and Dharle. J.) RAMAPRASAD SINGH v. SAJAN MAHTO. 21 Pat. 357=204 I C. 399=15 R.P. 216=9 B.R. 143=A.I.R. 1943 Pat.

-S. 15-Applicability-Mortgage decree.

A final mortgage decree for sale is not a decree for payment of money but it is a decree for the sale of specific property. There being no reference to such a decree in S. 15 of the Bihar ence to such a decree in S. 15 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, 1939, it cannot be held that the intention of the Legislature was that even when there was a mortgage decree for the sale of the property, an agricultural debtor was entitled to claim exemption under the provisions of the Act. Under the ordinary law, a mortgagee is entitled to enforce his decree to its fullest extent and there is no doubt that if this right was Intended to be overridden to any extent, the intention of Legislature would have been expressed in clear language. Therefore, a transaction like simple mortgage resulting in a decree saction like simple mortgage resulting in a decree for sale is not affected by the provisions of S. 15 of the Act. (Fazl Ali, C.J., Chatterji and Sinha, J.). LACHMAN DUSADH v. SUCHIT RAI. 22 Pat. 672=1943 P.W.N. 179=210 I.C. 367=16 R.P. 173=24 Pat.L.T. 371=10 B.R. 232=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 406 (F.B.).

S. 15-Mere equity of redemption-If exempted.

Under S. 15 of the Bihar Money-Lenders Act, what is exempted is land in the possession of the debtor which would give him a means of subsistence, and not rights in the nature of purely mortgagor's rights. It cannot be said that a person who owns a mere equity of redemption and is not in possession or entitled to possession can be described as an agricultural debtor within the meaning of this section. (Harries, C.J., and Manohar Iall, I.) BADRI MAHTO v. LOCHAN SAH. 198 I.C. 821=8 B.R. 465=14 R.P. 505=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 264.

BIHAR (AND ORISSA) MUNICIPAL ACT (VII OF 1922) S. 3 (9)-Holding-Parti land or land with house in dilapidated conditions excluded,

B. & O. MUNICIPAL ACT, (VII OF 1922).

"Holding" as defined by S. 3 (9) of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act includes parti land or land with a house on it in a dilapidated condition. There is nothing in the definition to exclude such land. (Dhavle, J.) COMMISSIONERS OF THE PANNA CITY MUNICIPALITY V. KAPUR CHAND LALL. 201 I C. 8-8 B R 764=15 R.P. 25=23 Pat.L.T. 407=A I.R. 1942 Pat. 417.

——S 82 (1) (a) Applicability and construction—Hindu anverned by Davabhaga owning house in Municipality—House occupied by son—Joint assessment of father and son—Legality—If ultra vires—"Occupier."

Under S 82 (1) (a) of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act, joint assessment is permissible where two persons are in joint possession of a holding under certain circumstances. Possession or occupation of the holding must be beneficial to the assessee; the assessee or joint assessees of the holding must be entitled to the exclusive use and enjoyment of the holding as of right and not on sufferance. Plaintiff No. 1 was the father and plaintiff No 2, was his son, the parties being governed by the Davabaga School of Hindu Law Both of them were jointly assessed to Unnicipaltax under S. 82 (1) of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act, on the ground that the son lived in a house of his father.

Held, that plaintiff No. 2, the son, was not a co-parcener with father, plaintiff No. 1, either in the estate which he would inherit from his ancestor or which is his self-acquired property and since he was living in the house on sufferance depending upon the sweet will of his father, he was not an "occupier," the assessment on him was illegal and ultra vires. It did not, however follow that the assessment on the father was also ultra vires. The assessment on the father was valid. (Manohar Lall and Beevor, II.) Commissioners, Darbhanga Municipality v. Jyotindranath. 23 Pat. 862=1945 P.W.N 115=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 153.

S. 86-Latrine-tax-Formality not observed-Assessment, if ultra vires.

Under S. 86 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act, where the holdings in question do not contain dwelling-houses, latrines, urinals or cesspools, latrine tax can be imposed only if "in the opinion of the Commissioners at a meeting, a latrine, urinal or cesspool is required." In other words, this formality must be observed as a condition precedent to the imposition of the latrine tax. Otherwise, the assessment is ultra vires and without jurisdiction. (Harries, C.J., and Chatterfi, J.) Shiva Prasad v. The Commissioners of Darbeanga Municipality. 196 I.C. 370=14 R.P. 192=8 B.R. 15=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 81.

——Ss. 98 (1) and (2)—Relative scope— Holdings having no habitable buildings—If exempt from tax.

S. 98 (1) of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act covers holdings with buildings of a character outside S. 98 (2) or holdings without any buildings on them at all. There is nothing to show that the Act exempts from taxation holdings merely because they may have no habitable buildings on them. (Dhavle, I.) Commissioners of the Patna City Municipality v. Kapur Chand Lall. 201 I.C. 8=8 B.R. 764=15 R.P. 25=23 Pat.L.T. 407=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 417.

B. & O. MUNICIPAL ACT, (VII OF 1922).

——Ss. 107 and 115—Relative scope—Failure to give notice under S. 107 (2)—Effect on assessment.

S. 115 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act clearly applies only to cases where a new list or a revised list is issued. The section cannot by its terms apply to a case where a list has been prepared or revised and subsequently it is found that property has been omitted from the list which should have been included or property has become assessable which was not assessable when the list was prepared or revised. These two latter cases are expressly dealt with in S 107 of the Act which presupposes an existing list which has been published under S. 115. and that since such publication it has been found that property has been omitted from the list which should have been included or property has subsequently become assessable. If it is proposed to assess such property, a month's notice must be given to the person interested of any alteration the commissioners propose to make and of the date on which the alteration will be made. The omission to give the statutory notice makes the assessment ultra vires and not in accordance with law. (Harries, C. I., and Manchar Lall, I.) ADDUL KHADAR KHAN 71. ——S 107 (1) (f)-Score—Application for reduction of valuation of holdina—Decision of Municipality—Iurisdiction of Civil Court to question or review.

S. 107 (1) (f) of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act contemplates a reduction on the application of the owner or occupier, of the valuation of any holding which has been wholly or partly demolished or destroyed or the value of which has diminished from any cause. In the case of such holdings, the person liable to pay the tax can, in view of Ss. 116 to 119, only obtain reduction by applying under Cl. (f); and if the Municipality should deal with such an application in accordance with Law, no objection can be taken to the decision of the Municipality in the Civil Court. The valuation of all holdings is a matter for the Municipality and not for the Civil Court under S. 119. If an assessment is not reduced under S 107, the owner remains liable except in case of remissions under S. 110 or S. 111 but apart from that his liability cannot be questioned in the Civil Court. -----S. 108-Notice-Duty of transferee to give notice of transfer.

Under S. 108 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act it is the duty of the transferee of a holding, no less than that of the transferor, to give notice of the transfer to the Chairman of the Municipality. —S 116—Scope—Failure to avail of remedy under—If bar to objection to assessment by way of suit.

There is no warrant for holding that a person who does not seek his remedy under S. 116 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act cannot be allowed to raise any objection to the assessment. The section provides only an alternative remedy; if a person is found to be not occupying any hold ing within the Municipality, the mere fact that he did not seek his remedy under S 116 will not clothe the Municipality with any jurisdiction to make an assessment which it otherwise does not possess. S 116 (3) (r)—Scope—Decision of Municipal Committee—Finality—Nature and extent of.

The finality given to the decision of the committee under S 116 (3) (r) of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act is the finality between the assessee and the Commissioners. When the party has not gone to the Committee, and there is no decision of the committee, there can be no finality which would bar a suit in the Civil Court. (Manohar Lall and Beevor, JJ) COMMISSIONERS, DARBHANGA MUNICIPALITY v. JYOTINDRANATH. 23 Pat. 862=1945 P.W.N. 115=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 153,

_____S. 117—Scope—Appellate tribunal—Constitution of—Resolution of Municipality appointing seven members as appellate committee-Four out of seven selected as tribunal to hear particular case and hearing same—Tribunal legally constituted.

A Municipality, by a resolution, appointed seven members to act as an appellate committee under S. 117 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act and amongst those seven persons were persons who were elected for the ward in which the house of the plaintiff (assessee) was situate. Out of these seven four only sat on the particular appellate tribunal who dealt with the plaintiff's matter, and not one of the members was in any way connected with the ward in question.

Held: that appellate tribunal in the case was a perfectly legal and properly constituted body and was clearly within the spirit of S. 117 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act. The Resolution of the Municipality was nothing more than the appointment of seven persons to form a rota from which three or more should be selected for any particular appeal as and when required; the resolution did not in substance mean that for each appeal all seven must sit. Hence the assessment was neither illegal nor ultra vires on the ground that the appellate tribunal was illegally constituted. (Harries C.J., and Manohar Lall, J.) Abbul. -S 119-Scope-Assessment-Decision of Municipality-Jurisdiction of Civil Court to interfere -If barred.

Civil Courts have jurisdiction to inquire into the question whether a person sought to be assessed to a Municipal tax was an occupier of a holding within the Municipality concerned. As the jurisdiction of Municipality to assess a person depends upon the decision whether that person is an occupier, the Municipality cannot give itself jurisdiction to assess a person who is not an occupier by a wrong decision on facts. Under S. 119 Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act, interference by the Civil Court cannot be considered as barred either explictly or implicitly. (Manohar Lall COMMISSIONERS, DARBHANGA TOTINDRANATH. 23 Pat. 862= and Beevor, IJ.) MUNICIPALITY V. JYOTINDRANATH. 1945 P.W N. 115=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 153.

-S 119-Scope-Assessment ultra vires-Assessee's right of suit.

S. 119 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act contemplates that the assessment is made in accordance with the provisions of the Act, and if the assessee is to raise any objection to that assessment he must have recourse to the proceedings laid down in the Act. But where the assessment itself is ultra vires, the assessee need not take any proceedings under the Act, and can at once bring a suit in the Civil Court. In such a case the fact that the assessee failed to take the specific grounds raised in the suit in the petition of objection filed by him under S. 116 is immaterial, as he cannot be in a worse position than if he had filed no objection at all under that section. (Harries, C. J., and Chatterji, J.) SHIVA PRASAD v. THE COM. MISSIONERS OF DARBHANGA MUNICIPALITY. 196 I. C. 370=14 R.P. 192=8 B.R. 15=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 81.

-S. 123—Scope—Non-service of notice under

-Effect on right to sue for arrears of tax.

The notice under S. 123 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act only affects the Municipality's right to levy arrears by distress and sale under S 124, and not its right to sue under S. 130. The liability to pay tax in respect of a holding does not arise from the notice under S. 123 at all, but from the earlier sections of the Act. There is no reason for holding that the right of the Municipality to sue for arrears is dependant on the service of a notice under S. 123. (Dhavle, J.) COMMISSIONERS OF THE PATNA CITY MUNICIPALITY v. KAPUR CHAND LALL. 201 I.C. 8=8 B.R. 764=15 R.P. 25=23 Pat.L.T. 407=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 417.

Ss. 124 and 125—Form of warrant not prescribed by Government-Municipality, if debarred from realising tax.

B. & O. MUNICIPAL ACT (VII OF 1922).

If the Provincial Government has prescribed a form of warrant the Municipality would be obliged to use that form. But the mere fact that ic form has been prescribed does not mean that the Municipality is debarred from realising the tax at all or that it is not to realise it by a warrant of distress although by S. 124 of the Bihar and Orissa Municipal Act it has been authorised to do so. (Agarwala, J.) MANGLESHWAR PRASAD v. SHEONATH PRASAD. 203 I C 60=15 R P. 163 =44 Cr.L.J. 60=9 B R. 52=A.I.R. 1943 Pat 4

-Ss. 124 and 125—Warrant—Construction— Seizure of property of any other person--If authorised.

The material portion of a warrant directed to the tax daroga of the Municipality was in these words:-"This is to authorize you to distrain the movable property of the said warrantee wherever may be found within the Municipality.....or movable property....which may be found within the holding specified in the margin.... If distress cannot be made of sufficient property of the said warrantee you are to certify the same to us in returning the warrant."

Held, that the latter clause in the first sentence authorized the seizure of movable property belonging to any one other than the defaulter inspite of the omission to state specifically after the words "movable property" in that clause the the words "of any other person" and that the omission to require a certificate in the case of property seized on the premises in respect of which the default occurred and belonging to a person other than the defaulter could not affect the operative part of the warrant. Nature of-Omission by them to levy fees from stall-holders on public road-If proves custom ex-

The powers conferred on the Municipality empowering them to impose taxes or levy fees are permissive powers, and the Municipality is not bound to exercise those powers. The mere fact, therefore that the Municipality has not levied fees on the stall-holders on a public road before, does not provide a basis on which it can be held that a custom has grown up exonerating stall-holder from paying the fees which the Municipality may subsequently decide to levy. He cannot refuse to renew a licence granted under the bye-laws for any cause other than failure of the licensee to comply with the conditions of the licence or with any provision of rules made under the Act. The chairman should, however, state the ground on which he refuses to renew the licence, in order to enable the Court to see whether the Municipality acted with or without jurisdiction. The Court cannot make a presumption that the application for renewal was rejected on proper grounds. The Collector has no power under S. 38 (1) of Bihar and Orissa Act (V of 1922) to fix a Parabandi where none existed before. In the case of irrigation works constructed or acquired under Ss. 32-A and 32-B, this can be done under S. 38 (3), but there is no such power under S. 38 (1). (Middleton.) PARBATI KUMRI v. -S. 38 (1)—Scope—Powers of Collector to fix parabandi where none existed before.

S. 38 (1) of the Bihar and Orissa Private Irrigation Works Act does not give power to fix a parabandi (system of rotation) where no parabandi exists. S. 38 (3) provides for a new system where none existed before; Cl. (1) equally obviously provides for revision of an existing system. It would be dangerous to assume that Cl. (1) also provides for an entirely new system where none existed, unless it is so expressed with unmistakable clearness. It would be straining the language to hold that cases where the system of rotation is not clearly entered in the record of rights include a case where it is not entered at all. It is clearly one of ambiguity in the entry and not a complete absence of entry. (Middleton.) Babu Lal Bihari Saran Singh v. Mutuk-dhari Singh. 8 B.R. 415.

S. 42 (d)-Applicability-Owner of field refusing permission for earth to be dug from field and preventing same being taken-Offence-Powers of Collector under S.5.

Under S. 5 of the Bihar and Orissa Private Irrigation Works Act, read with Ss. 3 and 4, the Collector has power to order any necessary repair work to be done; but the section does not in terms authorize the invasion of any private rights. The person executing the work should obtain the consent of those from whom he requires permission to take earth from their lands and other facilities. No offence can be said to be committed under S. 42 (d) of the Act by a person who refuses permission for earth to be dug from his culturable field and in preventing the earth from being taken. ## B. & O. PUB. DEMANDS RECOV. ACT, (1914).

Land settled with another as lessee—Certificate proceedings for arrears of subsequent years—Sale in—What passes to purchaser.

Where a landlord after having purchased his tenant's holding at a sale in execution of his rent decree in respect of arrears of rent for certain years and after settling the lands with another as tenant, takes out certificate proceedings under the Public Demands Recovery Act in respect of arrears of rent for subsequent years the certificate sale passes to the purchaser only the landlord's interest which at the time of the sale is clearly subject to the rights acquired by the person settled on the lands as lessee; the purchaser at the certificate sale cannot therefore claim any better title in the lands than that possessed by the landlord at that date. S.7—Scope—Amendment of certificate by adding guardian ad litem to minors—Fresh notice—Necessity—Coming into force of S. 158-A of Bihar Tenancy Act—Effect on application by private landlord.

A certificate was obtained by a private landlord against certain tenure-holders, and the certificate was filed on 11-8-1938, On 10-12-1938, S. 158-A of the amended Bihar Tenancy Act come into force by which Ch. XIII of the B.T. Act was repealed, thus depriving private landlords of the privilege of recovering rent by certificate procedure. On 31-3-1939, the certificate was amended by the appointment of a guardian adlitem for some minors who had been impleaded as majors. The guardian ad litem was already a party in his individual capacity.

Held, (1) that after the amendment of the certificate, a fresh notice to the guardian ad litem must be issued under S. 7 of the Public Demands Recovery Act, in his capacity as guardian in addition to the notice already issued to him in his individual or personal capacity; (2) that once Ch. XIII.A of the Bihar Tenancy Act was repealed by the new S. 158.A, it was no longer legal, on the requisition of a private landlord, to issue a notice under S. 7 of the Public Demands Recovery Act. (Middleton.) KAMESHWAR SINGH v. RAJKISHORE LAL. 1941 P.W.N 441.

-S. 8—Charge in respect of public demand—It prevails over prior mortgage or sale in pursuance of it. S. 8 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act is not directed to the particular case of a claim for arrears of rent, but is a general provision intended to apply to any case in which a public demand is being enforced. It applies to a public demand which is not secured upon any property and it affects all the debtor's immovable property in the district. The charge conferred by Cl. (b) of S. 8 cannot of its own force take precedence of a previous mortgage or interfere with the remedy of the mortgagee or impair the title acquired by the auction-purchaser at a mortgage sale even if the sale be held after service of the notice under S. 7 of the Act. On the contrary under S. 26 (1) a sale under the certificate vests in the purchaser only the right title and interest of the certificate debtor athe time of the sale. (Sir George Rankin.) S. 25—"conclusive"—Meaning of—Order under S. 23—Appealability—S. 60.

The word "conclusive" in S. 25 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act does not mean non appea able. An order under S. 23 cannot therefore be regarded as one not subject to appeal, merely because of the provisions of S. 25, especially in view of the clear and definite provision in S. 00 of the Act which says that all orders except one are appealable. There is thus no contradiction between S. 25 and S. 00. (Middleton.) Liquidator, Dhundhwa Co-operative Society v. Phagu Sao. 8 B.R. 26=1941 P. W.N. 743 (2).

—Ss. 28 and 31—Period of 30 days—Power of Court to extend—Application to set aside sale made within 30 days—Compensation money paid beyond time—Effect—Jurisdiction to set aside sale—Office accepting challen pled by debtor without including compensation money—If ground for setting aside sale—Mistake made by officer of Court—Effect of.

A mere casual act by an officer of the Court who makes a mistake cannot be treated as the Court's act, so as to give the Court jurisdiction to make an order which it has no jurisdiction to make. The Court has no jurisdiction to extend the period of 30 days laid down in S. 31 of the Public Demands Recovery Act; and where the certificate debtor does not deposit the penalty or compensation provided for by S. 28 of the Act within the period of 30 days, the sale cannot be set aside although he has deposited the demand amount and interest within the period of 30 days, and although the challan filed by the debtor without including the compensation money is accepted by the office of the ceruficate officer. sale was held on 6-7-1940 and within the 30 days, the debtor applied under S. 28 of the Bihar and Orissa l'ublic Demands Act depositing the amount of the demand and interest, but not the penalty or compensation of Rs. 5 payable under S. 28. The challan was accepted by the office and treated as correct and the case was treated as fully satisfied and on 6-8-1940, the certificate officer made an order "sale set aside. Realised in full." Subsequently it was discovered that the compensation of Rs. 5 had not been paid, and a notice was issued to the debtor to show cause why the sale should not be confirmed. On 6-12-1940, the debtor turned up and paid the penalty amount of Rs. 5, but his petition was dismissed by the certificate officer who held that he had no power to set aside the sale when the full amount had not been deposited within the prescribed period. This order was upheld by the Deputy Collector, but the Commissioner reversed it on the ground that the certificate debtor had been misled by the mistake of the office.

Held, in revision by the Board of Revenue that the responsibility for writing out the challan lay with the debtor and not with the certificate officer or his office, and the mere fact that the challan was accepted by the office under a

-S. 29-Application beyond 60 days-Maintainability—Section if applies to appellate or revisional Court.

An application under S. 29 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act made after the expiry of sixty days from the date of the sale cannot be entertained unless the certificate officer is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for so doing and condoning the delay. S. 29 applies not only to an order of the certificate officer but also to an order by an appellate or revisional Court. (Middleton.) LALJI SINGH v. DEGNA-

S. 29—Certificate issued after death of debtor-Sale-Legality-Application to set aside sale nled by heirs four years after sale—Alleyation that they had no knowledge af sale—Sale if can be set aside.

A certificate sale took place in June, 1937. The certificate debtor was a Mahomedan widow, who had died before the issue of the certificate. The petitioners, who were two widowed daughters of the debtor applied in January, 1941, to have the sale set aside alleging that their brother had cheated them by allowing the property to go to sale. The petitioners alleged that they had no knowledge of the sale until they got notice in a land registration case.

Held, (1) that the certificate filed against the debtor was void ab initio, and the sale affected the interests of the petitioners who were therefore entitled to have the sale set aside; (2) that in the absence of evidence or even allegation to show that the petitioners were aware of the sale earlier, the application for setting aside the sale must be admitted though filed about 4 years after the sale. (Swanzy.) Hafizan v. Ragho Sao. 8 B.R. 873.

-S. 29-Certificate sale-Can be set aside in part.

There is no reason why a certificate sale should not be set aside in part under S. 29 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act. (Middleton.) Bundi Singh v. Saidul Haque. 10 B.R. 543.

-S. 29—Construction—Order setting aside sale—Payment of whole certificate debt-If condition precedent.

According to the proper construction of S. 29 (1) (b) of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act, the certificate debtor or debtors should pay the amount actually due from him or them before the merits of the application under S. 29 to set aside the sale are even considered by the Court. entered in the copy served on the certificatedebtor is not a material irregularity vitiating the sale. It is at the most a petty irregularity, and could not possibly affect the amount of bid so as to cause substantial injury to the debtor. Unless it is established that the property was sold for a low price as a result of a material irregularity a sale cannot be set aside under S. 29 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act. (Middleton.) Kashinath Singh v. Tashir Ahmad. 8 B.R. 6=1941 P.W.N. 663.

-S. 29—Material irregularity—Non-affixture of copy of sale proclamation in office of certificate officer-Effect of-Substantial injury.

The object of publication of the sale proclamation in the certificate office is that professional bidders and the public may know what is coming up for sale and the absence of bidders may very well cause substantial injury. It is certainly an irregularity when no copy of the sale proclamation is affixed to a conspicuous part of the certificate office as required by statutory R. 26 of Sch. II of the Act. Where in such a case property yielding an income over Rs. 2,000 is sold for Rs. 800, it must be held that substantial injury is caused by the material irregularity, and the sale must be set aside under S. 29. (Middleton.) FATMA BEGUM v. NATHUNI LAL. 7 B.R. 617.

-S. 29-Material irregularity-Notice under S. 7 not signed by certificate officer but impressed with facsimile of signature of some officer-Effect on sale.

Where the notice under S. 7 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act is not signed by the certificate officer or by any ministerial officer authorised by him in that behalf, and the notice, instead of being so signed as required by the rules, is only impressed with a rubber stamp purporting to be a facsimile of the signature of some officer, it must be held that the sale held in pursuance of such a notice is vitiated by grave material irregularity. A rubber stamp is not a signature and therefore the sale is liable to be set aside under S. 29 on the ground of material irregularity, especially when the whole proceeding is found to have been put through without the knowledge of the certificate debtors and caused them considerable material loss. (Lee.) RAJBANS SAHAI v. CHANDRA MADHO SINGH. 11 B.R. 184.

-S. 29—Right to apply under—Subsequent purchaser-If person "whose interests are affected by the sale."

A person who is a subsequent purchaser is not a person whose interests are affected by the sale either at the time of the sale or within sixty days thereof so as to entitle him to apply under S. 29 of the Public Demands Recovery Act to set aside the sale. (Middleton.) BIBI UMATUL FATMA v. MAHOMED TAUHEED. 9 B.R. 250.

—S. 29—Scope of inquiry — Certificate Officer—Power to enquire into proportionate liability of each of several debtors—Functions of Revenue Court.

The question before the certificate officer in proceedings for setting aside a sale under S. 29

very Act of 1914 is to see that the whole certificate dues are paid up before the sale is set aside and not to enter into questions as to what amount is due from each or any particular certificate-debtor. This is more so in a case where it is admitted that each and every certificate debtor is jointly and severally hable for the whole of the debt. It is not the function of the certificate Court to be led into a discussion in a case of joint liability as to the principle on which particular liability should be laid down. Nor is it the function of the certificate officer to pass such orders as would lead the Courts to which he is subordinate to discuss complicated matters of liability, obligation and equity which are the proper functions of the Civil Court and not of the Revenue Court. (Peck.) NURUL HASAN v. ABDUL QUDDUS. 1941 P.WN. 241.

-S. 29-Where the entire dues of the certificate are not only not deposited but not even an offer to do so is made by the applicants to set aside a certificate sale until a very late stage the application is unsustainable.

Before the merits of an application under S. 29 of the Public Demands Recovery Act can even be considered by the Court, the certificate debtor or debtors should pay the amount actually due from him or them. In any case, before any orders setting aside the sale are passed under S. 29, the certificate dues should be paid. Where the liability of all the certificate debtors is joint, it is necessary that all the dues of the certificate should be paid up before the sale can be set aside or before the application should even be considered on the merits. (Swanzy.) BIJOY CHANDRA CHATTERJI v. SITARAM BANERJE. 9 B.R. 159.

Setting aside—Finding of substantial injury—

Necessity for.

In the absence of a finding by the certificate officer that he was satisfied that the applicant under S. 29 of the Public Demands Recovery Act had sustained substantial injury from a material irregularity, no sale can be set aside under the proviso (a) to S. 29. (Middleton.) DEODUT Missir v. Dharnidhar Missir. 9 B.R. 134.

-S. 43—Limitation—Computation—Adverse order on appeal by Collector—Revision to Com-missioner and Board unsuccessful—Starting point of limitation.

Under S. 43 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act, limitation has to be computed from the date of the adverse order of the Collector which determines the matter against the plaintiff; when such order has been passed by the Collector on appeal there is no further appeal but only revision. A suit beyond six months of the Collector's order is therefore barred by limitation under S. 43, though it is within six months of the orders passed in revision by the Commissioner and the Board of Revenue. is based upon a fraud and which is for a declaration that a certificate sale was a fraudulent one and void on the ground of the purchase being a collusive one and on behalf of the real certificate debtors. There is no basis for the argument that a certificate cannot be deemed to have been duly filed within the meaning of S. 46 of the Bihar and Orissa l'ublic Demands Recovery Act, merely because a portion of the alleged debt was not due The question of the precise amount of demand due is a question for the decision of the certificate officer and of the superior officers, and if no defect of procedure is alleged or proved, a suit in the Civil Court challenging the certificate proceedings on the ground that a portion of the demand has been illegally included is barred under S. 46 of the Act, because it relates to a matter referred to in S. 46. mands Act and purchased by the landlord, one of the four certificate debtors applied for restoration under Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act, but that application was dismissed mainly on the objection of the landlord who pleaded that the land was still in possession of the tenant. Another debtor then applied to have the sale set aside under S. 29 (2) of the Public Deamands Recovery Act and the sale was set aside on the merits on the ground of irregularities or non-service of summons. The landlord applied to the Board of Revenue in revision under S. 62 of the Public Demands Recovery Act.

Held, that in view of the landlords's case in restoration proceedings that the land was still in the possession of the tenant, it would be most Recovery Act expressly exempts from the ope-inequitable and result in gross injustice if the gration of Ss. 25 and 45 of the Act a suit which sale were to be set aside, though there may be B. & O. grounds in law for setting it aside. (Swanzy.) RAM RAN VIJOYA PRASAD SINCH v. RAJANI KANTA LAL. 11 B.R. 132.

—S. 63—"Mistake or error"—Dismissal of case on ground that party was absent—Subsequent discovery that party was present—Power to restore on review—Reasons—If to be recorded.

When a certificate case was dismissed as the result of a mistake of fact, namely, on the ground that the applicant was absent, but it subsequently turns out that the party was present, the certificate officer has power to review the order of dismissal and to restore the case. S. 63 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act is wide enough to cover such a case. There is nothing in S. 63 which makes it incumbent on the officer to give his reasons in writing. (Swansy.) Shiva Shanker Sahay v. Mahomed Yahiya. 11 B.R. 120.

—S. 63—"Mistake or error"—Meaning of—Error of law—Remedy—Appeal and not review. The words "mistake or error either in the making of the certificate or in the course of any proceeding" must be interpreted to mean some defect of proceeding, and do not include a mistaken view of law. An appeal under S. 60 is the proper remedy in the case of a mistake of law and not a review. (Middleton.) BIHAR AND ORISSA, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY, LTD. v. AZHARUL HAQUE. 10 B.R. 41.

S. 63—Scope—Powers of certificate officer—Power to set aside sales contrary to S. 29.
Orders under S. 63 of the Bihar and Orissa

Orders under S. 63 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act should only be passed in exceptional cases, and it is quite clear from the wording of the section that in passing an order under S. 63 the certificate officer must come to a finding that some mistake or error has occurred in the course of the proceedings: S. 63 no doubt gives wide powers to the certificate officer but it certainly does not give him power to pass an order contrary to the mandatory section of the Act governing the transaction involved. A sale can be set aside only under S. 29 of the Act on the applicant complying with certain conditions. Where the conditions are not complied with the certificate officer cannot adopt some procedure of his own under S. 63 of the Act to set aside a sale. There must be some mistake or error to justify an order under S. 63, and the error or mistake must be one that is apparent immediately, such as some clerical mistake or clear mistake of dicition. (Peck.) Nurul Hasan v. Abbul Quddus. 1941 P.W.N. 241.

—Sch. II, R. 6—Discretion—Peon serving notice by affixture under direction of certificate officer—If illegal—Proceedings, not vitiated.

It cannot be held that the discretion to serve the notice under S. 7 of the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act in the manner prescribed by R. 6 of Sch. II to the Act rests with the serving officer or peon and not with the certificate officer. A certificate officer has power to direct the peon to serve the notice in the manner laid down by R. 6 if he cannot find the certificate debtor. The fact that the peon adopts the procedure laid down in Sch. II, R. 6, under instructions of the certificate officer would not render the proceedings illegal or irregular. (Middleton.)

"Rent"—If includes cess—Definition of rent" in Bihar Tenancy Act—Applicability.

The Rent Reduction Act of 1938 does not purport to deal with cess at all and the artificial definition of "rent" in the Bihar Tenancy Act, as including cess, does not apply to the Rent Reduction Act, and therefore for the purpose of Act IX of 1938, cess is not rent. —8. 3—Applicability and scope—Lands in land-tords possession by virtue of compromise—Title not traced from Court sale—If can be restored.

A holding was owned by two groups of cosharers, H and M. The H group obtained a decree for arrears of rent, put up the holding for sale and purchased it in May, 1933. Later the M group sued the tenants and the H group of landlords for two years' rent, obtained a rent decree against the tenants and a money decree against the H group of landlords, and brought the holding to sale themselves purchasing it in 1937. Later, the H group brought a title suit against the M group which ended in a compromise dividing the lands between the two groups half and half.

Held, in an application for restoration, that though the H group had apparently been in possession since 1933, their title to the half share allotted to them under the compromise was different from their title under the sale of 1933, which became eliminated by the sale in favour of the M group and since the H group had no continuity of title, they were not in possession by virtue of the Court-sale and hence the land in their possession could not be restored. The fact that they never lost possession was irrelevant. (Middleton.) AJODHYA SINGH v. BAIJNATH PRASAD SINGH. 1941 P.W.N. 665.

-S. 3—Applicability—Decree for arrears of rent—Sale of raiyati holding in execution—Purchase by co-sharer landlord-Application for restoration-Maintainability.

S. 3 of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act only speaks of a decree for arrears of rent; it makes no difference between rent decrees and money decrees. Purchase by a co-sharer landlord of a riyati holding at a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent is not excluded by the Act on application for restoration in such a case is maintainable. S. 3—Bakasht lands wrongly described as raiyati in sale proclamation-Co-sharer landlord. if estopped from claiming same as bakasht afterwards.

The fact that a co-sharer landlord describes a land as raiyatt land in the sale proclamation for sale of the holding for arrears of rent will not estop him from afterwards saying that the lands are bakasht, when, the lands are such, A description in a sale proclamation will not confer on any person a status which he does not possess under the law. (Middleton.) RAMPRATAP SINGH v. RAMPRATAP SINGH. 7 B.R. 895.

-S. 3—Scope—Several co-sharers—Restoration of possession in respect of share of one landlord-Permissibility.

Bihar Act IX of 1938 does not authorise restoration of land proportionate to the interest of one set of co-sharer landlords ignoring another set of co-sharer land-lords. (Middleton.) AJODHYA SINGH v. BAIJNATH PRASAD SINGH. 1941 P.W.N. 665.

-S. 3—Single application in respect of three distinct sales held on different dates-Maintainability.

A single application for restoration in respect of three khatas or holdings sold on different dates under decree, for different arrears is irregular and defective. There must be three separate applications although the parties in the three holdings are the same as also the points at issue and although there is no prejudice to the opposite party. (Middleton.) RAMPRATAP SINGE v. RAMPRATAP SINGE. 7 B.R. 895.

lord-Maintainability.

An application for restoration is not maintainable against the transferee of a purchasing land-lord. The words "said landlord" in S. 3 (1) of Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Land Act mean the landlord who purchased the holding, and under S. 3 (1) at the time of the application for restoration by the raiyat, the land must be in the possession of the same landlord who purchased the holding. (N. F. Peck.) MANZAR HASSAN v. SUKHLAL GOPE. 7 B.R. 415.

against landlord—Latter pleading settlement of lands with his sons—Latter also claiming under gift of earlier date—Names of sons entered in P. Register only after application—Effect.

On 20-3-1939, an application for restoration was made under S. 3 of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands Act impleading AR as landlord. He entered appearance and pleaded that he had gifted the lands to his sons before 19—4—1938. The sons also contended that they got the lands defective. (Middleton.) AMAR RAI v. BALDEO by gift on 7-2-1939 and therefore the application was not maintainable. It was found that tion was not maintainable. It was found that the names of the sons were recorded in Register D only on 23-1-1940.

Held, that the application was correctly filed against AR and was competent. (Middleton.)
AZIZUR RAHMAN v. LACHHMI SINGH. 7 B.R. 511.

-S. 3 (1)-"Raiyat"-"Landlord"-Meaning

of.
The word "raiyat" in S. 3(1) of the Bihar
Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Rent Act includes the whole body of the raivats and the word "landlord" in S. 3 (1) includes the whole body of landlords. (N. F. Peck.) Mahomed Naim v. Ram Lal Gope. 7 B.R. 498.

-S. 3 (1)—"Said landlord"—Meaning of. The expression "said landlord" in S.3 (1) of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands Act means that the application only lies against the purchasing landlord, i.e., that restoration can only be obtained from the landlord who purchases the holding. (Middleton.) AZIZUR RAHMAN v. LACHHMI SINGH. 7 B.R. 511.

price-Necessity for.

Under S. 3 (2) (ii) of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands Act, it is obligatory on an applicant to state the date on which and the amount for which a holding was sold. An application which does not state the separticulars is defective. (Middleton.) RAMPRATAP SINGH v. RAMPRATAP SINGH. 7 B.R. 895.

—S. 3 (3)—Limitation—Amendment altering character of opplication—If permissible after expiry of time fixed by S. 3 (3).

An application filed within the time prescribed by S. 3 (3) of the Bihar Act IV of 1938 may be amended after the expiry of that period under certain circumstances; but an amendment which makes the application an entirely new application cannot be premitted. Where the Khata number in a village in the original application is cut out and the date of sale is altered by means of an amendment, that entirely alter the character of the application and cannot be permitted afters the expiry of the time limited by S. 3 (3). (Middleton.) RAM RANVIJAY PRASAD SINGH v. NARSINGH. 1941 P.W.N. 436=7 B.R. 756.

-Ss. 3 (3) and (4)—Limitation—Application within time-Adding name of party omitted after expiry of period-Permissibility.

An application for restoration of Bakasht lands can be amended after the expiry of the period mentioned in S. 3 (3) of Bihar Act, IX of 1938. If the application was filed within the period mentioned in S. 3 (3) an amendment or remedying of defects subsequently is not barred. The omission of a name of a party from the applica-tion is a defect falling under S. 4 of the the Act and can therefore be remedied after the period mentioned in S. 3. (Middleton.) RUDRA NATH MISSIR v. NARSINGH NARAIN SINGH. 9 B.R. 359.

-S. 3 (3)—Limitation—Application made in time-Amendment after period of limitation-Permissibility.

be in all respects complete before the expiry of the period mentioned in the section. -Ss. 3 (3) and 4-Limitation-Application for restoration against one landlord only-Other landlords brought on record after one year--Application-If barred.

A tenant applying under S. 3 of the Bihar Restoration of Lands and Reduction of Rent Act must, under S. 3 (3), file the application within one year from the date on which the section came into force. It is necessary for the applicant to bring in the whole body of the landlords upon the record within the period of one year prescribed. Where the application originally is filed against one landlord only and the remaining landlords are not brought on the record until after the expiry of one year, the application is beyond time and must fail. An amendment of the application under S. 4 does not affect the period of limitation laid down in S. 3 (3). (N. F. Peck.) MAHOMED NAIM v. RAM LAL GOPE. B.R. 498.

landlord impleaded after expiry of time fixed by

S. 3 (3) - Effect. S. 3 (3) of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 fixes a special period and an application for restoration under S. 3 must be made within that time impleading thereto, all the landlords. The time fixed by S. 3 (3) cannot be extended on the analogy of S. 22, Limitation Act which applies only to suits. Where, therefore, an application is made under S. 3 of Bihar Act IX of 1938 within the time limited by S. 3 (3) impleading as party respondent only one landlord and another landlord is impleaded only after such period has expired, the Revenue Court acts without jurisdiction in entertaining and acting on such an application. (Varma, J.) Sheobadan Sonar v. Bihari Sao. 1944 P.W N. 499.

S. 5-Scope-Mandatory-Failure to give notice-If fatal.
Under S. 5 of the Bihar Act IX of 1938, it is mandatory to give notice of the application and of the date fixed for hearing and to send with the notice a copy of the application; failure to comply with these directions is fatal to the maintainability of the application. (Middleton.) Ter-BHUAN ROY v. RAMPATI AHIR. 7 B.R. 891=1941 P.W.N. 432.

-S. 6-Nagdi plot cultivated on behalf of petty landlord or by settlee-Restoration of.

Where a nagdi plot has been settled bona fide, and it appears that the plot has been cultivated on behalf of a petty landlord or has been cultivated by a settlee it cannot be restored under Bihar Act IX of 1938. (Swanzy.) SAHODRA KUZE. v. Harihar Singh. 9 B.R. 7.

–S. 6–Objection by landlord to restoration ands,

S. 6 of Bihar Act IX of 1938 enables a landlord to object to restoration either on the ground of himself cultivating the holding with his own stock or by his own servants, or on the ground that the holding is in the possession of a third party. If the holding is in the possession of a person falling under Ss. 6(1)(a) or 6(1)(d), the land is not liable to be restored. (Middleton.) Mah-BUBUR RAHMAN v. DEOLAL SINGH. 7 B.R. 794.

-S. 6-Plot not in possession of purchasing landlord-Restoration of-Sale or surrender for consideration-If settlement.

A sale or surrender for consideration by a londlord of his rights under S. 22 of the Bihar Tenancy Act to a superior landlord is not a settlement for purposes of Bihar Act IX of 1938. Certain landlords purchased the occupancy rights in three bhauli plots in 1932. In a subsequent partition in 1937 among the landlords these plots were allotted to another co-sharer; in February 1938, the landlords who purchased the occupancy rights sold the rights which they had under S. 22 of the Bihar Tenancy Act to the co-sharer in whose pati the plots fell. The tenant filed the application for possession, in July 1939, contending that the sale of February 1939, was a settle-ment which, having been made after March, 1938, could not affect his right to restoration.

Held, that the transaction could not be considered to be a settlement and since the plots were not in the possession of the purchasing landlords at the time the application was filed, the application for restoration could not be allowed. (Swanzy.) SAHODRA KUER v. HARIHAR SINGH. 9. B.R. 7.

S. 6 (1)—Plea of petty landlord—Burden of proof—Nature of evidence to be let in.

If a landlord under S.6 (1) of the Bihar Restoration of Lands Act takes the objection that he is a petty landlord he must show by evidence that he is a petty landlord. Merely to swear to an affidavit stating the amount of cess paid by all the shareholders, without any attempt to show what particular amount of cess any particular landlord paid or even what would be his share worked out on any particular basis, would not be sufficient to prove the allegation that the landlords are petty landlords. (N. F. Peck.) Mahomed Naim v. Ram Lal Gope. 7 B.R. 498.

-Ss. 6 (1) and 6 (2), proviso—"Third person"—Meaning of.

The expression "third person" in S. 6 (1) (d) and in S. 6 (2), proviso cannot be construed as meaning any one other than the purchasing landlord and the original tenants. S. 6 (1) (d) refers to such third person being in possession and can thus only include persons with whom a settlement has been made by the landlord. (Middleton.) AZIZUR RAHMAN v. LACHHMI SINGH. 7 B.R. 511.

-Ss. 6 (1) (d) and 11-Settlement after date mentioned in S. 6 (1) (d)—Notice of application for restoration to settlement holder-Necessity—Ex parte restoration order—Objection under S. 11-Competency-Fraud-Proof.

On 6-12-1939 the tenants obtained an ex parte order for restoration under the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands Act, alleging in their application that the landlord had settled the lands in question with an unknown third party in 1939, i.e., after the date mentioned in S. 6 (1) (d) of the Act. No notice was given to the settlement holder and the tenants got possession delivered on 14—1—1940. In May 1940, the tenants got a remission of rent under S. 112-A (c) of the Bihar Tenancy Act after a local inquiry. In November, 1940, the settlement holder applied under S. 11 of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands Act, alleging that he came to know of the restoration only on 3-11-1940 and claimed the benefit of S. 18 of the Limitation Act on the ground that he was kept out of knowledge of delivery of possession by fraud. He set up a settlement under a registered deed dated January, 1937.

Held, (1) that there was no obligation on the Restoration Officer to issue notice on the alleged settlement holder under the proviso to S. 6 (2) (d) of the Restoration Act if the settlement was not made within the time mentioned in S. 6 (1) (d); (2) that the settlement alleged to have been made was not bona fide; (3) that there was no satisfactory proof of any fraud practised on the settlement holder such as would bring his objection under S. 11 of the Act within the purview of S. 18, Limitation Act. (Middleton.) RAJENDRA PRASAD v. LAKHI PRASAD. 9 B.R 216.

—Ss. 6 (1) (d) and 9 (2) (a) (iv)—Settlement and restoration—Distinction—"Restoration" -Restoration or settlement before Act-Effect of.

A holding that was sold measured 6231 acres. The landlord pleaded that before Act IX of 1938 was passed he had restored 30 bighas (18.75 acres) to the judgment debtors, but there was no proof of the same.

Held, that all the settlements before the Act should be regarded as settlements under S. 6 (1) (d) of the Act and therefore the maximum area to be restored was 15.58 acres under S. 9 (a) (iv) of the Act.

Obiter: There is nothing in the Act to justify a distinction between settlement and restoration. If before the passing of the Act a landlord allowed an ex-tenant to regain or to retain possession of part or all of a holding which had been sold up and become Bakasht Malik, it would not have been referred to as restoration of Bakasht, but would be referred to as a settlement. (Middleton.) v. Raghubar Sinha. 9 Krishna Chandra B.R. 101.

-S. 7-Notice-Service on all landlords-If essential.

S. 7 of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act clearly contemplates due service of notice on all the landlords named in the application. If notices are not served on all the landlords or not properly served on any, the Restoration Officer has no jurisdiction to decide the case ex parte. There were several landlords mentioned in an application by the tenants. A notice was issued on one landlord only; but after his name the word "wagaira" (and others) was mentioned and the notice was served on a servant of the one landlord mentioned.

Held, there was not complete service on all the landlords named in the application and the Restoration Officer had no jurisdiction to proceed ex parte. (Middleton.) Md. Habibur Rahman v. Dewan Gope. 7 B.R. 649.

Ss. 8 and 9—Conditional order of restoration— Date fixed for payment of 1st instalment of money-Non-deposit-Effect of-Deptsit after expiry of time Jurisdiction to pass order for restoration.

Where an order for restoration is passed under the Bihar Restoration of Lands Act, stating that the lands should be restored on the payment of a certain amount in five annual kists, the 1st instalment to be deposited on a fixed date, the order is a sort of conditional order which automatically lapses as soon as the date fixed is passed without either the deposit being made or additional time asked for. The application for restoration on which the order is made automatically stands rejected. On failure of the tenant to deposit the 1st instalment unless an application for time is made and granted, the Restoration Officer has no jurisdiction thereafter to pass an order for restoration on the ground that the deposit has been made subsequently. (Middleton.) RAMDHAN PURI v. JAGERNATH SAHAY. 7 B.R. 505=1941 P.W.N. 454.

-Ss. 8 and 9-Order fixing amounts payable by tenant and fixing date for payment of instalments-Effect and nature of.

An order fixing the amounts payable by a tenant under Ss. 8 and 9 of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 and fixing a date for payment of an instalment is a conditional order which would automatically lapse as soon as the date fixed has passed without the deposit being made or additional time asked for. A tenant who so allows the order to lapse without paying the instalment in time or applying for extension of the time cannot subsequently claim any restoration. (Middleton.) PEYARE MAHTON v. BIBI BINTUL FATIMA. 9 B.R. 241.

-S. 8—Portion only of decretal amount realised by sale—Amount paid by tenant for restoration of land
—If has effect of satisfying entire decree—Right of landlord to realise balance.

There is no express provision in the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act as to what is to be done in a case where a portion only of the decretal amount has been realised by the sale of a holding. In such a case the payment made by the tenant under S. 8 of the Act for the restoration of the land cannot be taken to have the effect of satisfying the entire decree. The landlord decree-holder will therefore, be entitled to proceed for the halance. He cannot however realise more than the decretal amount. He can execute his decree for such amount only as remains unpaid after deducting from the decretal amount the amount which has been paid by the tenant in the proceedings regarding the restora-tion of lands, after making allowance for the costs of the decree. the date of the hearing of the application and put forward the ground that he is a petty landlord. If he makes that objection, he must show by evidence that he is a petty landlord. Where all that is done is to file an affidavit sworn to by the Patwari of the landlord stating that the landlord is a petty landlord without any attempt being made to show what particular amount of cess any particular landlord paid that would not be sufficient proof. -S. 8 (1) (b) proviso - 'Costs necessarily incurred etc .- Meaning of .

If an order for delivery of possession could not be obtained without incurring certain expenses, such expenses are costs necessarily incurred in connection with the application for delivery of possession within the meaning of the proviso to S. 8 (1) (b) of the Bihar Act IX of 1938. (Middleton.) Prasadi Mahton v. Baijnath SAHAI. 9 B.R. 163.

-S. 8 (1) (b) proviso-Scope-Amount payable under S. 8 (1) (b) (1)—Amount paid by raivat in cash subsequent to sale-If to be given credit to in calculat-

S. 8 (1) (b) provise of the Bihar (Act IX of 1938), makes no provision for adjusting any payment made in cash or out of Court, and such payments cannot therefore be credited under S. 8 (1) (b) (i). A raiyat therefore cannot get credit for an amount subsequently paid by him in cash when the sale price of the holding was not enough to satisfy the decree, in calculating the amount to be paid by the raisat under S. 8 (1) (b) (1). (Middleton.) PRASADI MAHTON v. BAIJNATH SAHAI. 9 B.R. 163.

-S 9-Calculation of area-Individual khatas -If to be taken as separate holdings.

For the purpose of calculating the area under S. 9 of Bihar Act IX of 1938, each individual khata has to be treated as a separate holding. The mere fact that there was only one decree execution proceeding or one application will not khatas one holding. (Middleton.) SURENDRADEO NARAIN v. DEOKI SINGH. 8 B.R. 149.

-S. 12—Scope and effect of—Sale of holding-Purchase by landlord and delivery of possession-Decree for money in respect of period between sale and delivery of possession-Subsequent restoration of land to tenant under Act—Effect of—Decree for money—If altered into one for rent-Liability to reduction under S. 15 (a). See BIHAR RESTORATION OF BAKASHT LANDS AND REDUCTION OF ARREARS OF RENT ACT. S. 5. 22 Pat. L.T. 998.

-S. 12 (b)-Scope and effect-Restoration of land-Subsequent application for reduction of rent-Competency.

Though S. 12 (b) of Bihar Act IX of 1938 revives all such rights as the raiyat had in respect of the land and the incidents thereof before its sale the section does not bar acquisition of new rights: A raiyat can therefore apply for reduction of tent Bakasht Land Act, the landlord has to appear on after restoration of the land to him under Act

IX of 1938, although the Act was not in force at the time of the sale of his holding for arrears of rent. (Swanzy.) SOBHAN SINGH v. HARBANS PANDEY. 9 B.R. 138.

— S. 13 (1)—"Deposit with the Collector"— Meaning of—Sub-treasury closed on due date— Deposit next day—Validity.

The expression "deposit with the Collector" in S. 13 (1) of Bihar Act (IX of 1938), does not mean deposit with the naziri. In a sub-division the normal way of doing this is to deposit in the sub-treasury. If the sub-treasury is closed on the due date, a deposit made on the next day on which it is open is valid. (Middleton.) Surpat Singh v. Nabi Mandal. 10 B.R. 643.

——Ss. 15 and 16—Applicability and Scope— Proceeding for recovery of arrears pending— Application under S. 16—Maintainability.

S. 15 of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 applies only to occupancy holding for the arrears of rent of which there is a suit or proceeding pending, and not to an occupancy holding for the arrears of rent of which there is no pending suit or proceeding. It is therefore not correct to say that S. 15 comprehends all occupancy holdings and that S. 16 consequently does not apply to any occupancy holding. Where a proceeding is pending for recovery of the arrears of an occupancy holding the holding is one to which S. 15 (b) applies and to which S. 16 cannot apply; and an application under S. 16 is not maintainable. (Agarwala and Shearer, JJ) KAMESHWAR SINGH BAHADUR v. RAMESHWAR SINGH. 21 Pat. 704=1942 P.W.N. 205=205 I.C. 136=15 R.P. 247=9 B.R. 197=24 P.L.T. 113=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 66.

S.15 of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act has no application to an occupancy holding in respect of which produce rent and not money rent is payable. Such a holding comes within S. 16 of the Act and an application for reduction of rent of such a holding can properly be made under S. 16 of the Act. (Harries, C.J., and Varma J.) SREE KANT LAL v. AJOHEVA SINGH. 194 I.C. 99 = 7 B.R. 698=1941 PW N. 234=22 Pat, L.T. 374=13 R.P. 653=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 390.

Per Full Bench, (Shearer, J., contra.)—Upon a proper construction of S. 15 and S. 16 of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 an occupancy holding bearing cash rent comes within S. 16 of the act if the raiyat is not entitled to relief under S. 15. ——Ss. 15 and 16—Applicability—Occupancy holding with cash rental—Right of tenant to apply for relief under S. 16.

tenants are given relief under S. 15 of the Act and cannot apply under S. 16 (1) of the Act. If they can obtain no such relief under S. 15, they cannot fall back on S 16. (Harries, C.J., and Manohar Lall, J.) KAMESHWAR SINGH BAHADUR V DHUNMAN GOPE. 21 Pat. 794=1942 P.W.N. 208=205 I.C. 111=15 R.P. 243=24 Pat.L.T 94=9 B.R. 194=A.I.R 1943 Pat. 73.

Ss 15 and 20-Applicability-Post-sale stage of execution.

Reading Ss. 15 and 20 of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act together, it would seem that where the rent of an occupancy holding has been reduced under S. 112-A (1) (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the landlord shall not even in an execution proceeding be entitled to recover from the raiyat any arrears of rent in excess of the rate allowed by the Rent Reduction Officer. There is nothing in these sections to confine their operation to stages of execution proceedings previous to the sale, and a judgment-debtor cannot be refused relief merely on the ground that the execution sale has already taken place: provided, of course, that the execution proceeding is still pending. The executing Court has power to act in accordance with S. 15 (a) of the Act, although the judgmentdebtor's application is made after the expiry of 30 days from the date of sale. The executing Court clearly does not become functus officio merely on the expiry of the 30 days from the sale -that stage is only reached when the sale is confirmed and the execution case dismissed as on full satisfaction. (Dhavle, J.) P.C. LAL CHOUD-HURY v. BILTO MAHTO. 7 B.R. 941=195 I.C. 490 = 14 R P. 131=1941 P.W.N. 603=A.1.R 1941 Pat. 572.

S.15—Decree for rent and cess — Reduction of rent subsequently in proceedings under S.15—Decree for cess—If also reduced. See BENGAL CESS ACT, S.41. 21 Pat. 628.

—S. 15 (a)—Applicability—Execution proceedings—Sale held but not confirmed—Rent reduced after sale in favour of decree-holder but before confirmation—Amount to be deposited by judyment-debtor under S. 174 of Bihar Tenancy Act.

The mandatory provisions of S. 15 (a) of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act are made applicable to proceedings for the execution of a decree by S. 20. The proceedings in execution do not terminate with the sale so that before the sale is confirmed the proceedings still continue to be proceedings in execution. Where therefore, after a sale of a holding in execution of a rent decree in favour of the decree-holder but before its confirmation, the judgment-debtor obtains an order reducing the rent payable under S. 112-A (1) (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, he is not bound to deposit the full amount for which the sale was held when he applies to have the sale set aside under S. 174 of the Bihar Tenancy Act. He is required to deposit only such amount as the decree-holder is entitled to recover on account of arrears of rent as was finally determined by the Rent Reduction Officer. If the judgment debtor deposits more, he is entitled to withdraw the excess amount. (Manohar Lall, J.) SUKHRAJ ROY v. KESHAB MOHAN THAKUR. 8 B.R. 108=197 I.C. 175=1941 P.W.N. 749=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 262.

-S. 15 (a)—Applicability—"Rent"—If includes damages for use and occupation—Decree for damages for compensation for use and damages for period between sale and delivery of possession—If liable to reduction.

S. 15 (a) of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 clearly deals only with rent and not with damages or profits for use and occupation. Where after the sale of a holding for arrears of rent and purchase by the landlord, the landlord obtains a money decree against the ex-tenant for the period between the date of the sale and the date of delivery of possession to the landlord such decree amount is not rent which can be reduced under S. 15 (a). The relationship of landlord and tenant comes to an end and ceases to exist when the holding is sold for arrears of rent; and what would be payable by the occupant is only damages for use and occupation and not rent. The fact that the land is subsequently restored to the tenant under Bihar Act IX of 1938 does not have the effect of converting the suit and decree for damages for use into one for rent under S. 12 ot the Act. As there is no claim for rent and as no decree for rent is passed S. 15 (a) cannot apply. (Agarwala, J.) RAM RAN BIJAY PRASAD SINGH v. AMI TEWARY. 199 I.C. 676=8 B.R. 607=14 R.P. 609 =22 Pat. L.T. 998=A.I R. 1942 Pat. 131.

S. 15 (c)—Construction and scope—Landlord if altogether deprived of right to interest on arrears of rent on reduction.

S. 15(c) of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 has not the effect of depriving the landlord altogether if his right to interest on the arrears of interest when the rent has been reduced under the Act. The section has to be read as meaning only that he is not entitled to interest "on the amount of the arrear so reduced," i.e., on the difference between the original rent and the reduced rent. The addition of the words "on the amount of arrears so reduced" after interest in S. 15 (c) clearly indicates that the Legislature did not intend to deprive the landlord of interest to which he is expressly declared to be entitled by S. 67 of the Bihar Tenancy Act. It is clear that landlord is to get interest only on the basis of the reduced rent. (Agarwala, J.) RAM RANBIJAY PRASAD SINGH v. INDARDEO SAHAI. 199 I.C. 251=8 B R. 531=14 R.P. 565=22 Pat.L.T. 996=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 119.

-S. 15 (c)—Construction—"The amount of the arrears as so reduced"-Meaning of-Right of landlord to interest on amount of reduced rent and on amount knocked off.

There can be no doubt that the words "the amount of the arrears as so reduced" in S. 15 (c) of Bihar Act IX of 1938 refer to the reduced amount, that is to say, the amount which is payable as a result of the rent reduction proceedings. A decree-holder landlord is not therefore entitled to interest on the reduced amount. Nor is the decree holder landlord entitled to interest on the amount of arrears of rent which has been knocked off as a result of the rent reduction proceedings. Interest on the amount knocked off or disallowed R.P. 653=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 390, is merely accessory to the principle disallowed and when the principal itself is not recoverable the interest too is not recoverable. (Harnes, C.J. and Fazl Ali, J.) INDERDEO SAHAI v. RAM RANBI J.Y PRASAD SINGH. 21 Pat. 628=203 I.C. 418=9 B.R. 80=15 R.P. 172=24 P.L.T. 46 =A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 470.

-S. 16-Applicability-Occupancy holding with cash rent.

S. 16 of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 definitely refers only to holdings which are not referred to in S. 15, and cannot therefore include any occupancy holding paying cash rent. (Middleton. Dronarain TEWARI v. KAMESHWAR SINGH BAHADUR. 8 B.R. 760.

-S. 16—Application under-Erroneous order on -If null and void-Executing Court-If can ignore wrong order.

The fact that the order passed by a Rent Reduction Officer on an application for reduction of rent under S. 16 of the Bihar Act IX of 1938 is wrong does not necessarily make it an order without jurisdiction. If there is no inherent want of jurisdiction, and the application is one which the Rent Reduction Officer has jurisdiction to entertain, the fact that he finds the facts wrongly cannot make his order null and void; the order of the Collector reducing the rent cannot be ignored and effect must be given to it in execution proceedings. The executing Court execution proceedings cannot ignore an order with jurisdiction, however erroneous the order may be. (Harries, C.J, and Varma, J.) SREE KANT LAL v. AJODHYA SINGH. 194 I.C. 99=7 B.R. 698=1941 P.W.N. 234=22 Pat.L.T. 374=13 R.P. 653=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 390.

-S 16-Occupancy raivat-No suit or proceeding pending for recovery of arrears of rent-Right to apply under S. 16 without applying under S. 112-A, Bihar Tenancy Act.

Quaere.-Whether an occupany raiyat against whom no suit or proceeding is pending for recovery of arrears of rent of his holding is entitled to make an application under S 16 of Bihar Act IX of 1938 without having applied for settlement or reduction of rent under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act. (Agarwala and Shearer, JJ.) KAMESHWAR SINGH BAHADUR V RAMESHWAR SINGH. 21 Pat. 704=1942 P.W.N. 205=205 I. C. 136=15 R P. 247=9 B.R. 197=24 P.L.T. 113 A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 66.

-S 16 (1)-Applicability-Relationship of land lord and tenant-If should subsist at time of application for reduction.

There is no warrant for holding that the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act has no application if the relationship of landlord and tenant has ceased to exist when rent reduction proceedings are commenced. If a relationship of landlord and raivat existed between the parties during the period in which the rent sought to be reduced accrued, then it matters not whether such relationship is subsisting when application is made under S. 16 (1) of the Act to reduce the arrears due to the exlandlord. (Harries, C.J., and Vorma, J.) SREE KANT LAL v. Alodhya Singh. 194 I.C. 99=7 B R. 698=22 Pat.L.T. 374=1941 P.W.N. 234=13 reducing decretal amount and granting instalment— Absence of prior application for stay—furisdiction of executing Court to execute original decree and hold sale.

Where an application is made under S. 16 of Bihar Act IX of 1938 to reduce the rent_due under a decree for arrears of rent, the Rent Reduction Officer is fully empowered to reduce the decretal amount due to convert the decree into an instalment decree. Under S. 19 of the Act, the moment the Rent Reduction Officer has reduced the arrears and granted instalments, execution of the original decree cannot proceed. The executing Court has to give effect to the order which is made with jurisdiction. Whether or not a previous application had been made to stay proceedings under S. 17 of the Act, pending the result of rent reduction proceedings, further execution cannot proceed once the Rent Reduction Officer has made an order reducing rent and granting instalments, and the executing Court has no jurisdiction to sell the judgment debtor's property in execution of the decree as it originally stood. (Harries, C.J., and Varma, J.) SREE KANT LAL v. AJODHYA SINGH. 194 I.C 99=1941 P.W.N. 234=7 B.R 698=22 Pat. L.T. 374=13 R. P. 653=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 390.

Upon a true construction of S. 18 (2) (a) of Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands Act and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act, the Collector must dismiss the application of a tenant under S. 16, unless the tenant has complied with the three requirements of S. 18 (2) (a) (i), (ii) and (iii). A tenant who has not complied with all the three has no right to claim a reduction of rent. (Harries, C.J., and Varma, J.) SREE KANT LAL v. AJODHYA SINGH. 194 I.C. 99=7 B.R. 698=22 Pat. ——S. 22—Commissioner's powers of Interference— Order under S. 69, Bengal Tenancy Act, at variance with evidence—Interference.

In view of S. 22 of the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act, a Commissioner has no power to revise orders of the Restoration Officer under S. 69 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, unless the latter has acted without jurisdiction or there has been some material irregularity. Where the Restoration Officer accepts self-contradictory statements at at their face value and brushes aside documents, and passes an order at variance with the evidance his order is without jurisdiction and must be held to be perverse so as to justify interference in rivision. (Middleton.) DIPA SINGH v. BANWARI SINGH. 8 B.R. 93.

S. 22—Finding of fact—Interference—Powers of Commissioner.

A finding of fact should not be interfered with in revision by the Commissioner unless it can be characterised as perverse. The mere fact that the Commissioner considers that the Restoration Officer had not sufficient reasons for believing the genuineness of an alleged settlement cannot justify his interference with a finding of fact by the Restoration Officer. (Middleton.) SARJUG SINGH v. SHEO SHANKAR MAHTON. 8 B.R. 28.

BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

- S. 22—Finding of fact—Interference—Powers of Commissioner.

Unless a finding of fact arrived at by the Restoration Officer is perverse or contrary to the evidence, and can be said to be absolutely untenable, the Commissioner is not justified in upsetting a pure finding of fact in revision, merely because he thinks that there was no sufficient reason for the lower Court to reject a document. (Middleton) MAHOMED MOBIN v. KEDARNATH THAKUR. 8 B.R. 42.

Where in a case under the Registration of Bakasht Lands Act, the Registration officer has entirely disregarded important evidence and ignored the recitals in a document of settlement, the commissioner is entitled in revision to interfere on questions of fact. The circumstances being exceptional, such interference is justified and the Board of Revenue will not allow a second revision on that ground. (Middleton.) MAHABIR SINGH v. RAMDAS ROUT. 8 B.R. 330.

5. 22-Revision—New point—Plea of nonfoinder of parties—If can be raised for first time in second revision to Commissioner.

Where a point as to non-joinder of parties is taken for the first time in second revision before the Commissioner, he is justified in declining to allow it to be raised. (Middleton.) Surendradeo Narain v. Droki Singh. 8 B R. 149.

——— S. 22—Revision—Powers of Board of Revenue— Power to interfere in cases of non-joinder or other defects in application.

In cases under the Bihar Restoration of Bakasht Lands and Reduction of Arrears of Rent Act, it in open to the Board of Revenue in revision to consider whether the defects or omissions in an application, such as non-joinder, are so substantial that the application should be regarded as not maintainable and an order grauting restoration is therefore without jurisdiction. S. 5-Co-sharers landlords—Person inducted on land by one of them—Rights of.

A person who is inducted upon the land belonging to a number of co-sharers by one co-sharer without the consent or authority, express or implied, of the former is not a raiyat in respect of the entire land and cannot acquire occupancy right in it by being in possession for 12 years or upwards. (Fasl Ali, C.J., Chatterji and Sinha, JJ.) KANIZ FATMA v. HOSSAINUDDIN AHMAD. 22 Pat. 382=207 I.C. 353=16 R P. 21=9 B R. 401=1943 P.W.N. 161=24 P.L.T. 175=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 194 (F.B.).

S. 13—Purchase of share of tenure—Notice not given to landlord—Purchaser not impleaded in rent suit—Decree, if affect his interest.

There is nothing in the Bihar Tenancy Act to suggest that the title of the transferee is not complete until the landlord receives rotice of the transfer. The mere fact that the Court does not carry out the directions contained in S. 13 of the Act cannot affect the title of the transferee, nor can his failure to deposit the landlord's fee. If, therefore, in a rent suit against the recorded tenants, the landlord does not implead the transferee who has purchased a share in the tenure, the decree does not affect his interest. (Fasl Ali. C.J. and Agarwala, J.) CHANDRA SEKHAR MESSIR V. JAGARNATH SINGH. 24 Pat. 148=1945 P.W.N. 338=A.I R. 1945 Pat. 313.

——S. 13—Scope—Sale of tenure in execution—Confirmation of sale and delivery of possession to purch Subsequent sust against original tenant for rent—Execution—Sale of tenure in execution of such decree—Legality.

The effect of S. 13 of the Bihar Tenancy Act is that on an involuntary sale of a permanent tenure being confirmed by the Court, title in the tenure passes to the purchaser at the sale, and the transfer is complete not with standing that the landlord's transfer fee has not been deposited or paid. The liability of the original tenant for payment of rent comes to an end on confirmation of the sale. Therefore any proceedings for rent after the completion of the transfer must be against the transferee, and any decree passed in a suit against a person other than the transferee cannot confer on the landlord any right to ignore the interest of the transferee. Where, after a tenure had been sold in execution and possession thereof had been delivered to the purchaser after confirmation of the sale, a landlord sues the original tenant for rent and obtains a decree, he cannot, in execution of such decree, bring to sale the tenure which had passed to the purchaser in execution before the suit. S. 21—Applicability—Ghairmazrua land—Settlement for residential purpose after T.P. Act—Entry showing possession of occupant-Value of.

S. 21 of the Bihar Tenancy Act has no application to the case of land which is not settled with a person as a raiyat; where the land is ghairmasrua land with a house and sehan on it and is settled after the T.P. Act for residential purposes, there being no registered instrument, an entry in the record-of-rights showing a person as being in possession of the land with the house and sehan on it, falls outside the purview of record-of-rights under Ch. X of the Bihar Tenancy Act, and no inference of permanent tenancy can be drawn. Such an entry is not meant to be a decision as to the rights of the landloid and tenant respectively (Harries, C.J., and Dhavle, J.) RAM RAN BIJAYA PRASAD SINGH v. RAMJIVAN RAM. 200 I.C. 769=8 B.R. 727=15 R.P. 11=23 Pat. L.T. 294 A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 397.

——Ss. 22 Expl. and 112-A—Applicability—Holding owned by Hindu father—Father and sons forming joint family—Sons purchasing holding in their names— Right to apply for reduction of rent.

It is only an occupancy raiyat who can apply for reduction of rent under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act. In the case of holding which is owned by a Hindu father, his undivided sons who form a joint family with him must be deemed to have an interest in the proprietary right of their father. They cannot therefore have occu-

A co-sharer landlord in possession under S. 22 (2) of the Bihar Tenancy Act (as amended in 1907), having purchased an occupancy holding in execution of a decree for rent in his favour against the tenant, is not a tenant under his cosharers, and what is payable by him to them is not rent. A suit against such a co-sharer by the other co-sharers for what is payable by him under S. 22 (2) of the Act, is not a suit for rent as contemplated by Art. 8 of Sch. II of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, and is therefore cognizable by the Court of Small Causes. No second appeal lies in such a case. An application for execution of the decree in such a suit is governed by the general law of limitation and not by Art. 6 of Sch. III of the Bihar Tenancy Act. (Agarwala. J.) purpose of tenancy.

Under S. 23 (2) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, as amended in 1934 it is no longer open to the Courts to speculate or to receive evidence to show that the erection of buildings (not merely a dwelling house as in S. 76) for the domestic or agricultural purposes of the raiyat and his family is or is not an improvement, or does or does not impair the value of the land, or does or does not render it unfit for the purposes of the tenancy. The section says in the broadest terms that it shall not be deemed to impair the value of the land materially or to render it unfit for the purposes of the tenancy. The question as to what proportion of the area of the tenancy is occupied by the structures erected thereon is no longer a point on which such a case has now to be decided. The purposes of an agricultural tenancy include the erection of a building for the domestic purposes of a raiyat and the residence of the raiyat is covered by S 23(2) (c). -(as amended in 1938). S 26-A.—Applicability -Homestead land-S. 182-Object and scope of.

It is well settled that a tenant who is not a raiyat in respect of a piece of homestead land, but is so in respect of the agricultural land which he holds in the village, and the homestead land is held otherwise than as part of the tenant's holding as a raiyat, must be regarded as holding the homestead land in accordance with the provisions of the Bihar Tenancy Act in the absence of any local custom or usage. S 26 A of the Act read with S. 182 of the Act would apply to the homestead land in the same way as it is applicable to land held by a raiyat. The land would therefore be transferable under S. 26-A. (Sinha and Das, JJ.) G, M. PRASAD SAHI v. PRIKHA. 24 Pat. 366=1945 P.W.N. 468=A.I.B. 1945 Pat. 428.

-S. 26-A (as amended in 1938)—Applicability to under-raiyat—Right of under-raiyat to transfer land.

Occupancy holding in S. 26-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act refers to the holding of an occupancy raiyat and not the land of an under-raiyat having a right of occupancy. S. 26-A does not confer any right of transfer on an under-raiyat even when read with S. 48-B of the Act. (Rowland, J.) Abass Khan v. Mahomed Hussain. 195 I.C. 866=14 R.P. 168=7 B.R. 981=22 Pat. Title extinguished by rent sale in execution of decree before 1934—If revived. See Bih. Ten. Act, S. 26-N. 22 Pat. 370 (F.B.).

-S. 26-B-Scope-Transfer after 1-1-1923 Landlord not recognising—Deposit of transfer fee-If makes transfer binding on landlord— Questions of title--Jurisdiction of Revenue Court to decide.

The procedure for payment of a landlord's transfer-fee under S. 26-B of the Bihar Tenancy Act cannot be uttlised to compel the landlord to recognise a transfer which he had not previously recognised. Where a landlord has not recognised a transfer effected after 1-1-1923, it is not hinding on him without notice as provided by the proviso in S. 26-B. He cannot be compelled to recognise a transfer by a tenant whom he had never recognised or accepted as a tenant. A Revenue Court is not the proper forum to decide contested questions of title such as whether a transfer is a real transaction or only a nominal one, or whether the transferee and his heirs had been in possession. (Middleton.) GAWRI SHANKAR RAM v. GIRJA PRASAD SINGH. 7 B.R. 940.

-S. 26-N—Applicability—Rent decree fully executed prior to section coming into force.

Though S. 26-N which was introduced into the Bihar Tenancy Act by the (Amendment) Act, 1934, was expressly made retrospective, it could not possibly affect rent decrees which had been obtained and which had been fully executed previous to the section coming into force. The section will apply to all cases which had not been the subject-matter of litigation or which were actually the subject-matter of litigation when the Amending Act came into force, namely, on 10th June, 1935. It can have no application whatsoever when the transferee had been lawfully ejected before the Amending Act came into operation. The section cannot, therefore, affect the rights of a purchaser who had purchased the property in execution of a rent decree and obtained possession before the Amending Act actually came into force. (Harries, C.J., and Manohar Lall. J) RAJA JHA v RAMCHANDRA JHA. 7 B. R 720=194 I.C. 199=13 R.P. 674=1941 P.W.N. 450=22 Pat.L.T. 505=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 455.

-S. 26-N (as amended in 1934)—Scope and effect—Rent sale in execution of rent decree before Act—Purchaser's right—If affected— Rights already extinguished—If can be revived— S. 26-B, proviso.

Neither S. 26-N of the Bihar Tenancy Act as amended in 1934 nor the proviso to S. 26-B of the Act as amended Sin 1938, which replaced the old section 26-N, though expressly made retrospec-tive can affect any title which had already been acquired under a rent sale held in execution of a valid rent decree under the Bengal Tenancy Act then in force. An occupancy holding which was not transferable without the landlord's consent under the law then in force (Bengal Tenancy Act), was purchased by the plaintiff under a registered sale deed of 10—6—1917, but the plaintiff did not get his name entered in the landlord's sherists. In 1932 the landlord sued the recorded tenant's heir and obtained a rent decree against that heir and brought the holding to sale in execution of that decree. Defendant 2 purchased the holding at the sale and purported to take delivery of possession in 1934. In 193 defendant 1 obtained a money decree against defendant 2 and in execution attached the hold-ing. The plaintiff on the basis of his purchase preferred a claim which was disallowed in 1938 and he then brought a suit under O. 21. R 63, C. P. Code, to establish his right to the holdings.

Held, that the defendant No. 2 having purchased the disputed holding before the Bihar Tenancy Amendment Act of 1934, came into force at a rent sale held in execution of a valid rent decree under the Bengal Tenancy Act then in force, he was not entitled to take the benefit of old S. 26-N of the Act or the proviso to S. 26-B of the Act as amended in 1938. The plaintiff's title having been already extinguished by the rent sale of 1933, his suit must fail. (Fazl A:i, C.J. SAR CHITIST AND CHINTAMAN MANDER V. SIA RAM MANDAL. 22 Pat. 370=207 I.C. 209=16 R.P. 17=9 B.R. 383=24 P.L.T. 150=1943 P.W.N. 101=A I.R. 1943 Pat. 189 (F.B). -S. 29-Applicability-Rent agreed upon in

-(as amended in 1937), Ss. 29 and 112-A (1) (a)—"Enhancement"—Rent increased by compromise in suit-Effect-Cancellation as enhancement under S. 112-A (1) (a)—Jurisdiction of Rent Reduction Officer.

The question whether an increase in rent of a holding is an enhancement under S 29 of the Bihar Tenancy Act is a question of fact, or a mixed question of fact and law to be determined by the authority competent to cancel enhancement under S. 112-A (1) (a) of the Act. The Rent Reduction Officer, appointed to discharge the functions of the Collector under S. 112-A, has jurisdiction to consider and decide that question. He has jurisdiction to decide wrong as well as right. If he decides wrong, the wronged party can only take the course prescribed by law for setting matters right; and if that course is not taken the deci sion, however wrong, cannot be disturbed. Where the rent of a holding is increased as the result of a com promise in a suit, it cannot be said that the rent settled by the compromise is not an enhancement under S. 29 of the Bihar Tenancy Act. On the other hand the Rent Reduction Officer would be perfectly justified and would be within jurisdiction in treating the increased rent as an enhancement and cancelling it under S. 112 A (1) (a) (Sinha and Pande, JJ.) PRABHU v. DOMA. 24 Pat. 434.

S. 29 first proviso—Applicability and scope -Illegal enhancement paid for more than three years.—If becomes legal.

The 1st proviso to S. 29 of the Bihar Tenancy Act refers only to Cl. (a) of S. 29. An extra levy which is illegal does not become legal under the proviso when it has been paid for three years. The proviso only provides that if an enhanced rent has been actually paid for three years there is no need for the contract of enhancement being in writing and registered. (Middleton.) #### BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

Proviso (i) to S. 29 of the Bihar Tenancy Act does not apply to an enhancement exceeding two annas in the rupee, but only applies to make a contract which is not in writing registered, en-forceable if the enhancement has been paid for three years. It does not say that an enhancement exceeding two annas in the rupee is legal as soon as it has been paid for three years. Such an enhancement can therefore be disregarded for purposes of S. 112-A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act. (Middleton.) JAGAT PRASAD SINGH v. KULDIP SINGH. 8. B.R 694.

-S. 38 (as amended by Act VIII of 1937) -Repeal of-Effect-Suit for rent-Claim to abatement on ground that land is covered with sand-Power of Court to grant relief.

Up to the amendment of the Bihar Tenancy Act in 1938 by the Amendment Act VIII of 1937 which repealed S. 38 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, an occupancy tenant had the right to maintain a suit for abatement of rent on the ground that his holding or a portion of it was covered with sand, and both occupancy raiyats and other tenants could in a suit for rent against them, claim relief on the same ground relying on the rule of justice equity and good conscience under which Courts have always the power to grant relief on this ground in suits for rent. The repeal of S. 38, by the Amending Act of 1937, has only deprived an occupancy raiyat of his right to obtain relief of abatement by suit, but the right of every tenant of agricultural land including occupancy raiyats to obtain relief be way of abatement in a suit for rent against him has not been affected by the Amendment Act. (Agarwala, 1.) SHEONANDAN PRASAD SINGH v. KRISHNA CHANDRA. 197 I.C. 694-8 B.R. 271-14 R.P. 342-22 Pat.L.T. 789 =A.I.R 1941 Pat. 611.

-Ss. 40 and 112—Commutation—Chaulaba rent-Right to commutation-Interference regards rotes and calculation in commutation.

Chaulaba rents can be commuted and the tenants are entitled to apply and have such rents commuted. If such commutation is refused, the Board will interfere in revision. But the Board will not interfere as regards the rates and calculations which result only in very small differences. (Middleton.) DILCHAND MAHTON v. SHAH MD. SAJJAD. 8 B.R. 438.

-S. 40-Commutation of rent-Evidence of realisation-Decrees for rent-Value of.

Rent decrees may be some evidence of realisation in cases of commutation of rent but the value of such evidence must in any case, be appraised, and when the decrees are based on cropcutting experiments made in a few plots for one year only, clearly the value of such evidence as to realisation is practically nil. The question is one of fact. (Middleton.) Alakh NARAIN SINHA v. DAHU MAHTON. 10 B.R. 180.

-S. 40-Scope-Illegal realisation by landlord-If can be taken into account—Application of past prices to ascertain cash values of previous realisations-Proprietv.

All illegal realisation by the landlord cannot be taken into consideration in commutation proceedings under S 40 of the B.T. Act. Where a landlord who was under the record-of-rights entitled only to half, has been consistently realising 9/16 of the produce, the 1/16 is an illegal realisation and should not the taken into account. It is not correct under S. 40 to apply past prices for ascertaining the cash value of previous realisations; as that would be inequitable the tenants. (Middleton.) SAHODRI v. SH. ABDUL RAUF. 1941 P. W.N. 491.

-S. 40 (4) - Applicability and Scope - Manhunda rent-Determination of rent operating as reduction of cash equivalent of produce rent—If illegal.

S. 40 (4) of the B. T. Act applies to Manhunda rent and it is not illegal to determine a rent which in effect is a reduction on the cash equivalent of the produce rent as fixed by the document creating the Manhunda rent. There is no warrant for holding that a Revenue Court cannot under the guise of commutation vary a contract between the landlord and the raiyat. A raiyat cannot contract himself out of his right to apply for commutation, and if the provisions of the law for effecting commutation make it compulsory (as they do) to have regard to certain factors which may result in a reduction of the rent, the landlord cannot plead that this reduction is illegal. (Middleton.) DWARKADHISH PRASAD SINGH v. KARTIC MISIR. 8 B.R. 177.

-S. 40 (4) (c) - Rent decree of Civil Court-Admissibility as evidence of realisation-Value of such

A Civil Court decree for rent is not inadmissible as evidence of realisation in a rent commutation matter. Such a decree is admissible as some evidence of realisation, although realisation by rent decree is only a very rough guide for fixing a commuted rent. There is nothing illegal or improper in considering a rent decree in such light. (Middleton.) BASDEO SINGH v. LACHH-UMAN KISHORE SARAN. 10 B.R. 376.

-S. 40 (6) (as amended in 1938)—Collector's order-Finality-Revision-Interference-When justified.

Where an appellate order is declared by-law to be final, the superior revenue authorities, such as the Commissioner and the Board of Revenue cannot interfere in revision either on the ground of any error of law or on the ground that the order has proceeded on a wrong view of fact. But the Board or the Commissioner may interfere with an order which is, of itself, without jurisdiction. Revision is in the discretion of the revising Court and no party has a prescriptive right to have an order modified in revision. Under S. 40 (6) of the Bihar Tenancy Act as amended in 1938, the decision of the Collector in a commutation case, and that of the prescribed authority on appeal are final, and unless they are without jurisdiction, cannot be interfered with in revision by the Commissioner. (Middleton) BHATU MAHTON v. AHSANUL ZAFAR. 10 B.R. 335.

-S. 40 (6)—Scope—Order rejecting landlord's objections to commutation-Appealability-Remedy.

Under S. 40 (6) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, an appeal lies from an order under S. 40 (3) commuting rent and not from an order rejecting the landlord's objection to commutation. Where in a commutation case, the landlord objects on the ground that the applicant is not in possession and is not entitled to commutation, and the objection is rejected by the Revenue Officer, there is no

-S. 40-A-Scope-If overrides S. 112-Revenue Officer invested with power to reduce rent-Jurisdiction to reduce rent commuted under S. 40 by compromise.

S. 40-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act cannot be read as overriding the provisions of S. 112; S. 112 is quite independent of S. 40-A. S. 40-A only prohibits further reduction of rent within 15 years at the instance of the tenant just as much as it prohibits enhancement of the rent within 15 years at the instance of the landlord when tent had been commuted under S. 40, except under certain conditions. Under S. 112, if it becomes necessary in the interests of public order or of the local welfare, the Provincial Government has the authority to invest a Revenue Officer with the power to settle all rents without exception, including even rents which have been commuted under S. 40. A Revenue Officer so invested with power to reduce rent has jurisdiction to reduce the rent of a holding which was commuted either under S. 40 or by agreement between the tenant and the landlord between the 1st day of January, 1911, and the 31st day of December, 1936. Where in a proceeding under S. 40 of the Act, the rent was reduced according to a compromise between the landlord and the tenant and the Revenue Officer drew up a schedule under S. 40 stating that it would take effect from 1st September, 1933, the order of commutation is one under S. 40, though the compromise may have been the basis as to the extent of the commutation. If the rent is reduced according to the principles laid down in the clauses mentioned in S. 40-A, there is substantial compliance with the section and the order of reduction cannot be said to be without jurisdiction. (Fazi Ali, C.J. and Imam, J.) YASIN v. TARAMAHTON. 24 Pat. 597= A I R. 1946 Pat. 15.

-S. 48-Applicability-Occupancy holding-Raiyat carving out portion and settling same with tenant under registered patta for non-agricultural purposes—Suit by heirs of raivat against successor of tenant—Rent payable—Rate fixed by Act or rate fixed in patta—Transfer of Property Act—

Applicability.

The applicability of the Bihar Tenancy Act depends upon the nature of the original tenancy and not on the character of the parcels which go to compose the land forming the tenancy. The provisions of the Act will apply if the lease is for agricultural purposes and not because the land is agricultural. The land in dispute was the occupancy holding of M, who was the occupancy raiyat thereof. M settled a part of the land with defendant No. 1 who was the manager of an institution. He entered into possession under a registered patta, dated 14th November, 1918, agreeing to pay an annual rental of Rs. 32. The holding, out of which, the land was so settled was at the time an agricultural holding. M died without issue. The plaintiffs, who were the heirs of M, brought a suit in 1938 against the 1st defendant and the 2nd defendant, the present manager of the institution, for recovery of arrears of rent contending that they sued in their capacity as co-sharer landlords, and that the suit was governed not by S. 48 of the Bihar Tenancy Act but by the T. P. Act. The defendants pleaded that the plaintiff's predecessor having been found to have been in possession as the raivat of right of appeal to the Collector from such reject an occupancy holding, S. 48 of the B. T. Act plied. It was found that the object of the tenancy ereated in 1918 in favour of the 1st defendant was not for agricultural purposes, though the nature of the original tenancy was undoubtedly agricultural.

Held, (1) that the case was governed by the Bihar Tenancy Act, the holding being an agricultural holding; (2) that the 2nd defendant was an under-raiyat under the plaintiffs; and (3) that he was liable to pay rent not at the jama of Rs. 32 fixed under the patta of 1918, but only at the rate provided by S. 48 of the Bihar Tenancy Act. (Manohar Lall and Chatterji, JJ.) JADO SINGH V. BISHUNATH LALL. 196 I C. 849=22 Pat L.T. 821=14 R.P. 257=8 B.R. 127=A.I.R. 1942 Pat.

Ss. 48-A and 48-B (as amended in 1938) -Applicability and scope-Under-raigat in possession for more than 12 years—Service of notice of ejectment-Subsequent suit-Death of tenant -Amendment Act coming into force-Effect-Accrual of occupancy rights-Retrospective operation-Rights of legal representative to continue in possession. S. 48-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, as amended by Act XI of 1938, is clearly retrospective and applies to all persons who have held as underraiyats and who have not been ejected when the Act came into force. A notice served under S. 49 of the Act cannot extinguish the under raiyat's interest, it merely furnishes a cause of action for an ejectment suit. Until the tenant is ejected in execution of a decree his rights cannot be extinguished. S. 48-A is expressly made retrospective and would apply to pending actions. Where it is found that the tenant was in continuous possession of the disputed land as an underraiyat for more than 12 years before the service of notice under S. 49, he must, by operation of S. 48-A, be deemed to have acquired a right of occupancy in the land before the notice was served on him under S. 49, and no decree in ejectment can be passed against such tenant after the coming into force of the Amendment Act, though the suit was filed before, and pending at the time of the coming into force of the Amendment Act of 1940. The service of a notice under S. 49 in such a case is quite ineffective. The fact that the tenant dies during the pendency of the suit would make no difference, when he has under S. 48-A acquired occupancy rights before the date of the suit. S. 48-B of the Act as amended would apply, and on the tenant's death his interest in the land devolves upon his heirs as if the land had been held by him as an occupancy raiyat. The landlord would not be entitled to a decree for possession as against the heir who is impleaded as the deceased tenant's legal who is impleaded as the deceased tenant's regar representative on his death. must be deemed to have acquired occupancy rights in the land in dispute if he has continuously held the land as an under-raivat for more than 12 years before the suit. The fact that notice to quit was given to the tenant (defendant) during that period would not prevent the accrual of occupancy rights. (Agarwala, J.) JAI NARAIN RAUT v. -S. 48-A-(as amended in 1938), Scope-Retrospective operation—Government of India Act, S. 292-Construction and scope-If affects applicability of

S. 48.4, B. T. Act. S. 48-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, as amended in 1938, is retrospective. The object of that section was to quiet titles which are more than 12 years old and to ensure that if during these twelve years the under-raiyats have not been the ejected, they shall have the right to remain on the land as if they were occupancy tenants. In the application of the section to pending litigations, there is no distinction between cases where the decree of the lower Court is affirmed by the appellate Court and those in which it is reversed nor does S. 292 of the Government of India Act of 1935 prohibit the giving of retrospective effect to S. 48-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act. There is nothing in S. 292 to suggest that there was any intention to curtail the power of the Indian legislature or other competent authority to decide in what manner a new law should ope rate as against the existing rights. All that S. 292 provides is that the existing law shall remain in force until it is repealed and not that the rights which have accrued under that law shall continue to be exercised even after the date of the repeal. S. 292 can obviously have no application to a case where pending appeal the question of the applicability of S. 84-A of the new Bihar Tenancy Act arises after the old law has been changed and the new section has come into operation. If the Legislature can make new laws and unmake old laws, it can also create new rights as well as take away rights already accrued. S. 48-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act was intended to be given effect to in the case of all under-tenants whose rights were in dispute at the time the section came into force irrespective of whether they had been holding lands since before its enactment or otherwise. -S.48-A-Scope-Retrospective operation-Underraivat in continuous possession for 12 years-Notice to quit - Amending Act coming into force-Effect-Electm nt suit-Maintainability

S. 48-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act as amended in 1938, is clearly retrospective and applies to all persons who have held as under-raiyats for twelve years continuously and who have not been ejected when the Act came into force. Even if the landlord had served a notice to quit on the under-raiyat before the amended Act came into force, the suit for ejectment must fail if before the notice to quit the under-raiyat had been in possession for twelve years.

-S. 51—Presumption—Application of—Rent Reduction case—Rent shown in Terij Laggite of 1903 supported by Attested Rent of 1915—Presumption-Rent when first became payable-S 112-A.

The presumption arising under S. 51 of the Bihar Tenancy Act applies not only in respect of a particular succeeding year when it is proved that rent was realised for the immediately preceding year at a particular rate, but also to each successive year one after another, until its operation is arrested by proof on the part of the tenant that the conditions of the tenancy were altered in the mean while. Where the evidence for the landlord, consisting of the Terij Laggite of 1903, which is accepted by the Rent Reduction Officer as genuine specifies the rate of rent which tallies with the attested rent in 1915, that would be sufficient to show that the rents were not changed between those dates, and unless this is rebutted by the tenant, it must be held that the rent has been traced back to 1903. The landlord's evidence supported by the Attestation Note and the presumption under S.51 of the Bihar Tenancy Act would be sufficient to show that the rent first became payable in 1903 or before that year. In proceedings under S. 112-A of the Act, that year must therefore be taken to be the year when the rent first became payable. (Swanzy.) RAJ KISHORE PRASAD NARAIN SINGH v. BISHUN SAHAI SINGH. 8 B.R. 865.

-S. 52 (as amended in 1938)-Applicability—Suit for rent.-Claim to abatement on ground of diluvion—Right to relief—Burden of proof.

Where in a suit for rent of a holding the defendant-tenant pleads that a portion of the holding having diluviated, he is entitled to a proportionate abatement of rent, the case falls under S. 52 of the Bihar Tenancy Act which gives statutory recognition to the principle which has been recognised by Courts in India that a tenant whether he be an occupancy raiyat or otherwise, is entitled to abatement of rent if the whole or part of the land held by him is diluviated. This relief cannot be denied on the ground taht S. 38 of the Act which gave an occupancy raiyat a right to file a suit for abatement has been repealed by the Amending Act of 1937. The burden of proof is of course on the tenant who has to prove measurement and ascertainment and to show the exact area diluviated in each year. (Rowland and Manohar Lall, II.) SITAL PRASAD v. # BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

When the Register D contains the names of both the proprietor of an interest, the person who is in actual possession must be considered to be the landlord entitled to receive rent. The expression "third person" in the latter part of the section evidently refers to a person other than the one who is recorded in Register D. and cannot mean a person who would be entitled to receive rent according to that Register. (Fazl Ali, C.J. and Agarwala, J.) JADOOPOTEDAR v. CHAMPABATI. 23 Pat. 858=1945 P.W.N. 11=219 I.C. 155=11 B.R 355 = A.I.R.1945 Pat. 157.

-S. 60 -Scope and effect of-Rent receipt by mortgagee-Effect of Bengal Land Registration Act. S. 79.

The effect of S. 60 of the Bihar Tenancy Act read with S. 79 of the Land Registration Act, is that the moment a tenant produces a receipt granted by a person who is a registered proprietor, manager, or mortgagee of a certain estate or his agent authorised to receive rent that receipt should be sufficient discharge for rent, (Fazl Ali, C.J. and Agarwala, J.) -S. 60—Suit for rent by assignee of rent— Assignee not a registered proprietor—Suit, if barred—Bengal Land Registration Act, S. 78.

An assignment of the rents of a holding does not amount to a transfer of proprietary interest in the holding, and if the assignee sues for rent he does not sue as a proprietor. Therefore neither S. 78 of the Land Registration Act nor S. 60 of the Bihar Tenancy Act will be operative to bar the suit by reason of the assignee not being a registered proprietor. (Rowland, I.) RAMSEWAK KURMI v. THAKURJI MAHARAJ. 196 I.C. 552=14 R.P. 206=8 B.R. 34=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 41.

-S. 60—Suit for rent by assignee of rent— Payment by tenant to registered proprietor-If valid discharge.

In a suit to recover rent by an assignee of the rents of a holding which is held under a proprietor, payment by the tenant to the registered proprietor will be a valid discharge for rent under S. 60 of the Bihar Tenancy Act. The fact that the rents have been assigned will not operate to create a new tenancy the raivats not being a party to the transaction and in the absence of any devolution of the proprietary interest. (Rowland, J.) RAMSEWAK KURMI v. THAKURJI MAHARAJ. 196 I.C. 552=14 R.P. 206=8 B.R. 34=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 41.

-S. 65—Applicability—Conditions of—Claim by co-sharer for rent due to another co-sharer-Latter not party to suit—Decree—If rent decree.

S. 65, Bihar Tenancy Act, can be applied only if the rent is claimed by the person to whom it is due and in the manner provided by the Act. Though the mere fact that a wrong or excessive claim is made will not necessarily affect the character of the decree, where the claim is in respect of something which is due not to the claimant but to some other person, S. 65 cannot apply. and a decree in such suit will not be a rent decree and a sale in execution of such decree will not be a sale under the Tenancy Act, but only one under the ordinary law not carrying with it any of the incidents of a sale under the Act. Where a decree for rent is obtained by a landlord against the recorded tenant and a person who had purchased the holding in execution of a money decree if recognised as a tenant by the landlord prior to sale in execution of the rent decree of the landlord, the holding cannot thereafter be sold in execution of the rent decree. The effect of the recognition by the landlord is that a fresh tenancy is created between the landlord and the purchaser under the money decree and unless that tenancy is subject to conditions which would prevent the relationship of landlord and tenant from coming into operation immediately the holding cannot be sold in execution of the decree to which the parchaser under the money decree was not a party. two landlords are disputing; but in a case where two rival landlords are manoeuvering for possession, it would be improper to use the section on the application of one landlord whose possession is disputed with some reason and who is clearly trying to create evidence of possession. To take proceedings under S. 69 in such a case is a misuse of the section. (Middleton.) DWARKA

Where there is a genuine dispute whether the relationship of landlord and tenant exists between the parties and the alleged tenants do not offer any evidence that they had got any rent receipts or had ever been sued for rents since the survey and settlement, the tenants have no right to apply and proceedings under S. 69 of the Bihar Tenancy Act cannot be maintained. In such a case, the Commissioner has jurisdiction to quash the proceedings taken by the Sub-Divisional Officer. (Middleton.) SHEOBARAN CHAU-DHURY V. RAMSEWAK PANDEY. 7 B.R. 931.

-S. 69—Discretion of Revenue officer-Rejection of application on ground that part of holding has not been included in application.

The Revenue officer has full discretion under S. 69 of the Bihar Tenancy Act and he is entitled to reject an application made to him under $.69 on the ground that the application is only in respect of part holdings only and hence not maintainable even though the excluded part is not cultivable at all. There is no obligation on him to apply S. 71 (3) of the Act even if he thinks that the crops had been removed from the excluded parts. It is open to him to hold that part of the holding has not been included and that the application is not maintainable. (Middleton.) GAJADHAR SINGH v. CHANDRIKA CHARAN ROY. 8 B.R. 420.

S. 69 and 70—Discretion of Sub-Divisional Officer—Report of sarpanch—Decision on—Interference by Commissioner.

A sarpanch who was appointed under S. 69 (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act to divide the produce reported that he had divided the produce and that the landlord refused to take his share and asked for directions. The Sub-Divisional Officer issued instructions and the sarpanch then submitted a fresh report stating that the crop showed signs of damage and pilferage. The Sub-Divisional Officer disregarded this portion of the second report and accepted the khasra. The Commissioner held that the proceedings were irregular on the ground that no reasons were given for believing the first report and not believing the second.

Held, in revision by the Board: (1) that there was no ground on which the Commissioner could interfere with the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer as there was no lack of jurisdiction and there was no material irregularity in not exercising the discretion to refuse to accept the khasra; (2) that though the Sub-Divisional Officer might not have given reasons in full, it did not amount to a material irregularity in coming to a decision whether to accept a report or not, unless it was in gross defiance of the ordinary rules of evidence or procedure; (3) that the Commissioner should not interfere with an order declared by law to be final when there was neither lack of jurisdiction nor a material irregulatity in the application of the law; (4) that the Commissioner was therefore not justified in setting aside the proceedings, and that the same should be restored. (Middleton,) Jai Narayan Lal v. Baldeo Prasad. 9 B.R. 191.

S. 69—Revision—Order by Commissioner without notice to party—Revision by Board of Revenue—Interference.

The Board of Revenue will not interfere in revision with an order passed by the Commissioner without service of notice on a party, when that party has not been prejudiced by such irregularity. His order cannot be held to be bad in law merely on the ground that he thought it unnecessary to serve notice on the party, (Swanzy.) BANWARI LAL v. BHOLA NATH SINGH. 11 B.R. 167.

An order by the sub-divisional officer in an application under S. 69 of the Bihar Tenancy Act is final and cannot be interfered with by the Commissioner or the Board of Revenue in revision, even if it be erroneous in law or based on a wrong view of the facts. before Commissioners—Heirs not impleaded—Order of Commissioner—If to be set aside.

Where an order has been set aside by the Commissioner as being without jurisdiction, the Board will not interfere with the Commissioner's order and revive the order passed without jurisdiction merely because at the time of hearing of the case before the Commissioner one of the parties had died and his heirs had not been brought on the record. (Swanzy.) BANWARI LAL v. BHOLA NATH SINGH. 11 B.R. 167.

S. 69-Revision-Powers of Commissioner and Board of Revenue to revise order of Sub-Divisional Officer.

Neither the Board of Revenue nor the Commissioner has power to revise an order made by a sub-divisional officer in a proceeding under S. 69 of the Bihar Tenancy Act unless there has been a defect of jurisdiction. Where, however both parties have applied to the commissioner for revision on merits and also apply to the Board for revision on merits of the commissioner's order modifying that of the sub-divisional Officer it can be held that they have submitted to the jurisdiction of the superior revenue authorities and on that assumption the Board could pass the orders which seem to it proper. (Middleton.) KASHI SINGH v. SANT SARAN LAL. 10 B.R. 148.

The Commissioner, in dealing with cases under 5. 69 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, should not interfere with the orders passed by a Sub-Divisional Officer, unless that Revenue Officer has acted without jurisdiction or has been guilty of such irregularity as could have caused gross injustice. If the order of the Sub-Divisional Officer has been passed with full jurisdiction and is not unreasonable in the circumstances, the Commissioner should not upset or reverse it. (Middleton) RAM NARAIN SINGH v. RAJOOKHAN. 10 B.R. 239.

——S. 69—Revision - Powers of superior Revenue Courts to interfere—Dispute as to relationship of landlord and tenant—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court.

It is settled law that a Revenue Court has no jurisdiction to pass orders under S. 69 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, if there is a genuine dispute as to the relationship of landlord and tenant, and it is also settled law that if an order is declared by law to be final, the superior revenue authorities cannot interfere with it in revision except on the ground that the order was passed without jurisdiction. (Middleton.) MAHOMED YAHIA KHAN z. NONHOO MAHTON. 11 B.R. 7.

——8.69 and 70—Scope—Proceedings under-Effect of—Suit for rent in Civil Court—Maintainability—No final order by Collector—Civil Court —If can ignore proceedings.

When there have been proceedings under Ss. 69 and 70 of the Bihar Tenancy Act in respect of certain years before the Collector, no suit for rents of those years is maintainable in the Civil Court. Once the Collector passes a final order under S. 70 (4) of the Act it cannot be ignored by the Civil Court. A landlord's suit for rent asking that the proceedings under Ss. 69 and 70 should be ignored is not an application to the Civil Court under S. 70 (6) to enforce the Collector's order as a decree, and the Civil Court is not entitled to ignore the proceedings under Ss. 69 and 70 of the Act. Even if no final order has been passed in the proceedings under S. 70 (4), the Civil Court would still be precluded from giving a decree for rent ignoring the proceedings. The remedy of the landlord in such a case is to apply to the Collector to pass a final order. (Meredith, J.) SOMAR SINGH v. BANKE BIHARI LAL. 198 I.C. 390=8 B R. 409=14 R.P. 455= 23 Pat. There is no particular form of notice prescribed under S. 70 (2) of the Bihar Tenancy Act; nor is there any thing in S. 70 (2) which requires that notice should be served personally upon the parties; and no particular method serving the notice is prescribed. Ss. 70 (4) and (5)—Application for division of crops-Allegation that crops had been removed-Power of Deputy Collector to deal with Deputy Collector remarking that no action had been taken and advising party to seek remedy in Civil Court-If final order-Suit-Bar of.

The Collector considering a report under S. 70 (4) of the Bihar Tenancy Act has power to deal with an allegation that the crops have been removed and it is his duty to deal with it and apply the provisions of S. 71 (3) of the Act. It is of course open to the Deputy Collector or to the Collector to refer any question to the Civil Court for decision under S. 70 (6). To advise the parties to the dispute that they may seek any remedy open to them in the Civil Court does not amount to a reference to the Civil Court. Where the Deputy Collector disposes of the allegation that crops have been removed by saying that no action had been taken by the party making the allegation and that he may seek his remedy in the Civil Court, his order is a final order under S. 70 (5) of the Act. No suit will therefore lie. (Agarwala and Shearer, JJ.) Anzar Hussain v. Sham Sing. 1944 P.W.N. 273.

-S. 71 (3)—Applicability—Jurisdiction of Sub-Divisional Officer in proceedings under S. 69.

S. 71 (3) is merely a rule for the guidance of such Courts as are competent to try a rent It does not apply to proceedings under S. 69 of the Act before a Sub-Divisional Officer who has never been vested with any power to try rent suits. Where such an officer finds in proceedings under S. 69, that there was removal of the crops by the tenants and that division would therefore be unfair to the landlords, he has no jurisdiction to constitute himself a Civil Court and to try the money claims of the applicants for rent in cash computed in the manner laid down in S. 71 (3) and give a money decree. If he proceeds in that manner, the whole proceedings are null and void. (Lee.) JAI PRAKASH NARAIN SIN v. QAMRUDDIN. 11 B.B. 340.

The word "divided" in S.71 (3) of the Bil Tenancy Act cannot be restricted to crops divic by the officer appointed under S. 69 (1) if the is reliable evidence regarding divisions not ma under S. 69 at all. It is irrelevant to consider t divisions made in any preceding year. S. 107 (2)—Scope—Non compliance—Effect— Decision by Special Judge—Finality and binding charucter—Omission to prepare schedule and to make note in entry in record-of rights—If detracts validity or binding character of decision.

Under S. 107 (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the decision of the Special Judge in proceedings under Ss. 105, 105-A and 106 of the Act, has the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court in a suit between the parties; and is final and conclusive in regard to the matters decided, subject to Ss, 108 and 109-A. The mere fact that no schedule of rents was prepared as required by S. 107 (2) and that no note was made in the record-ofrights of the rent settled cannot detract from the validity and binding character of the decision so as to leave the matter at large. Nor is the party in whose favour the decision is given debarred from enforcing the rights which were determined in his favour by a decision passed on contest by reason of the omission to prepare a schedule or to make a note as required by S. 107 (2). The only effect of the non preparation of the schedule is only that the record-of-rights finally prepared under S. 103-A. (2) has not been altered. It retains the presumption of correctness and therefore it is incumbent on the party seeking to enforce his rights under the decision of the Special Judge to prove that the entry in the record-of rights is not correct [as it has not not been altered in accordance with S. 107 (2)]. He can prove it by evidence including the decision of the Special Judge which has the force and effect of a decree of Civil Court. (Rowland and Manohar Lall, JJ.)

The expression "occupancy raiyats" in the Government Notification dated June 19, 1937 issued under S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, means "raiyats having a right of occupancy" That is to say, it was meant by Government to exclude raiyats not having that status. It was not meant to exclude raivats such as raivats at fixed rates of rent, who have a higher status which, though being different in some of its incidents, nevertheless does include occupancy rights. The expression 'occupancy raivats' will cover therefore, the case of sharahmoian raiyats since they have occupancy rights and more. The Notification must, therefore, be taken to give the Rent Reduction Officer power to deal with any illegal enhancement of the rents of sharahmoian raiyats (Meredith, J.) RAMSUNDER RAUT v. BHAGWAN SINGH. 199 I.C. 154=8 B.R. 503=14 R.P. 545.

The Kent-Reduction Officer has no jurisdiction to reduce the rent in proceedings under Ss. 112 and 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, where the landlord is not made a party to such proceedings and no notice has been served upon him. An order of reduction or settlement of rent in such circumstances is without jurisdiction and does not bind the Civil Court and has to be ignored by a Court executing a decree for rent at the instance of the landlord. (Manohar Lall, J.) NAND KISHORE LAL v. BASDEO SINGH. 199 I.C. 222=23 P.L.T. 159=8 B.R. 532=14 R.P. 563=A.I.R. 1942 Pat, 258.

Ss. 112 and 112-A Jurisdiction Application for reduction of rent—Plea that application is barred by order under S. 112—Validity of order under S. 112—If can be gone into.

Where the rent of the original katta which has been sub-divided has unquestionably been reduced under S, 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, and it is recorded in proceedings under S. 112 that the parties were present, the mere fact that the name of a deceased tenant appears in the proceedings would not make them invalid. The order under S. 112 operates as a bar, in view of S. 113, to a reduction under S. 112-A (d). An officer acting under S. 112-A, has no jurisdiction to enter into the question of the validity of the prior order under S. 112. (Middleton) BIBI IFATULNISSA BEGUM v. JEHAL DAS. 8 B.R. 726.

. It is not for the Civil Courts to sit in judgment on the decision of the Rent Reduction Officer. If the latter acted with jurisdiction, they were bound by the amount of rent which he found. But, on the contrary, if he had no jurisdiction to reduce the rents, then the Civil Courts could ignore entirely the orders of the Rent Reduction Officer. (Harries, C.J. and Fazi Ali, J.) BHAGWAN SINGH v. RAM SUNDAR. 202 I. C. 97=8 B.R. 848=15 R.P. 89=23 P.L.T. 635=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 388.

The expression occupancy raiyats used in the notification dated 19th June 1937 issued under S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, must be given, the same meaning as it has in the Bihar Tenancy Act, and cannot also include sharahmoian tenants. (Harries, C.J. and Fazt Ali, J.) BHAGWAN SINGH v. RAM SUNDAR. 202 I.C. 97=3 B.R. 848=15 R.P. 89=23 P.L.T. 636 =A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 388.

S. 112—Review—Proceedings under S. 112—Reduction of rent by Deputy Collector on ground that holdings were occupancy—Reversal on appeal—Second appeal dismissed—Subsequent review by trial Court—Legality—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to declare ultra vires.

In proceedings instituted by the authorities under S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the Deputy Collector having jurisdiction over the area in which the suit holdings were situate reduced the rents of the tenants. Though it was hotly contested before him that he had no jurisdiction to reduce the rent as the holdings were not occupancy holdings but fixed rate holdings, reduced the rents. The landlords appealed under S. 194 to the Assistant Settlement Officer, who held that the holdings were fixed rate holdings and the Deputy Collector's order reducing the rents was without jurisdiction and reversed the order of that officer. The tenants then appealed to the Settlement Officer who also upheld the landlord's plea and affirmed the decision of the Assistant Settlement officer. The tenants did not appeal or take any further action, but the Assistant Settlement Officer passed an order reviewing his earlier order and held that the holdings were not fixed rate holdings and reduced the rents as if they were occupancy holdings, and he gave as his reason for reviewing the previous order that he had received a circular from the Settlement The landlords sued in the Civil Court for a declaration that the order passed on review, reducing the rents was ultra vires and of no effect.

BIHAR TENANCÝ AC.T. (VIII OF 1885).

Held, (1) that the order passed by the Assistant Settlement Office reviewing his prior order was one which he could never in the circumstances make, and it was an order made wholly without jurisdiction and, therefore, ultra vires, null and void; (2) that the suit of the landlords must therefore be decreed by the Civil Court which could interfere as the order of the Revenue Court was without jurisdiction. ——S. 112-A—Applicability—Kabuliyat creating holding—Provision against enhancement of rent—Application by raiyat for reduction—If barred.

A provision in a kabuliat of 1914 creating a holding to the effect that the rent cannot be enhanced does not bar an application by the tenant or raiyat for reduction of rent under S. 112-A of the Rihar Tenancy Act, unless enhancement and reduction are both prohibited, it cannot be said that rent is fixed so as to bar an application for reduction. (Middleton.) BAIJNATH PRASAD SINGH v. JONG BAHADUR. 1941 P.W.N. 476 = 8 B.R. 222 (2).

S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act provides for the reduction of the rent of an occupancy holding, and relief under the section can only be given on an application of an occupancy raiyat in respect of the holding in which he has occupancy rights. A homestead is not an occupancy holding. A person holding an area of land settled exclusively for building purposes at a special rate of rent is not an occupancy raiyat who can apply for or get relief under S. 112-A. (Middleton.) land only-Effect of.

Where after the rent of a holding had been settled under S. 105 of the Binar Tenancy Act, the holding was sold and purchased by the landlord, the rent settled previously ceases to exist, and the date of such settlement cannot be taken to be the date when the rent became payable for purposes of S. 112-A of the Act. Where further the Civil Court, subsequently fixes the rent on the application of the landlord at the same figure as that fixed under S. 105, but decides that the landlord is to get rent of culturable lands only that is a different rent from that fixed earlier. Therefore the crucial date for purposes of S. 112-A is the date of the settlement by the Civil Court. (Middleton.) RAM RAN BIJOY PRASAD SINGH v. SHEOPUJAN RAI. 8 B.R. 506.

Ss. 112-A and 113-Jurisdiction-Settlement or reduction within period mentioned in S. 113-Fresh application to reduce rent-furisdiction to entertain.

It is clear that S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act gives the Collector jurisdiction to proceed either on an application or on his own motion, but he can only proceed on his own motion if the Governor by notification directs a settlement of the rents of the occupancy holdings referred to. If the Collector proceeds on his own motion, in the absence of a notification or to deal with the rent of a tenant who is not an occupancy raiyat or on the application of some one who is neither an occupancy raiyat nor a landlord there is an inherent lack of jurisdiction. There is, however, nothing in the section which deprives the Collector of jurisdiction to receive and deal with an application of an occupancy raiyat by reason of the fact that the rent of the holding has been settled or reduced within the period specified in S. 113. No doubt, if it is proved that the rent of the holding, has been settled or reduced within such period, the Collector or Revenue Officer acting under S. 112-A cannot give the tenant any relief, but it is for the Collector or the Revenue Officer to consider, whether the facts give him jurisdiction to grant the relief, and the fact that he finds the facts wrongly cannot make his decision wholly null and void. (Manohar Lail and Beevor, JJ.) BADRI DAS GOENKA v. RAJKUMAR SINGH. 24 Pat. 120=(1945) P.W.N. 66=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 272.

represented remission by landlord-If can be entertained in revision.

Whether a reduction of rents which is taken as a new settlement by the rent reduction officer is in reality a reduction or only represents a remission by the landlord is a question of fact, and must be raised at the earliest opportunity before the Rent Reduction Officer and should not be allowed to be raised for the first time before the Board of Revenue in revision. That is not a matter on which the Board will exercise its powers of revision over proceedings under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act. (Peck.) RAI RADHA KRISHNA v. RADHIKA KUER. 1941 P.W.N. 593.

Whether a holding is an occupancy holding or only a tenure and so not governed by S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act is a matter of fact which should be proved in the original Court. It is idle to advance such a plea at the stage of revision before the Board of Revenue. With such a matter of fact the Board is not concerned by way of revision. (Peck.) RAI RADHA KRISHNA v. If no reduction can be given in rent reduction proceedings under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the best thing to do is obviously to reject the applications for reduction of rent without going in to all the points raised, such as whether all the landlords have been made parties or whether prices have risen enormously and so on. But the normal procedure must be followed, he procedure to be generally adopted being, as far as is

-S. 112-A-Raiyat at fixed rent-Right to apply for reduction of rent.

A raiyat at a fixed tent can have the rights of an occupancy raivat, and if he does acquire occupancy rights, he is entitled to apply for reduction under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act. (Middleton.) BAIJ-NATH PRASAD SINGH v. JONG BAHADUR. 1941 P. W.N. 476=8 B.R. 222 (2).

-Ss. 112-A and 113-Relative scope and operation of-S. 112-A-If excluded from operation of S. 113.

S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act is not excluded from the operation of S. 113 of the Act. S. 113 by its very words, applies to the rent of a holding settled under Ch. X. (Middleton.) BUDHU SINGH v. RAMBI-LASH SINGH. 7 B.R. 913=1941 P.W.N. 588.

S. 112-A-"Rent"- Rate of rent"-Distinction Collector's power to reduce rate of rent.

"Rent" under the Bihar Tenancy Act is not the same thing as, but different from, "rate of rent." S. 112-A makes no mention at all of rates of rent, While the Collector is authorised to reduce rent in certain cases, he has no power at all to reduce "rates of rent." (Middleton.) FAUJDAR SINGH v. PRABODH KUMAR MITRA. 9 B.R. 178.

-S. 112-A-Revision-Commississioner's power to interfere suo motu-Procedure-Notice to parties.

No doubt the Commissioner has power to interfere in revision in rent reduction cases ? without there being an application therefor, but in such a case he should issue a notice on the parties concerned stating that he is cotemplating doing so. (Middleton.) NIRMAL KUMAR v. JAGERNATH MAHJON. 8 B.R. 598.

-S. 112-A-Revision - Interference- Jurisdiction of Board and Commissioner.

Neither the Commissioner nor the Board of Revenue has jurisdiction to interfere in proceedings for reduction of rent except when there is a defect of jurisdiction. (Swanzy, J.) RAGHUNATH BAJPAI v. ABDUL AZIZ-KHAN. 11 B.R. 165.

-S. 112-A—Revision—Question when rent became first payable—Finality—Interference.

The question as to the date when a rent became first payable under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act is a question of fact and the finding on that by the lower appellate Court is final and cannot be interfered with in revision. (Middleton) CHURAWAN MAHTON MD. MANIR AHSAN. 8 B.R. 118.

-S. 112-A (as amended)—Scope—If exhaustive-Abatement of rent-Civil Court's jurisdiction to grant relief under general law-If taken away.

Though by repeal of S. 38 of the Bihar Tenancy Act of 1885 an occupancy raiyat may have lost his right to obtain abatement of rent under that particular section, and by enactment of S.112-A in the amended Act a remedy by way of an application to the Collector may have been substituted for it, there is nothing in the amendment which abrogates the rule of equity, justice and good conscience under which Civil Courts have always granted relief to a tenant. Apart from the specific provision in the Tenancy Act, a tenant is, under the general law, entitled to claim abatement of rent if the holding is not the same as it was when he was inducted on it, either by reason of diluvion or by reason of deterioration of the soil by deposit of sand or other causes. There is no clear provision in the Act taking away the power once exercised by the Civil Courts, and the mere fact that S. 38 of the old Act has been repealed cannot affect such power as could be exercised and was exercised independently of that section. Competency.

Where in proceedings under S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, reduction of rent is refused and the existing rent is settled, it is a clear bar for 15 years to the application of S. 112-A of the Act. Except on the grounds specified in Cl. (c) of S. 112-A (1) a reduction under Cl. (d) of S. 112-A (1) is clearly barred. (Middleton.) RAM CHARAN KOERI v. SAJEEWAN PRASAD SINGH. 8 B.R. 221.

sive applications under-Maintainability.

Where an application under S 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, as amended in 1934, has been disposed of on the merits a subsequent application is barred under S. 113. (Middleton.) JAIGOBIND CHOUBEY v. SHYAM BIHARI SINGH. 7 B.R. 994.

S. 112-A—Successive applications—Maintainability—Splitting up of holding—Application for reduction of rent by one tenant—Rejection as applicant not in possession—Fresh application by another tenant having right-If barred.

Where a holding has been split up and an application by a tenant for raduction of rent under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy-Act is rejected on the ground that the applicant is not in possession of the holding, such rejection would be a bar to a second application by the same tenant; but it would not necessarily bar a fresh application for reduction of rent by a tenant who is entitled to apply, he being in possession. ——S. 112-A—Year of commutation—Order not giving reason for taking particular year—If ground for interference in revision—Presumption as to basis of order.

BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

Where it is found from the schedule to the order of the Rent Reduction officer that he took different years of commutation in different cases it must be presumed that he did this on some system of account on the evidence produced in the cases before him. When the order further shows that in certain cases he referred to the landlord's jamabhandhi it is safe to assume that he took the various dates from that paper, especially when the landlord was aware of the procedure followed and raised no objection. The landlord cannot in revision object to the order on the ground that no reason is given for taking a particular year as the date of commutation, and the Board will not interfere with the order on that ground in revision. (Middleton.) HARIHAR Prasad Singh v. Nathuni. 8 B.R. 805.

—S. 112 A (1) (a) (b) and (d)—Applicability and Scope—Case falling under Cl. (a) or Cl. (b)—If can be dealt with under Cl. (d).

It is not correct to hold that if a case falls under either Cl. (a) or Cl. (b) of S. 112-A (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, it cannot be dealt with under Cl, (d). Cl. (d) empowers reduction of the rent of any occupancy holding on account of a fall in prices during the currency of the existing rate, and there is nothing to indicate that the clause does not apply to cases in which the rent has been enhanced or commuted. On a plain reading of the section, it must be held that it is open to an occupancy raiyat to apply under Cl. (d) even if the circumstances are such that he could have applied under Cl. (a) or Cl. (b). (Middleton.) Foujdar Rout v. Nagnarain Singh. 8 B.R. 191.

S. 11?-A(d)—If can be applied.

S. 112-Å (a) of the Bihar Tenancy Act does not apply to a case under S 105, because it applies only to enhancements under Ss. 29 and 30 of the Act, and an application for settlement of rent under S. 105 is entirely different from a suit for enhancement of rent under S. 30. But where an application under S. 112-Å (a) has been amended, the Rent Reduction Officer would be justified in applying S 112-Å (d) of the Act. (Middleton.) G. B. Solano v. Jangi Singh. 1941 P.W.N. 247=7 B.R. 752 (1).

——S. 112-A (a) and (d)—Illegal enhancement—Ignoring of—If amounts to cancellation of enhancement.

An illegal enhancement of rent can be ignored under S. 112-A (a) of the B. T. Act for the purpose of applying Cl. (d) of S. 112-A. Such ignoring of an illegal enhancement does not amount to a cutting off or cancellation of an enhancement for the purpose of S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act. (Middleton.) SAUDAGAR SINGH v. CHANPRESHWAR PRASAD NARAIN SINGH. 1941 P W N. 473.

—— (as amended in 1937). S. 112-A (1) (a)— Jurisdiction—Rent increased by compromise in suit—Cancellation as enhancement—Legality. See BIHAR TENANCY ACT, Ss. 29 AND 112-A (1) (a). 24 Pat. 434.

S. 112-A (a) and (d)—Scope—Successive applications under different sub-clauses—Competency—Order reducing enhanced rent—Subsequent order cancelling enhancement and restoring rent-Legality of.

A Court has no right to enhance a rent which had been lawfully reduced under S. 112-A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act. Such rent cannot, by reason of S. 113, he enhanced for fifteen years. Assuming that a tenant may apply succesively under the different sub-sections of S. 112-A, it cannot be held that a second decision cancelling an enhancement of rent under S. 112-A (d), and restoring the original rent would completely destroy the effect of a prior decision under S. 112 A (d) reducing the enhanced rent to a figure below the original rent. The second order cancelling the enhancement amounts in effect to an enhancement of rent and hence is an order without jurisdiction and ineffective by reason of the earlier order reducing the rent. If only one application can be made by the tenant under S. 112-A, then the order on the subsequent application would necessarily be without jurisdiction and the prior order reducing the rent stands and no Court can grant a decree for rent in excess of that reduced rent.  $\cdot$ S. 112-A (1) (b) and (d)—Applicability— Application filed under Cl. (b)—Disposal as one under Cl. (d)-Jurisdiction

Where an application is filed under Cl. (b) of S. 112-A (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the Rent Reduction Officer has no jurisdiction to treat it as one under S. 112-A (1) (d) and deal with it. He must dispose of it as one under Cl. (b) itself. (Middleton.) RAMA PRASAD v. RAM RANBIJAYA PRASAD SINGH. 1941 P.W.N. 741.

-S. 112-A (b) — Applicability — Material date-Date of commutation order.

For purposes of S. 112-A (b) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the crucial date is the date of the commutation order. An order of commutation was passed on 12-12-1936, directing that the commuted rent would take effect from fasli 1344, i.e., September-October, 1936. In appeal the rent was reduced but the order that it should take effect from 1344 was maintained.

Held, that the rent was clearly commuted between the dates mentioned in Cl. (b) of S. 112-A, and the clause therefore applied. (Middleton,) SAH RADHAKRISHNA v. BANDHU

MAHTON. 8 B.R. 448.

A.I R. 1942 Pat. 394.

-S. 112-A (b)—Date of commutation—Date of final order or date from which commutation is directed to take effect—Material date.

Clause (b) of S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act refers to the date when the rent was commuted and the date of commutation for the purposes of cl. (b) is the date of the final order of commutation, although the commutation is by the order, directed to take effect from a previous year. The date from which it is to take effect is not the material date. (Middleton.) JAGAT KISHORE PD. NARAIN SINGH v. NAKHOO MAHTON. 1941 P.W. N. 488=8 B.R. 405.

S. 112-A (b)—Scope—Commutation order passed in 1937 but directed to take effect from October, 1936—If falls under section.

For purposes of S. 112 (b) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the commutation order under S. 40 must have been passed between 1st January, 1911 and 31st December, 1936. The crucial date is the date of commutation order and not the date from which it was to be given retrospective effect. An order of commutation made in 1937, though directed to take effect from October, 1937, does not come within S. 112-A (b). (Middleton.) RAM BACHAN SINGH v. RANJIT NARAIN SINGH. 1941 P.W.N. 487=7 B.R. 801.

 $-8.112 \cdot A(1)(b)$  and (d)-Scope-If mutually exclusive.

There is no warrant for holding that no relief can be granted under Cl. (d) of S. 112-A (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act in cases where Cl. (b) of the sub-section will apply. Cl. (d) plainly means that any class of occu. pancy rent can be reduced at any time, and there is nothing to justify the inference that the legislature did not intend that Cl. (d) should apply to cases to which Cl. (b) also applied. There is nothing in the section to justify the inference that C1. (d) ought to be interpreted as though it were preceded by the words "subject to the provisions of Cls.(a) and (b)" or "in cases other than in which rent has been enhanced or commuted. (Middle. ton.) -S 112 A (c)—Amount of remission to be granted . -Question as to-Decision on-Finality-Revision-Competency.

The question of the amount of remission to be granted under S. 112 A (c) of the Bengal Tenancy Act is a pure question of fact and the finding of the lower appellate Court thereon is final; an application for revision cannot therefore be entertained. (Middleton) CHUR-WAN MAHTON v. MD MANIR AHSAN. 8 B.R. 518.

-S 112-A (1) (c) and (d)—Jurisdiction—Application under Cl. (c)-Jurisdiction to give relief under cl. (d) suo motu.

Where an application for reduction of rent is for relief both in form and substance, under S. 112-A (1) (c) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the Rent Reduction Officer has no jurisdiction to grant relief suo motu under cl. (d) of S. 112-A (1). (Middleton.) FAUJDAR SINGH v. PRABODH KUMAR MITRA. 9 BR. 178.

Application under S. 112 A (1) (c) and (d)—furisdiction—to reduce rent under Cl. (d).

Though the tenants apply for reduction of rent only under Cl. (c) of S. 112-A (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the Rent Reduction Officer has power to order reduction under cl. (d). Government Notification No. 6164-R dated 17-8-1938, gives the Rent Reduction Officer jurisdiction to reduce rents on his own motion. (Middleton.) DEONITI PRASAD SINGH v. MANGER GOPE. 9 B.R. 418.

-S. 112-A (c)—Onus of proof.

In order to attract the operation of S. 112-A (c) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the onus is not upon the landlord to show that the land was of good quality but upon the tenant to prove that the land was of bad quality. (Manchar Lall, J.) SUKHRAJ RAI v. DIP NARAIN PANDEY. 197 I.C. 160=8 B.R. 153=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 266 (2).

-S.112-A (c) and (d)—Procedure—Jurisdiction -Application for reduction under Cl. (c)-Relief under Cl. (d) - Power of Court to grant.

Where the application for reduction is filed both in form and substance under Cl. (c) of S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, there is no jurisdiction in the Court to grant relief under Cl. (d) of the section when there has been no amendment or an application by the tenants in that behalf. (Middleton.) GOPAL MAHTON v.

Court-Prior applications under S. 112-A (d) dismissed for default-Subsequent application under S. 112 (c)-Court treating same as under Cl. (d) and allowing reduction-Legality.

Where two applications for reduction under S. 112-A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, filed by the tenants have been dismissed for default, they cannot claim that a subsequent application by them under S. 112-A (c) should be treated as under Cl. (d) and allowed. If the Court treats such an application as under Cl. (d) without any request for amendment and allows reduction under Cl. (d), it acts without jurisdiction and its order is liable to be set aside in revision. (Middleton.) BABU LAL SAH v. JAGDEO SINHA. 8 B.R. 635.

-S. 112-A(1)(c)(ii)—Rent commuted during period of high prices-Reduction of-Subsequent reduction under S. 112-A (1) (c) (ii)-If harred.

Rents which had been previously reduced under S. 112 were reduced under S. 112-A (1) (c) (ii) of the Bihar Tenancy Act. It appeared that the rents were high having been commuted during a period of high prices. The Assistant settlement officer made a local inspection which justified his Conclusion.

Held, that it could not be said that the reductions were given only on the grounds mentioned in Cl. (c) (ii) of S. 112-A (1) and that the rents were reduced only because of the landlords' neglect of irrigation matters: and consequently there was no sufficient reason to interfere with the findings which led to reduction under Cl. (c) (ii) of S. 112-A. (Middleton) DEONITI PRASAD SINGH v. MANGER GOPE. 9 B.R. 418.

-S. 112-A (c) (ii) proviso-Order allowing 25 per cent remission-Kemission-Appeal-Power of appellate Court to interfere.

Where the Rent Reduction Officer allows a remission of 25 per cent. under cl. (c) (i) of S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the ordinary remedy of the landlord is under the proviso to cl. (c); but he is also entitled to an appellate order in his favour if he can persuade the appellate Court to hold that the remission should not have been granted at all. (Middleton.) SHARAFAT HUSSAIN v. SURAJDEO RAI. 8 B.R. 599.

-Ss. 112-A (d) and 178 (3)-Applicability-Agreement between landlord and tenant made before coming into force of S. 112-A that rents agreed upon should not be varied-Application for reduction of rent - Competency-

It is settled law that a person may have at the same time in respect of the same land a right of occupancy and also the right of a raiyat holding at a fixed rate. An entry in the record of rights showing the tenant as kaerni and not as sharahmoyian is not, therefore, actually inconsistent with the status of a tenant as both agreed that the rent can neither be enhanced nor reduced, an application for reduction under S. 112-A. (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act is incompetent. Nor will S. 178 (3) apply when there is a contract between the parties not to vary the rents agreed upon, made before the amending Act which brought S. 112-A into S. 178 (3) (f) of the Act. -(as amended in 1938) S. 112-A (d)—Applicability-Part of holding submerged-Application for reduction of rent of part not submerged-Maintainabi-

When the rent of a holding has abated under S.52-A (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, it cannot be reduced under S. 112-A (d). An application for the reduction of the rent of a part of a holding when the other part is under water and the rent there of is abated is therefore not maintainable. (Middleton.) ROBINSON v. PAR-MESHWAR JHA. 8 B.R. 310.

-S. 112-A, (1)(a)—"Currency of the present rent"-Construction of-Holding sold and restored-Subsequent reduction of rent-Effect.

The words "currency of the present rent" in S.112-A I (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act refer to the period which is to be considered in respect of the fall in prices and should be interpreted as the period between the first settlement of rent and the time of the order of the reduction of rent of a holding which has been restored after a sale. The holding and the rent are the same as before the sale and the restoration, is in no sense a new settlement. The holding is restored with the same rights as before, (Swanzy.) SOBHAN SINGH v. HARBANS PANDFY. 9 B.R. 138.

-S. 112-A(1)(d)-"Current prices"-Procedure for working out reductions.

Though the expression "current prices" is not defined in the Bihar Tenancy Act, the proper thing to be done in reduction cases is to take the average of that last complete year for which figures are available at the time of the order of the Rent Reduction Officer. (Middleton.) RAM NARFSH SINGH v. SHEO PRASAD GUPTA. 1941 P.W.N. 589.

-S. 112-A (d)—Date from which rent first became payable-Crucial date for purposes of comparison and reduction.

For the purposes of S. 112 A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the crucial date is the date from which the first rent becan e rayable; where a decree of the High Court gave a decree for year fasli 1314, different from the previous rent, the rent fixed clearly becomes payable in fasli 1314. That year has therefore to be taken for purposes of comparison and reduction under S. 112-A (d) (Middleton.) MAJIN-UD-DIN AHMAD v. LOKE-NATH PANDEY. 7 B.R. 939.

S. 112-A (d)—Date from which a rent first became payable—Crucial date—Decree of Civil Court fixing rent from a prior year—Effect—Retrospective effect of order.

For the purposes of Cl. (d) of S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the crucial date is the date from which the rent first became payable. When a Civil Court has given a decree in 1935 for rent from the year 1927 at a rent different from the former rent, the new rent must be held to have first become payable from 1927. There is no reason for holding that there can be no retrospective effect in an order under which a rent becomes rayable. Such orders are frequently passed in commutation and rent reduction cases. (Middleton.) RAMAW-TAR LAL v. MANGAL PRASAD SAH. 8 B.R. 85=1941 P·W,N. 739 (2).

- S. 112-A (1) (d) - Date when rent first beinvoked, it has to be shown that there has been a lull came parable—Rent fixed by compromise in pro-not due to temporary causes, in the average local prices ceedings under S, 109 in 1915—Altegation that civil

In certain cases cash rent was settled by compromise in proceedings under S.  $109(\epsilon)$  of the Bihar Tenancy Act in 1915. It was alleged, but not proved, that there were Civil suits pending and that they were decreed at the cash rent so settled by compromise with effect from 1911, Held, that in the absence of proof of such allegation, the year 1915 must be taken as the year when the rent first became payable. (Peck.) THAKUR PRASAD v. BRAHMDEO PANDEY. 1941 PW N. 660.

S. 112-A (1)(d)—Discretion of Collector—Alteration in area of holding by transfers of portions—Consideration of rate of rent as compared with rent itself—If illegal—Discretion to refuse reduction of rent.

In the case of holdings the areas of which have altered for instance, by transfers of portions of holdings it is not illegal for the Collector or Rent Reduction Officer to consider the rate of rent as compared with the rent itself, just as in the case of holdings which are spiit up by a collectorate partition. Courts would be justified in ignoring small differences in area which can be presumed to be due to slight errors in survey or area extraction in one or other of two surveys. Under S. 112-A (1) the Collector has a discretion to refuse to reduce rents in cases where reduction is obviously inequitable. This discretion may well be exercised in cases in which the difference in area or rent is of little or no importance. (Swanzy.) SHARFUDDIN AHMAD v. NANHKU MAHTON. 9 B.R. 181.

——S. 112-A (d)—Jurisdiction—Application under S. 112-A (e)—No application for amendment—Jurisdiction of Rent Reduction Officer to act suo motu and to reduce under Cl. (d).

Where applications for reduction are filed under S. 112-A (e) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, and no application is made to amend them, the Rent Reduction Officer has no jurisdiction to act suo motu and give relief under Cl. (d) of S. 112-A. (Middleton.) RAJA PRASAD SINGH v. PANO KUMRI. 8. B.R., 53=1941 P.W.N 739 (1).

of famine—If to be taken into account.

Where the rents date from a period of cheap prices in which there occurs only one year of famine when the prices go up temporarily, for the purposes of at application under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, such a temporary rise in one year should be disregarded as the rents clearly date from period of lower prices. ——S. 112 A (d)—"Rent"—When first becomes payable—Illegal enhancement in 1900 and paid till 1909 and then cut off—Starting point under S.112-A (d)—1900 or 1909.

The rent of a holding is what is lawfully payable and an illegal enhancement which had been paid for several years and which has since been cut off, does not become part of the rent. Where the legal rent has remained the same since 1900, it must be held to have become payable in 1900 for purposes of S. 112-A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act. The fact that there was an illegal enhancement in 1900 and that it was being paid from 1900 till 1909, when it was cut off, is no ground for holding that the rent became first payable in 1909. It was alleged that from 1924 which was taken to be the year from which the rent first became payable, that some remission or mat had been given each year and the landlord produced laggits to show that mat was given. The rent receipts, however, did not mention any mat any where.

Held, that in the absence of any mention of reduction or maft in the rent receipts, the case as to maft could not be accepted, and the rent must be taken to have first became payable from 19.74 and the rent was rightly reduced under S 112-A (1) (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act. grant of application.
Under S. 112-A (d)

Under S. 112-A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act, only an occupancy raivat can apply for reduction of rent. An application by a person who at the time of filing there of was not an occupancy raivat is incompetent and cannot be granted even though occupancy rights might accrue to him by the time an order is made on it. (Middleton.) SADHU ISWAR v. AKHOV KUMAR MANDAL. 8 B.R. 644.

——S. 112-A (d)—Starting point—illegal enhancement paid for three years—If to be taken into account. See Bihar Tenancy Act, S. 29, Proviso (i). 8 B R. 694.

——Ss. 112-A (d) and 113—Scope—Cancellation of enhancement of rent out of Court—If bar to reduction under S. 112-A (d).

A cancellation of enhancement of rent out of Court is no bar to a reduction of rent under S. 112-A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act. S. 113 only bars further reduction of a rent which has been settled or reduced under Ch. X of the Act. (Middleton.) ALIZAMAN KHAN v. GUJAR SINGH. 10 B.R. 298.

——Ss. 112-A (d) and 113—Scope—Reduction of rent refused under S. 112—Effect—Application for reduction—Bar of.

Where in proceedings under S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, reduction of rent is refused on the finding that the rent had been existing 1297 Fasli, that amounts to a settlement which under S. 113 bars a reduction under S. 112-A (d) of the Act. That is a bar for 15 years to the application of S. 112-A. except on the ground of alteration in the area or any of the grounds specified in S. 112-A (v), (Middleton.) RAMCHARAN KOERI v. SAJEEWAN PRASAD SINGH. 1941 P.W.N. 662.

Crucial date.

Rents were enhanced from 1900, but this enhancement was cut off at the settlement and the rent prevailing in 1900 was attested in 1909 and had been paid since.

Held, that rent was what was lawfully payable and therefore the illegal enhancement was not a part of the rent, the legal rent having remained the same since 1900, the currency of the present rent dated from 1900 and not from 1909, for purposes of S. 112-A (d). (Middleton.) BASUDEV SINGH v. SHAH HAMIDUDDIN AHMAD. 8 B.R. 681

-S. 112-A(d)—Starting point—Rent when first becomes payable-Rent commuted in 1922-Collectorate partition in 1922 apportioning rent among several landlords-Effect of.

Rents were commuted in 1911, and in a collectorate Batwara under the Bengal Estates Partition Act, the holdings were partitioned among different maliks in 1922. The Rent Reduction Officer held that new rents and new holdings were created in 1922 by the Batwara and that the rent first became payable from 1923.

Held, that the fact that the tenants who originally paid certain rents to a certain landlord now paid the same total rent to more than one set of landlords did not amount to a breach in the continuity of the rent, and it could not be said that the currency of the present rent dated from the time when the rent was split up among more than one proprietor. The starting point there was 1911 and not 1923. (Middleton.) JHARI SINGH V. RAMESHWAR PRASAD SINGH 8 B.R. 653.

-S. 112-A(d)—Successive applications—Competency-First application dismissed for default-Second application allowed ex parte-Setting aside by Collector -Remand by Commissioner for re-hearing in the presence of both parties-Propriety

An application under S. 112-A (d) of the Bihar Tenancy Act was rejected by the Rent Reduction Officer, in the absence of the applicant who was however allowed to make a second application and the same was granted in the absence of the landlord. The Collector in appeal set aside the order holding that the lower Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the second application. Commissioner in revision remanded the case for rehearing in the presence of both parties, Held, in revision by the Board of Revenue. that the Commissioner's order was proper and cannot be held to be without jurisdiction. (Middleton.) SAKHI (SINGH. 8 B.R. 32. SAKHI CHAND v. LACHMI NARAYAN same and has not changed from 1300 F., the fact that abwabs were paid illegally in the meanwhile is no ground for holding that the rent has altered or changed. Therefore no reduction is allowable in such a case. (Swanzy.) SAIDUDDIN v. DOMAN SINGH 9 B.R. 293.

filed on 2-3-1939-If barred.

An application under Cl. (b) of S. 112-A (1) of Bihar Tenancy Act, which is filed on 2-3-1939 is not barred under Cl. (2) S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, as amended by Act VIII of 1937, which came into force on 10-3-1938. (Middleton.) RAMA PRASAD V. RAM RANBIJAYU PRASAD SINGH. 1941 P.W.N.

 $-\mathbf{S}$ .  $\mathbf{112} ext{-}\mathbf{B}$  — Appellate order — Finality of — Interference by Commissioner of Board of Revenue-Grounds.

The orders of an appellate Court in rent reduction cases are final and neither the Commissioner, nor the Board of Revenue has jurisdiction to interfere with such orders either on facts or on law unless perhaps the order is one without jurisdiction. The decision may be wrong, but if the Court has jurisdiction to so decide, it cannot be interfered with. (Middleton.) RAMDHAN PURI v. RAMBHAJJU SINGH. 10 B.R. 385.

-S. 112-B-Limitation for appeal-Delay in filing —Discretion of Court to excuse. See LIMITATION ACT, S. 5. 9 B.R. 360.

S. 112-B-Revision-Order by Collector in appeal-Interference in revision by Commissioner or Board of Revenue-Jurisdiction-Practice and Procedure Manual, Rr. 76 and 77-Scope.

Neither the Bihar Tenancy Act nor any other statute confers on the Commissioner or the Board of Revenue a specific power to revise orders passed under S. 112-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act or orders passed on appeal under S. 112-B of that Act. Where an express provision of a statute declares a particular order to be final, and such an order is passed within the statutory powers of the officer making it, no superior authority can set aside such order on the ground that it is erroneous in law or proceeds on a wrong view of fact. Items 3 and 4 in R. 76 of the Bihar Practice and Procedure Manual do not recognise a power of interference in cases where the superior authority thinks a decision erroneous. R. 77 expressly reserves cases where the proceedings have become final by law and says that in such cases the Board of Revenue has no jurisdiction to revise or alter the order. Where the Collector has made an order in the exercise of jurisdiction, whether rightly or wrongly there is no power in the Commissioner of the Board to revise such an order or to set it aside even if it is erroneous in law. (Rowland. J.) RADHAKRISHNAJI v. RAMKHELAWAN Singh. 1943 P.W.N. 253.

subordinate Revenue Officers.

It is clear from S. 112-B, Bihar Tenancy Act, that the order of the Collector or the prescribed authority on appeal from an order under S. 112. A, is final, and the Act contains no provision for revision of that appellate order by the Commissioner or the Board of Revenue the rent. Where the legal rent has remained the assuming that the Board of Revenue, as the bighes revenue authority, possesses a general power of super-intendence over the proceedings of subordinate revenue authorities, such power does not include a power to judicially interfere with an order which is declared by law to be final. Such power is confined to preventing subordinate revenue officers from exercising a jurisdiction not conferred on them or compelling them to exercise a jurisdiction which they have omitted to exercise. It does not include a power to interfere on the ground of error of law or error of fact. (Fazl Ali, C.J. and Agarwala, J.) RADHA KRISHNAJI v. RAMKHELAWAN SINGH. 24 Pat. 234 = 26 P.L.T. 51=1945 P.W.N. 83=A.I B. 1945 Pat. 179.

S. 113—Applicability and Scope—Proceedings under S. 112—Rent not reduced as it was considered fair—Application under S. 112-A—Bar of.

Even when the rent is not reduced in proceedings under S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy Act because the rent is considered fair, it amounts to a settlement, because the maintaining of the existing rents is a form of settlement under S. 104-A. Hence such settlement is a bar under S. 113 to an application under S. 112-A. (Middleton.) BANSROPAN SAH v. BRIJNANDAN SINGH. 8 B.R. 360.

S. 113—Applicability and Scope—Proceedings under S. 112—Settlement of rent by maintaining existing rentals—Subsequent application under S. 112-A—Maintainability.

Where there has been a settlement of fair rents under S. 112 of the Bihar Tenancy, Act an application under S. 112-A of the Act is barred by S. 113. S. 104-A (d) clearly provides for settlement of rent by maintaining the existing rentals recorded in the record of rights as one of the methods by which rent may be settled. Even when the existing rents are maintained and entered, it amounts to a settlement and S. 113 operates as a bar to an application under S. 112-A. (Middleon.) RAJKUMAR CHAUDHRY v. DULHIN BACHOKUER. 8 B.R. 334.

——S. 113—Applicability—Order cancelling enhancement—Subsequent review and cancellation of rent roll and order maintaining existing rent—Order without furisdiction—If bar to reduction of rent under S, 112-A.

The tenants applied in 1935 for cancellation of enhancements made in 1913 under S. 105 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, and the Assistant Settlement Officer cancelled the enhancements under S.112, but later on, the landlord having raised objection, he revised the order of cancellation and maintained the existing rents by cancelling the rent roll under S.104-E, and he advised the tenants to apply under S.112-A.

Held, that the Assistant Settlement Officer having been empowered in Notification No. 2817—II. T—34 R, dated 19—6—1937, only to deal with cases of money rent which first became payable on or after 1—1 -1920, and on or before 31—12—1933 any decision under S. 112, whether positive or negative was clearly without jurisdiction, and S. 113 of the Bihar Tenancy Act would not therefore operate as a bar to reduction under S. 112-A of the Act. (Swanzy.) JAGMANAN SAHU v. MAHOMED SAFI. 8 B.R. 888.

S. 113—Application—Application under S. 112—Dismissal for default—Subsequent application for reduction under S. 112-A—If barred,

BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

S. 113 of the Bihar Tenancy Act does not operate as a bar to a fresh application for reduction of rent under S. 112-A, when the prior application for reduction was dismissed for default owing to the absence of the applicant and not on the merits. The maintenance of the existing rent is no doubt one method of settling a rent, but when there is no adjudication that the existing rent is fit to be maintained as in the case of a dismissal for default, there is no settlement of rent under S. 112, which would operate as a bar under S. 113. (Middleton.) HARIHAR PRASAD SINGH v. KASHI SINGH. 9 B R. 153.

—S. 113—Scope—Bhaoli holding—Rent Commuted to eash rent—Subsequent sale of holding for arrears of rent—Restoration under Bihar Act IX of 1938— Power of Collector to settle rent—Enhancement of rent—Date from which enhancement is barred.

Restoration under Bihar Act IX of 1938 is not a new settlement, and the Collector at the time of restoration has no power to settle the rent, but only to apportion the rent in a case in which only part of the holding is restored. Where the rent of Bhaoli holding is commuted to cash rent and some years later, the holding is sold for arears of rent and then restored under Act IX of 1938, S. 113 of the Bihar Tenancy Act would bar enhancement of rent not from the date of the restoration but from the date of the commutation. (Swanzy.) SOBHAN SINGE v. HARBANS PANDEY. 9 B.R. 138.

S. 116—Applicability — Conditions. "Lease for term of years" — Meaning. LALA RAJBALI LAL v. PARTAPPUR Co., LTD. [see Q. D. 1936-40 Vol. I. Col. 570] 191 I C. 296=13 R.P. 293=7 B.R. 170.

S. 121—Applicability—Land held on bhaoli rent.
S. 121 of the Bihar Tenancy Act applies to land held on bhaoli rent. (Fazl Ali, C. J.) GOBIND MAHTO v. CHANDRA EHAN PRASAD SINGH. 216 I.C. 128=17 R P. 125=1945 P.W.N. 277=11 B.R. 110=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 123.

There is nothing in S. 121 of the Bihar Tenancy Act to restrict its operation to arrears of rent payable in cash or to make an exception in favour of arrears of rent payable by division of the produce. The section permits distraint of crops for the realisation of produce rents in the same manner as for the realisation of cash rents. (Varma and Rowland, J.) SAJIWAN PRASAD SINGH v. KARAMDHARI SINGH. 196 I.C. 174=14 R.P. 182=8 B.R. 5=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 193.

S. 121-Holding held on batai rent-Actual cush rest recoverable.

In a proceeding under S. 121 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, the actual cash amount paid by the tenant in the preceding years is not a decisive factor if the holdings are held on batai rent. The actual cash amount recoverable in each year will depend upon the prevailing prices and all that has to be seen is whether the landlord is claiming more than his due share of the rent. (Faul Ali, C.J.) GOBIND MAHTO v. CHANDRA BHAN PRASAD SINGH. 216 I.C 128=17 R.P. 125=1945 P.W.N. 277=11 B.R. 110=A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 123.

S. 121-Nature of proceeding-Order in-

The High Court will not interfere in revision with an order of the Munsif in a proceeding for distraint under S. 121 of the Bihar Tenancy Act. Such a proceeding should not be regarded as a suit and it is not judicial in the sense that the Court proceeds in the absence of the tenant and the landlord comes and gives his evidence ex parte and upon that all that the Court is required to do is to carry the distraint out. (Fazl Ali, C.J.) GOBIND MAHTO v. CHANDRA BHAN PRASAD SINGH. 216 I.C 128=17 R.P. 125=1945 P.W.N. 277=11 B.R 110=A.IR. 1945 Pat. 123.

Ss 143 (2) and 162—Rent decree—Execution— 0, 21 R. 13. CP Code—Applicability.

O. 21 R 13 C.P.C. would prima facie apply to a rent suit, by reason of the provissions of S. 143 (2) of the Bihar Tenancy Act. There is nothing in S. 162 of the Act to suggest that that rule was intended to be made inapplicable. That section merely provides that when an application is made under S. 235 which corresponds to O. 21, R. 11(2), C.P.C. certain additional particulars are to be given in the execution petition. It does not say that even though a prayer for attachment is made the description or specification of the properties to be attached which is required by R. 13 is to be dispensed with. Therefore, O. 21, R. 13, C.P.C. is applicable to a rent execution and the necessary particulars of the property to be attached must be given in the application for execution. (Fazl Ali C.J. and Chatter ji J.) KHODAIJIUL KUBRA v. UGRAH SINGH. 23 Pt. 103=218 IC. 265=18 R.P. 20=11 BR. 274=A I.R. 1944 Pat.

——S. 148 (g)—Scope and effect—Right of judyment-aethor under—Non-service of notice—If vitiates whole sale,

S. 148 (g) merely gives a right to the judgment-debtor to pay up the whole decretal amount within 45 days from the date of the decree or the date of the service of notice upon him of the decree, and if any execution is levied against him before that date, he is not to be saddled with the cost of executing the decree before that date. If, however, execution is levied without any notice being issued to the judgment-debtor as required by the section, the judgment debtor can complain to the Court about the non-receipt of notice and about his willingness to pay the decree amount. In that even the cost of execution would be in the discretion of the officer conducting the sale and he may deprive the decree-holder of all costs of execution. But the whole sale is not bad for want of jurisdiction. Manchar Lal, 1) DWARIKA v. SIRI KISHUN. 23 Pat: 431 = 218 I C 30 = 11 B.B. 237 = 1944 P.W.N. 70 = A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 343.

S. 148 (g) of the Bihar Tenancy Act is merely-directory and not mandatory; and it does not go to the jurisdiction of the Court executing a decree. Non-service of the notice required by the section does not debar the executing Court from exercising its undoubted jurisdiction to sell the property; nor does it entitle the judgment debtor to ignore the sale as a nullity and to have it set aside on that ground. (Manohar Lal, J.) DWARIKA v. SIRI KISHUN. 23 Pat. 431=218 I.C. 30=11 B.R. 237=1944 P.W.N. 70=A.I R. 1944 Pat. 343.

The service of notice under S. 148 (g) of the Bihar Tenancy Act is not a condition precedent to the starting of an execution case by a decree-holder or to the executing Court obtaining jurisdiction to proceed with the execution itself. Hence an application for execution, in which no notice is taken out under S. 148 (g), is still one in accordance with law and would save limitation.

——S 148-A—Rent suit—Co-sharer landlords made pro forma defendants—If bound by decree and execution—If can treat same as nullity,

There is no warrant for holding that co-sharer landlords who are joined as pro forma defendants in a rent suit are entitled to treat the suit and execution of the decree therein as a nullity. ——S. 153—Applicability—Second appeal—Maintainability—"Decided a question relating to title, etc."

—Meaning and effect of—Plea raised but not decided—Bar of second appeal.

S. 153 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, when it refers to a decision of a question relating to title to land or of a question of the amount of rent, in terms refers to what is decided by the Court and not to what is pleaded by the narties. Even if there is a dispute as to title or as to the area of the holding on the pleadings, that will not take the case out of the pleadings, unless the judge has decided that dispute. Where the defendant admits that rent was due from him at the jama claimed, but only disputes the area of the holding as stated in the plaint. and the Court decrees the suit leaving open the question of the area of the holding, there is no decision of any question relating to the area of the holding or the amount of the jama, which would take the case out of S. 153, B.T.Act. A second appeal is therefore barred, if the other conditions are satisfied. (Meredith, J.) DAROGA SONAR v. JADUPATI SAHARF. (1944) P.W. N. 130.

- S. 153-Applicability to suit for rent by cosharer landlord framed according to S. 148-A.

8. 153—Scope—Application to set aside sale in execution of decree for rent below Rs. 50—Allegation of fraud not proved or pressed—Order refusing to set aside sale—Appeal—Maintainability.

An order refusing to set aside a sale in execution of a rent decree in a suit for an amount less than Rs. 50, is not open to appeal, when the question decided is only a question relating to the regularity of the proceedings in publishing and conducting the sale and is not a question of fraud. The mere circumstance that some vague and general allegations of fraud are made in the application and not proved or pressed at the trial, is immaterial. An appeal in such cases is barred under S. 153, Binar Tenancy Act. (Fast Ali. C. J. and Sharer, J.) KAMESHWAR v. JAGDAMBI. 24 Pat. 473 = A.I.R. 1945 Pat. 446.

S. 153, Explanation—Setting aside sale for irregularity—Fraud in conducting sale—Appeal—If lies.

It is reasonably clear that the Legislature did not intend that there should be an appeal in petty cases where a sale had been set aside on the ground of irregularity, whether the irregularity be occasioned by fraud or negligence in publishing and conducting the sale. Fraud in publishing or conducting the sale is not meant to be kept separate from irregularities in the publication and conduct there of for the purposes of the Explanation to S. 153 of the Bihar Tenancy Act. -S. 163 (2) (b)-Scope-Option of decree. holder—Duty of Court to value entire tenure—C. P. Code, O. 21. R. 64—Applicability. Under the clear terms of S. 163 (2) (b) of the Bihar Tenancy Act the Court is bound to value the whole tenure before ordering its sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent. S. 163 (2) clearly provides that the whole of the tenure is to be valued. The decree-holder has an option to ask for the sale of the entire tenure or fora portion of a tenure. If he desires to sell the entire tenure the Court cannot force him to sell only a portion of the tenure under O. 21, R. 64, C. P. Code. The option is with the decree-holder and the provisions of the C. P. Code, cannot apply when the provisions of S. 163 of the Tenancy Act are clear. (Manohar Lall and Shearer, 11.) Sonu Lai v. -S. 163-A-Applicability-Sale of tenure-Decree-holder-If can be compelled to purchase tenure at price fixed in proclamation of sale.

S 163-A, Bihar Tenancy Act does not apply where the property sought to be sold is not a holding or a portion of a holding; and a decreeholder seeking to sell a tenure cannot be compel-led to purchase the tenure at the price fixed in the sale proclamation. (Manohar Lall and Shearer, JJ.) Sonu Lalv. Bartram Keightley. 22 Pat. 628=211 I.C. 614=10 B.R. 428=16 R. P. 258=1943 P.W.N. 182=24 P.L.T. 384=A.I. R. 1944 Pat. 101.

-S. 163-A-Construction and scope-Decruholder refusing to bid up to amount fixed in sale-proclamation—Procedure—Duty of Court—Dismissal of execution application—If justified.

S. 163-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act only provides that a holding shall not be sold for a price lower than that specified in sale proclamation. There is nothing in the section which can force the decree-holder to bid up to the amount fixed by the sale proclamation in default whereof the execution application must be dismissed. Where in execution of a rent decree the property is put up for sale, but the amount bid by the decreeholder is less than the amount fixed by the Court in the sale proclamation and the decree-holder refuses to raise his bid up to that amount, the Court will not be justified in dismissing the execution on that ground. The duty of the executing Court in such a case is to issue a fresh sale proclamation at the expense of the decree-holder and advertise the property again, and to call for a fresh set of hidders. (Monohar Lall, I.) RAM RAN BIJAYA PRASAD SINGH v. LACHMI SINGH. 200 I.C. 621=8 B.R. 702=15 R.P. 1=23 Pat.L. T. 352=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 365, ——S. 163-A—Decree-holder only bitder not bidding up to amount specified in sale proclamation—Dismissal of execution—Propriety.

The executing Court is not justified in dismissing the execution case merely because the decree-holder who was the only bidder refused to bid up to the amount specified in the sale proclamation. There is nothing in S. 163-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act to warrant such dismissal. The Court ought to give the decree-holder an opportunity to take out a fresh sale proclamation, or to take such further steps as he thinks proper; and if hafalls to take any further steps, it would, of course, be open to the Court to dismiss the execution case. (Fazl Ali, C.J. Manohar Lall and Chatteriee, JJ.) RAM RAN VIJAY PRASAD SINGH v. KISHUN SINGH. 23 Pat. 61=211 I.C. 593=10 B.R. 429=16 R.P. 250=25 P.L.T. 35=1944 P.W.N. 33=A.I.R. 944 Pat. 54 (F.B.).

S. 163-A—If ultra vires—Repugnancy to 0. 21, R. 66 (2), proviso, C. P. Code—Government of India Act. S. 107 and Sch. VII, list II, Item 21.

S. 163-A which was inserted in the Bihar Tenancy Act by the Amending Act of 1937 is not repugnant to the proviso to O. 21, R. 66 (2), C. P. Code, which was added by the Patna High Court, and is, therefore, not void under S. 107 (1) of Government of India Act The true effect of S. 143 (2), Bihar Tenancy Act is that the Code of Civil Procedure will apply only so long as there is no provision of this Act. In other words, if there is no provision of this Act, the C. P. Code, will apply, but once a 'provision is made in the Act no matter when, provided it is enacted by a competent authority, the C. P. Code, will not apply. If this is the true effect of S. 143 (2) of the Act, this was the "existing Indian Law" at the time S. 163-A of the Act was enacted. In this view no question of repugnancy of S. 163-A of the Act arises. Then again there is the saving clause in S. 4 (1), C. P. Code, the effect of which is that there being no specific provision to the contrary, nothing in the Code will affect the provision of S. 163-A, Bihar Tenancy Act which prescribes a special form of procedure. S. 163-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act refers to a matter covered by item 21 of the Provincial Legislative List. The Act, as its preamble shows, is an enactment "relating to the law of landlord and tenant" S. 163-A finds place in Ch. 13 of the Act which, as it now stands, is headed "Judicial Procedure for the Recovery of Rent by suit". It is clear therefore that S. 163-A is a matter of procedure for the recovery of rent by suit. The expression "the Collection of rents" in Item 21 of the Provincial Legislative List is wide enough to include recovery of rent by suit. The provision of S. 163-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act does not fall under item 4 of the concurrent Legislative List, which refers to "Civil Procedure". The Act is a special law which has its own provisions relating to procedure in rent suits. Procedure in rent suits under the Act can hardly be said to be "Civil procedure." For the aforesaid reasons, S. 163-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act is not void. (Fasl Ali, C.J. Manohar Lall and Chatterji, JJ.) RAM RAN VIJAY PRASAD SINGH v. KISHUN SINGH. 23 Pat. 61=211 I.C. 593=10 B.R. 429=16 R.P. 250=25 P.L.T. 35=1944 P.W.N. 33=A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 54 (F.B.).

——S. 163-A—Scope—Sale in contravention of—Void or voidable.

S. 163-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act contains a clear statutory prohibition against the sale of a holding for a price less than the value fixed for it in the sale proclamation, and unless a case falls within one of the two provisos to the section, the Court has no power to sell at any price below that fixed. A sale in contravention of S. 163-A is therefore void and not merely voidable. (Agarwala, I) RAJENDRA PRASAD v. GANESH PRASAD SINGH. 1942 P.W.N. 174.

——S. 163-A—Second clause—Applicability— Decree holder unwilling to bid up to valuation of Court—Procedure—Dismissal of execution case—Propriety.

An executing Court is not justified in dismissing an execution case on the ground that the decree-holder is not willing to bid up to the extent of valuation fixed by the Court. The only courses open to the Court in such a case are either to re-sell the property or to proceed under S. 165-A (2) Bihar Tenancy Act. (Manohar Lall, J.) SVED RAFIQUL RAHMAN v. ——S. 167—Question whether landlord purchaser has taken steps to annul encumbrance when to be raised—
If can be raised or agitiated in second appeal.

The question whether a landlord auction-purchaser has or has not taken steps to annul the encumbrances under S. 167 of the Bihar Tenancy Act is a pure question of fact and cannot be agitated in second appeal. Nor can such question be raised for the first time in second appeal. TIRJUGI PRASAD SINGH v. PREMSUKH DAS. 8 B.R. 479=199 I.C. 18=14 R.P. 521=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 392.

The respondents originally held, 1 bigha 13 kathas, 10 dhurs under the petitioner at an annual rent of Rs. 49 and odd. The latter sued them for arrears of rent of fasli 1340, to the twelve annas kist of 1343 and obtained a decree in execution of which, 1 bigha, 9 kathas, 2 dhurs of the holding bearing a rent of Rs. 45 and odd were sold under S. 162-A of the Bihar Tenancy Act, leaving a holding of 4 kahtas, 8 dhurs, bearing an annual rent of Rs. 5-10-9. The petitioner again sued the defendants for the rent of the original holding for four annas kist of 1343 to 1345 and for the rent of the new holding for 1346. This was decreed on 14—12—1939 and in execution of the decree, he attached the holding of 4 kathas, 9 dhurs. A claim petition was put in under

O. 21, R. 58, by a person chaining under a bharma bond executed by the defendants. The lower Court held that the decree was a money decree and hence S. 170 (1) of the Act did not apply and therefore the claim petition under O. 21, R. 58, was maintainable and allowed the claim petition.

Held, that though the amounts due as arrears of rent in respect of the original holding and the new holding had been mentioned in one lump sum and were being executed for as one sum, the decree must still be regarded as a decree for arrears of rent and was therefore not a money decree. It was open to the landlord to sue the tenant in one suit for arrears of rent due in respect of the two tenancies and it was possible in such suits to get a decree which would operate as a rent decree against the separate tenancies S. 170 (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act applied and hence the claim under O. 21, R. 58, C. P. Code, was not maintainable. (Reuben, J.) KAVASTHAPAFHSALA v. DEBI PRASAD THAKUR. 1944 PW.N. 323.

—S. 171 A—Applicability—Mortgagee liable to pay part of rent and mortgagor undertaking to pay balance—Case if falls under S. 171-A.

S. 171-A, Bihar Tenancy Act, applies only to a case where a mortgagee is required by the terms of the contract between him and the mortgagor to pay the arrears of rent for which the decree was obtained. Where the mortgagee is not required to pay the entire amount of the rent for which the decree for arrears of rent has been obtained, but only a part of the rent due to the landlord, a portion of the rent being payable by the mortgagor himself, the section has no application. (Manohar Lall, J.) UCHESWAR JHA v. NETLAL SHAW. 1944 P.W.N. 97.

S. 171-A—Construction—Penalty—When to be imposed.

The terms of S. 171-A Bihar Tenancy Act, are quite clear and must be strictly and fairly construed. The penalty provided by sub-cl. (a) followed by actual dispossession under sub-cl. (b) cannot come into operation unless the terms of the section are complied with. (Manchar Lall, f.) UCHESWAR JHA v. NETLAL SHAW. (1944) P.W.N. 97.

—S. 173 (2) and (3)—Scope and effect—Rent sale—Purchase by ludgment-debtor in another's name—If void—Suit by purchaser—Plea of benami purchase by ludgment-debtor—Sustainability—C. P. Code, S. 66.

Sub-cl. (2) of S. 173, Bihar Tenancy Act should be read along with sub-Cl. (3), which establishes a sort of rule of factum valet and throws upon the decree-holder or any other person interested in the sale, the burden of making an application to have the judgment-debtor's actual purchase set aside. A purchase by a judgment-debtor at a sale in execution of a decree is not void but only voidable and remains valid until set aside. It is open to a judgment-debtor to plead and prove in a suit against him by the ostensible purchaser, that he was in fact the purchaser and that he purchased the property in the name of the plaintiff. S. 66 C. P. Code, is of no avail to the benamidar purchaser. (Faal Ali, C. J. and Sinha, J.) JAMUNA PRASAD v. BULAKI LAL. 24 Pat. 279 = A.I.B. 1945 Pat. 390.

S. 174 (1)—Applicant under S. 37-A of Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act—If entitled to deposit for setting aside subsequent rent sale

BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

An applicant for relief under S. 37-A of the Bengal Agricultural Debtors' Act whose property has been sold in execution of a money-lecree against him, is a person whose interest is affected by a rent sale of that property reid subsequent to his application, and he is therefore, entitled to make a deposit under S. 174 (1) of the Binar Tenancy Act for setting aside the rent sale, His right to make the deposit does not depend upon the inerits of his application under S. 37-A. A pincinser of the equity of redemption who has filed an application under S. 37-A of the Bengal Agricultural Dubtors' Act is a person whose interest is affected by the sale of the property in execution of the mortgage decree, and he is, therefore, entitled to make a deposit under S. 174 (1) of the Bihar Tenancy Act tor setting aside the sale. (Henderson, J.) SASADHAR SAMANTA v. BHOLANATH KONAR. 49 C.W.N. 170.

S. 177-A—Applicability—Money execution— House of judgment-debtor—Exemption from liability to sale,

S. 177. A of the Bihar Tenancy Act is not inapplicable to money executions. The section gives exemptions which are not, in terms at any rate, confined to rent executions. It follows from the proviso to C1. (b) of the section that the houses of raiyats and underraiyats are saved from execution sales when the execution relates to decrees for arrears of rent due in respect of lands other than the sites of the houses. Execution against the site of a house on a decree for arrears of rent due in respect of other land is obviously a money execution as distinguished from a rent execution and it is precisely in such cases that S. 177-A (b) exempts houses from sale. What S. 177-A (b) saves, however, if a house belonging to the raiyat and occupied by him as such. It must therefore be clearly found that the house in fact is occupied by the raiyat. (Dhavle, J.) BIKRAMA LAL v. RAM RAN BIJAYA PRASAD SINGH. 194 I.C. 226=13 R.P. 687=7 B.R. 733=A.I.R. 1941 Pat. 508.

S. 178-B, (as amended by Act VIII of 1937)—Scope—If retrospective—Arrears of rent accrued due before passing of Act and sued for before section came into force—If affected—Ducree for 50 per cent. of produce—Jurisdiction of Court to make.

New legislation cannot take away accrued rights unless such intention is manifest and clear from the terms of the legislation. S. 178-B of the Bihar Tenancy Act, introduced by Act VIII of 1937 cannot be construed as having a retrospective effect. It does not in any way prohibit the Courts from decreeing a greater proportion of the produce in respect of rent accrued due before the passing of the Amendment Act. All that the section means is that after the passing of the Act a landlord shall not be entitled to more than nine-twentieths of the produce and there is nothing in the section to suggest that the landlord's rights which had already accrued were to be affected in any way. S. 178-B does not therefore apply to arrears which had accrued due before the section came into force. In such a suit therefore the Court can decree to the landlord not only nine-twentieths but fifty per cent, of the produce of the land. (Harries, C.J. and Fazl Ali, J.) JAGMOHAN SINGH v. ----(as amended in 1937), S. 178-B-Scope-Wit ultra vives or in conflict with Permanent Settlement Regulation.

S. 178. B of the Bihar Tenancy Act as amended in 1937, is not invalid or ultra vires by reason of any conflict or supposed conflict between it and the Permanent Settlement Regulation of 1793. (Rowland and Chitterii, J.). DEEN MAHOMED MIAN v. HULAS NARAVAN SINGH. 21 Pat. 336=199 I.C. 182=1942 P.W.N. 66=23 P.L.T. 143=8 B.R. 519=14 R.P. 548=5 F.L.J. (H.C.) 79=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 296.

——S. 178 B—Validity—If operative in respect of permanently settled estates.

There can be no question that a contract between a landlord and a tenant for payment of rent in respect of agricultural land irrespective of the form in which it might be clothed is a contract relating to agricultural land and is excluded from the scope of entry No. 10 of the Concurrent List in the Government of India Act. It follows that the subject-matter of S. 178 B, Bihar Tenancy Act, even in respect of permanently settled estates, does not fall within the purview of entry No. 10 and no question of repugnany to, the provisions of any existing Indian law can thus arise S. 178-B is therefore within the competence of the Bihar Legislature and is validly enacted and is operative as much in respect of lands comprised within the permanently settled estates as in respect of lands outside these estates. (Gwyer C. J. Varadachariar and Zafrullah Khan, HULAS NARAIN SINGH v. DEEN MAHOMED MIAN, 22 Pat. 428=206 I.C. 387=6 F.L.J. 68=1942 M.W.N. 354=47 C.W.N. (F.B.) 31=15 R.F. C. 29=I.L.R. (1943) Kar. S. 180—Occupancy rights—Diara lands—Raiyat holding area under hukumnama—Part of area submerged—Occupancy rights—Accrual of.

Where a tenant holds diara lands under a hukumnama he remains in continuous possession of the entire area covered by the hukumnama even though some of the lands are submerged and some of them pay no rent. Under S. 180 of the Bihar Tenancy Act, a tenant holding the lands for 12 continuous years would acquire occupancy rights. The mere fact of submersion of a portion of the lands would not destroy the raiyat's right to acquire occupancy rights. The right to acquire occupancy subsists even while the land is under water. (Middleton.) FAUJDAR SINGH v. PRABODH KUMAR MTRA. 9 B.R. 178.

——S. 180—Scope—Diara land—Diluvion—Nonbayment of rent by tenant without right of occupancy— Effect—Forfeiture of rights—Occupancy raiyat and son-occupancy raiyat—Difference.

It is well-settled that when, in consequence of its being submerged or otherwise, land ceases temporarily obe capable of use and enjoyment, the owner of the and does not lose his rights in it. There is no reason vhy an occupancy raiyat, who has a right of property in its holding, should lose that right merely because the and diluviates, though in order to preserve that right e is bound to continue to pay rent (may be a purely ominal or quit rent) for the period while it remains under water and is incapable of being worked to profit. But a raiyat who has no right of occupancy in his holding stands on a different footing. When a tenant of diari land who has not yet acquired a right of occupancy in it, ceases to perform his part of the contract payment of rent) he forfeits any right to the land. It is wholly immaterial that the reason for his failure to pay rent was that the land went under water and he was therefore unable to cultivate it and pay the rent. He cannot claim any right to hold it on re-appearance. (Fast Ali, C.J. and Shearer, J.) RAMBUJHAWAN v. RAMRANBIJOV PRASAD SINGH. 24 Pat.444=27 P. L.T. 7=R. 1945 Pat. 475.

BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

——S. 180—Scope and effect of—Acquisition of occupancy right by tenant—If extinguished on transfer by him—Transfere's right to claim occupancy.

S. 180 of the Bihar Tenancy Act does not contemplate that the occupancy right which has been already acquired by a tenant under the terms of that section is extinguished automatically when the land is transferred and that every successive transferree must before he can claim occupancy right, prove that he himself has been in occupancy right, prove that he himself has been in occupancy of the land continuously for twelve years. A transferree for a tenant who had acquired such right is also entitled to be treated as an occupancy tenant. (Fast Ali, C.J. and Sinha, J.) MAHABIR v. JADUNANDAN. 24 Pat. 389 = 1945 P.W.N. 333.

Where in Rent Reduction Proceedings on the application of tenants under S. 112-A, Bihar Tenancy Act, the notices of the applications are not served thirty days before the date fixed for settlement, there is only an irregular service of notice, which cannot render the order reducing the rent ultra vires or without jurisdiction. The fact that notices are served on the ijaradars of the landlord who were in possession and on servants of the landlord who were authorised to look after the proceedings, but who did not hold, any written authority as required by S. 187 of the Act, will not render the proceedings invalid or affect the jurisdiction of the Rent Reduction Officer. III, Art. 2—Applicability—Agricultural lease-Test to decide-Nature of lands or purpose of tenancy.

The question whether a lease of lands is governed by the Bihar Tenancy Act or not turns on the nature of the lands leased and not on the purpose of the tenancy. Under a registered kabuliyat the lessee was given the right to collect the rents of lands which were in the main agricultural lands. He was also authorised to cultivate bakasht lands and appropriate the proceeds to himself. In a suit for arrears of thica rent, Held, that a suit for rent was govened by Art. 2 of Sch. III of the Bihar Tenancy Act, and the claim for rent beyond three years would be barred.

Per Rowland, J.—The lease was of agricultural lands and the lessee was a tenure holder under the Bihar Tenancy Act. The predominant object of the lease was the collection of rents and it was a tenure.

Per Chatterii, J.—The lease was for agricultural purposes and therefore the suit for rent came within the provisions of the Bihar Tenancy Act, and was governed by the three years' rule in Art. 2 of Sch. III. (Rowland and Chatterii, J.). HAJI SHEIKH MAHOMED HASAN KHAN v. SHEIKH MAHOMED AKHTAR HASAN KHAN. 21 Pat. 469=202 I.C. 223=8 B.R. 861=15 R.P. 99=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 474.

BIHAR TENANCY ACT, (VIII OF 1885).

the Bihar Tenancy Act. Such a lease is excluded from the scope of the Act and it is not a lease for agricultural purposes. A suit for arrears of rent due on such a lease is not governed by Art. 2 of Sch. 3, Tenancy Act, but Art. 116, Limitation Act. When the lease has been granted by a Receiver appointed by the Court under S. 146, Cr. P. Code, the position of the lessee, so long as he remains in possession, is not different from that of a lessee from the true owner. (Fatt Ali, C.J., and Manohar Lall and Chatterii, J.J.) MAHESHWARI PRASAD VARMA v. DULHIN MANRAJO KUER. 23 Pat. 185=212 I.C. 473=10 B.R. 514=16 R.P. 294=25 P.L.T. 19=1944 P.W.N. 6=A.I.R. 1944 Pat. 87 (F.B.).

——Sch. III, Art. 3—Applicability—Conditions—Order under S. 145, Cr. P. Code, in landlord's favour—Suit for possession by tenant—Limitation—Limitation Act, Art. 47.

Art. 3 of Sch. III of Bihar Tenancy Act applies to a suit by a raiyat against a landlord who has dispossessed him qua landlord. For the application of this article two conditions are necessary, viz., that the plaintiff has been dispossessed and that the dispossession has been by his landlord as such. If these two conditions exist, the suit is of the class intended to be covered by this Article and as this Act is a special Act, it will govern in preference to the provisions of the general law of limitation. When an order under S. 145. Cr. P. Code, is made affirming the possession of the landlord and forbidding the tenant from disturbing that possession, nobody is dispossessed at all. Further even if the order is regarded as dispossession of the tenant, it is not dispossession by the landlord as such. It follows from that that in no case can an order under S. 145 be regarded as dispossession by a landlord for the purpose of Art. 3 of Sch. III of Tenancy Act. Consequently, a suit by the tenant to recover possession from the landlord in such circumstances is governed not by this article but by Art. 47 of the Limitation Act. (Agarwala, J.) UDAIBHAN SINGH v. PARAS PANDI. 8 B.R. 413=198 I.C. 347=14 R.P. 453=A.I.R. 1942 Pat. 287.

——Sch. III, Art. 3—Applicability—Money decru against tenant in favour of landlord—Execution— Purchase of tenant's land by landlord—Delivery through Civil Court—Tenant continuing in possession —Subsequent dispossession by landlord—Suit by tenant for possession—Limitation.

Where a landlord purchases in auction the lands of his tenants in execution of a money decree against them and fails to get possession through the Civil Court, and the tenants continue in possession, but long after, the sale and Civil Court delivery of possession he dispossesses the tenants, such dispossession must be held to be a dispossession in his capacity as a landlord and not as auction-purchaser. A suit by the tenants for recovery of possession of the lands from the landlord is governed by Art. 3 of Sch. III of the Bihar Tenancy Act for purposes of limitation. BIHAR (AND ORISSA) VILLAGE ADMINIS-TRATION ACT (III OF 1922), S. 27-Applicability and Construction-Power of Chaukidar to arrest.

S. 27 of the Bihar and Orissa Village Administration Act does not require that in fact stolen property must be found in the possession of a person before he can be arrested by a Chaukidar. What the section requires is that any person found in possession of anything which may reasonably be suspected to be stolen property, or a person who may reasonably be suspected of having committed an offence with reference to such thing is liable to be arrested by a Chaukidar, (Meredith and Imam, J.) -S. 34-President causing Chaukidar to levy distress-Separate distress warrant-Necessity.

S. 34 Of Bihar and Orissa Village Administration Act empowers the President of a Union Board to cause the Chaukidar to levy the amount by distraint without issuing to the Chaukidar any special authority in writing; that is to say, the words "authorized in writing by the president' apply not to the Chaukidar but to any other person. A separate distress warrant is, therefore, not necessary when the president being present causes the Chaukidar under S. 34 to levy distress. (Rowland, J.) SHEO SAHNI v. as amended by Sind Act XXVI of 1940). S. 3-A-Person given money in advance for supplying article-If a vendor.

It cannot be said that a person does not sell because he is given money in advance for an article which he is to order for the customer and he hands back to the customer, with the article he has obtained or sells, any change that may be due. Neither S. 3 (A) nor any other section of the Bombay Abkari Act contemplates or allows such a person to escape under the plausible plea that he is not a vendor, but an agent only. (Davis, C.J.) S. 4—Scope and effect of—Powers of Provincial Government and of Collector in regard to grant of licenses for tapping and drawing toddy from trees.

S. 4 of the Bombay Abkari Act relates only to control in reference to establishment and not to the power to grant licenses for tapping and drawing toddy from toddy-producing trees; such power is controlled only by the rules made under the Act. It cannot therefore be contended that S. 4 makes the Provincial Government the supreme authority in relation to the granting of such licenses and that by virtue of the section the Collector is bound to obey the orders of the Provincial Government with reference to the granting of such licenses. Ss. 4 to 8 relate only to the appointment of officers and to control in reference to establishment and to nothing else. The Provincial Government is the ultimate authority in regard to import, export and transport by virtue of the provisions of Ss. 9 to 13 of the Act and not by virtue of S. 4 at all. It is further plain from Ss. 35 and 35-A that the powers of Abkari officers can be controlled only by rules made under these sections and not by any orders issued under S. 4. No orders can be issued under S. 4 overriding the rules. (Blackwell, 1942 Bom. 1.

The use of the word "may" in R. 2 of the Bombay Foddy Tapping Rules of 1928, which under S. 64 of the Abkari Act have the force of law, does not indicate that the Collector has an absolute discretion to grant or refuse a licence. The word "may" in R. 2 is merely used with the object of enumerating the purposes for which tapping licences can be issued, namely, by supplying toddy to shops, tree-foot booths, hawkers or for domestic consumption, and to indicate that they may not be assued for any other purposes. It does not mean that the Collector has a discretion to grant or refuse a licence if applied for in respect of one of the designated purposes. Having regard to the use of the word "shall" in Rr. 9 to 13 of the Rules, no question of the exercise of any discretion by the Collector in the granting of a licence arises, provided that the requirements of the rules are complied with, but a statutory duty to issue a licence is imposed by S. 14 (1) of the Act read in conjunction with the rules. (Blackwell, J.) RATANSHAW NUSSERWANJI v. GEOFFREY WILLIAM McELHINNY. I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 259=198 I.C. 849=14 R.B. 339=43 Bom. L.R. 896=A.I.R. 1942 Born. 1.

-S. 14 (1)-Scope-If controlled by S. 4-Collector-Discretion of to grant or refuse licence-Duty to grant licence when application complies with requirements of rules.

By virtue of S. 14(1) of the Bombay Abkari Act there is an implied power conferred upon the Collector to grant licences for tapping and drawing toddy from toddy-producing trees. S. 14 read in conjunction with the rules under the Act for the tapping of toddy contemplates that sush licences shall be granted in accordance with the rules to enable the duties imposed to be levied. The implied power conferred upon the Collector under S. 14 (1) to grant or refuse a licence is limited by the rules. He would, for example, have power to refuse a licence if the application were not in the form prescribed by R. 4 of the Rules for tapping. But, if the requirements of the rules are complied with, there is a statutory duty imposed upon the Collector to grant a licence and this statutory duty is not affected by anything contained in S. 4 of the Act. There is no justification for holding that the Collector under S. 14 (1) has an absolute discretion to grant or refuse a licence. (Blackwell, J.) RATANSHAW NUSSERWANJI v. GEOFFREY WILLIAM. McElhinny. # BOMBAY ABKARI ACT, (V OF 1878).

—S. 14-B(2)—Construction and scops—Notification prohibiting possession by any person in Sind of charas—If ultra vires.

The words "any person or class of persons" in S. 14-B (2) of the Bombay Abkari Act cannot be construed as meaning by the public generally. They mean only any specified person or any specified class of persons. The primary purpose of the Abkari Act is to secure revenue combined indeed, with the regulation and control of the trade in drinks and drugs; but the power to control and regulate, though it might be made to serve the cause of social betterment, does not include the power to abolish the trade altogether. Hence, a notification by the Government of the Province of Sind, purporting to be made under S. 14-B (2) of the Act, prohibiting the possession by any person within the Province of Sind of charas, is ultra vires. (Davis, C.J. and Weston, J.) Emperor v. Dholaram Holaram. I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 431=199 I.C. 101=14 R.S. 167=43 Cr.L.J. 468=A.I.R. 1941 Sind. 221.

S. 30—Construction and scope—If empowers or regulates grant of tapping licences.

S. 30 of the Bombay Abkari Act is not the section under which licences to tap and draw toddy are granted. They are granted under S. 14. The meaning of S. 30 is that such licences, if granted, shall be granted on payment of such fees, and subject to such restrictions and conditions and shall be in such form as the Provincial Government may direct in rules and orders which are not to be inconsistent with Act. (Blackwell, J.) RATANSHAW NUSSERWANJI v. GEOFFREY WILLIAM MCELHINNY. I.L.R. (1942) Bom. 259 = 198 I.C. 849=14 R.B. 339=43 Bom.L.R. 896 = A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 1.

——Ss. 35 and 35-A—Rules under—Effect of on power to grant licences—Order under S. 4—If can override rules.

Ss. 35 and 35-A of the Bombay Abkari Act make it plain that the powers of Abkari officers can be controlled only by rules made under these sections and not by orders issued under S. 4. Rules under S. 35 are, subject to the power given by the proviso, subject to privious publication, and even in the case of the proviso rules must be made and not merely orders issued. It is clear that orders cannot be issued under S. 4 overriding the rules. (Blackwell, J.) RATANSHAW NUSSERWANJI v. GEOFFREY WILLIAM MCELHINNY. I.L.R. —S. 54 (b)—Construction—"Article liable to confiscation under cl. (a)"—Meaning of—Sale of beer without license—Raid—Liquor found in kitchen and godown of house of accused = Confiscation—Legality.

The expression "an article liable to confiscation under cl. (a) occurring in Cl. (b) of S. 54 of the Bombay Abkari Act, cannot be construed as meaning an article which may become liable to confiscation under Cl. (a) on the commission of the offence which brings S. 54 into operation. The only sound way of construing the clause is to take the words literally, and to hold that the only articles which are liable to confiscation under Cl. (b) are articles lawfully imported, transported, manufactured, had in possession or sold along with something which had actually at the time become liable to confiscation. The accused was charged and convicted under S. 43 (1) (i) of the Bombay Abkari Act, for having sold without license two bottles of beer and a bottle of rum to a bogus customer who was sent by the police. The place was raided by the police who seized the bottles sold and also found a large quantity of liquor in the kitchen adjacent to the place where the sale took place and in a godown at the back of the house of the accused. In convicting the accused the magistrate also passed an order under S. 54, confiscating the liquor found in the kitchen and the godown.

Held, that the liquor in question found in the kitchen and godown was never had in possession along with the bottles sold after they became liable to confiscation, having been seized by the police after the sale when the liability to confiscation arose, and therefore the liquor in the kitchen and godown could not legally be confiscated. S. 60 of the Bombay Abkari Act cannot be read 2s giving the Commissioner of Excise an absolute unfettered discretion to grant or refuse a licence. The section means that the Commissioner in the case of an appeal is substituted for the Collector, and the Commissioner is then charged with the duty of considering the application for the licence in the light of the Act and the rules made thereunder in exactly the same way as the Collector is charged. The Scheme of Bombay Act XXVIII of 1939 is that pending suits should not be transferred under S. 37 of the Act, until the Court has determined that the debtor is a debtor within the meaning of the Act, therefore, in a suit relating to a transaction which is said by one side to be a mortgage and by the other side to be a sale, that question must be decided by the Court before it can transfer the suit to a Debt Adjustment Board under S. 37. filed after the establishment of a Board in any particular area, and if after the filing of a suit or of an application tor execution in such area an application is made to the Debt Adjustment Board, the Court would be bound to stay further proceedings. But as regards suits filed prior to the establishment of the Board, and which were pending at the date of the establishment of the Board, S. 37 read with S. 85 provides that it is for the Court to decide whether the defendant is a debtor within the meaning of the Act and whether his debts do not exceed Rs. 15,000 and if the Court so finds, it is bound to transfer the suit or application to the Board. BOMBAY CHILDREN ACT(XIII OF 1924).

Ss. 22 and 27—Scope—Youthful offender—Conviction for murder—Proper Order—Sentence of imprisonment—Legality—Conviction—If proof of his being unruly or depraved.

A Court convicting a youthful offender of the offence of murder cannot sentence him to imprisonment by reason of the proviso to S. 27 of the Bombay Children Act. The fact that he is convicted of murder cannot, as a general rule, and without further inquiry into hisantecedents, be taken as proof that he is of unruly or depraved character as to be unfit to be sent to a certified or a reformatory school. Such a finding must, in the majority of cases, be based upon inquiry into the antecedents of the child in question. A sentence of imprisonment cannot therefore he legally passed upon a youthful offender for the offence of murder. (Leba and Typhii, II.) DINO RAMZAN v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. (1944) Kar 272.

Ss. 26 and 27 (1)—Accused 14-15 years of age convicted of murder—Power of Court to pass sentence of imprisonment—Proper course.

As under the Penal Code the Court cannot impose on an accused who is a girl of 14/15 years of age a sentence of imprisonment while convicting her of the offence of murder, he has no power to do so under S. 27 of the Bombay Children Act by reason of the Proviso which follows Cl. (1) of the section. The Court must deal with her in the manner provided in S. 26 of that Act. (Lobo and O'Sullivan, JJ.) MT. RAJAN v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. S. 27—Scope—Powers of Magistrate to inflict penalties prescribed by section.

S. 27 of the Bombay Children Act does not confer upon the Court powers which it does not otherwise possess; it does not confer fresh powers upon magistrates. A magistrate therefore cannot do any of the things specified in S. 27 unless he is authorised to do so by some other law. (Davis, C.). KUNDAN TILIUMAL V. EMPEROR. I.L.R. S. 46 of the Bombay Children Act, if taken as an independent code, apart from the provisions of the rest of the code, might mean that the Juvenile Court, when established, was to have exclusive jurisdiction over cases at which the attendance of a child is required. But it is necessary to notice also the other sections of the Act Reading the Act as a whole, the jurisdiction of the Children's Court is not exclusive; the other Presidency Magistrates can try cases in which children are concerned. The expression "receives the rent" in S. 3 (m) of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, is not used in a technical sense. The Court has to see whether the person charged with an offence under the Act is one who receives the rent of the premises. If he is not entitled to receive the rent at all and does in fact not receive it, he cannot be said to be an owner. An owner who has parted with the right to receive the rent, and cannot recover it is not an owner within the meaning of the Act and cannot be convicted under Ss. 257 (1) and 375 of the Act. S. 3 (w)—"Street"—Meaning—Well-laid out passage intended as a thoroughfare, but later abondoned and becoming blind alley—Passage used by occupants of buildings on either side and by public generally for access thereto from main road—"Il street."

The definition of "street" in S. 3 (w) of the City of Bombay Municipal Act is not an exhaustive but an inclusive and enlarging definition, and does not exclude the ordinary popular and natural meaning of the word "street" where that would be properly applicable; the definition is intended to enlarge its meaning so as to make the word qua the statute, embrace ways and means which would not otherwise come within it. It is not necessary that before a road lined with houses can be a street, the public should have possessed a right of passage or access over it or must have passed and had acress over it uninterruptedly for a period of twenty vears. It is also misleading to suggest that a piece of land, merely hecause it is in front of a house, and may have another house on the other side, is a street within the meaning of the Act. The question must be dealt with as a question of fact on the evidence adduced in the particular case. A well-laid out passage running between two rows of buildings and used by the tenants and occupants of those buildings and by the public generally for access to the buildings from the main public road and made up as a road, which was originally laid out as part of an intended thoroughfare, though the extension of the same was subsequently abandoned and it became a blind alley, is a "street" as defined by S. 3 (w) for purpose of Municipal Administration, notwithstanding the finding that the public have not acquired any right of passage or access over it either by dedication or uninterrupted user for twenty years. "private street", it is incumbent on the Municipality to prove, at any rate prima (acie, the negative proposition that no works of the necessary kind enumerated in S. 3 (x) of the Act have been carried out in the street prior to the date on which the Act came into operation, i.e., 14—9—1888. (as amended in 1928), Ss. 143 and 144 — Construction and relative scope—"Used solely for public purposes and not used or intended to be used for purposes of profit"—If mean beneficially occupied.

Ss. 143 and 144 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act are clear in their meaning. The scheme is first to exclude the buildings and lands exclusively occupied for "charitable purposes." The exemption is limited to what is contained in S. 143 (1) (b). This however, does not mean that if a building in fact was exclusively occupied for charitable purposes, if it was owned by His Majesty, if would fall under sub-sec. (b) of S. 143 (1). The question whether a building exclusively occupied for charitable purposes was owned by a co-owner or by a private individual is immaterial, because the words of S. 143 (1) (a) are general and irrespective of ownership. S. 143 (1) (b) deals with only a small portion of the lands and buildings which are vested in His Majesty, Cl. (b) in terms deals with two things. (1) Vesting of the property in His Majesty, and (2) the particular use of the buildings or lands. The exemption under S. 143 is granted only when (1) the property is vested in His Majesty, (2) it is used solely for a public purpose and (3) it is not used or intended to be used for purposes of profit. Unless all the three qualifications meet the case, it is not covered by Cl. (b) of S. 143 (1), and such land or building would be liable to general tax as land, or building owned by any other individual. All this however, must be considered only after sub-sec. 1 (a) is considered and held inapplicable. If the case falls under S. 143 (1) (a), no further question of exemption or the extent thereof arises. The words "used solely for public purposes and not used or intended to be used for purposes of profit," added in S. 143 (1) (b) by the Bombay Act X of 1928, cannot be read as having the same meaning as the words "benefically" occupied used in S. 144 (2). It is wrong to hold that merely because a property is vested in His Majesty and is beneficially occupied, it is exempt under S. 143 (1) (b). (Kania, J.) MUNICIPAL CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BOMBAY P. (as amended in 1928) Ss. 143 (1) (a) and 143 (1) (b)—Scope and distinction—Questions for consideration.

The correct distinction between S. 143 (1) (a) and S. 143 (1) (b) is the purpose for which the building or land is occupied and the question of ownership is not the first important factor. Once the building or land is held to be exclusively occupied for charitable purposes, it is immaterial who is the owner. If it is not so occupied, the next question is whether the building or land is vested in His Majesty. If so, the question arises whether the same is used solely for public purposes Every public purpose is not a charitable purpose. If it is shown that the building or land vested in His Majesty was solely occupied for a public purpose, the last question will be whether it was not used or intended to be used for the purpose of profit. If it is so used it is not covered by the exemption. If all these three features exist, the assessment will be as provided in S. 144

The fact that subsequently in 1.38 the power of appointing additional Police Officers was taken away from the Commissioner and vested in the Local Government, the Local Government again delegating the power to the Commissioner in 1938, would not cause the original appointment to lapse or make it invalid. There is no justification for holding that the convictions referred to in S. 27 (2A) of the City of Bombay Police Act, as amended in 1936 must be convictions arising in the course of separate transactions, or convictions passed on separate dates. Where offences under Ss 457 and 380, I.P. Code, are committed in the course of the same transaction, a conviction at a ionint trial for these two offences, must be taken to be not one conviction but two convictions for the purpose of S. 27 (2-A) of the City of Bombay Police Act. It must, however, be said that the Legislature did not contemplate that the practice of some Magistrates of convicting accused persons on more than one count in respect of the same transaction would involve two convictions within the meaning of S. 27 (2-A). The obvious intent of the section seems to be that a man is not to be externed under it unless on more than two occasions he has shown that he does not intend to live within the law. (Reaumont, C.J. and Macklin, J.) EMPEROR v. CHHOTAIAL. I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 690=197=I.C. 577=14 R.B. 232=43 Cr L. J. 210=43 Bom. L.R. 834=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 367.

Where there are two or more convictions for offences committed in the course of the same transaction, they cannot be treated as more than one conviction for the purpose of S. 27 (2-A). If in fact there are more than two convictions for separate offences, the case falls under S. 27 (2-A), though it would normally be harsh to make an order of externment when all the offences have been in fact committed at one and the same time and as part of the same transaction, if the commissioner has nothing else to go upon. ### BOM. CITY POLICE ACT, (IV OE 1902).

In deciding whether to make an externment order in a case falling within S. 27 (2.A) of the City of Bombay Police Act, the Commississoner of Police is acting in an administrative capacity and not in a judicial capacity. He may know a great deal more about the person to be externed than the Court which convicted him knew. The Commissioner is not bound only by the evidence given in Court, and may consider himself justified in making the order of externment in the public interst, although the actual offences of which the accused person has been convicted were not of a serious character. (Beaumont, C. J. and Sen, J.) EMPEROR v. ISHVARLAL CHHAGANLAL. 196 I.C 442=14 R.B. 129=42 Cr. L.J. 869-43 Bom. L.R. 511=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 310.

——S. 27 (2-A)—Scope—Conviction under Bombay Children Act of 1924—If can be made basis of externment order.

A conviction under the Bombay Children Act of 1924 as it stood before it was amended in 1936, constitutes technically a conviction on which an externment order under S. 27 (2 A) of the City of Bombay Police Act may be based. But to make such an order, taking into account a conviction under the Children Act of 1924, is opposed to modern views and is in defiance of the spirit of the Bombay Children Act as amended in 1936. Under S. 57 of the City of Bombay Police Act, which requires a Police Officer to reduce into writing the statement made by an informant and to take the signature of the informant and to sign it, the Police Officer is not bound to take down in writing any information relating to the commission of the offence, in a case where there is no informant and the alleged offence is committed in the presence of the investigating Officer himself, because he has the information himself. The Police Officer is not bound to write his own statement and sign it under S. 57 of the Act. (Wadia and Lokur, J.) EMPEROR. v. JAYANTILAL JAGJIVAN. 213 I.C. 174-45 Cr. L.J. 691-17 R.R. 47-46 Bom. Code, the right to cross-examine a prosecution witness on his statements made to the Police is a privilege conferred on the defence. It is not competent to the judge to call for the police statement and to put to the witnesses questions founded on those statements. To do so is a clear breach of the provisions of S. 63 of the Bombay City Police Act. (Beaumont, C. J., Wadia and Sen, J.). EMPEROR v. KASAMALLI MIRZALLI. I.L.B. S. 66 cannot be held to be inapplicable so far as documents referred to in S. 54 of the Income-tax Act are concerned, All that S. 66 of the Bombay City Police Act means is that the police officer must be satisfied that the person in possession of the document or thing in question will not produce it of his own accord, or under the compusion of a summons. If he is so satisfied, then he may search and the seizure of a document at such search is perfectly legal. (Beaumont, C. J., and Sen, J.) EMPEROR v. OSMAN CHOTANI. I.L.R. All that the Court can do in a case under S. 128 of the City of Bombay Police Act is to consider whether the order of the Commissioner of Police was legal; and if it was whether it has been broken and, if so, what is the proper punishment. It is not open to the Court to consider the reasons which induced the Commissioner of Police to make the order. Although it is competent for the Court on a charge being preferred under S. 128 against a man who has been externed and has disobeyed the order of externment to consider whether the order of externment made by the Commissioner of Police was legal, that is to say, whether the case fell within the terms of S. 27 (2-A) of the Act, it is not legitimate for the Court in awarding sentence to take into consideration the number of previous convictions (i. e., those justifying the deportation order) and the importance or the gravity of the offence in respect of each such convictions as disclosed by the quantum of punishment which the Court may have awarded in the case. (Beaumont C. J. and Sen, J.) EMPEROR v. ISHVARLAL CHHAGANLAL. 196 I.C. 442=14 R.B. 129=42 Cr. LJ. 869=43 Bom. L.R. 511=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 310.

——S. 128—Sentence—Mitigation — Grounds—Accused guilty of breach of order only once—If ground for light sentence.

An order of externment under S. 27 (2-A) is made in the public interest, and it is a serious offence to ignore that order. Though the Court in determining the sentence under S. 128 of the Act is entitled to take into account whether it is only a first offence or whether the accused has returned in breach of the order more than once wrongfully, the mere fact that the order has only been ignored once, is not a good reason for imposing a light sentence. (Beaumont C. J., and Sen, J.) EMPEROR v. ISHVARLAL CHHAGANLAL. 196 I.O. 442=14 R.B. 129=42 Cr. L.J. 869=43 Bom. L.B. 511=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 310.

In imposing sentence on a conviction under S 128 of the City of Bombay Police Act on a charge of breach of an order of externment under S. 27 (2-A), the reason which may have prompted the accused to return to Bombay in breach of the order, is a factor which may be taken into account. If the accused proves conclusively that he had some reason unconnected with any criminal intent, that is a matter which may be taken into consideration in mitigation of the offence. (Beaumont C. It follows, therefore, that if he supplies any quantity either without a bread ticket or in excess of the quantity mentioned in the bread ticket, he contravenes the provisions of the Regulation and as those provisions are prescribed under the Bombay Rationing Order, he must be held to contravene the provisions of Cl. 6 of the Bombay Rationing Order also. S. 54 of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act applies only when there is a dispute. inter alia, between members "touching the business of the Society". The plaintiff who was the owner of a property in Co-operative Housing Society entered into a contract with the defendant for sale of his house to the latter for a sum of Rs. 25,000. Disputes arose between the parties relating to the contract. The plaintiff was a member, but the defendant was not a member of the Housing Society which was governed by the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act. The Registrar of Co-operative Societies referred the dispute to arbitration being of opinion that the dispute fell within the purview of S.54 proceedings and of the Act. Pending the arbitration before the award was made, the plaintiff sued for a declaration that the arbitration poroceedings were null and void and for an injunction to restrain the arbitrators from proceeding with the arbitration.

Held, (1) that S. 54 of the Act did not apply as both parties were not members of the Co-operative Housing Society and as the dispute was not one touching the business of the Society but merely one relating to the terms of the agreement of sale between the parties; (2) that if the arbitration proceedings were concluded and an award made, the plaintiff would have no opportunity of attacking the award in a Court of law by a reason of S. 56 of the Act and therefore the proceedings in arbitration should be restrained by an injunction, as the balance of convenience lay in so restraining the same. There is now arrant for restricting the term "servant" in S. 54 of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act so as to include only high and important officials of a society and to exclude menial servants or to limit the term only to such servants as at the time of the initiation of the arbitration proceedings are actually in the employment of the society, (Chagla, I. ——S 54—"Touching the business of a Society"—Meaning—Dispute between Society and dismissed servant.

It would not be right to give a restricted meaning to the words "touching the business of a society" in S. 54 of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act. "Business" is a very wide term and it is not synonymous with the objects of a society. The expression "touching the business of a society" mean affecting the business of a society or relating to the business of a society; and it cannot be said that when a society employs or dismisses a servant, it does not do comething which relates to its business. Though it may not be one of the objects of a society to employ or dismiss its servants, it is something which it does in the ordinary course of its business. Whatever is done in the ordinary course of business certainly relates to or affects the business. A dispute between a society and a dismissed servant of the society whose grievance is that he has been wrongly dismissed or that he is entitled to damages is a question which comes within the purview of S. 54 of the Act, because it does touch the business of the society. Where an act alleged to be criminal is done by a public servant in his official capacity, that is, if it is an act which it is his duty to do as such public servent under the law governing the case, he is protected, although, by reason of the fact that he has done the act fraudulently or dishonestly or in any other manner contrary to law, he may have committed a criminal offence. On the other hand, if the offence charged involves an act or acts which the accused is not required to do and which are outside his official duties, the liability to prosecution is unfettered. If the official capacity of the accused is involved in the very Act complained of, then the prosecution cannot be launched without compliance with the requirements of the statute. The accused, V and S who were respectively the sub-overseer of a District Local Board and the elected member of the Board and also Chairman of the Works Committee were charged with cheating and falsification of accounts and abetment there of under Ss. 420 and 477-A read with S. 114, I. sheet containing the false measurements attached to it duly signed by the first accused and countersigned by the second accused. The accused pleaded S. 136 (2) of the Bombay Local Boards Act, as amended in 1935, and S. 197, Cr. P. Code in bar of the prosecution. It was found that the 1st accused as sub-overseer, was bound to supervise the works, take measurements and enter them in a measurement book and to report to the Board through the Works Committee of which the 2nd accused was the Chairman, the progress of the works in his charge and their measurements for the purpose of making payment to the contractor. The overseer was obliged to sign the bill submitted by the contractor in authentication of the measurements given in it and the charges made. The work in question was entrusted to a contractor by the Board and the contractor had preferred a bill under his signature for the amount stated therein. The bill was signed by accused 1 and counter-signed also by accused 2, as Chairman of the works Committee. The signing of the bill and attaching a measurement sheet thereto and submitting the bill for payment was part of the official duty of the overseer. The Act of conuter-signing the bill in authentication of the measurement and therefore the charges made was part of the official duty of accused 2 as Chairman. The bill was eventually sanctioned and paid by the Board on account of the authentication thereof; and the money was in fact obtained on the guarantee provided by the counter-signature and the accompaniment to the bill consisting of the measurements of the actual work done, for which the bill was preferred. It was found that the contractor who submitted the bill was a bogus contractor, that the measurements mentioned in the bill and noted in the measurement sheet attached to the bill were false and that the two accused had combined to draw the amount dishonestly from the Board.

which it is his duty to do as such public servant under the law governing the case, he is protected by S. 136 (2) of the Bombay District Local Boards Act, although by reason of the fact that he has done the act dishonestly or fraudulently or in any other manner contrary to the law, he may have committed a criminal offence. On the other hand, if the offence charged involves an act or acts which the accused is not required to do and which are outside its official duties, the liability to prosecution is unfettered. But when the prosecution falls under the new proviso in S. 136 (2). S. 136 (2) itself will not apply, and no question of its application or the protection given by it can arise. (Davis, C. The addition of a new proviso to S. 136 (2) of the Bombay District Local Boards Act recognises for the purpose of time and notice, a distinction between public prosecution and private prosecutions. The purpose of the proviso is to exclude from the protection of the section prosecutions by the crown-prosecutions by or under the order of the Provincial Government. A prosecution instituted by the Public Prosecutor is a prosecution instituted by the Provincial Government within the meaning of the proviso and to such a prosecution S. 136 (2) will not apply. sheet containing the false measurements attached to it duly signed by the first accused and countersigned by the second accused. The accused pleaded S. 136 (2) of the Bombay Local Boards Act, as amended in 1935, and S. 197, Cr. P. Code in bar of the prosecution. It was found that the 1st accused as sub-overseer, was bound to supervise the works, take measurements and enter them in a measurement book and to report to the Board through the Works Committee of which the 2nd accused was the Chairman, the progress of the works in his charge and their measurements for the purpose of making payment to the contractor. The overseer was obliged to sign the bill submitted by the contractor in authentication of the measurements given in it and the charges made. The work in question was entrusted to a contractor by the Board and the contractor had preferred a bill under his signature for the amount stated therein. The bill was signed by accused 1 and counter-signed also by accused 2, as Chairman of the works Committee. The signing of the bill and attaching a measurement sheet thereto and submitting the bill for payment was part of the official duty of the overseer. The Act of conuter-signing the bill in authentication of the measurement and therefore the charges made was part of the official duty of accused 2 as Chairman. The bill was eventually sanctioned and paid by the Board on account of the authentication thereof; and the money was in fact obtained on the guarantee provided by the counter-signature and the accompaniment to the bill consisting of the measurements of the actual work done, for which the bill was preferred. It was found that the contractor who submitted the bill was a bogus contractor, that the measurements mentioned in the bill and noted in the measurement sheet attached to the bill were false and that the two accused had combined to draw the amount dishonestly from the Board.

Held, (1) that assuming that there had been fraudulent and dishonest entry in the bill and its accompaniment, the accused were certainly "purporting to Act," though not actually acting "in pursuance of the Act," with in the meaning of S. 136 (2) of the Bombay Local Boards Act, and the Act complained was therefore protected by S. 136 (2); (2) that the 2nd accused was also entitled to protection under S. 197, Cr. P. Code as he was a statutory public servant according to S. 135 of the Bombay Local Boards Act, and the Act complained of was done or purported to be done by him in the exercise of his official duty. As a member, he was not removable without the sanction of the Local Government under S. 31 of the Act, and sanction of the Government was therefore necessary under S. 197, Cr. P. Code, in the case of the 2nd accused. (Broomfield and Wassoodew, JJ.) Emperor v. VISHNU TATYABA. I.L.R. (1941) Bom 191=193 I.C. 229=13 R.B. 323=42 Bom. L.R. 1193=42 Cr.L.J. 441=A.I. R. 1941 Bom. 85.

which it is his duty to do as such public servant under the law governing the case, he is protected by S. 136 (2) of the Bombay District Local Boards Act, although by reason of the fact that he has done the act dishonestly or fraudulently or in any other manner contrary to the law, he may have committed a criminal offence. On the other hand, if the offence charged involves an act or acts which the accused is not required to do and which are outside its official duties, the liability to prosecution is unfettered. But when the prosecution falls under the new proviso in S. 136 (2). S. 136 (2) itself will not apply, and no question of its application or the protection given by it can arise. (Davis, C. J. and Weston, f.) NABI BAKHSH v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 557=199 I.C. 198=14 R.S. 172=43 Cr.L.J. 514=A.I.R. 1942 Sind 45.

The addition of a new proviso to S. 136 (2) of the Bombay District Local Boards Act recognises for the purpose of time and notice, a distinction between public prosecution and private prosecutions. The purpose of the proviso is to exclude from the protection of the section prosecutions by the crown-prosecutions by or under the order of the Provincial Government. A prosecution instituted by the Public Prosecutor is a prosecution instituted by the Provincial Government within the meaning of the proviso and to such a prosecution S. 136 (2) will not apply. The power conferred upon a Municipality by S. 60 (a) (iv) are sufficiently wide to permit it to impose the general sanitary cess in the form of a rate on building or land and there is no inconsistency in the rules framed by a Municipality to that effect; and such a levy is not ultra vires. S. 70 (1) of the Bombay District Municipalities Act, only empowers the municipality to levy a fee for the granting of permission to put up projections and not to levy a fee for the continued use of a projection. Ss. 113 and 70 of the Act do not contemplate any agreement between the municipality and the grantee but a written permission to be issued on the terms laid down under S. 113 and on payment of the prescribed fee. Once the fee is paid, permission issued and the projections erected in accordance with the regulations set out under S. 48 (1) (n) of the Act, the matter is at an end. BOMBAY DISTRICT POLICE ACT (IV OF 1890), S. 34—Temporary withdrawal from duty—Offence.

There is no doubt that S. 34 of the Bombay District Police Act covers both permanent and temporary withdrawal from his duties by a police officer. It is a very serious offence for a man employed in the police force to withdraw himself from his duties even for a day without the permission of his superior officers. (Loho and O'Sullivan. 11.) *FMPFOR v. MOHANIAI. WADHUMAL. I.L.R (1943) Kar. 530=211 I C 473=45 Cr.L.J. 400=16 R.S. 212=A.I.R. 1944 Sind 50.

S. 51—Scope—Police officer obeying Court summons to appear and give evidence—Right to protection under S. 80 (3).

There are no words in S. 51 of the Bombay District Police Act which would cover the giving by a police officer of evidence on eath when summoned as a witness by the Court. Cl. (f) of the section contemplates a direct duty imposed upon a police officer as such; it does not cover a case where he is merely obeying a summons by a Court to appear before it and giving evidence. He is not then discharging any dark investigation.

——S 61 (1) (f)—Construction—"In any other way whatsoever"—Person inviting people and giving dinner to caste people in public street—Obstruction—Offence.

S. 61 (1) (f) of the Bombay District Police Act must be read as a whole in one part only and not in two parts or three parts separately. Under that section, a person is not entitled to obstruct a street by exposing things for sale in or upon any stall and so forth in the street, and that type of obstruction is prohibited apart from any regulation made by the District Magistrate, The general words "any other way whatsoever" must be read ciusdem generis with the words which have gone before.

Obstruction of a street by inviting people to sit in it for a length of time is of the same genus as obstructing it by leaving vehicles or animals or packages in the street. Hence a person who gives a caste dinner in the street outside his residence, and thus causes obstruction is liable to conviction under S. 61 (1) (1) of the Bombay District Police Act. (Beaumont, C.J. and Wadia, J.) EMPROR v. DHARMAPPA. I.L. R. (1942) Bom. 235=200 I.C. 344=15 R.B. 35=43 Cr.LJ. 701=44 Bom.L.R. 241=A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 150.

——S. 61-D—Conviction — Sustainability—Charae of being reputed thieves—Previous convictions not proved.

Previous convictions of the accused for theft or house-breaking may be sufficient evidence of bad character, when such evidence is admissible, to sustain the charge that they are "reputed thieves." But where the previous convictions are not properly proved and it is not known for what offences these convictions are, the convictions of the accused under S. 61.D of the Bombay District Police Act are liable to be set aside. (Pavis, C.J.) ROCHI BHOJOMAL 7. EMPEROR. I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 189=192 I.C. 203=13 R.S. 190=42 Cr.L.J. 256=A.I.R. 1941 Sind 16.

S. 61-D—Convictions — Requisites for— Person found in suspicious circumstances—Liability to conviction.

To sustain a conviction under S 61-D of the Bombay District Police Act three conditions are required; (1) lving or loitering in any street or vard or other place, (2) being a reputed thief and (3) inability to give a satisfactory account of himself. There is nothing in the section which punishes a man for being found under suspicious circumstances, (Davic, C.J.) HAROON AHMED v. FMPFFOR. I.L.R. -S. 61-E-Burden of proof-When shifts to accused—Duty of prosecution to prove that property in possession of accused is stolen property.

Under S. 61-E of the Bombay District Police Act, before an accused person can be called upon to account for the possession of property, it is necessary that the Magistrate should be satisfied that there is reason to believe that the property is stolen property. There must be evidence, amounting to proof, to the satisfaction of the Court that the accused possessed a thing of which it could be predicated after judicial consideration by the Court that it may be reasonably suspected of being stolen. It is only then and not until then, that the burden of proof innocence shifts to the accused. (Davis, C.J. and Weston, J.) MAHOMED VASI ABDUL GHANI v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 554=199 I.C. 137=14 R.S. 185=43 Cr.L.J. 528 =A.I.R. 1942 Sind 50.

-S. 80 (1)—Applicability—Illegal acts done with knowledge of their illegality-It protected-"Good faith."

S. 80 (1) of the Bombay District Police Act does not extend a general protection to a police officer for all acts in good faith under colour of his office; the protection is limited to any act done in good faith in pursuance or intended pursuance of any duty imposed or any authority conferred on him by any provision of Act or any rule, order or direction lawfully made or given thereunder. The section must, however, be read with S. 51 of Act, which by its wording extends the protection to acts done under other laws. S. 80 (1) read with S. 51 is intended to protect illegal acts. But S. 80 (1) is not intended to apply to illegal acts which are done with the knowledge that they are illegal. S. 80 (1) cannot apply to a case where a Sub-Inspector of Police with open eyes breaks the law, and he is not entitled to invoke the protection of S. 80 (1); he cannot be said to act in good faith when he knowingly breaks the law. A man is answerable under the law for his own acts. He cannot plead the unlawful order of his official superior as his defence. (Davis, C.J.) HAJI MAHOMED KHAN v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. BOMBAY FINANCE ACT (1932 as amended in 1939), S. 24-B-Scope and effect of -Urban immovable property tax-If annual charge or land revenue under Income-tax Act.

S. 24-B of the Bombay Finance Act, as amended in 1939, does not create an annual charge upon the property. It operates to create a charge should the owner of the property fail to pay the urban immovable pro perty tax. The tax is not an annual charge or land revenue within the meaning of S. 9 of the Income-tax Act. (Leach, C.J. and Lakshmana Rao, J.) MAMAD. KEYI v. COMMISSIONER OF INCOME TAX, MADRAS. I.L.R. period of 10 years on a monthly rental of Rs, 167 for the purpose of constructing motor garages and show-rooms for his own use; and under the lease the Municipal and other professional taxes where to be paid by the defendant-lessee. Subsequently the Bombay Finance (Amendment) Act which came into force on 30-3-1939, imposed Urban Immovable Property tax under the Bombay Urban Immovable Property Tax Act. Disputes arose between the lessors and the lessee who had erected buildings on the Land as to the liability for the tax. The lessee after paying the Tax sought to deduct it from the rent payable to the plaintiffs-lessors, who he contended, were liable for the tax.

Held, that the Urban Immovable Property tax was leviable on the defendant lessee who had constructed the buildings and was the owner thereof as also the actual occupier of the buildings and lands. It was primarily his liability and he was not entitled to deduct the amount of the tax from the rent payable to the plaintiffs. (Raradhyaksha, J.) MOTOR HOUSE, GUJARAT, LTD. v. _____S. 2-Watan lands-Permanent lease of-Duration-Death of grantor-Effect-Claim to permanent tenancy against successor-Sustainability.

A permanent tenancy of watan lands ceases on the death of the grantor, and the grantee becomes a tenant on sufferance or on acceptance of rent from him a tenant from year to year. The grantee cannot base his claim to permanent tenancy on the original grant. The fact that the tenant is described as a permanent tenant in the record of rights is not conclusive. The presumption arising from the entry in the record of rights is at once rebutted by the fact that the original grant has ceased to be effective on the death of the grantor and the fact that the tenant cannot have been legally a permanent tenant. If the tenant is to resist the claim of the succeeding watandar to eject him successsfully, he must show that either that the succeeding watandar can be deemed to have ratified his predecessor's arrangement and treated him as a permanent tenant or that in some way he has acquired a right of permanent tenancy by prescription. As against a watandar an ordinary tenant cannot acquire a title to permanent tenancy by adverse possession merely by reason of his having continued in undisturbed possession for more than 12 years from the death of the grantor (lessor). The mere fact that the successor has accepted an unchanged rent, the same as that fixed in the grant of his predecessor for several years or that he does not put an end to the tenancy cannot be taken as an indication that he is a permanent tenant or is regarded as such by the successor. -App. E. Rr. I and VI-Advocate's fee-Computation-Suit for injunction-Valuation-Principles. Appendix E of the Appellate Side Rules of the Bombay High Court does not refer to the value for purposes of Court-fee or jurisdiction. It bases the amount of the advocate's fee on the amount of the subject matter in the suit. The true rule to be derived from the terms of Appendix E is that the advocates's fee should be computed on the value of the subject-matter in dispute, where that value can be ascertained by the Taxing Officer from materials on the record. In the case of an injunction it may frequently be quite impossir ble to ascertain that value e.g., in a suit for an injunc tion to restrain interference with a right of way. In such a case the proper course is to allow the minimum fee. But if the materials on record enable the Taxing Officer to say what is the value of the subject matter in dispute, he should base the advocate's fee on that value subject to the qualification the that value of the subjectmatter should never be regarded as greater than the amount necessary for ascertaining the pecuniary jurisdiction of the Court. The Taxing Officer should never base the advocate's fee on an amount in excess of the pecuniary jurisdiction of the Court which tried the suit, BOMBAY HIGH COURT INSOLVENCY RULES | BOMBAY HIGH COURT RULES (O. The power of a Judge to direct taxation under R. 534 is discretionary. When an application is made ex parte for a common form order of taxation, the Court may direct the solicitor to issue a summons and may hear what the client has to say in the matter. If the Court thinks that there is a serious dispute as to the fact or terms of employments of the solicitor, the Court may refuse to make an order for taxation and leave the attorney to file a suit; and in that suit the solicitor's right to recover can be first determined, and the amount to be recovered can be determined subsequently by taxation. # BOMBAY HIGH COURT RULES.

Meaning of—Chamber summons adjourned into Court-If Court matter.

Wadia, J.—R. 503 or the Bombay High Court Rules gives a wide discretion to the taxing master to take various factors into consideration in respect of suits as well as matters, and it cannot be held that the word "matter" in the rule should be construed as referring only to appeals, arbitrations, accounts and motions, being the four matters expressly mentioned in item 14 of the Table of Fees. A chamber summons adjourned into Court cannot be described merely as an interlocutory application or as a chamber matter. It becomes really a Court matter. (Beaumont, C. J. and Wadia, J.) SHAMDASANI v. CENTRAL BANK OF INDIA. LID. IL.R. (1941) Bom. 606=199 I.C. 513=14 R.B. 368=43 Bom. L.R. 655=A.I.R. 1942 Bom 90

R. 567—Matter originating in chambers and adjourned into Court—Refresher fee—Power to allow—Taxing master not asked to allow additional brief fee—Power of Court to increase.

R. 567 of the Rules of the Bombay High Court in terms only authorises the payment of refreshers on the hearing of a suit or appeal which extends to more than one day, and there is no express power to allow refreshers on an adjourned summons. Counsel's fees are no doubt disbursements, but a refresher fee in a matter other than a suit or appeal cannot be regarded as a reasonable disbursement within the meaning of item 60 of the Table of Fees in the Rules. It is, however, open to the taxing master in his discretion to allow an additional brief tee, if he thinks that for some reason or another the solicitor had not been able to calculate, and had not in fact correctly calculated the length of time the case was likely to last. But where the taxing master was not asked to increase the brief fee having regard to the unexpected length of time the case had taken, the Court cannot increase the fee or ask the taxing master to do so by sending the case back to him. (Beaumont, C. J. and Wadia, J.) SHAMDASANI v. CENTRAL BANK OF INDIA LTD. I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 606=199 I.C. 513=14 R.B. 368=43 Bom. L.R. 655 = A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 90.

—(Original Side), R. 571—Costs—Allocatur -Practice—Preliminary allocatur in respect of undisputed items—Final allocatur after review by judge—If to be deferred till result of appeal.

When there are objections to a bill of costs, the taxing master can issue a preliminary allocatur, if he is asked to do so, dealing with undisputed items in the bill taxed by him. When there is a summons to review taxation before a judge, the taxing master can issue his final allocatur as regards disputed items after the matter has heen disposed of by the judge in chambers and he is not bound to wait the result of an appeal from the order of the chamber judge. Nor can he be directed to forbear from issuing the allocatur on the ground that the review of tax is still pending before the appeal Court. (Beaumont, C. J. and Chagla, J.) SHAM-DASANI v. tion of master to allow fees for -"Final trial" - Meaning of.

There is no sufficient reason for confining the words 'final trial' in item 14 of the "Table of Fees to be taken by the Attorneys" in the rules of the High Court of Bomoay to the nual trial of a suit. A matter which originates in Chambers and is then adjourned to be a sard in Court would fall within the item, if there is a null trial or hearing. The wording of the item does not draw a distinction between chamber matters and natters heard in Court. The essential thing is that there should be a final trial. There is therefore no sufficient reason for confining item 14 either to suits or to matters heard in Court. The taxing master has jurisdiction to allow an amount for "Instructions for brief" in a matter arising on a chamber summons which is adjourned to be heard in Court. (Beaumont, C.I. and Wadia, I.) SHAMDASANI v. CENTRAL BANK OF INDIA, LTD. I.L.R. (1941) Bom. 606 = 199 I.O. 513=14 R.B. 368=43 Bom. L.R. 655=A.I.B. 1942

---Item 14—Discretion of taxing master as to quantum—Interference by Court—Grounds—Instructions for brief"—Meaning of.

The Court normally does not interfere with the discretion of the taxing master as to the quantum of fees allowed for "instructions for briet" under item 14 of the lable of Fees to be taken by the Attorneys in the Rules of the Bombay High Court, unless he has misdirected himself. It the taxing master fixes a high amount by taking into account the length of time occupied by the hearing, he misdirects himself. "Instructions for briet" do not mean the same thing as "Instructions for Counsel." Instruction given, probably orally, to counsel in the course of the hearing cannot be included in "instruction for brief." (Beaumont, C. J. and Wadia, J.) SHAMDASANI v. CENTRAL BANK OF INDIA, LTD. I.L.R. 1941 Bom. 606 = 199 I.C. 513=14 R.B-368=43 Bom. L.R. 655=A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 90.

Items 40 and 41—Construction—Allowance of Rs. 15 for 1st hour of each day—If justified—Midday adjournment—If to be included in calculating hours of attendance.

In the Rules of the Bombay High Court, Table of Fees to be taken by the Attorneys, the meaning of items 40 and 41 is perfectly plain. All that the taxing master has to do is to reckon the number of hours of attendance irrespective of whether they took place on the same day or in the same week or in the same month. Having completed the first hour for which a sum of Rs. 15 is allowed under item 40 all subsequent hours are allowed at the rate of Rs. 10. There is not the slightest justification for saying that a sum of Rs. 15 is to be allowed for the first hour each day of the hearing. Further in counting the hours of attendance, the midday adjournment of Court is not to be included. An attorney cannot be entitled to be paid for attendance in Court when the Court is not sitting. _____S. 62—Scope and effect of—Strike—When illegal—Scheme of Act.

The scheme of the Bombay Industrial Disputes Act is that matters in dispute between the employer and the employees should be placed before a conciliator so that Government may have an opportunity of considering his view and endeavouring to get the parties to come to a reasonable arrangement. The effect of S. 62 is that a strike is illegal if started before the standing orders have been settled, or if no notice is given under S. 28, or if the notice is given and the proceedings under S. 28 have not been completed; and where the proceedings have been completed, a strike is illegal if it is commenced more than two months after the completion of such proceedings. The scheme of the Act is that conciliation proceedings shall be taken with a view to avoid strikes, if possible. (Beaumont, C.J. and Kania, J.) KHATAU MAKANJI SPINNING AND WEAVING CO., LTD. v. S. R. ——Ss. 66 and 67—Applicability and Scope— Participation in strike which is subsequently declared illegal—Offence.

Ss. 66 and 67 of the Bombay Industrial Disputes Act are intended to punish an illegal instigation to an illegal strike, provided it is declared to be illegal by the Industrial Court, whether the illegal Act is committed before or after the declaration. The object of the section is to penalise those employees who go on strike without resorting to the remedies provided by Ss. 26, 27 and 2 of the Act. The intention is to make penal not merel the joining or taking part in a strike after it has been declared illegal but also the participation in it prior to the declaration of illegality. Participation in a strike which is afterwards declared illegal is punishable unde the Act. (Wadia and Lobur, JJ.) EMPEROR to KHANDUBHAI K. DESAI. I.L.R. ——Ss. 17, 18 and 20—Scope—Entry in bothhat as to rent—Amendment with consent of managing khot alone—If ultra vires—Suit to declare same void—Maintainability—Entry when final and conclusive.

The words "parties affected thererby,' in S. 18 (2) of the Bombay Khoti Settlement Act mean all the tenants and all the co-sharers in the khotki who are affected, so that once an entry is made in the survey records, e.g., in the botkhat, as regards the payment of rent by an occupancy tenant to the khot under S.17 of the Act, it cannot be changed or altered except in the cases specified in S. 18 (3), unless all the parties, whether privileged occupants or co-sharers in the khotki, who are affected by the change, give their written consent to it before Recording Officer. The Recording Officer would be acting without jurisdiction if he amends or alters an entry with regard to the rent payable without the consent of all the co-sharers it the khotki. An entry made with the consent of the managing khot alone is ultra vires and therefore it is not final and conclusive under S. 20. A suit to have the entry declared void cannot be barred under S. 20. A sale under the Bombay Land Revenue Code in execution of an award under the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act has the same effect as a sale by a Civil Court. Where an award is made against the manager of a joint Hindu family as such in respect of a debt borrowed by him from a co-operative society in his capacity as manager and the entire family porperty is sold in execution under the Land Revenue Code the interests of all the members of the family pass by the sale as in the case of a sale by a Civil Court. ——S. 37—Construction—"Which are not the property of individuals"—Meaning—If refer only to "lands".

The words "Which are not the property of the individuals, etc., in S. 37 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code cannot be interpreted as referring only to all lands wherever situated" and as having no reference to all the previous expressions. That would be an erroneous construction. The words "which are not the property of individuals," correctly construed would apply to roads, bridges, beds of the sea, lakes, tanks, etc. The legislature could not have intended that only lands are capable of being owned by individuals and not roads, bridges, ditches, nallas, lakes, tanks, canals etc (Wadia and Divatia, IJ.) S. 37—Construction—Which are not the property of individuals, etc.—If apply to "all public roads lanes" etc.—Private ownership on high way or public road.

There is no warrant or basis for holding that the words "which are not the property of individuals," etc., in.S. 37 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code do not apply to the opening words of the section, namely, "all public roads lanes and paths." Such a construction is bised on the erroneous view that there cannot be any public right over private property, and on the basis that roads, etc., which are used by the public must be taken to be Government property. The existence of a high, way or a public road is not inconsistent with the ownership of a private person in the soil. (Widia and Divation, 1/1.) NARHARSINGJI ISHVARSINGJI v. SECRETARY OF STATE. I.L. Though S. 39 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code does not apply to a khoti village under S. 39 of the Khoti Settlement Act, it makes no difference because analogous provisions are contained in Ss. 4 and 7 of the Khoti Settlement Act. ——Ss. 48 and 66—Applicability and scope—Conversion of land to non-agricultural use—Right of Gov. ernment

In a case where agricultural land is converted to non-agricultural use without previous permission of the Government, the latter is entitled not only to levy a fine as provided in S. 66, but also the enhanced agricultural assessment under S. 48 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code for the whole period during which it has been so used. ——S. 48—Scope of—Inam village—Veehan salami lands—Quit rent and salami settled at survey settlement—Effect—Use of lands as building sites—Right to levy enhanced assessment.

From the mere fact that before survey settlement in an mam village salami was leived and paid on certain veehan salami lands according to the area cultivated, it cannot be safely inferred that they were granted for agricultural purposes. Where it is clear that the tenants were liable to pay only quit rent and that the rest of the assessment was agreed to be remitted, the contract must be taken to include the remission of all the assessment in excess of the salami. Where at the survey settlement both the assessment and the salami were settled, the inamdar is presumed to have agreed to remit all assessment in excess of the settled salami and the inamdar cannot there after claim enhanced assessment on the ground that the lands have been utilised as building sites. ### BOM, LAND REVENUE CODE (1879).

Building fine under Ss. 65 and 66 is not assessment but is either a royalty for permission or a penalty for building without the necessary permission, where veehan salami lands in an inam village are converted into building sits, after the introduction of survey settlement; the fact that at the settlement the quit rent and salami were settled and fixed, would not poeclude the inamdar from claiming building fine under Ss. 65 and 66. Under S. 68 of the Land Revenue Code the Government have the power to grant lands to occupants on certain terms and conditions; and if a grant is made for a certain period the Government would, under the combined effect of Ss. 61, 68 and 202 of the Code, be entitled to resume the lands at the expiration of that period. If any occupation thereafter of the land would be a wrongful occupation rendering the holder to summary eviction, and if the Government decide to evict such person they can do so by giving a notice under S. 202. Such a notice is not a mere communication to hand over possession, but is a decision that the occupant is bound to hand over possession of the lands. It is a decision though it takes the form of a notice under S. 202, and therefore S. 11 of the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act applies. If no appeal is preferred against the order, a suit in the Civil Court is barred. (Divatia and Macklin. II.) Secretary of State v. Chimanlal Jamnabas. I.L.R. ——S. 83—Permanent tenancy arising under— Enhancement of rent—Right of landlord—Custom iu Satara District—Rent equal to assessment— Right to enhancement—Onus.

It is clear that in the Satara District a local custom prevails by which a landlord is entitled to enhance the rent in the case of a permanent tenancy arising by the operation of S. 83 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code. The custom is well known and has been judicially recognised and it is not necessary that it should be proved in each particular case. Where the tenant pays rent equivalent to the assessment, it is not sufficient to rely on the ordinary local custom, and it is necessary for the landlord to go further and prove the local custom to enhance the rent in the case of the purticular kind of tenure. (Broomfield and Macklin, JJ.) Shripad v. Nagu Kushaba. I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 143=210 I.C. 474=16 R.B. 215=45 Bom.L.R. 109=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 301.

S. 83—Presumption of permanent tenancy—Condition—Satisfactory evidence of commencement of tenancy—What amounts to—Evidence that tenancy commenced between two years—If proof of origin.

A presumption of permanent tenancy will arise under S. 83 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code only if there is no satisfactory evidence of the date of the commencement of the tenancy. A definite date or year must be proved for the purpose of proving commencement. In order to prove the origin of the tenancy, there must be evidence to the satisfaction of the Court about the year in which the tenancy originated. It is not sufficient to show that the tenancy had its origin at some date within a period of twenty years or that it commenced some where between two years and the presumption of permanent tenancy is not rebutted by such proof. There is nothing in the provisions of the Bombay Land Revenue Code to suggest that the powers of assistance which the Collector has under Ss. 86 and 87 of the Land Revenue Code are in any way fettered by the provisions of O. 34, R. 14, C. P. Code. O. 34, R. 14, C. P. Code, cannot apply to a sale held by the revenue anthorities under S. 86 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code. Where a mortgagee lets the mortgagor into possession of the property mortgaged to him under a rent note, he becomes a superior holder and the mortgagor is an inferior holder under the Land Revenue Code and the mortgagee is entitled to apply to the Collector for sale of the property as a means of recovering the rent under the rent note. If the Collector makes an order for sale and the sale takes place, such sale is not invalid by reason of O. 34, R. 14, C. P. Code, and is binding on the mortgagor. (Beaumont, C.J. and Wadia J.) The procedure provided in the Bombay Land Revenue Code (Ss. 118 to 121), for fixing boundaries is inappropriate to the procedure that would have to be adopted when in effect the dispute involves a decision as to the boundary between Native State territory and British Indian territory. S. 121 of the Land Revenue Code which is an integral part of the provisions relating to boundary disputes in the Code cannot be applied to disputes of this kind. The provisions of the Land Revenue Code will apply only to disputes relating to boundaries wholly situated in British India. (Wadia and Macklin, J.). SARJERAO APPAJIRAO v. Money in the custody of a Court cannot be distrained by the Crown under S. 154 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code. There is nothing in the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act which prohibits a Court from dealing with the property of a land revenue defaulter which is in its custody. The ordinary rule is that money in the custody of the Court cannot be distrained; and there is no difference in principle whether the distrainin authority is another Court or the Collector. ——Ss. 202 and 203—Scope—Powers of Government to issue notice of eviction without previously passing order—Such notice—If decision or order under S. 203—Notice—If should expressly mention section.

It is clear that Government can pass an order for eviction of a person who is wrot gfully in possession of land by giving him a notice as prescribed by S. 202, Bom ay Land Revenue Code. Such a notice in fact amounts to a decision or order contemplated by S. 203. It is not necessary that before a notice under S. 202 is given the Government should actually pass an order and communicate it to the party concerned. It is open to the Government to pass an order in the form of a notice and to serve it on the party concern ed and if that is done, the Government must be deemed to have complied with the provisions of the Land Revenue Code. Nor is it necessary that the notice should ment on that it is given under S. 202, if it is clear on the wording thereof that it is under that section and under no other provision of law. The Government possesses larger powers than a private landlord. While a private landlord has no power to summarily evict a tenant who is holding over the Government have that power, and at the termination of the period for which a particular right had heen granted by Government to any person, it is open to Government to give him a notice to vacate it and if the holder still remains in possession after its expiry, he must be deemed to be holding the land in wrongful possession. That being so, the Government would be entitled to give a notice as required by S. 202 of the Land Revenue Code. (Divatia and Macklin, II.) SECRETARY OF STATE v, CHIMANLAL JAMNADAS. I.L.R. S. 211 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code does not apply to a sanad or document embodying terms and conditions agreed to between the Government and the occupant. It is not therefore competent to the Government to modify the terms of a sanad issued under S. 65, or cancel it before the expiry of the term fixed if it embodies certain terms and conditions which are agreed to between the Government and the occupant; and the Government cannot claim the right to enhance the non-agricultural assessment beyond what is fixed in the sanad. BOMBAY LOCAL BOARDS ACT (VI OF 1923)

—Election Rules, R. 47—Scope and effect—Power of Collector to reject nomination paper accepted by Returning Officer.

BOMBAY LOCAL BOARDS ACT (VI OF 1923).

R. 47 of the Election Rules framed under the Bombay Local Boards Act relates merely to the interpretation of rules in case of doubt. The interpretation of a rule means the explanation of its meaning, the resolution of any doubt which attaches to its meaning, and is clearly not intended to confer upon the Collector the right to hear appeals against the orders of Returning Officers accepting nomination papers which right is not otherwise conferred by the Rules. This power of interpretation given under R. 47 was never intended to confer upon the Collector the power to reject nomination papers accepted by the Returning Officer and to direct him to declare a particular person in consequence elected a member of the Board. No right of appeal is given against the acceptance as opposed to the rejection of a nomination paper. (Davies, C.J., and Weston, J.) PIR BAKHSH KHAN v. DARVA KHAN. ——S. 19—Jurisdiction—Application by person not qualified to vote at election—Competency—Jurisdiction of Judge to entertain and hear.

A candidate to an election who is not a duly qualified voter under S. 19 (1) of the Bombay Local Boards Act has no inherent right to question the validity of an election, though he is closely interested in it. A candidate who is not qualified to vote at the election has therefore no right to question an election by means of an application under S. 19. If such a person makes an application it is incompetent, and the Judge has no jurisdiction to entertain and hear such an application. (Davis, C.). and Weston. J.) PIR BAKHSH KHAN v. DARYA KHAN ILR. (1943) Kar. 345—210 I.C. 19—A.I.R. 1943 Sind. 233.

An Octroi, like a customs duty, has certain features which differentiate its nature from a tax. A tax can be and is usually imposed without difficulty on a person because he is the owner of some species of property such as income, a house, or a motor car; whereas an octroi and customs duty, though a tax, are limited in scope to a levy or a duty on the import of goods or animals into some town, place or country or a levy or duty on the goods or animals. As such the collection of the duty is affected at the point of entry, either by refusing entry or by seizure, or by penalties imposed on any person attempting to introduce the animals or goods and at the same time evading payment of the duty. There are difficulties in imposing personal liability for such a duty, since it is the animals or goods in relation to location which causes the duty to arise and not property in relation to ownership. S. 72 of the Bombay Local Boards Act of 1923 applies to amounts, recoverable under Ch. VIII of the Act, and where no written demands or bills are issued under S. 104, S. 72 cannot apply and no suit can lie at the instance of the Local Board against the defaulters. Even after the amending Act of 1938, the Local Board has no power to file suits under S. 72, unless a current account is kept. S. 104 applies only to cases where current account is maintained. A fence six feet in height consisting of wooden planks attached to posts embedded in the earth on the boundaries of an open piece of ground adjacent to a house is not a "building" as defined by S. 3 (2) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act. It is neither a wall nor an enclosure merely because it screens off completely the outer view. Hence the erection of such a fence without the permission of the Municipality is not an offence under S. 123 (7) of the Act. (Broomfield and Wassoodew, J.). EMPEROR v. A "tax" and "fee", when imposed by the legislature or local bodies are both burdens or charges upon persons and property and the object of both is to raise money for a public purpose or to serve some public object. The object for which a fee or tax is levied by a public body would not serve necessarily as a guide for saying whether an imposition is a "fee or a "tax". The object is not the determining factor in observing the formalities for the levy. (Wasseedew, J.) SORABJI FIORMOSJI v. A Judge holding an election inquiry under S. 15 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs. Act has no power to unseat a candidate on the ground that the candidate was disqualified for election by reason of S. 12 of the Act. The inquiring authority has no right to pass orders except in accordance with the express terms of S. 15 (3). Under S. 15 (3) (a) the judge is bound to unseat a candidate who has been guilty of corrupt practices. But in any case to which Cl. (a) does not apply, the Judge simply scrutinises the votes and awards the election to the candidate who has the greatest number of valid votes. If there is corrupt practice, the candidate is unseated. If there is no corrupt practice, the Judge simply scrutinises the votes, decides which votes are valid, counts up, and declares the result accordingly. There is no power to set aside an election on the ground that the candidate was never qualified to be elected. If the Judge unseats a candidate on the ground that he is disqualified by reason of S. 12, he acts beyond his powers and his action though the action of persona desagnata is subject to revision by the High Court. S. 58 (f)—Power of Municipality to dismiss servants—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts to review dismissal.

There can be no doubt that the action of a Municipality in dismissing its servants under the authority delegated under the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act is not open to review in a Court of law, provided that the Municipality has reasonably acted within its powers, that is, that the grounds of dismissal are proved, that the inquiry against the servants is conducted in accordance with the principles of natural justice, and that the servants are given reasonable opportunity of being heard in their defence. Whether such opportunity was given or not must depend upon the circumstacces and facts proved. A dismissal cannot be challenged on the ground that the evidence did not warrant a drastic action like dismissal, for, on that point the Municipality is the sole judge. Where the procedure adopted in dismissing a Municipal servant was faultless, there can be no review of the Municipality's Act in a Civil Court. BOM. MUNICIPAL BOROUGHS ACT (1925).

S. 63—Construction and scope—Public well getting filed up int casing to be used as public well—If vests in Gvernment or continues in Municipality—"Belong"—Meaning of.

All the properties specified in sub-S. (2) of S. 63 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act are properties of a public character and include public wells. When property of the nature specified in S. 63 ceases to be used for the purpose which led to its being vested in a municipal borough, as for example, when a public well ceases to be used as a public well by getting filled up, the land does not vest in the Provincial Government. The scheme of the Act is that property used for a public purpose, as specified in S. 63, is to vest in the Municipality, and if it ceases to be used for the publi: purpose, the municipality can sell it with the consent of the commissioner and the proceeds will form part of the municipal fund. There is nothing in the Act which suggests that Government has any interest in the matter. There is nothing inherently unjust or unreasonable in the Legislature having provided that property once vested in the municipality shall for all times be held for the benefit of the local public.

The word "belong" denotes ownership. (Reaumont C.J. and Wadia, J.) THE BOROUGH MUNICIPALITY OF AHMEDABAD v. GOVERNVENT OF BOMBAY I.L. R. (1942) Bom 463=201 I.C 329=15 R B. 66=44 Bom.L R. 354=A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 183.

S. 63—Scope—Public street—Lease by municipality with sanction of Government—Rent path by lessee shired by Government and Municipality—Lessee using adjoining land unauthorisedly—Municipality recovering rent from lessee in respect thereof—Right of Government to claim share.

When property of the nature described in S. 63 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act ceases to be used for the purpose which lead to its vesting in the Municipal Borough, such land does not, on the cessor of such user, revert to the Government, but remains the property of the Borough Municipality. The plaintiff, a borough Municipality with the previous sanction of the Commissioner granted a lease of a portion of a public street to a company for three years on condition that the lessee should pay Rs. 25 per month to Government and Rs. 25 to the Municipality per month as rent as well as the assessment of the land. Subsequently it came to the notice of the plaintiff that the lessee had erected a wooden cabin unauthorisedly on the adjoining part of the street which was not included in the lease and there was an agreement between the plaintiff and the lessee that the latter should pay the former a sum of Rs. 10 per month for the use of this piece of land on which the cabin was put. This continued for some time and after the cabin was removed by the lessee, the Municipality wrote to the Commissioner for retrospective sanction of the lease of the site over which the cabin stood and which was used by the lessee. No reply was received to this, but the Deputy Collector wrote to the Municipality asking the Municipality to pay half the amount which it had collected from the lessee in respect of the site of the cabin. The Municipality paid the amount under protest and sued the Government for refund and for a declaration that the land in question was public street land. It was found that the cabin had been put up without interfering with the sub-soil and that the erection of the cabin did not involve the use of the sub-soil at all.

Held, (1) that even if the land was unauthorisedly used by the lessee, it did not cease to be vested in the Municipality and at no time did it revert to the Government either during or after the user thereof by the lessee; (2) that the Government had no right to recover any part of the rent realised by the plaintiff municipality for the unauthorised Occupation of the public street; and (3) that in the absence of any agreement between the Government and the Municipality as regards sharing the rent of the lease or of any statutory provision under which the Government could claim a share in the amount, the Government was not entitled to claim any amount recovered by the Municipality (Diratia und Weston, J.) MUNICIPAL BOROUGH OF AHMEDABAD > BOMBAV GOVERNMENT: 46 Bom. LR. 643—A.I.R. 1945 Bom. 37.

-S. 63 (2) (c)—Construction—Municipality's—right to sub-soil in streets—Cess pools—Right to dig.

The legal effect of the statutory vesting of a street in a municipality is not to transfer to the municipality the ownership of the sub-soil upon which the street rests; the street, qua street vests in the municipality that is, the surface and only so much of the soil below the surface as is necessary to enable the muni ipality adequately to maintain and manage the street as a street. When therefore under S. 63 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, there is vested in a municipality all public streets and the pavements stones and other materials thereof and also all trees, erections, materials, implements and things provided for in such streets, there vests in the municipality the streets, qua streets, the surface soil and not the subsoil or only so much of the sub-soil as is necessary to maintain the surface of the streets as such. It would of course, include the right to dig gutters in the sides of the streets, to lead away surface water to drain the streets or to provide the streets with the necessary bed or foundation, but it cannot, on any reasonable interpretation be taken to include the right to dig cesspools in the sides of the streets for the convenience of neighbouring householders and the profit or convenience of the municipality, Cl. (c) of S. 63 (2) was never intended to recognise the existence of or vest in the municipality cesspools dug in the sides of public streets for the benefit not of the public streets, but of houses which, happen to adjoin them. It cannot be said that cesspools dug on the sides of roads, having no direct connection whatever with drains or sewers are included in the term "works" used in its context in Cl (c) of S. 63(2). Ss. 73(x) and 91—Ahmedabad Municipal Rules R. 344—Scope—Ultra vires.

S. 37 (x) of Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act deals only with a general water rate or a special water rate. Those rates may be imposed in the form of rate assessed on buildings and lands or in any other from including that of charges for supply of water. But what is imposed must be a rate, and not an arbitrary lump sum. It is clear that a lump sum imposed arbitrarily by the standing committee of a Municipality on certain trade and not on the district generally and not depending on the value of the property assessed is not a rate, and is not authorised under S, 73 (x) or S. 91 of the

BOM. MUNICIPAL BOROUGHS ACT (1925).

Act. R. 344 of the Ahmedabad Municipal Rules, providing for lump charges instead of a special water rate in the case of water supplied without meter in the case of a trade, is therefore ultra vires. ——S. 90 (1)—License fee—Power to charge—No bye-law requiring license for trade—Levy of license fee—Legality.

Under S. 90 (1) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, the question of charging fees in respect of a license must arise only when a license is granted and a license could only be granted if the law requires a license to be granted. Where there is no section in the Act or any bye-law requiring a license in certain trades, the Municipality can frame the necessary bye-law requiring any trade to be carried on under a license and may by rule prescribe license fees. But when no bye-law has been framed requiring a particular trade to be carried under any license, the Municipality cannot enact a rule prescribing a license fee in respect of such trade and charge license fees in respect of the same. If it levies the levy is illegal. (Wassoulew, J.) SORABJI HORMASJI v. BROACH BOROUGH MUNICIPALITY. 195 I C. 754=14 R.B. 76=43 Bom.L.R. 533=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 268.

A Magistrate acting under S. 110 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act and hearing an appeal is an ordinary Court and not a persona designata and has power to take evidence and to allow additional evidence, oral and documentary, to be led before him, though the section does not specifically confer such power on him. There is no reason why the words "decision upon any appeal" in S. 111 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs

BOM. MUNICIPAL BOROUGHS ACT (1925).

Act should be interpreted differently from the words "case decided" in S. 115, C.P. Code. There is nothing in the language of S. 111 of the former Act which necessarily implies that the decision of the appeal referred to in that section means the final decision. Interlocutory orders passed by a Magistrate under S. 110 of the Act can therefore be revised under S. 111. (Wadia and Macklin, J/.) MUNICIPAL BOROUGH OF AHMEDABAD v. ——S.114—Cesspool—Right of municipality to dig.

Under the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, when streets are vested in the local authority, it is the surface soil and not the subsoil that vests. Streets are vested in the municipality as streets. A claim to the right odig cesspools in public streets does not on the face of it.

cesspools in public streets does not on the face of it appear reasonable. (Divies, C.J. and O' Sullivan J.) Hyderabad MUNICIPALITY PROVINCE OF SIND, I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 411=210 I.C. 568=16 R.S. 151=A.I.R. (1943) Sind. 254.

S. 114—Power of Municipality to stop up public street—If overs power to authorise permanent obstruction by private individuals.

The power conferred upon the Municipality for the purposes of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act to "stop up" streets under S. 114 of the Act cannot be extended to cover a case where the Municipality authorizes or rather purports to authorize certain individuals to build a wall across a public street for their own purposes. The "stopping up" of a street does not mean its obstruction in the orinary sense of that word. To stop up" a street means that the street shall no longer be used as a street; but this is a special power conferred under S. 114 of the Act and to be exercised only subject to the previous sanction of the Commissioner. (Davie, C.J., and Weston, J.) CHELLARAM VERHOMAL v. EMPEROR. I.L.R. (1942) Kar. 90=200 I.C. 741=15 R.S. 3=43 Cr. L.J. 714=A.I.R. 1942 Sind. 91.

S. 114 (2)—Construction and scope—Powers of acquisition under—Necessity for care in exercise of Stone, C.J.—S. 114 (2) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act places in the hands of those who have the control of the inception and alteration of schemes for laying out and making new public streets etc., wide powers of confiscatory nature, while they are apparently at the same time endowed with powers of dispensation which will greatly enhance the value of any land or building abutting upon the new street which they do not choose to take. These compulsory powers which enable acquistions, to be made which have no continuity of plan or scheme for the construction of houses and buildings to form the new street, should be very carefully exercised. (Stone, C. J. and Divatia, J.) AMRATLAL v. LAND ACQUISITION OFFICER, AHMEDABAD. 47 BOM.L.B. 95=A.I.B. 1945 Bom. 502.

Having regard to the terms of S. 105 of the Evidence Act, the burden is upon an accused who relies upon the permission given to him by S. 123 (5) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act to prove that he comes within the terms of that sub-section, i,c., that the building not inconsistent with any provision of the Act or any bye-law, and is thereby relieved of the liability which its otherwise upon him under S. 123 (7). The fact that the exception is included in the body of the statute itself does not shift the onus on to the prosecution. (Beaumont, C.J., and Macklin, J.) EMPEROR v. DAHYABHAI SAUCHAND. 195 I.C. 825=14 R.B. 82=42 Cr. L.J. 783=43 Bom. L.R. 519=A.I.R. 1941 Bom. 273.

In order to bring himself within the provisions of S. 123 (5) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act, an accused person has the burden on him to prove that his work was not inconsistent with any of the provisions of the Act or bye-laws. But that presupposes that a question has arisen as to whether he has committed a breach of any provision of the Act or bye-laws. It is obvious that an accued person cannot go through every section of Act and every bye-law and prove affirmatively that he has not committed any breach of that section or that bye-law. The true view is that as soon as the Municipality has notice that the accused is going to rely on S. 123 (5), it must allege what provisions of the Act or bye-law the accused has broken according to it, which disentitles him to rely on S. 123 (5). When that allegation is made, the burden is on the accused to prove that he has not committed the breach of that Act or bye-law alleged. Unless fhe Municipality alleges a breach of some specific provision of the Act or bye-law, there is no Issue upon which any question of burden of proof can arise, (Beaumont C.f. and Sen, J.) EMPEROR v. BHIKHABHAI MOTIRAM. 43. Bom. L.R. 877=198 I.C. 120=14 R.B. 282=43 Cr.L.J. 313=A.I.R. 1942 Bom, 28, Ss. 127 and 128—Construction—Municipality—Rights in the subsoil of streets—Right to dig cess-pools.

Neither S. 127 nor S. 128 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act can be read as giving the Municipality any rights in the sub-soil of the streets or as entitling it to dig cess-pools. S. 127 merely gives the Municipality the power, and a very necessary power, to survey and control any cess-pools which may exist, and cannot be construed as giving to the Municipality expressly or by necessery implication rights in the sub-soil of streets, which it does not otherwise possess, while S. 128 by its omission of cesspools in a section which gives the Municipality rights in the subsoil which it might not otherwise possess for the purpose of carrying drains, sewers and so on under a public street, by implication excludes any such right so far as cess-pools are concerned. S. 159—Ingredients of offence—Conviction— Essentials to be proved—Secretary of mill—Liability

In a prosecution under S. 159 of the Municipal Boroughs Act, it has got to be proved, firstly, that the accused is a person who has the building or land under his control; secondly, that he allowed the offensive liquid or other matter to run upon any street, land or space and thirdly, that the liquid or matter was or was likely to become offensive. In the absence of definite proof and finding on these points, the Secretary of a mill cannot be convicted under S. 159. The mere fact that the accused denies that he is the Secretary and that the Magistrate holds that he is, would not be sufficient to record a conviction. It has to be proved by evidence that the Secretary is a person who has the building or land of the mill under his control. There is no presumption that the Secretary as such is in control of the premises so as to render him liable under S. 159. (Broomfield and Wassodew, J.) EMPEROR v. ——S. 186 (2)—Imposition of daily penalty— Penalty in anticipation of repetition of offence— Legality.

The words of S. 186 (2) of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act are not so clear as to express a definite intention of the Legislature that an order of fine for further continuance of the nuisance must necessarily be passed in the same order as that which records the first conviction. Therefore on the principle that a person should not be punished in anticipation of the commission of an offence, it is necessary in every case where a fine for continuance of the offence is sought to be imposed, for a fresh prosecution to be instituted. (Davies, C. J. and Weston, J.) TULSIOMAL TEKCHAND v. EMPEROR, I.I.B. (1942) Kar. 5 = 200 I.C. 340 = 14 R.S. 214 = 43 Cr.L.J. 700 = A.I.R. 1942 Sind 78.

It cannot be disputed that a rate-payer in a Municipality has such an interest in the affairs of the Municipality as would entitle him to come to Court and sue for an injunction restraining the Municipality from misapplying its funds; nor can the Municipality be protected from such a suit merely because it has taken the precaution to use a Court for the purpose of carrying out its object of misapplying Municipal funds and has obtained the sanction of the Court to a consent decree ultra vires the powers of the municipality. It cannot be said that the rate-payer is not competent to sue to set aside the consent decree because he is not a party to such decree. A compromise arising out of proceedings under S. 198 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs, Act relating to purchase of land requires sanction by a Municipal resolution in view of the proviso to S. 204 (2) of the Act. Hence a consent decree or compromise to which no sanction has been obtained as required by the proviso to S. 204 (2) and which embodies an agreement between the Municipality and the owner of land that a certain sum of money should be paid to the latter for the land to be purchased by the Municipality, is ultra vires the powers of the Municipality. - S. 203-Construction-"Process"-"Such process"-Meaning of-Ss. 98 and 99.

The process for recovery of octroi dues by a Municipality other than by a suit is indicated in Ss. 98 and 99 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act. There can be no doubt that if a current account has been kept as required by S. 99, a suit will lie for recovery of municipal dues such as octroi duty. If no such current account is kept and if no process is issued under S. 98 to recover the octroi duty, it is lawful for a Municipality to sue the person liable to pay the same in any Court of competent jurisdiction. It is true that the right is given under S. 203 of the Act to a Municipality to sue only a person liable to pay. But the liability to pay, in order that the first clause of S 203 may come into operation, may arise independently of Ss. 98 and 99, and in considering the application of the 1st clause of S. 203, the Court has to consider whether that liability has arisen under the Act. The section does not impose a restriction on the capacity of a Municipality to sue to recover its dues. The operation of the 1st clause is not restricted to the process of recovery permissible under Ch. VIII. The word "process" in that clause implies summary process generally. The words "such process" in the second clause merely refer to the generality of summary remedies conferred by the statute. A Corporation like an individual has a right to enforce its claim by suit unless that right is expressly limited or the limitation clearly implied. The language of S. 203 doce not restrict the Municipality's right of suit in respect of octroi dues. A suit to recover octroi dues is therefore maintainable and will lie against the person liable to pay the same. (Wassodew, J.) CITY MUNICIPALITY BHUSAWAL v. HINDUSTAN CONSTRUCTION CO., BOMBAY. 204 I.C. 563=15 R.B. 386=44 Bom. L. R. 890 = A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 30.

——S. 203—Scope—Suit for recovery of Municipal dues—Maintainability.

S. 203 of the Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act provides an alternative remedy for recovery of Municipal dues by suit. That alternative remedy can be adopted "in lieu of any process of recovery allowed by or under that Act," provided the person sued "is liable to pay." It can also be resorted to in case of failure to realise by process the whole or any part of any amount recoverable under the provisions of Ch. VIII of the Act. (Wassoodew, J.) A membership card of the Bombay Native Shares and Stock Brokers' Association is not by itself property in the legal sense of the term. It cannot be inherited. transferred or bequeathed. But it does not follow that it is not a valuable right or an asset. It confers on the holder a right to do broker's business in the Stock Exchange. Even under its rules it can be sold by the Association and valued in terms of money. The card is not partible property but its money value can, in certain cases be divided. Where such a card is purchased in the name of a Hindu co-parcener with joint family funds, as between the members of the co-parcenary the money value of the card belongs to the family. Since it has been purchased by joint family moneys and the profits and losses of the business done on that card have gone into and out of the family purse, the member in whose name the card stands should at a family partition be held accountable for the value of the card on the date of severance of the family, though the card itself cannot be partitioned in the sense that it should be a-signed to the share of any co-parcener other than the one in whose name it stands. In a claim for indemnity, e.g., a claim by a sharebroker for recovery of losses sustained by him in respect of transactions entered into for his constituent, the plaintiff must aver that he has sustained the losses for which he claims to be indemnified. Where the plaint contains an allegation that the plaintiff was carrying on business as a certified share, stock and exchange broker in the Bombay Native share and Stock Broker's Association and had entered into certain contracts on behalf of the defendant (his constituent) for which contract notes had been sent to him, and those contract notes state that they are subject to the rules and regulations of the Native share and Stock Brokers' Association, it does certainly disclose a cause of action. It is not necessary that there should be an express averment that the plaintiff incurred liability in respect of the transactions of the defendant and that he made payments in respect of the losses incurred in respect of the transactions of the defendants. ## BOM. PRIMARY EDUCATION ACT.

It cannot be held that lack of means on the part of the accused is not a special reason justifying the imposition of the less than the maximum fine under the proviso to S. 4 (a) of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act. The vice of a fine as a means of punishment is that its severity necessarily depends on the financial position of the accused. The Court has discretion to impose a sentence of imprisonment or fine; and where the accused is shown to be gambling on a large scale, and may be presumed to he making a good deal of money out of it, it may be that the only punishment, likely really to act as a deterrent, would be imprisonment. Prima facie, however, it is undesirable to impose a sentence of imprisonment for a first offence. (Beaumont, C.J. and Sen. J.)

Even the purpose of the occupier of the house, e.g., the purpose of profit or gain, is to be presumed under S. 7, and once that presumption is attracted, it is for the accused to rebut it. A school board constituted under the Bombay Primary Education Act has a separate and independent existence and is, in fact and in law, a corporation, and can sue and be sued despite the absence of a common seal. It functions under the provisions of the Act and the Rules made thereunder. It is not therefore a good defence to a suit against a school Board to plead that the Local Authority, the District Local Board or the District Municipality must be sued. Nor can it be said that the Act is a subsidiary Act to the principal Act the District Local Board Act or the District Municipal Act. (Davies, C.J., and Weston, J.) Shafi Md. Where the suit is substantially to recover possession of lands on the ground that they are part of the plaintiff's saranjam and that Government was not justified in resuming them, the bar under S. 4 of the Bombay Revenue Jurisduction Act applies. Though the defendant's case is that the lands ceased to be saranjam long ago and at the date of the suit they are khalsa lands, if the plaintiff claims them in the suit as saranjam lands, the claim comes within the bar of S. 4. No relief even of a declaratory nature can be granted to the plaintiff in such suit. (Stone, C. J. and Divatia, J.) DAULATRAO MALOHRAO v. An order which is ultra vires does not invoke the bar of S. 11 of the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act. Where a Revenue Officer purports to do an act or to pass an order which is invalid, his action does not operate to raise a bar under S. 11. The principle is well-established that where an authority which purports to pass an order is acting without jurisdiction, the purported order is a mere nullity, and it is not necessary for anybody, who objects to that order. to apply to set it aside. He can rely on its invalidity when it is set up against him, although hs has not taken steps to set it aside. An order which is a nullity does not give rise to any right whatever, not even to a right of appeal. This principle applies to S. 11 of the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act also. If a person claims to remain in possession of Government land merely on the strength of his rong possession in the past though without any rightful title in him, Government have the right to assert their ownership which has not been divested by any act of the occupant, and they have a right of resumption so long as the occupant does not prove any acquisition of right in him by adverse possession against Government. The giving of a notice by Government under S. 202 of the bombay Land Revenue Code to the occupant cannot be regarded as an invalid or ultra vires act. It may be an incorrect Order liable to be set aside on appeal under S. 203. But merely because it is incorrect, it cannot be said to be invalid or illegal in law. It would not be a case where the notice or order is vitiated by want of power, excess of jurisdiction or any other illegality, so as to take it out of the operation of S. 11 of the Bombay Revenue Jurisdiction Act when no appeal has been preferred against it. But under S. 47 (a) it is an offence merely to manufacture, remove or transport salt, not merely contraband salt. The word, "removes" and "transports" are used in S. 47 (a) interchangeably, and there is no justification for the the view that "removal" refers only to salt removed from the salt works of Government under S. 28 of the Act' (Beaumont, C.J. and Sen, J.) R. 12 of the Rules made under the Bombay Shops and Establishments Act is mainly enacted for the benefit of Employees, and some of the sub-rules there of would not apply if there are no employees in a shop. Under R. 12 (10) every employer, including the owner of a shop kept and conducted by himself without employing any one, has to maintain a visit book And though the maintenance of a visit book is not of much consequence in the case of a shop where no persons are employed, the owner, if he does not maintain a visit book, is guilty of a technical breach of R. 12 (10). Ss. 5 and 30—App'icability—One-man shop conducted by owner himself—'Employer'—Owner of shop conducting and keeping without employing any one—Liability for contravention of S. 5—S. 2(5) and (6)

S. 5 of Bombay Shops and Establishments Act, is not inapplicable to a one-man shop i.e., a shop kept and conducted by the owner himself without employing any one. The mere fact that he does not employ any one in his shop does not exclude him from the term "employer," in S. 30 of the Act, so as to exempt him from liability for contravention of S, 5 of the Act. There is nothing in S.5 whatever to suggest that it does not apply to a one-man shop. The prohibition enacted therein includes any shop. Reading the definition of "employer" in S. 2 (5) together with sub-Cl. (6) of S. 2 "employer" means a person having charge of or owning the business of a shop. To hold that it is implicit in the word "employer" that somebody should be employed is to disregard the definition contained in the Act; and there is no justification for restricting the meaning which the Legislature has seen fit to give the word "employer" for the purposes of the Act, it being open to the Legislature to make its own dictionary for the purpose of any particular Act, although the meaning may not be the one normally attached to the word in the English language. ——(Burmese)— Adoption—Keittima form— Proof of publicity and notoriety.

According to the law of Burma no formal ceremony is necessary to constitute adoption. Whether there is or is not a ceremony of adoption, there must be proof of publicity; if the ceremony of adoption is public then publicity may be established by proof of that fact alone; but if it be private, then there must be proof of publicity and notoriety in addition in order to establish the existence of the relationship. The fact of adoption may be inferred from a course of conduct inconsistent with any other supposition; but in that case the publicity or notoriety of the relationship must be satisfactorily proved. Evidence of isolated private conversations in which the adoptive parent is alleged to have made remarks indicating that she had made an adoption, does not amount to evidence of publicity or notoriety such as is required in a case of this kind. (Roberts, C.J. and Dunkley, J.) MA TIN AYE v. DHIN KHIN GYI. 198 I.C. 37:=14 R.R. 154=A.I.R. 1941 Rang. 265.

BUDDHIST LAW (BURMESE).

The fact that the alleged adopted som was allowed to work the land belonging to his alleged adoptive parents and enjoyed the profits out of which he maintained the old couple is quite insufficient to show that there was relationship of parent and child between his alleged adoptive parents and him. The fact that the alleged adoptive parents on helped in the conduct of the funeral rites of the adoptive parent does not necessarily show that he is the nearest heir. (Mya Bu and Mosely, JJ.) U MAUNG GYI v. MAUNG SHWE THEE. 196 I.C. 144=14 R.R. 71=A.I.R. 1941 Rang. 183.

——(Burmese)—Adoption — Keittima adoption—Proof of—Evidence of notoriety and publicity when relevant—Nature of admissible evidence regarding conduct.

It is true that publicity must be given to the relationship in the case of keittima adoption. But where a formal ceremony of giving and taking in keittima adoption is shown to have taken place in the presence of credible witnesses who were summoned in order to secure publicity and notoriety to the factum of adoption proof of adoption is complete. It is not open for an adoptive parent who repents of his choice to disinherit a keittima adopted child, or when such a child has died, to defeat the grandchild's claim on his estate by conduct which shows a desire to defeat it. If the formal giving and taking be done privately, publicity must afterwards be given to the fact. But where the ceremony itself is public, the fact of its having been so, ensures at once and for all times the degree of notoriety requisite for the establishment of the relationship. A reputation can only be established by admissible evidence and S. 50. Evidence Act, excludes evidence of mere rumour or gossip to the effect that an adoption has taken place or that such and such a person has no adopted child. The opinion of any one who has special means of knowledge as to the existence of the relationship of one person to another is a relevant fact, if that opinion is expressed by conduct. Evidence may therefore be given as to the behaviour of the parties between whom the relationship is alleged to exist towards each other and as to the treatment accorded to them by others. Witnesses allowed to speak as to current gossip in the neighbour-hood of the existence of a relationship or of the absence of any relationship at all. The Court will consider the evidence of those who had opportunities of seeing the treatment accorded to the adopted child by the parents and others and come to a conclusion as to existence or non-existence of the relationship. Once there is evidence which is conclusive in establishing the fact of a public adoption by means of a formal ceremony, no necessity exists of further evidence on the point and no amount of negative evidence pointing to the lack of such relationship by reason of subsequent conduct can affect the conclusion unless, indeed, it is directed toward showing the breaking of the adoptive tie. between adoptive parent and alopted boy-Severance-Unilateral Act-Sufficiency-Acquiescence of the boy-Effect.

The relationship between an adoptive parent and his adoptive child cannot be terminated by the unnateral act of the parent. He cannot disinherit his adoptive child. The relationship can be severed by the act or acts of the parent in which the child, having reached the age of discretion, has by his conduct acquiesced. The conduct may be such as to raise a presumption that the boy intends to break off the relationship and in such case, he forfeits his right of inheritance. Where the boy was trained by persons other than the father and later on lived apart from the father, and did not claim a share when the tather re-married and paid the natural daughter in satisfaction of her claims and he attended the father's funeral merely as a guest and did not take part in the ceremomes, the circumstances were enough to raise a presumption or inference that the relationship was severed. A husband who believes his wife to be guilty of adultery may obtain heradmission of guilt and the disolution of marriage may take place by mutual consent on the footing that the husband retains the hnapazon property. If he cannot do this and a separation ensues by reason of his own desertion, then he has three years in which to bring a suit for a decree of divorce, but if by reason of their differences his wife has deserted him, he only has one year. In the suit for a decree of divorce he may, if he can, prove the factum of adultery, but unless he loes so the dissolution of marriage becomes effective at the expiration of one or other of these periods which ever may apply. Gurmese)-Orasa-Attainment of status of-Test.

One of the tests of attainment of orasa status is the competence to under take the responsibilities of the deceased parent. When the question is what amount of help must be given, it must be decided with reference to each case on the basis of what help was asked for or might reasonably be required. If a son is ready and willing to help in the acquisition of family property though not required to do so, or if he complies with requests to do so within the limits of his ability and in good faith, he shows the degree of competence required.

Per Mya Bu, J.—For an orasa to qualify for his special rights joint living with the surviving parent and active assistance in his or her duties is not necessary under present day conditions.

Per Ba, U.J.—Helping parents in the acquisition of properties is not one of the requisites for the status of an orasa child but what is essential is that the eldest born child should be competent to shoulder the burdens and responsibilities of the parent of the same sex on the death of the said parent. Where a suit is instituted by the Crown for declaration of title to and possession of property on the ground that the property had devolved on the Crown by escheat, it has first to be ascertainned whether the necessary requisites for the establishment of that title have been made out. Where the Crown's title to get the property Consideration—Absence of. But that proof must be of such a character that firstly it may put the matter beyond any reasonable doubt thereby discharging the onus probandi, and secondly, of such a nature as may shift the burden of proof on to the defendant to rebut the evidence adduced on behalf of the plaintiff which, if not rebutted would entitle the latter to the relief asked for. BURMA DEFENCE RULES—Control of Prices Order, (1940), Para 6—Liability of master for acts of servants.

Ordinarily a person should not be held liable for a criminal act of another. No person can be charged with the commission of an offence unless a particular intent or knowledge or mens rea-is found to be present; but in cases where a particular intent or state of mind is not of the essence of an offence, the person can be held liable for the act or omission of another. But the Defence of Burma Act is a piece of emergency legislation and is designed and intended, among others, to prevent profiteering so as to ensure the proper working of the normal economic life of the people. The act will entirely fail in its object if a master is not held liable for the act of his servant or a partner for the act of his co-partner. Because of this, para 6 of the Control of Prices Order, 1940, has been enacted. Looked at from this point of view, it will be found that: there is nothing inconsistent between this paragraph and S. 2 (1), Cl. 3 (2) the Defence of Burma Act. (Bu U. I) ISMAIL MAHOMEN HATER v. There is a presumption that when money is remitted from a foreign country, where the assessee carries on business, the remittance is made out of profits. In order that the presumption may be applicable the remirtance must, of cour e, be a remittance by the assessee of money belonging to the assessee. The assessee, a Hindu undivided family, was carrying on a banking and meneylending business with branches at MY and N in Burma, and at T in the Federated Motay States. One M had a current account with the T branch of the assessed which was in a credit in a considerable sum. On 15-10-1937 Minstructed the T branch to send a sum of Rs. 10,000 by banker's draft to their branch at A' in Burma, the amount to be placed to her (M's) credit in : new account to be opened at A' and the cost of the draft to be debited to her account at T. Her instructions were duly carried out. A draft for the sum of Rs. 10,000 on a Bank at Rangoon was purchased and this was paid by the Bank to the N branch to the credit

Held, that the money sent clearly was the money of M and not the money of the assessee, and the remittance was made by M and not by the assessee, and the remittance was therefore not a remittance to the assessee of foreign profits taxable under S. 4 (2) of the Burma Income-tax Act. Rr. 25 and 36 of the Income-tax Rules should not be taken as having any further effect than that they provide a somewhat arbitrary, though convenient method of a certaining the total profits or gains in res, ect of Life Assurance business. They cannot exclude the operation of unequivocal directions in the Act. It is for the Income-tax Commissioner to ascertain the proportion which one part of a business bears to whole as well as to ascertain its total income and he is not bound, in certaining such proportion to have recourse to the Rules which deal only with the computation of total income. The principles underlying the Act must be carefully borne in mind in the interpretation of the Rules. The assessee, an Insurance Company carrying on life insurance business, had its Head Office in Lahore in British India and a local agency in Rangoon in Burma. the assessment of the year 1937-1939, in respect of the Burma branch's income the Income-tax authorities calculated the income, profits and gains of the company under Rules 25 and 36 of the Burma Income-tax Rules on the proportion of the Burma premia to the world premia received in the previous year 1936—1937. They also included the sums paid to policy holders by way of interim bonus in the total divisible surplus. The assessee claimed that the income, profits and gains of the company should be computed on the proportion of the said premia received during the quadrennial valuation period ended 30th April, 1936, and the sums paid to the policy holders should be deducted from the divisible profits.

Held, (1) that the Income-tax authorities were right in including the sums paid to policy-holders by way of interim bonus in the total divisible surplus for the quadrennium ended 30th April, 1936, as they did not constitute expenditure incurred for earning the profits of the company within the meaning of S. 10 (2) (1x) of the Burma Income-tax Act.

(2) (per Roberts, C. J. and Dunkely, J., Sharpe, J. contra). that the Income tax authorities were right in computing the income, profits and gains of the assessee for the Burma assessment in 1937—1938 on the proportion of the Burma premia to the world premia received in the previous year 1936—1937. —S. 24 (1)—Loss—Setting off—Time for— Assessee compelled to take over land and house of debtor in satisfaction of loan transaction—Sale of land and houses in parts in different years loss in whole transaction claimed after sale of last part—Permissibility.

The assessee, a Hindu undivided family carrying on a banking and money-lending business, took over in 1928-1929, about 63 acres of land and a house in settlement of a debt of Rs. 9,000 due to them from a debtor. The land and the house were sold at different times in parts at the best price available at the time of the respective sales. The last sale was of the house in 1937-1938 and the account kept by the assessee of these sales showed, when all the property had been sold, a loss on the whole transaction of Rs. 5,137-8-0. In that year the assessee made a claim to deduct as trading loss the total loss of the whole transaction, namely, the sum of Rs. 5,137-8-0. The Income-tax authorities disallowed the claim holding that in each year in which a sale of a part of the property took place the assessee ought to have made an estimate of his loss on that particular sale, and ought to have claimed the loss estimated to have been incurred on that particular sale in the accounting year in which it took place.

Held, that the contention of the Income-tax department was untenable, and that the assessee was clearly entitled to deduct the amount as a trading loss, for he could not know until the transaction had been completed what his loss was where only a part of the property had been sold, whilst the rest remained in the hands of the assessee and might result in a profit or might result in a loss, and the whole transaction was not pet complete, no assessment could be made, maintenance,

The words 'connected with or arising out of the collecion of revenue' in S. 53 of the Upper Burma Land Revenue Regulation must be construed reasonably. Their meaning cannot be extended so as to include any consequence however indirect, or however unjustified by law, of action taken to collect revenue. The words 'collection of revenue' means collection by payment in the ordinary course, or recovery of arrears in the ways allowed by S. 41. No doubt, if the revenue authorities had proceeded to enforce any process (process is defined in S. 41) for the recovery of arrears of revenue the jurisdic. tion of the Civil Court would be barred. Where in respect of certain firshery revenue arrears, land is resumed which is not authorised by the regulation, it is an act, without jurisdiction, and a suit at the instance of the aggrieved party is maintainable in a Civil Court. Inheritance to the estate of a Chinaman who is domiciled in Burma and is a Buddhist, is governed by the Buddhist law of Burma. Though a will is not recognised under Buddhist law, a custom or usage varying this strict rule has been recognized by judicial decisions. #### BURMA MUNICIPAL ACT (III OF 1898).

A wite's claim for maintenance is a question regarding marriage and when parties are Buddmist the Buddfist law must form the rule of decision by reason of S. 13 (1) of the Burma Laws Act. But where there is also a claim by the child against his father sub-S. (1) of S. 13 has no application; and according to sub S. (3), if there is no statutory law dealing with the matter the decision must be in accordance with justice, equity and good conscience. Hence the remedy is under S. 488, Cr. P. Code only, for even under the 6 monor law of England a child cannot bring an action against its parents for maintenance. Durkley and Flagacia, J.) The A Mya v. # BURMA YOUNG OFFENDERS ACT (1930).

Where a boy of thirteen is found guilty of an offence under S. 112 of the Railways Act, it is only a substantive sentence of whipping that could be awarded and not a sentence of whipping in default of payment of fine, Burma Act XVIII of 1939 which amends S. 112 of the Railways Act is vague and general and it must be read as enacting only that a substantive sentence of whipping may be imposed where the person convicted is unable to pay a fine. It follows that S. 17 of the Young offenders Act must be taken as having 1 cen modified by Burma Act XVIII of 1939 and can no longer affect the punishment to be awarded for offences by Javeniles under S.16 against S. 112 of the Railways Act. The matters the determination of which is expressly entrusted to Revenue Officers by the Buima Tenancy Act are set out in Ch. 111, 1V and V of the Act. None of these provisions applies to a suit by tenant evicted under the orders of the Revenue Officer against another at whose instance he was evicted for compensation for cultivation expenses incurred prior to eviction. In an originating summons in which the real conflict is between the defendants inter se, charges are to be allowed for perusing affidavits of co-defendants on taxation as between party and party. -Chap. X, R 35—Exercise of powers under -Rule as to.

No rule can be laid down for the exercise of the Court's powers under R. 35 of Chap. X of the Rules of the Original Side of the Calcutta High Court except perhaps this, that before a Court under this rule deprives a litigant of his right to prosecute his claim, it should be satisfied that to do otherwise would be to permit an abuse of its process. One test as to whether there is an abuse of the process of the Court is to challenge the hesitating or laggard plaintiff to set down his case at once and proceed according to the rules. —Chap. X, R. 35—Notice under—Suit not prosecuted for three years—No affidavit filed explaining delay-Plaintiff expressing readiness to go to trial—Dismissal of suit—Propriety.
Where a plaintiff fails to take any step in a suit or to have it placed in the Prospective List during a period approaching three years and when it comes before the Court, upon notice under R. 35 of Chap. X, no affidavit is filed on his behalf explaining why he has taken no step to prosecute the suit but his counsel states that the plaintiff is then ready to proceed to trial, the Court has no option but to dismiss the suit.

Per Sen, J.—It is incumbent upon the plaintiff to show good cause why the suit has not been placed in the Prospective List within six months from the date of its institution. The mere statement of the plaintiff that he is ready to go to trial certainly cannot amount to good cause. The conduct of a plaintiff who does not bring his suit on the Prospective List within six months and who can show no good cause for the delay constitutes an abuse of the process of the Court which renders the suit liable to dismissal. It is not incumbent on the Court before it dismisses a suit under Chap. X, R. 35, to find that the delay in that particular case has affected the public interest in any manner. (Gentle and Sen, JJ.)

-Ch. XIII A, Rr. 6, 7 and 9-Leave to defend-When may be given unconditionally.

Under Ch. XIII-A of the Rules of the High Court, the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend if he satisfies the Court that he has a good defence to the claim on its merits or if he raises a triable issue indicating that he has a fair or bona fide or reasonable defence although not a positively good defence. If the defendant discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, that is to say, although the affidavit does not positively and immediately make it clear that he has a defence yet shows such a state of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial of the action he may be able to establish a defence to the plaintiff's claim, the defendant is entitled to leave to defend but in such a case the Court may in its discretion impose conditions as to the time or mode of trial but not as to payment into Court or furnishing security. The defendant is not entitled to leave to defend, if he has no defence or the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine. In such a case although the plaintiff is ordinarily entitled to judgment, the Court may protect him by only allowing the defence to proceed if the

Under the Rules of the original side of the Calcutta High Court there is no difference between sales in a suit not governed by the liengal Money Lenders' Act and in a suit to which that Act pplies save that the property cannot be sold for less than the specified price set out in the proclamation under which the sale of the property is then being conducted. The effect of S. 35 of the Act is to prevent the sale of more than what is required to discharge the judgmentdebt and where the whole or part of the property mortgaged is to be put up for sale and included in the proclamation such property cannot be sold on that particular occasion for less than the price specified unless the decree-holder foregoes the difference. When a sale is abortive and the property is again offered to be sold, S. 35 does not require that the specified price shall be the same as in a previous proclamation and it does not prohibit the price being fixed at a different or a lower sum in any second or subsequent proclamation of sale of property to be sold in the suit. -Ch. XXXVI, R. 4-Attorney's Bill of costs -Taxation-Bill containing items payable by plaintiff as between attorney and client (pure) without items payable by defendant-If proper

The defendant in a mortgage suit was directed to pay the costs of the suit to the plaintiff as between attorney and client. The plaintiff's attorney submitted to the defendant a complete bill of costs including (a) items of charges payable by the defendant as between attorney and client, (b) items of charges payable by the plaintiff as between attorney and client (pure) and (c) items of charges in respect of proceedings, the costs of which were not ordered against the defendant. The defendant objected to the items falling under (b) and (c) and paid only for the items falling under (a). As the plaintiff did not pay the items coming within the heads (b) and (c), the attorney lodged a bill of costs for taxation which included only the items which fell under these two heads and not the items which came under the head (a).

Held, that a bill lodged for taxation must be a complete bill of all the fees, charges and disbursements in reference to the business to which it related, and that the bill in question in so far as it included items of charges under head (b) being the pure attorney and client portion of costs without setting out the items of ordinary attorney and client's portion payable by the defendant was not a proper bill. In a suit for partition there was a preliminary enquiry before a Referee and a report was made by him. On the application for confirmation of the report by the Judge, two counsel were engaged for more than one day and refresher fees were paid to them. In the taxation for costs as between attorney and client, the client objected to the allowing of fees to two counsel with refresher fees on the ground that they were unusual fees and should not be allowed in the absence of a written consent of the client under Ch. ——Ch. XXXVI, Rr. 33 and 34—Daily and adjournment refreshers—When allowed—Quantum.

Under R. 34 of Chap. XXXVI of the Rules of the High Court, an adjournment refresher should be allowed where the case is adjourned for over a month over and above the daily refreshers allowed under R. 33 on the basis of the length of time occupied. The amount of fee to be allowed for on adjournment refresher should be fixed by the Taxing Officer and it is not the fee allowable on an application. The brief fee or the first day's fee is not worked off on the first day of the hearing merely because there is an adjournment for more than one month, and the computation of five hours does not begin anew on the second day of hearing. ——Ch XXXVI, R. 72—Review of taxation—When may be entertained.

The Court entertains a review of taxation and interferes only where a question of principle is involved. The Court is generally unwilling to interfere where it is a question whether the Taxing Officer exercised his discretion properly or if it is only a question of the amount to be allowed. (Das. J.) House Rent Control Order. Further, he must not only pay up all the arrears of rent that had fallen due in terms of sub-para. (4) before the institution of the ejectment suit, but must also continue to pay in terms of that sub-paraduring the pendenc, of the suit up to the stage when the passing of the decree comes up for consideration that is, up to the date of final hearing of the suit. In view of sub-para. (4) that payment must be in accordance with contract, or where there is no contract, month by month within the 15th of the succeeding month up to the date of final hearing. -Paras. 9 (4) and 2—Default by tenant in payment of rent in time-Landlord accepting rent subsequently-lenants, if entitled to protection Person becoming landlord subsequent to such default-If can avail himself of such default.

Para. 9 of the Calcutta House Rent Control Order affords protection to a tenant who regularly pays his rent and carries out all the obligations of his tenancy. If a tenant does not do defence on the part of the party hable to make that it is clear from para. 9 (4) that he cannot it and such party had taken no part in the proavail himself of the benefits of the order. Therefore no question of waiver can arise in such a case by the subsequent acceptance of rent by the landlord. A person who becomes the landlord sub-equent to the default committed by the tenaut, is entitled to avail himself of that default. (Gentle, J.) KANTO M. MULLICK V. JYOTISH CHANDRA MUKHERJEE. 49 C.W.N. 433.

-Para. 11—Decree for ejectment by consent -Tenant in arrears of rent on that date-Decree, if may be varied.

In a suit by a landlord against his tenant who was in arrears of rent, a decree was passed by consent in May 1943, providing for payment of such arrears in certain instalments, for payment of the current rent and for ejectment of the tenant on 30th September, 1943. The tenant carried out the terms so far as the payment of arrears of rent and current rent were concerned but did not hand over possession on the stipulated date. Instead, she sought an order that the decree which was passed in May be varied or rescinded under para. It of the Calcutta House Rent Control Order by allowing her to remain in possession as long as that order remained in force,

Held, that para. 11 of the order could not be called in aid, as in the circumstances which existed on the date of the decree it could not be said that the Court would not have made the order which in fact was made. (Derbyshire, C.J., and Lodge, J.) JULIC SEN v. SURJENDRA MOHAN ROY. 49 C.W.N. 700.

and no appeal lies from such an order. If the appellate court entertains an appeal and varies the decree, the remedy is in revision and not by way of second appeal. It is not enough in revision to show that the appeal was incompetent. The High Court will not in revision restore the order of the trial court, if it is obviously a wrong order. (Henderson, J.) The Calcutta Improvement Tribunal has all the powers of a Civil Court of original jurisdiction mentioned in S. 18 of the Land Acquisition Act including its inherent powers. Where the award of the Tribunal is modified in appeal the Tribunal has under its inherent powers jurisdiction to grant restitution, although such award is not a decree. In any ev nt, an appellate Court will not drive a party entitled to restitution to a separate suit, when there cannot be any possible ceedings for restitution when they were pending before the Tribunal. R. 6.

Under S. 77 (2) of the Calcutta Improvement Act, the award of the tribunal is to be executed by the Small Causes Court as if it were a decree made by that Court. This clearly shows that that Court is not to be deemed to be a transferee Court and the procedure laid down in O. 21, R 6, C P. Code, will have no application to the award. The party in whose favour the award has been made need not, therefore, obtain a certificate of non-satisfaction to get it executed by the Court of Small Causes. (Mukerien and Sen, J.) CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL ACT (III OF 1923), S. 3 (54)—'Private street'—Meaning of.

The definition of "private street" in S. 3 (54) of the Calcutta Municipal Act is not very clear, but, if it be compared with the definition of "public street" in S. 3 (57) of the Act, it would appear to have been the intention of the Legislature that it should refer to some space between neighbouring buildings, which has been left not merely for the purpose of detaching one set of premises from another but for securing access to the premises situated thereon not to the public at large, but to a limited section of the public who may have occasion to go to the premises situated on the space in question. "It includes any passage securing access to four or more premises " and by implication it may be taken that it would not include a passage which secures access to a smaller number of premises. If the Revising Authority rejects such a claim in limine on the ground of form without going into the merits, he acts outside and in derogation of his jurisdiction. It is not merely an erroneous judgment but a failure to exercise jurisdiction conferred on him by the Statute, and the High Court may interfere in such a case. (Das, J.) S. K. SAWDAY v. N. R. 16(2) of the Rules made by the Provincial Government under powers granted to it by S. 30 of the Act, which provides for the publication of the names of persons elected at uncontested elections, must be treated as mere surplusage which leaves unaffected the force of S. 29 (8). wrong electoral number—Rejection of nomination paper-If proper.

the number of that person in the electoral roll tallies and enacts that if the seconder is not identical with the person who bears that electoral number, then the nomination paper will be rejected; in other words, what the sule provides is that if the person bearing that electoral number comes forward and says he is not the seconder or if some one else proves that such person is not the seconder, the nomination paper will be rejected. The identity of the person and not a mere error in the giving of his electoral number is the factor which the Keturning Officer has to consider in deciding whether a paper should be rejected. (Scn. Several nomination papers handed over in a bundle—"First received"—Meaning of.

R. 14 (2) (b) applies where in a case in which there is one vacancy to be filled a candidate hands over to the Returning Officer several nomination papers in one bundle. In such a case, the paper which bears the earliest serial number must be taken to have been first received for the purposes of that rule. That being so, it is entitled to the benefit of that rule and must be deemed to be valid in spite of the fact that the proposer named therein has subscribed his name as proposer in the other nomination papers also (Sen, J.) S M. SOLAIMAN V. NOOR MAHOMED, 217 I.C. 288=17 R.C. 186-748 C.W.N. 655-7A. I.R. 1944 Cal. 395.

——S. 30—R. 14 (2) (b)—"First received"— Several nomination papers delivered in a bunch —Paper bearing earliest serial number—If presumed to be first received.

The word "deliver" used in R. 5 means the same as the act of presentation—the physical act of handing over to the Returning Officer and the word "receive" has been used to designate the act of acceptance by him. When several nomination papers are handed over in a bunch, there would be one act of delivery, but it would not necessarily follow that there would be only one act of receipt on the part of the Returning Officer. The Returning Officer would in normal course take the nomination papers from the bunch one by one and that one of the bunch which bears the lowest serial number would be presumed to have been "first received" by him for the purpose of R. 14 (2) (b), unless the presumption is rebutted. (Mitter and Sharpe, Jl.) Nur Manomed v. S. M. Solaman. 49 C.W.N. 10.

——S. 30—R, 14 (4)—!Vrong electoral number given in nomination paper—Defect, if technical.

If the electoral number of the seconder is wrongly given in a nomination paper, the effect is a technical and not a substantial one, for it could be corrected under R, 9. The case comes within R. 14 (4). The matters specifically mentioned in that sub-rule are only illustrative. The provisions of R. 14 (1) (iv) are applicable only to cases in which there is a dispute regarding the identity of the candidate, proposer or seconder, with the person described as such in the nomination paper (Mitter and Sharpe, J.). # CAL, MUNICIPAL ACT (1923), S. 46.

The High Court dealing with an application made under S. 46 of the Calcutta Municipal Act functions, in effect, as a special tribunal, and no appeal lies from its decision to any other tribunal. The decision given by the Judge constituting a special tribunal does not amount to a judgment within the meaning of Cl. 15 of the Letters Patent. (Derbyshire, C. J. and Costello, J.) -S. 46—Decision of Single Judge of High Court-Appeal to Division Bench-If hes-Nature of jurisdiction conferred on High Court. No appeal lies to a Division Bench from the judgment of a single Judge of the High Court pronounced on an application made under S. 46 of the Calcutta Municipal Act. This section confers a special jurisdiction on the High Court and does not merely add a new subject-matter as part of its ordinary jurisdiction or merely change the procedure in respect of matters which it has jurisdiction to determine under the Letters Patent. A new right, a right in a body of persons, who would not have otherwise had the right to challenge the validity of an election in the High Court has been created by this section and that even when no part of the cause of action may have arisen within the territorial limits of the original side of the High Court. Cl. 15 of the Letters Patent cannot, therefore, be invoked. The general rule that when a matter reaches a Civil Court the procedure of Civil Courts would he attracted including the provisions regulating appeals from its judgments, decrees or orders, is applicable only when the matter comes to that Court as part of its ordinary jurisdiction and not by reason of a special jurisdiction having been conferred upon it. S. 47 of the Calcutta Municipal Act does not deal with improper rejection of a nomination paper. The "irregularity of a nomination paper" mentioned in S. 47 (1) (c) relates to a nomination paper that had been received. Where, therefore, an election is sought to be set aside on the ground of improper rejection of a nomination paper, no proof to the effect that the result of the election has been materially affected would be required. -S.47—"Result" of the election has been materially affected-Meaning of.

The phrase "the result of the election has been materially affected" means that the returned candidate would not have been returned but for the irregularity alleged and proved, and does not mean that the margin of majority would have been substantially reduced by reason of such irregularity. What evidence would be regarded as sufficient to prove this would depend upon the ground on which the election is challenged. In arriving at the relevant finding it would also be open to rely upon presumptions and inferences of fact which arise from other facts established or admitted. (Mitter and Sharpe, JJ.) NUR MAMOMED v. S. M. SOLAIMAN. 49 C.W.N. 10.

CAL. MUNICIPAL ACT (1923), S. 51.

S. 47 (1) (c)—Onus of proof.
Under S. 47 (1) (c) of the Calcutta Municipal Act, the onus is clearly put on the person seeking to set aside the election to satisfy the Court that the result of the election has been materially affected by the non-compliance with the Act or the rules, even though such non-compliance is of a mandatory provision. (Sen, J.) S. M. Solaiman v. Noor Mahomed. 48 C.W.N. 655=217 I.C. 288=17 R.C. 186=A.I.R. 1944 Cal. 395.

-S, 47 (1) (c)—'Result of election'—Meaning of-Illegal rejection of nomination papers of a candidate—If ground for setting aside

The words "result of the election" used in S. 47 (1) (c) of the Calcutta Municipal Act mean the expression of the will or decision of the electorate. If A and B stand for election and Ais elected, the result of the election is the expression of the decision of the electorate that it prefers A to B. If A, B and C stand for election and if A is elected, the electorate expresses its decision that A is more fitted to be elected not only than B but also than C. If therefore C has been wrongfully and illegally excluded from contesting the election, it follows that the result of the election has been materially affected. It is not necessary for C in such a case to show that the returned candidate would not have been returned. There can, therefore, hardly be a more just ground for setting aside an election than the ground that a person has been deprived of the right to contest the election by a wrongful and illegal rejection of his nomination papers. (Sen, J.) S. M. SOLAIMAN v. NOOR MAHOMED. 217 I C. 288=17 R.C, 186=48 C.W.N. 655=A.I.R. 1944 Cal, 395.

-S. 51 (1) and (2)—Powers of corporation to appoint officers-Nature of-Principles to be followed in appointing—Officer appointed under S.51(2)—If can perform duties of principal Officers.

The provisions of sub-S. (1) of Section 51 of the Calcutta Municipal Act are mandatory and the Corporation is bound to appoint proper persons as Chief Executive Officer, Chief Engineer, Chief Accountant, Health Officer and Secretary. The appointees must be proper persons, inter alia, they must be quatified to hold the appointments. A person with minimum engineering experience satisfied with a nominal salary is not a proper person. The Corporation is not bound to appoint Deputy Executive Officers, but it is empowered to do so. But such appointments of deputy Executives are subject to the approval of the Provincial Government and in their absence will be ineffective. The appointment of principal Officers however do not require such approval and are complete when made by the Corporation. The Calcutta Municipal Act requires that the duties of the offices in S. 51 (1) are performed by the officers appointed under that sub-section. The permissive power, in sub. S. (2) being limited to appointing officers to offices other than those prescribed in sub-S. (1) these "other officers" cannot be invested with the duties of the offices in the other sub-section. Accordingly the Corporation cannot appoint a person as a special officer under S. 51 (2) to be in charge of a department of the Chief Engineer. The office is of a public nature and one which can be the ——S. 127—'Let'—Meaning of—Flouse owned by firm occupied by one of its partners without rent—If assessable under Cl. (a) or (b).

The word "let" in S. 127 of the Calcutta Municipal Act means 'granting the use of the land for rent'. Where a house owned by a firm is occupied by one of its partners who neither pays any cash rent nor renders any service to the firm in lieu thereof, his occupation, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, is that of one of the co-owners of the house and not that of a tenant. Such a house, when there is no suggestion that it was erected for letting purposes, is assessable under CI (b) and not under CI. (a) of S. 127 of the Act. (Nasim Ali and Blagden, JJ.) CORPORATION of CALCUTTA v. SHAW WALLACE & CO. 46 C.W.N. 978.

——S. 127 (a)—Annual value—Determination of -Provisions of Ss. 150 and 151—If can be taken into consideration.

The provisions of Ss. 150 and 151 of the Calcutta Municipal Act cannot be taken into consideration while determining the annual gross reuts under S. 127 (a) of the Act. (Nasim Ali and Blagden, JJ.) S. 127 (a)—Building "ordinarily let"— House provided by Government and occupied by its servant—Servant responsible for rent and occupier's share of taxes—Under rules Government not obliged to provide house nor servant to live in it—Baxis of assessment of such house.

Where the occupation by a Government servant of a house provided for by Government is not incidental to nor dependent upon the contract of service, and under the rules applicable to him the Government is under no obligation to provide a house nor the servant to live in it, but if a house is provided the servant is in exclusive possession and is responsible for the rent, whether he lives in it or not, and for the occupier's share of taxes, and the servant is free to sub-let it with the permission of the Government, such a house is a building which is "ordinarily let" within the meaning of S. 127 (a) of the Calcutta Municipal Act and has to be assessed as such. —S, 127 (a)—Valuation of property—English principle of valuing "rebus sic stantibus"—How far applicable—Valuation of vacant land—Vacant land not used by owner except for occasional golf practice—Owner asking corporation to unore such occasional user—Proper basis of valuation.

The English principle of valuing "rebus sic stantibus" (i.e.) with reference to the property in its actually existing condition taking into account neither the past conditions nor the future possibilities, can with perfect propriety be applied to cases coming under S. 127 (a) of the Calcutta

CAL. MUNICIPAL ACT (1923), S. 135.

Municipal Act where the owner has put the property to some use. The annual value in such cases must be determined on the basis of the rent expected from a hypothetical tenant who takes it from year to year. The above principle of English law can have no application to a case where land is kept vacant and the owner does not put it to any use at all. Such a case cannot possibly arise in English Law, as a owner who does not use or occupy his land is not rateable under the English Law at all. Under the Calcutta Municipal Act, an owner who keeps his land vacant is bound to pay rates. In determining the value of such land, the standard cannot be the amount of rent payable by a tenant who would keep it fallow and unoccupied. As the owner is not using it in any particular way, there is no presumption in favour of the continuance of any kind of user. The standard in such cases must be the rent which could be expected from a tenant, who would take the land as it is, and put it to such use as is possible for a yearly tenant to do. Where a piece of vacant land is not used by the owner except occasionally as an imperfect golf course, and the owner has expressly asked the Corporation to ignore such occasional user and treat it as vacant land so that he may have the vacancy remissions, it would be proper to value the land on the basis of annual letting value of lands in the vicinity let out as vacant lands to yearly tenants, (Mukherjea and Akram, JJ.) BENGAL NAGPUR RAILWAY (O. LTD. V. COR-PORATION OF CALCUITA. I.L.R. (1942) 2 Cal. 152 =46 C.W.N. 637=A.I R. 1942 Cal. 455.

S. 127 (b)—Value of land—Mode of assessment—English system of rating—If applicable

The Legislature has not laid down any definite method of estimating the present value of the land required to be estimated by S. 127 (b) of the Calcutta Municipal Act. There may be different methods of making this estimate and it will be for the expert valuers to make the estimate in each particular case and for the Court to come to a decision whether or not their valuation is correct. The word 'value' in this part of the section means the selling price of the property in question between a willing seller and a willing purchaser, subject to the advantages or disadvantages involved in its present condition. As Cl. (b) of S. 127 has been introduced, to meet the cases where determination of the 'annual rent' by any direct method is impossible, it will be absurd to suggest that in valuing the land the self-same impossible item was intended by the Legislature to supply the starting point. Therefore, the profits basis or the contractor's basis of rating prevailing in the English system, which are all methods not of determining the value of the land but of ascertaining the hypothetical annual rent, have no application in determining the value of the land under the section. assessment of an outhouse appurtenant to a building is made under that section, it is his duty to consider the application, to apply his mind to it, and to decide whether, in his discretion, the outhouse should be separately assessed and treated as a separate building. He cannot refuse to consider the application until the amount of the consolidated rate which is then in arrears in respect of the premises is paid in full. He is not entitled to impose this condition as the duty imposed upon him under the section is not subject to any such condition. (Lort Williams, J.) CORPORATION OF CALCUTTA v. SAMARENDA JIT SHAW. A person who has made an application under S. 135 of the Calcutta Municipal Act for separate assessment of an outhouse appurtenant to his building cannot escape liability to pay the amount of the consolidated rate for the period subsequent to his application, although the Corporation keeps the application in absyance without disposing it of. (Lort Williams, J.) Corporation of Calcutta v. Samarendra Jit Shaw. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal 30=200 I.C. 89=14 R C. 665=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 719.

 $\cdot$ S. 135 -A pplication for separate assessment of outhouses refused on the pretence that Corporation had no porwer to grant it—Effect on liability of applicant for consolidated rates.

S. 135 of the Calcutta Municipal Act contains a specific provision enabling the executive officer in his discretion to assess any outhouse pertaining to a building or any portion of a building, separately from such building or the other portions of such building, and when so separately assessed, such outhouse or portion of the building is deemed to be a separate building. Where the Corporation and its officials have refused to assess the outhouses separately (on the ground that it could be done only in the case of a sale or partition) and upon the pretence that they had no power under the Act to make separate assessments the owner of the house cannot escape liability for the consolidated rates for the property. -S. 138—Notice not served on owner— Validity of assessment—Owner's name not entered in assessment book.

The fact that the special notice prescribed by S. 138 of the Calcutta Municipal Act has not been served on the owner of a bustee, does not render the assessment a nullity, when the name of such owner has not been entered in the assessment book kept under S. 143 of the S. 144 (3) of the Act prohibits him from objecting that the notice was not made out in his name and he cannot, therefore, complain that he has been deprived of his right to object under S. 139 or appeal under S. 141. Where a company engaged in the manufacture and sale of goods has within the municipal boundaries of Calcutta its registered office and also its retail shops through which it sells its goods to the public, it is liable not only to take out and pay for the personal license in respect of its registered office but also liable to take out and pay for proper local license in respect of each one of its retail shops. (Derby-S. 179—Conviction for not taking out of.

-S. 189-"Person liable to pay"-Meaning

The "person liable to pay" within the meaning of S. 189 of the Calcutta Municipal Act is the person who is made liable to pay under the Act and not under a contract with the owner. (Mitter and Blank, JJ.) MATHURA PROSAD 7 CORPORATION OF CALCUTTA. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Cal. 253=48 C. W.N. 336.

-Ss. 190 and 204—Notice of demand—If necessary requirement for suit.

When the consolidated rate is not paid within seven days of the presentation of the Bill, the Corporation has the option of proceeding in either of two ways. If it chooses to levy distraint it must give a notice under S. 190. If it does not desire to levy distraint, it need not give that notice. That is the significance of the word "may" in S. 190. A notice of demand under that section is not accordingly a preliminary requirement for a suit for the recovery of arrears of consolidated rates under S. 204. (Mitter and Blank, JJ.) MATHURA PROSAD v. CORPORATION OF CALCUTTA. I.L.R. (1944) 2 Cal. 253=48 C.W. N. 336.

-Ss. 204 and 189—Presentation of Bill under S. 189-If condition precedent to suit-"Defaulter"-Meaning of.

The presentation of a Bill under S. 189 to the person liable to pay the consolidated rates, is not a condition precedent to the institution of a suit under S 204 of the Act. The word "defaulter" used in the latter section does not mean a person who has failed to pay the Bill within seven days of its presentation. It means a person who being liable to pay consolidated rates has failed to pay them within the time defined in S. 149. (Mitter and Blank, JJ.) MATHURA PROSAD v. CORPORA-TION OF CALCUTTA. I.L.R. # CAL. MUNICIPAL ACT (1923), S. 205.

The right of the Corporation to get consolilated rates is a creation of the Act. Apart from 3. 124, it will not have the right to impose such ates. So, the Corporation can pursue only such emedies for the recovery of consolidated rates is are provided for in the Act. Those remedies are distraint and a suit under S. 204. Apart from 3. 204, the Corporation has no right to sue under the general law. If the suit does not fulfil the requirements of S. 204, it is not maintainable.

Under S. 205 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, the corporation has a charge on bustees for consolidated rate due in respect thereof. A bustce would come within the description of "building" used in the Ss. 124, 127 and 205. As S. 205 of the Act creates a charge both on the land and the structures, the corporation can at its option enforce the charge on the land only, abandoning the structures. Where certain premises are owned and occupied by a company, the managing director or the managing agents of the company can hardly be said to be in occupation of the premises or the owner, and it is doubtful whether the managing agents can be said to be either the owners or the occupiers of the premises. The mere fact that the saponification value of the mustard oil was found on analysis to be in excess of the outside limit fixed by the Government notification cannot support a conviction under S. 406 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, specially in view of the fact that it appears that the saponification value of mustard oil varies to some extent according to the kind of the mustard seed and the place where it is grown. Held, that as the luchis were not seized or analysed, there was nothing to show that any of that ghee was in the luchis and that further it had to be shown that luchis fried in that ghee would be of an inferior quality to those fried in ghee which the Public Analyst would describe as unadulterated and that in the absence of such evidence the accused could not be convicted under Ss. 406 and 407 of the Calcutta Municipal Act. (Henderson, J.) Joy Kali Ganguly v. Banerjee. 202 I.C. 679=43 Cr.L.J. 896=15 R.C. 391= A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 88.

S. 407 of the Calcutta Municipal Act has been drafted to give a general frame work as regards more important articles of food exposed for sale and lay down, as regards these articles some specific conditions which must be fulfilled in regard to their sale and so forth. While laying down definite conditions in regard to some of the articles, there are provisions leaving it to the Provincial Government to prescribe other further matters. Accordingly there is no limit on the power given to the Local Government to prescribe conditions in respect of butter although sub-Cl. (ii) of S. 407 (1) of the Calcutta Municipal Act does itself lay down certain conditions. The Notification dated 28th March, 1928, prescribing the condition that butter should not contain more than 20 per cent. of water is not in any way an unreasonable abuse of the power given by the section and is not ultra vires of the Provincial Government, (Roxburgh and Akram, JJ.) P. BANERJEE v. MURALI MOHAN DAS. 203 I.C. 89=15 R.C. 394=A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 30.

-S. 407 (3) -Liability of person temporarily in charge of shop for selling butter containing more than 20 per cent. water.

The fact that the accused was merely temporarily in charge of the shop while the actual manager was away, is no defence to a charge under S. 407 (3) of the Calcutta Municipal Act. (Roxburgh and Akram, JI) P. BANERJEE v. MURALI MOHAN DAS. 203 I.C. 89=15 R.C. 394= A.I.R. 1943 Cal. 30.

It is quite true that a shop-keeper is prohibited under cls. 6, 7 and 9 of the Bengal Rationing Order, 1943, from selling or supplying a rationed article except for human consumption and against a ration document, but that Rationing order being made under the provisions of R. 81 of the Defence of India Rules is subject to the provisions of R. 4 of those Rules. The effect of that is to add to cls. 6, 7 and 9 an exception in the case where a public servant acting in the course of his duty as a public servant and duly authorised by the Health Officer of the corporation directs a shop-keeper to supply him with a sample of the rationed article for analysis pursuant to . 424 of the Calcutta Municipal Act. A conviction of the owner or occupier of a market under Ss. 492 and 179 of the Calcutta Municipal Act for not taking out a license cannot be sustained when there has not been a determination of the average quantity of the rubbish removed by the corporation and the fee payable for the license. Under S. 179 the owner of the market is to take out a license and pay the fee. Obviously a person cannot take out a licence until he pays the fee and he cannot pay the fee unless the fee is determined. It is clear from this section that the fee to be paid will depend upon the determination by the Corporation of the amount of offensive matter and rubbish removed daily by the Corporation. (Sen, J.) S. 523 of the Calcutta Municipal Act provides a machinery for the settlement of disputes as to the amount of compensation to be paid and as to its apportionment and ousts the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts to determine such disputes. S. 525 of the Act does not apply to cases governed by S. 523 and an aggrieved person has therefore, no right of suit under that section. Under R. 94 of Sch. XVII to the Calcutta Municipal Act the power of the Corporation to relax the operation of the rules is severely restricted. If an addition is proposed to an existing building, any relaxation can only be allowed for the purpose of preventing the demolition of any material part of the existing building, which may have been constructed on the space which is required to be left open under the rules contained in Sch. XVII, R. 94 was certainly not framed with the object of allowing additional encroachments on the minimum space which the Legislature considered necessary for the purpose of providing ventilation and sanitation. case which he ought not to have tried-If acts without jurisdiction-If a curable irregularity.

Proir to its amendment, S. 26 of the C. P. Courts Act drew a distinction between 'jurisdiction' 'powers' and 'control.' The section makes the additional District Judge subject to the control of the District Judge but it does not take away or limit the 'jurisdiction'and 'powers' which earlier part of the section had already conferred upon them. Therefore if by some accident or mistake one of the Additional District Judges happens to take on file and try a case which, according to the distribution memorandum, he ought not to have tried, then he cannot be said to be acting without jurisdiction and in the absence of objection at the earliest stage, it will not be permitted to be raised at any later stage. The defect would be a curable irregularity. (Stone, C. J. and Bose, J.) Maniksa v. Anna. 1941 N. L.J. 625.

PROVINCES CENTRAL COURT WARDS ACT (XXIV OF 1899)—Scope—If contemplates taking over of a partnership business by the Court of Wards against the wishes of other partners.

The C. P. Court of Wards Act limits itself throughout to the 'person or property' of the Government Ward. A partnership business and its assets are not the property of the Ward. They belong to the firm and cannot be split up among the partners until dissolution. The Act does not contemplate the taking over of a partnership business by the Court of Wards against the wishes of other partners. (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) SUNDRA BAI v. The provisions of S. 13 (1) of the C. P. Court of Wards Act are of course mandatory, but they are procedural and all that the section requires is substantial compliance with its terms rather than compliance with the letter, and provided there is no prejudice or injury, the Court of Wards can waive small and unessential irregularities. ——Ss. 15 (3), 12 and 13—'Claim' contemplated by S. 15 (3)—Receipt of claim submitted and documents produced—Effect—S. 15 (3) when

S. 15 (3) of the C. P. Court of Wards Act only speaks generally of "a claim" and not of a claim submitted in accordance with the provisions of S. 12 (1). Hence when "a claim" though not strictly in accordance with S. 12 (1) is once received and the documents produced are accepted the force of Ss. 12 and 13 spends itself so far as the claim submitted and received and the documents produced are concerned. When the parties are unable to agree as to the settlement of the claim, S. 15 (3) of the Act comes into operation. (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) SUNDRA BAI v. RAMLAL MADHAO RAO. 1942 N.L.J. 229.

The Debt Conciliation Act is a coercive measure intended to affect vested interests and rights and to bring pressure upon creditors to effect a settlement with their debtors. It operates to the detriment of creditors. The Act, as it involves very drastic and serious consequences, must be construed strictly. Any ambiguity in the section must be resolved along lines which will interfere as little as possible with existing rights. (Grille, C.J. and Sen, J.) KALYANSING v. HORLLAL. I.L.R. -S. 2 (e)—Interpretation—'Recoverable as an arrear of land revenue', meaning of-Arrears of Theka-Jama-If comes within purview of the Board.

The words 'recoverable as an arrear of land revenue' in S. 2 (e) of the Debt Conciliation Act should be given their natural meaning, as words of description. Looked at from this point of view, the definition means that if a debt could be recovered in conceivable circumstances as an arrear of land revenue, then it is excluded from the definition. Arrears of Theka-Jama are recoverable as arrears of land revenue and so the Debt Conciliation Officer has no power to include such Theka-Jama within the purview of his proceedings. (Bose, J) HARCHARNLAL v. HIRDESINGH. 195 I.C. 522=14 R.N. 53=1941 N.L J. 150=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 161.

-S. 4—"Prescribed"—Meaning—Increase of pecuniary limit by notification—Legality—Rule and notification—Difference.

The word 'prescribed' occurring in S. 4 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act can have only its defined meaning of 'prescribed by rules'. Hence where the pecuniary limit fixed in the Act is altered by means of a Government notification, and not by rule as required by the Act, there is no lawful alteration of the pecuniary limit. The difference between a notification and a rule is that a rule is not a rule until there has been prior publication which opens to the public the opportunity to object, whereas a notification can lie without any prior publication and no one has a chance to object before the notification becomes operative. -S. 7-Absence of notice-Validity of subsequent proceedings.

Where notice under S. 7 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act is not given, the proceedings must be treated as if the application had never been admitted and the subsequent decisions of the Board on such application are not final. (Grille, C.J. and Sen, J.) KALYANSING v. HORILAL. I.L. R. (1945) Nag. 260=1944 N.L.J. 220=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 235.

-Ss. 8 and 9-A-Absence of verification of statement-If a curable irregularity.

It is not every irregularity in the statement that can be held to invalidate it and thus bring into operation the very harsh provisions of S, 8 (2). In each case it must be a question for decision whether the particular irregularity is so fatal as to go to the root of the matter and make the statement in point of law no statement at all. S. 9-A is no doubt mandatory in its terms as to verification of statements. But the absence of verification is only an irregularity which is curable and not fatal. Where it has been allowed to get in without objection and been acted upon, it must be regarded as a proper statement, (Bose, J.) Abbut Majib Khan v. Digambar Jairam. I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 428=199 I.C. 427=14 R.N. 276=1941 N.L J. 250=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 249.

-S. 8-Discharge of debt-Not a matter of declaration but a statutory effect.

The C. P. Debt Conciliation Act makes no provision for the passing of any order discharging the decree under S. 8 of the Act. The discharge comes about automatically, as a result of statutory provision, and without any order, when certain indicated facts occur. (Stone, C.J.) MAKHANLAL & BODHIRAM. 1942 N.L.J. 348.

-S. 8 and R. 47-Minor creditor-Appointment of guardian-Duty of Board.

Where a creditor is a minor, the Board is bound in view of R, 47 of the rules under the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act to follow the procedure laid down in O. 32, C. P. Code, for the appointment of a guardian for him. If the Board fails to secure the representation of the minor by the appointment of a guardian after a notice to him and to the guardian, its order discharging the debt due to the minor under S. 8 (2) of the Act will be without jurisdiction. (Grille, C.J. and Sen, J.) KALYANSING v. HORILAL. I.L. R. (1945) Nag. 260=1944 N.L.J. 220=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 235.

-S. 8 and Rr. 16 and 17—Service of notice— Proclamation by beat of drums—When proper.
Under S. 8 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act, the Board is not given an option either to serve the notice or to issue a proclamation. Under the Rules, personal service on the creditors has to be effected either by tendering or delivering a copy of the notice or sending such copy by registered post to the creditor. If service in the manner aforesaid cannot be made, then it may be affixed at his last known place of residence. Without trying to serve the creditors it is not competent for the Board to publish the notice. Such publication is not authorised. (Grille, C.J. and Sen, J.) KALYANSING v. HORILAL, ILR (1945) Nag. 260—1944 N.L.J. 220—A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 235.

S. 8 (2) -Applicability—Non-submission of accounts-Effect.

S. 8 (2) of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act applies only to non-submission of statement of debt and not to a non-submission of accounts for which there is no statutory provision for discharge of the debts. (Grille, C.J. and Bose, J.) KESHRICHAND V. CHUNNILALS I.L R (1943) Nag 268=205 I.C 605=15 R.N. 235=1943 N.L. J. 156=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 215.

-S. 8 (2)—Debts declared discharged—How far binding on Civil Courts.

The operation of S. 8 (2) of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act is independent of the Board and is automatic. The Civil Court has in each case to determine whether in fact the matters which bring the provisions of S. 8 (2) into operation were present or not. If they were present then the discharge is automatic; if they were not present then no order of the Board purporting to discharge the debt for the reason given in S. 8(2) is binding on a Civil Court. -S 8 (2)—Scope and effect.

S. 8 (2) of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act introduces a legal fiction that even though a debt or the decretal amount has not been paid it may, under certain circumstances, be taken for all purposes and all occasions to have been duly discharged A legal fiction is limited to the purposes indicated by the context and cannot be given a larger effect. (Grille, C.J. and Sen, I) Kalyansing v. Horilal. ILR. (1945) Nag 260=1944 N.L.J. 220=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 235.

-Ss. 8 (2), 9 (1) and 9 A-Statement signed and filed by creditor's son-Sufficient compliance with requirements.

A statement signed and filed by a creditor's son with his father's authority is a valid statement as required by S. 9 (1) of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act. When it is filed the debt to which statement refers cannot be declared to have been discharged under S. 8 (2). Any defect in procedure cannot affect the substance of a party's claim. (Niyogi, J.) NETRAM v. BHAGWAN. 199 I.C. 354 = 14 R.N. 272=1941 N.L.J. 151=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 159.

-S. 9-Admission by debtor of agreement to pay sum due on bond—S.9 does not operate to bar claim.

Where there is an admission by the debtor in the pleadings of an agreement to pay the sum due on a bond it is not necessary to prove the bond. Therefore S. 9 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act which merely states that some documents cannot be proved is no bar to a decree being passed on the basis of the admission though the bond itself may be inadmissible in evidence by reas in of S.9 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act. (Stone, CJ. and Vivian Bose, J.) UDHAO NANAJI v. NARAYAN

S. 9 (3)—Failure to produce document at the initial stage—Power of Civil Court to admit.
S. 9 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act enacts in a mandatory manner that along with the statement of debts the original documents on which the creditor relied together with their true copies should be filed. There is a proviso to sub-S. (1) of S 9 which gives a discretion to the Board to permit the document to be produced at a later date, if it is satisfied that it could not have been produced along with the statement. S. 9 (3) prescribes the penalty for non-production of the documents and makes them inadmissible in evidence against the debtor in any suit brought by the creditor or any one claiming under him. (3) however gives no discretion to the Civil Court to see whether the creditor could comply with the provision of S. 9 (1) or not and there is no proviso to sub-S. (3) as there is for sub-S. (1). The mere fact that proceedings were pending for a long time in spite of the creditor not producing the original document is no indication either of production of the document in time or of waiver by the Board. (Puranik, I) JAIRAM v RAJESH-WAR ILR. (1943) Nag. 259=207 I.C. 64=16 R.N. 16=1943 N.L.J. 97=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 151. S. 10-Board having no jurisdiction to entertain application—If invalidates settlement between parties. The mere fact that the Board has no jurisdiction to entertain the application would not necessarily invalidate an amicable settlement arrived at between a debtor and a creditor. (Pollock, J.) GHANSIAM BHOLARAM & GIRIJA SHANKAR. I.L. R.(1944) Nag. 244=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 247.

-Ss 12 and 13 - Agreement executed and registered-Effect of-Whether can be superseded by subsequent agreement.

An agreement executed and registered in the Debt Conciliation Board under S. 12 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act takes effect as if it is a decree of a (ivil Court. The mere execution of a subsequent agreement regarding the same debt adding mortgage of property as security therefor, does not supersede the original agreement and cannot do so until effect is given to it, if ever, by a decree of a competent Court. If there is no such decree, the original agreement executed in the Debt Conciliation Board and registered remains in force, and the special provisions of the Act, including S. 13 for the recovery of instalments under the agreement, apply to them. (Binney, FC) WASUDEO v. NIHAL CHAND. 1944
N.L.J. 259.
S. 12—Agreement under-Validity-Noncompilance with prescribed form-Inclusion of extraneous matter.

Where there is clearly an amicable settlement between the debtor and his creditors, and this settlement is reduced to writing in the form of an agreement as required by S. 12 of the C.P. Debt Conciliation Act, the mere fact that it contained extraneous matter and was not in the prescribed form would not invalidate it as an agreement. (Pollock, J.)GULAM ALI v. ABBUL HUSSAIN. 1942 N.L J 52

—S. 12—Effect of agreement under—Questioning its validity and cancelling it—Powers of Revenue Court and Debt Conciliation Board.

C P. DEBT CONCILI. ACT (1933), S. 12-A.

Under S 12 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act an agreement once executed has the effect of a Civil Court decree. A Revenue Officer cannot dispute its validity when called upon to execute it, and a Debt Conciliation Board has no power of review and no general power to cancel an agreement once executed. For cancellation a Civil Court would have to be moved. (Greenfield, R.A.) CHAND KHAN v. SYED AMIR MOHAMMAR 1942 N.L.J. 60.

-S. 12-Scope and object of the Act-Fraudulent concoction of debts to show the necessary percentage of consenting creditors-Refusal of relief.

The C. P. Debt Conciliation Act was designed to secure a particular class of debtors from the rapacities of creditors and was never intended to be used as an instrument of fraud. The whole basis on which conciliation proceeds is destroyed. if a debtor when coming before such a tribunal under the powers conferred by such an Act, fraudulently concocts debts so that an imaginary percentage of creditors appears to be willing to agree. Where false creditors falsely appear to agree to a false agreement, the Board necessarily brings into play powers which it would know it did not possess were it not for the fraud. The Board's conciliation falls to the ground. Agreements so made must be set aside. (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) BHUPSINGH v. HIRAGIR. 1942 N. L J. 194.

-Ss. 12 (1) and 13-Agreement under S. 12 (1)—Decree on mortgage to be obtained in case of default-Proper remedy open to mortgagee.

An agreement drawn up ur der S. 12 (1) of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act which provided that if there was a default in the payments as set out the creditor had the full right to recover the amount due by obtaining a decree on the mort-gage must be enforced by having resort to S 13 of the Act (Gruer, J.) ATMARAM SAO v. SHEO-FRASAD. 1942 N.L.J. 18.

-S. 12 (2)—Agreement — Registration— Effect.

An agreement on registration takes effect from the date of registration as if it were a decree of a Civil Court under S. 12 (2) of the C. P. Debt Concilitation Act, and is executable as a decree. (Pollock. J.) KHUSHALCHAND v. HARI. I L.R. (1943) Nag. 696=215 I.C. 106=1943 N.L.J. 467 = A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 324.

-Ss. 12 (2) and 13 (4)—"Decree"—Legal fiction.

The "decree" in S. 12 (2) of the Central Provinces and Berar Debt Conciliation Act is different from the "decree" in S. 13 (4) of the Act. These are "decrees" by a fiction introduced in the Act. Where the analogy arises by a legal fiction only it must be limited to the purposes indicated by the context and cannot be given a larger effect. (Rose. J) RATANSINGH v. RAGHURAJ SINGH 1945 N.L. the whole of the seded down debt. (Binney, F.C.) BALDEO & LAUTA BAL. 1943 N.L.J. 443. -S. 12-B -Applicability-Instalment falling due on 1 -4-39.

S. 12-B, C.P. Debt Conciliation Act applies to all agreements registered on or after 1-4-33 and to that extent it is retrospective. But there is nothing in the section to indicate that it is applicable to instalments which fell due prior to the Act coming into force Hence an instalment which fell due on 1-4-39 would not be post-poned by that section. (Binney, F.C.) GAJANAN v. RAMGOPAL. 1942 N.L. J. 384.

-S. 12-B-Retrospective effect.

S. 12-B of the C.P Debt Conciliation Act does not apply to an instalment which fell due before it became law. (Binney, F.C.) BAJIRAO v. GULAB MADHO. 1944 N.L.J. 263.

-S. 13—Application for recovery of instalment made before default occurred-If can be proceeded with when default occurs.

No doubt an application for the recovery of an instalment under S. 13 of the C.P. Debt Conciliation Act can only be made after the default has occurred. But if the Revenue Officer does not reject an application made before the default has occurred but keeps it pending, there is no reason why he should not proceed with it when the default does occur. (Binney, F.C.) Bajirao v. Gulab ladho. 1944 N.L J. 263.

S 13-Application under - Suspension-Proceedings after expiry of period of-Fresh application, if necessory.

Under S. 13 of the C.P. Debt Conciliation Act, when an instalment is not paid, the amount is recoverable as an arrear of land revenue. Where in respect of an instalment which fell due on 1-4-39 an application was duly made within time but the instalment was suspended till 1-4-40, after that date proceedings to recover the instalment due can be continued without a fresh application. (Binney, F.C.) GAJANAN v. RAMGOPAL. 1942 N.L. J. 384.

-Ss. 13 and 12-Assignee of creditor-Right to recover instalments.

In the absence of any specific provision in the C.P. Debt Conciliation Act, excluding an assignee or legal representative of the creditor from the advantages of the procedure provided in sub-S. (1) of S. 13 of the Act, there is no reason for holding that the word 'creditor' in S. 13 is to be construed in the narrow sense of the definition contained in sub-S. (2) (d), having regard to the proviso to that section or as being limited to an actual signatory to the agreement under S. 12 of the Act. Hence it is open to an assignee of a creditor to apply for the recovery of arrears of instalments. (Burton, F.C.) GOPAL v. MADHAO. instalments. (Ba 1941 N.L.J. 317.

An order permitting a debtor to deposit the amount due in proceedings under S. 13 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act is one passed under S. 13 of the Act and cannot be construed to be one passed under C. P. Land Revenue Act. Commissioner has no jurisdiction to interfere with such an order of the Deputy Commissioner. (Binney, F.C.) DAYALDAS v. RAMRAO. 1942 N. L.J. 68.

-S 13--Recovery of instalments after death of debtor-Proper procedure.

Proceedings can be taken against the property of a deceased debtor for the recovery of instal-ments of a conclusted debt provided the heirs are brought on record. Though it is preferable to follow the procedure laid down in C. P. Code. in bringing the heirs on record, subsequent proceedings are not void when notices to pay the instalments due were served on all the heirs. (Binney, F.C.) KAMRAO v. SITARAM. 1944 N.L.J.

---S. 13-Recovery proceedings-Death of defaulter-Legal representatives not brought on record—Validity of sale—Berar Land Revenue Code, Ss. 156 and 159.

The death of the defaulter does not prevent the recovery of amounts due under S. 13 (1) of the Debt Conciliation Act and the proper course in such a case is to bring the names of the legal representatives of the deceased debtor on record and to proceed with the recovery of the amount in default. It does not however follow that omission to bring the legal representative on the record vitiates the sale. As the Berar Land Revenue Code does not require a notice to be issued to the defaulter in recovery proceedings, it is beyond doubt that the omission does not deprive the Tahsildar of jurisdiction to hold the sale. It is then no more than a material irregularity. The confirming officer will not exercise his discretion to set aside the sale under S. 159 of the Berar Land Revenue Code on an application by a creditor who was primarily responsible for the omission to bring the legal heir on record, when there is no indication that the legal representatives of the defaulter were in any way prejudiced by the omission. (Binney, F.C.) GULABCHAND V. NARAYANDAS. 1944 N.L.J. 238.

-S. 13—Sale in proceeding to recover instalment-Creditor purchasing property-Whether can set off subsequent instlament which had fallen due.

A creditor purchasing the property in a proceeding to recover an instalment payable under an agreement made before a Debt Conciliation Board, can set off against the purchase money not only that instalment but also an instalment which had subsequently fallen due, although an application for the subsequent instalment is time barred at the time when the set off is allowed. As the amount of the subsequent instalment is an amount payable under the agreement and charged on the Sale proceeds by S. 13 (2) (b) of the Act, it is justifiable to look upon it as recoverable in the proceeding if there is no prior charge under S. 13 (2) (a). The first clause of S. 13 of the C.P. -S. 13 (1)—Recovery of dues as arrear of land revenue-Amount due disputed-Duty of revenue officer to determine amount.

In proceedings for the recovery of private dues recoverable as arrears of land revenue, the first thing for a revenue officer to do is to determine what, if anything is due. If the amount due is disputed, the revenue officer must by summary enquiry fix the sum and then proceed to recover it in the ordinary way. (Rau, F.C.) RAMDULARI BAI v. GANESHRAM. 1945 N. L.J. 525.

-S. 15-Grant of certificate-Power of Board.

Under S. 15 of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act there is no limitation on the power of the Board to grant a certificate if a fair offer is refused during the hearing. Once a certificate has been properly issued during the hearing, a duty is cast on the Courts not to allow costs of the suit to enforce the claim and it is immaterial whether efforts at amicable settlement are eventually successful or not, and whether the application was or was not dismissed because settlement was not arrived at. -S. 15—Issue of certificate—Jurisdiction of Board.

Under S. 15 (1) of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act, all that the Debt Conciliation Board is concerned with is the issue of a certificate after consideration of the conduct of the creditor. The Board cannot be expected to take into consideration whether the conditions implied by the granting of a certificate can in fact be implemented in ing of a certificate can in fact to emplemented in the Civil Court or no. If it happens that they cannot be implemented, that in no way derogates from the jurisdiction of a Debt Conciliation Board to issue such a certificate. (Grille, C.J. and Bose, J.) Keshrichand v. awarding interest.

S. 15 (2) of the C. P. Debt Conciliation Act does not prevent the Court from allowing interest and the section is so framed as to enable the Court to allow interest should it think proper. On the other hand, it does not fetter the discretion which S. 34, C. P. Code, confers except as to rate. When exercising its discretion the Court should act in such a way as not to frustrate the general intention of the Debt Conciliation Act and should not give an unreasonable creditor an advantage over the reasonable one. S. 15 (3)—Vaiver of protection by debtor

-Permissibility.

A debtor ca mot waive the protection accorded to him by S. 15 (3) of the C. P. Debt Concilition Act, as this provision protects also the rights of the creditors in respect of the property incorporated in the agreement under S 12 of that Act. (Niyogi, J.) -Ss. 16 and 8 (2)-Order of discharge of debt by Board-Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

If the conditions in S. 8 (1) of the C P. Debt Conciliation Act are fulfilled and a statement of debts is not submitted to the Board in compliance with sub-S. (1), the debt shall be deemed to be duly discharged for all purposes and all occasions. The order of discharge is automatic and the Civil Courts have jurisdiction to decide whether the conditions have been fulfilled which will bring into operation S. 8 (2). The mere fact that the Board rejected an application for review of its order of discharge refusing to reconsider the matter, will not be a bar for consideration of the matter by the Civil Court. (Grille, C.J. and Sen, J.) KALVANSING v. HORILAL, I.L.R. (1945) Nag. 260=1944 N.L.J. 220=A.I.R. 1944 Nag 235.

-S. 23 - Application by plaintiff for inclusion of debt due to him-Denial of debt by defendant-Dismissal of defendant's application-Plaintiff's right to exclusion of period during which his application was pending.

The defendant applied to a Debt Conciliation Board for conciliation of his debts but did not include the plaintiff's debt. The plaintiff made an application for its inclusion but the defendant denied the debt. The Board kept the plaintiff's application pending and asked the defendant to produce some proof of the fraud which he alleged. The defendant's application was even tually dismissed as there could be no conciliation of debts to the extent of 40 per cent.

Held, that the plaintiff's debt was the subject of proceedings which were within the scope of the Act and consequently the plaintiff was entitled to exclude the period during which his application for inclusion of his debt was pending before the Board in virtue of S 23 of the Act for purposes of limitation. CENTRAL PROVINCES AND BERAR EXCISE ACT (II OF 1915), S. 34 and Cr. P. Code, S. 162-Excise Sub-Inspector obtaining signatures of witnesses on their statements during investigation-Evidence of such witnesses-If admissible.

It is clear from the C. P. Excise Act that an Excise Sub-Inspector exercises in investigation the powers conferred on an officer in charge of a police station by Chap. XIV, Cr. P. Code, as regards offences under S. 34 of the Act. If such Sub-Inspector in the course of investigation obtains the signatures of certain persons to certain statements made by them and reduced into writing, in contravention of S. 162, Cr. P. Code, the evidence of such witnesses is inadmissible. (Hemeon, J.) BHIKARILAL v. EMPEROR. 1945 N.L.J 303.

-Ss. 34(a) and 37 and Rr. 84 (7) and 498-Rules regarding collection of a fee or the necessity of licence in respect of purchase or indent of foreign liquor-If ultra vires.

Before Government can make rules for licence or collect fees in respect of purchase or indent of foreign liquor, it must be empowered to do so under the Act. The C. P. Excise Act (as distinct from the rules) nowhere authorises the collection of a fee or requires the possession of a licence in respect of the purchase of or indent of liquor. The Act nowhere prohibits or regulates or restricts the purchase or indent of liquor, whether foreign or otherwise. Such restrictions or prohibitions cannot be imposed by the rules. Rr. 84 (7) and 498 are consequently ultra vires in so far as they attempt to regulate the purchase or indent of liquor. A violation of such rules cannot be punished as offences under the Act. CENTRAL PROVINCES LAND ALIEN-ATION ACT (II OF 1916), Ss. 3, 9 and 10— Mortgage by conditional sale—Mortgagor declared member of aboriginal tribe by notification after its execution—Mortgagee, if entitled to foreclosure decree.

A nonfication under S. 3 of the C. P. Land Act determines what bodies of Alienation persons shall be deemed aboriginal tribes for the purposes of the Act, and if a person falls within this class then a mortgage made by him shall be deemed to have been made as a member of an aboriginal tribe irrespective of the date of execution, whether prior or subsequent to the issue of a notification. The crucial date is not the date of the execution of the mortgage but the date on which the question comes to be determined whether a mortgagor is a member of an aboriginal tribe. If a mortgage by conditional sale is executed by a member of an aboriginal tribe after the commencement of the Act on 15th April, 1917, the condition is null and void under S. 10 of the Act. If it is executed before the commencement of the Act, the Court trying the suit for the enforcement of the condition intended to operate, by way of conditional sale is bound under S. 9 (3) of the Act to refer the case to the Deputy Commissioner with a view to the exercise of the power conferred by S. 9 (2). Where a mortgage was executed prior to the passing of the C.P. Land Alienation Act and subsequently it was notified under the Act that the tribe to which the mortgagor belonged was an aboriginal tribe, S. 9 of the Act could not affect the mortgage or any decree passed in respect of it because, it was not a mortgage made by a member of an aboriginal tribe after the commencement of the Act which alone are affected by the Act. The commencement of the Act in S. 9 refers to the date promulgated under S, I (3). (Clarke. I) JANKILAL v. THE D. C. BILASPUR. IL R. # C.P. LAND REVENUE ACT (1917), S. 2.

S. 65-A and subsequent removal—Effect—Right of other members.

A lease was originally granted to one B, by way of short terminal leases; the defendants possessed several lands within the ambit of the original grant which was enjoyed in 1888 by three generations. It was found that the defendants constituted with B, a joint Mitakshara Hindu family. Protection was given under S. 65-A of the C. P. Land Revenue Act in 1891, but this was removed in 1914.

Held, (1) that the grant was a permanent grant, and the defendants were clearly entitled to an interest in the grant which was originally made to the ancestor of B; (2) that the only result of the application of S. 65-A, C. P. Land Revenue Act was to prevent the defendants from asserting their rights; the rights were merely dormant but not extinguished, and when the protection was removed the rights revived; that though an impartible estate could only be enjoyed by one person, it did not follow that it could not be joint family property; (3) that the removal of the protection under S. 65-A removed the bar imposed upon the other members of the family by the application of the section. ——Scope of the conclusive effect of revenue entries.

The conclusive effect of revenue entries should be restricted to the purposes of the C P. Land Revenue Act under which they are made. They should not lightly be allowed to destroy legal rights, and when such rights exist they should not be found against unless one is compelled so to do as the consequence of a conclusive presumption. S. 33-Right to appeal-Order acquitting patwari in proceedings commenced at the instance of tenants—Appeal by tenants—If competent.

S. 33 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act does not state who has the right of appeal. Tenants at whose instance proceedings on charges of bribery and corruption were commenced against a patwari, have no right of appeal against an order acquitting him. Such proceedings are of a quasi-criminal nature, and the rules of criminal law which do not allow a private complainant to appeal against an order if acquittal serve as a guide in such matters. Where a sale is confirmed before the expiry of 30 days from date of sale, it is an illegality which cannot be cured merely by the absence of any objection or the subsequent expiry of 30 days. It must be dealt with under the powers conferred by S. 39 of C. P. Land Revenue Act. (Burton, F.C.) DAULAT DEGMAN & RAMESHWAR DILSUKH MARWADI 1941 N.L J. 109.

-Ss. 39 and 40-Powers of review and revision-Scope and extent-Order rejecting review application—Revision.

Although the powers of review and of revision under C.P. Land Revenue Act are wide, they must nevertheless be exercised according to legal principles. Ordinarily Revenue Courts should apply the principles embodied in 0.47, R. I, C.P.Code, in considering review applications, though there may be special circumstances which justify going beyond these principles. Revisional power can be exercised to consider legality or propriety of an order. At the same time, these powers should not be used to provide an alternative to a remedy denied by law. Where there is no appeal or where the limitation allowed for an appeal has expired, interference in revision is rarely justifiable unless it is to set right a serious misuse of jurisdiction. Under C.P. Code, it is accepted law that there can be no revision of the rejection of a review application as it would only be an erroneous exercise of discretion. On the revenue side it would perhaps be justifiable to interfere with the rejection of a review application on the ground of impropriety. (Binney, F.C.) SOBHARAM V. ITWARI. 1943 N.L.J. 258.

-S. 39-Revision-Time limit-Considerations.

The law prescribes no limitation for revision application. An applicant for revision must show due diligence. When a remedy by way of appeal has been provided and the litig int has not availed himself of that remedy, it is clearly wrong in a case between parties to entertain a revision application after the expiry of the period prescribed for the appeal and to use revisional powers to give the litigant an alternative to the remedy which he has lost by his own laches. A revision after limitation of the appeal could only be justified if made for the same reasons as would justify an extension of time for filing the appeal under S. 5, Limitation Act. (Binney, F C.SHRIKRISHNA NILAKANTH v. KARNOO DASROO. 1943 N.L.J. 111.

of any Subordinate Revenue Officer and this power is not restricted to proceedings under the Land Revenue Act and can be used to revise all orders passed by Revenue Officers whether under the Land Revenue Act or not. The existence of an alternative remedy does dot exclude revisional jurisdiction. An order of ejectment under S. 24 (3) of the Tenancy Act could be revised by virtue of the powers conferred by S. 39 of the C.P. Land Revenue Act read with S. 107 (1) of the C. P. followed.

Where a deity is recorded as the proprietor and the sarberakar dies though there is no change in the proprietary right, there is a change in the description of the proprietor and a subsidiary change of this nature must be recorded in the revenue records. Proceedings under S. 149 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act can only be initiated when there has been a change of the possession recorded in the register of proprietary mutations. If there has been a transfer of possession, the Thasildar has to decide whether the person who has entered into possession is in 'lawful possession'. If he finds that no one can be said to have entered into lawful possession, he has to report to the Subdivisional Officer who decided which person is best entitled to the property and who can, if necessary, oust a person who has obtained unlawful possession. But sub-Ss. (2) and (3) cannot be used independently of sub-S. (1) to remove a recorded proprietor whose title has been found to be defective but who has not lost possession. (Binney, F.C.) ABDUI. The Government of India held certain land on behalf of the Secretary of State who had prescribed rules which covered the disposal of that particular kind of land. These rules are shown in Revenue Book Circular 17. The note to R. 8 makes it clear that the Government of India is not entitled to dispose of land as a revenue free holding unless the capitalized value of the land revenue has been paid to the Local Government. Where in such a case there is nothing to indicate that capitalized value was recovered from the purchaser, the Provincial Government's rights under S. 56. C. P. Land Revenue Act to levy land revenue is not affected by the transfer even though the transfer mentioned that it was tree from all encumbrances. (Binney, F.C.) Land Revenue Act which empowers settlement officers to assess land revenue on lands which are liable to assessment but have not been assessed, cannot be invoked to impose assessment on lands in a settled mahal. The assessment on the mahal is fixed for the period of settlement. It is only under the second proviso to S. 88 (1) that assessment can be revised. (Binney, F.C.) -Ss. 109 and 117-Thekadari rights acquired out of joint family funds—Conferral of protected status on head of family—If affects rights

If the thekadari right in a village is acquired by the joint family out of joint family funds, it will be joint family property, and a member of that family would be entitled to a share in the theka and to be maintained out of its income. The conferral of the protected status on the head of the family does not affect the rights of the members in the theka. The incidents of a protected headman are the same as those of a protected thekadar. The absence of a corresponding proviso in S. 117 as it is in S. 109 (1) of the C.P. Land Revenue Act, does not in any way affect the pre-existing right which the members of the family have in the theka subject to such statutory modification as may have been introduced by the conferral of that status. (Sen, J.) NARAYANPRASAD v. LAXMANPRASAD. 1945 N.L. J. 291.

S. 109, Proviso (b) (ii)—Succession to thekadar—Son of predeceased son and elder of surviving sons—Rule of primogeniture.

As between the son of a predeceased son and elder of the surviving sons of a deceased thekadar the latter is entitled to succeed. Proviso (b) (ii) to S. 109 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act does apply the rule of primogeniture but only among persons in the same degree of relationship to the deceased thekadir. (Binney, F.C.) SAHEBLAL V. TARACHAND. 1943 N.L.J. 358.

-S. 112-Rights of co-sharer in theka-If enforcible in Civil Court.

The right of a co-sharer is not restricted to an application under S. 112 of the Land Revenue Act. If he has a share in the theka or a right to be maintained out of its income, he is entitled to a share in the profits of the lease and can enforce his rights in a Civil Court in case of denial and the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is not barred. (Sen J.) NARAYANPRASAD v. LAXMANPRASAD. 1945 N.L.J. 291.

-S. 112—Scope.

S. 112. C.P. Land Revenue Act, is intended to be us d where the protected thekadar has failed to pay share of the profits to the other members of the family entitled to a share in the theka. -S. 126 - Accounts between lambardar and co-sharers-Tahsildar, whether can authenticate.

The Tahaildar has nothing to do with the accounts between the lambardar and the cosharers and is not in a position to authenticate them even if produced. S. 126 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act clearly refers to a statement of the Government account and the certificate of the Tahsildar is only conclusive as far as this account is concerned. (Binney, F. C.) -Ss. 138 and 128 (b) and (g)-Mortgaged share in village sold for arrears of land revenue due in respect of entire village—Proclamation issued under Form X—Purchaser, if gets property

Malguzari shares in a village, which were mortgaged, were attached and sold to recover arrears of land revenue due not merely in respect of the shares mortgaged but also of the other shares in the village. The attachment was made in Form V-A, and the proclamation was issued under Form X. The sale certificate did not say that the sale was tree of encumbrance. In a suit to enforce the mortgage, the contention of the auction-purchaser was that the revenue Sale in his favour passed the property free of encumbrance in view of Ss. 128 (b) and 138 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act. Overruling that contention,

Held, that as the mortgaged shares were sold to recever arrears of revenue payable not by the mortgagor alone but by other co-sharers as well, it was not open to the Revenue Officer to proceed under S. 128 (b) of the Act and that the sale could not, therefore, be brought under S. 138 of the Act. The sale was under S. 128 (g) and the property had to be proclaimed for sale in Form X in which case the purchaser took the property subject to encumbrances.

Held, further, that even if the procedure was faulty, that would not affect the rights of the parties, as the purchaser was fully aware from the recitals in the proclamation that the village shares were being sold subject to encumbrances, and he could not get, therefore, anything more than what was offered for sale and what he actually purchased (Grille, C.J. and Niyogi, J)

The Tahsildar was out on tour and the Naib Tahsildar adjourned the sale to another date. The Tahsildar held the sale on the adjour-

It is certainly desirable that the auction-purchaser should be given an opportunity of objecting before an order is passed under S. 145, C.P. LandRevenue Act, setting aside a sale. Notice however is not essential in law as the section contains nothing corresponding to the proviso of R. 92 (2) of O. 21, C.P. Code. (Binney, F.C.) UMABAI v. DHARAM NARAIN. 1943 N.L.J. 183.

Book Circular 11-15-Effect.

S. 145 of the C.P. Land Revenue Act lays down that the deposits may be made within 30 days from the date of the sale. The implication is that the deposits may be made within Court hours and there is nothing in the section which could possibly justify the refusal of an amount offered in Court hours but after the closing of the treasury to public transactions. That would be a sufficient compliance with the provisions of S. 145. Revenue Book Circular 11-15 does not affect the law on this subject. (Bunney, F.C.) MOOI CHAND v. MST. RADHABAI. 1942 N.L. Before the end of the auction, the Deputy Commissioner stayed the proceedings by an order which read as follows:-"Sale has been held but the bid has not been accepted. I stay proceedings at that stage. The bidders should be told so and be asked to appear on the 12th September 1941, on which date the sale will be continued further bids being invited. If he pays up the entire arrears on or before the 12th, the bid should be refused, if not the sale completed." The Tahsildar completed the sale by 1 p.m on the 12th. At 3 p.m., the defaulter brought the money and applied to the Deputy Commissioner that in view of his order the sale by the Tahsildar was without jurisdiction and that he should be allowed to deposit the full amount of arrears.

Held, that the Tahsildar was acting contrary to the direction of the Deputy Commissioner in completing the sale at a time when it was still possible for the defaulter to bring the money and that the sale was liable to be set asile.

faction of the confirming officer that he has sustained substantial injury by such irregularity or mistake. It is not open to the confirming officer or to the appellate Court to consider irregularities which have not been specified in the objection. It is doubtful whether attachment can really be considered as part of the publishing and conducting of a sale. In any case, by no stretch of imagination, can the failure to follow the proper procedure in attaching the property ten months before the sale be said to have caused substantial injury to the objector. sale-Sale if can be impugned.

There is no justification for holding that a sale by public auction properly advertised is void because the officer signing the proclamation had not at the time of the issue of the proclamation authority to insert a condition that it was subject to encumbrances, which condition was subsequently approved by the proper officer prior to the actual date of sale. (Binney, F.C.) Sadashiv v. P. P. DEO. 1942 N.L.J. 70.

-Ss. 147 and 141 (3)—Postponement of sale-Absence of advertisement-Legality.

Postponement of sale from time to time under S. 141 (3) of the C. P. Land Revenue Act is permitted in order to give an opportunity for higher bids, but the power of postponement is specifically restricted by S. 147, which must be considered to be mandatory. Where on the day fixed there were no bidders and it is adjourned to another day and again adjourned to a date a month hence owing to want of bidders, it is a case of postponement and not of continuing sale and if it is held without advertisement it is without jurisdiction. -S. 151-Order of Collector during execution of Civil Court decree-Appeal.

S. 151 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act contemplates claims to pre-emption not only "under this Act", but also in connection with the execution of decrees of a Civil Court, And under S. 33 of that Act "an appeal shall lie from every original order under this Act or the rules made there-under." Reading the two together it is clear that appeals lie as provided by the Land Revenue Act in regard to claims for pre-emption made in sales conducted "under this Act," and under the rules made under S. 68, C.P. Code, in regard to claims made in "the execution of a decree of a Civil Court." (P. S. Rau, F.C.) RAGHUNANDANLAL v. GANGAPRASAD. 1945 N.L J 11.

-S. 151—Right to apply for pre-emption— Co-sharer not recorded at time of sale.

Under S. 151 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act, only a recorded co-sharer at the date of sale is qualified to apply for pre-emption. It is not sufficient that he is a co-sharer at the time of the sale and gets himself recorded as a co-sharer subsequently. The decisive date under the section is the date on which the property is knocked down, and not the date of the confirmation of sale. (P. S. Rau. F.C.) RAGHUNANDANLAL v. GANGAPRASAD. 1945 N.L.J. 11.

-If can be pre-empted.
S. 151, C. P. Land Revenue Act, gives privileges to a certain class of persons and it must be construed strictly. It does not apply at all to sales made by Courts. A sale by the Collector in compliance with the statement forwarded to him under S. 60 of Provincial Insolvency Act is not one to which S. 151 of the C.P. Land Revenue Act would apply. Hence pre-emption could not be allowed in respect of such a sale. (Binney, F. C.) RAMLAL v. GULAB CHAND. 1941 N.L.J. 651.

Relief of Indebtedness Act, that recoveries are made on behalf of individuals. There is nothing objectionable in permitting such individuals, if the property is purchased by them, to set off the amount due to them in the proceedings. Hence a superior prothem in the proceedings. The term "land revenue" in S. 157 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act includes (or may include) a proportion of the assessment on Sir land, and it cannot, therefore, be held that under the section no part of such assessment is recoverable from a co-sharer. Under S. 157 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act, no appeal lies from an order of the Deputy Commissioner holding that an arrear is or is not due. The person affected by the order can only file a declaratory suit in a Civil Court. But once the Deputy Commissioner proceeds to recover the dues as arrears of land revenue, the orders he passes in those proceedings such as confirmation of sales, etc., would be subject to appeals and revisions as laid down in the Act. S, 157 (3)—Defaulter not given opportunity to show cause—Order, if void.

S. 157 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act deals with recovery on behalf or the sadar-lambardar (or whoever has paid the land revenue) "as if it were" an arrear of land revenue due from a proprietor or malik makbuza for repayment to him. The Revenue Officer cannot "satisfy himself that the amount claimed, or any part thereof is due" and certify this—as he can, under the S. 126, for land revenue due to Government—unless the alleged defaulter has been given an opportunity to show cause. The mandatory provision in sub-S. (3) is therefore essential, and the failure to comply with this provision constitutes an illegality and renders the order null and void and without jurisdiction. (Ramsden, F.C.) SARUBAI v. RAMPRASAD. 1945 N.L.J. 317.
——Ss. 157 (4) and 39—Order illegal—Revi-

S. 157 (4) of the C. P. Land Revenue Act does not specifically bar revision. When the order is illegal or clearly improper, interference in revision under S. 39 is justified. But if the order is legal and is based on correct principles but the finding is disputed in fact or a set off is claimed, then no revenue Court should interfere. (Ramsden, F.C.) JANARDHAN v. DURGA PRASAD. 1945 N.L., J. 385.

S. 157 (4)—Order passed without giving opportunity to defaulter under sub-S. (3)—

Appeal, if barred.
S. 157 (4) of the C. P. Land Revenue Act bars an appeal "from an order under this section." It means that if the Tahsildar has complied with

But it the Tahsildar's order is found to be illegal and without jurisdiction (e.g.,) as when he passes the order wit iont giving the defaulter an opportunity to show cause under sub-S. (3), it cannot be considered as "an order under this section" but only one purporting to be so. In such a case, an appeal is not barred by sub-S. (4). (Ramsden, F.C.) SARUBAI V. S. 188 and C. P. Tenancy Act (I of 1920), Ss. 2 (7) and 49-Lambardar-Right to recover ren! -Ex proprietary occupancy tenant.

The lambarday is not entitled to collect the rent of every tenant in the village irrespective of the fact whether he holds from the proprietary body as such or no. To clothe him with that power which is one of the essential appurtenances of landlordship would be to clothe him with the power to exercise the other rights of the landlord as well (e.g., to eject the tenant for nonpayment of rent and then appropriate the holding for the use of the proprietary body and he would be able to object to an unauthorised transfer, both of which functions must by their very nature belong to the landlord from whom the tenant admittedly holds. S. 188 (2) (d) C. P. Land Revenue Act, was not intended to have this effect and did not in fact have this effect. The Act makes the lambardar (in respect of sir lands exclusively held) the landlord only in respect of such land as the body of proprietors whom he represents is the landlord of. (Grille, Niyogi and Gruer II., Stone, C.I. and Rose, I. dissenting.) GOPAL v. SHAMRAO. I.L.R (1941) Nag. 54-192 I.C. 472-13 R.N. 248-1941 N.L.J. 56=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 21 (F.B.).

-S. 188—Lambardar's liability to account— Nature and extent-Joint management with a cosharer-Liability, how affected.

The lambardar is under S. 188, C. P. Land Revenue Act, under a statutory liability to account. He is the person entitled and bound to recover the village profits and he is bound to account for them to his co-sharers. If he allows another person to recovr some portion of the profits, then that person must be regarded as his agent and that in no way relieves the lambardar of his responsibility. (Stone, C. J. and Bose, J.) RADHIKA PRASAD v. NANDKUMAR. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 63=1942 N.L.J. 355=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 7.

-S. 188-Village profits-Right to interest on-Plea of non-realisation of rent-Onus.

Interest can be allowed on village profits which are unreasonably withheld. Where parties are members of the same family and one or other is associated in the management of the property it is not right to allow interest until such time as relations became strained and one side demanded profits and interest from the other. When the lambardar pleads non-realisation of certain rents, the onus is on him to prove that they were not in fact realised. (Stone, C. J. and Bose, J.) RADHIKA PRASAD v. NANDKUMAR. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 63=1942 N.L.J. 355=A.I.R. 1944 Nag.

sum due under S. 83 to superior proprietor—If liable to dismissal.

The sum payable by the lambardar as inferior proprietor under S. 83 (2) and (3) of the C. P. Land Revenue Act to the superior proprietor is not land revenue. Failure to pay it therefore does not bring the lambardar within the mischief of S. 188 (1) (a) of the Act. (Rau, F. Surjilal v. Narayanlal. 1945 N.L.J. 194.

-S. 188 (2)—Calculation of profits payable to co-sharers-Rent of ex-proprietary holding-

If to be taken into account.

When a person in exclusive ownership of sir land transfers it to another, he becomes the tenant of his vendee and not of the entire proprietary body and pays the rent only to the wendee. Hence the rent fixed for such a holding has to be taken into account in calculating the village profits payable to the co-sharers. (Pollock, J.) DAU PARMANAND v. DAU KANHAIYA-LAL. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 599=1942 N.L.J. 475 =202 I.C. 427=15 R.N. 81=A.I.R. 1943 Nag.

S. 188 (2) and C. P. Tenancy Act, S. 49 -Lambardar's right to recover rent from exproprietary tenant,

S. 188 (2) of the C. P. Land Revenue Act says that the Lambardar should be deemed to be the landlord of the mahal or patti to which he is appointed. If, therefore, a co-sharer transfers his share in the village without reserving cultivating rights in his Sir land and becomes an exproprietary tenant thereof, the Lambardar of the village, and not his transferee, is entitled to collect the rent of the land from him. (Rau, F. C.) NARAYAN v. REWATIRAMAN. 1945 N.L.J. 102.

-S. 188 (2)—Receiver appointed on proprietor's insolvency - Right to sue for rent of exproprietary occupancy holding.

C. P. LAND REVENUE ACT (1917), S. 188. | C. P. LAND REVENUE ACT (1917), S. 196.

Where a proprietor of a village is adjudicated insolvent and the proprietary interest in the Sir land held by him vests in the Insolvency Court, the receiver who is appointed by that Court derives his authority from that Court to perform the duties of a proprietor including that of recovering rent. As the ex-proprietary occupancy land is appurtenant to the village which is exclusively vested in the Insolvency Court, that Court or its nominee the receiver, is alone entitled to sue for the recovery of rents of the ex-proprietary occupancy land to the exclusion of the lambardar. (Niyogi, J.) KANHAIYALAL v. LILA-DHAR RAO, I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 387=208 I.C. 601=16 R.N. 96=1943 N.L.J. 374=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 269.

S. 188 (2) (c)-Lambardar failing to render accounts-If liable to dismissal.

A lambardar who has failed to render accounts of the village profits and who was not even maintaining them, is liable to be dismissed under S. 1'8 (2) (c) of the C. P. Land Revenue Act. (Rau, F.C.) SURJILAL v. NARAYANLAL, 1945 N.L.J. 194.

A mukaddam has the power to dimiss at will a gumastha appointed by him. All that is necessary is that he should inform the Tahsildar of the dismissal and obtain his approval of the new agent whom he wishes to appoint. (Binney, F.C.) MOTILALJI v. VITTOBA. 1943 N.L.J. 186.

S. 192 (1)—Order fixing remuneration under-When takes effect-Retrospective operation in respect of suit for rendition of account.

An order fixing the remuneration of a lambardar under S. 192 (1), C. P. Land Revenue Act relates back to the date of the appointment as it is an order which ought to have been passed on that date. Hence though a suit for rendition of accounts is filed before the date of the order, it could be given retrospective effect and the amount due as remuneration can be set off as against the profits found due. (Niyogi, J.) VITHAL v. JAGANNATH. 1942 N.L. J. 30.

- S. 192 (2)-Mukaddam-Calculation of remuneration of.

Under S. 192 (2) of the C. P. Land Revenue Act the mukaddam is entitled to a percentage of the land revenue payable by the lambardar. The malik makhuza revenue is included in this unless there has been a notification under the proviso to S. 123 as to payment to Government direct. Proviso (ii) to S. 192 (1) does not qualify proviso (1) to S. 192 (2). It only specifies that the lambardar cannot recover anything from a malik makhuza. (Binney F C.) OBHILAL CHUNNILAL v. For each occasion (e.g.) each season that the landlord contrawenes each season that the faintief Contravenes each separate rule or custom, the maximum fine which can be imposed under the section is Rs. 200. This does not, however, apply to cases under S. 88 of the Tenancy Act. (Ramsden, F.C.) Ranashah Bapu v. Saligram. 1945 N.L. J. 542.

The Deputy Commissioner can only prohibit the clearing of land for cultivation in the public interest or in the interest of persons who by virtue of any entry in the village administration paper prepared under S. 79 of the C. -S. 209—Removal of Wotandar Patel-Grounds-Loss of status as adopted son.

A watandari patel in the Central Provinces can ordinarily be removed only for breach of one of the conditions in the agreement in form F which the has to execute under R. 11 (8) of the rules framed under S. 227 of C. P. Land Revenue Act with reference so S. 209. There is no provision for his removal, on his losing his status, corresponding to S. 189 (1) (a) for removal of a lambardar or rule VIII under S. 190 for removal of a Mukaddam. Where, however, a person was appointed patel on the sole ground that he was the adopted son of the previous watandar and the appointment was made conditional on the adoption not being subsequently invalidated by the Civil Court, the status quo must, in justice equity, and good conscience be restored by his removal, if the Civil Court declares his adoption invalid. The prohibition in S. 212 (2) of the C. P. S. 222 of the C. P. Land Revenue Act debars the claim to the demarcated waste lands after the expiry of three years from date of demarcation. But the failure of a party to lodge his claim within three years specified in S. 222 cannot deprive him of his right to defend his possession. S. 222 is capable of being viewed either as laying down a rule of limitation or prescription. In the former case failure to assert a claim within the time specified would only har the remedy, while in the latter case it would destroy the right. The one important condition for the application of the rule of prescription is that the claimant must be out of

CENTRAL PROVINCES MONEY-LENDERS ACT (XIII OF 1934)—Applicability—

Onus-Money-lender, who is.

The C. P. Money-Lenders Act only applies to money-lenders and therefore before it can be applied it must be shown by the person seeking to apply it and take advantage of its provisions, that the plaintiff is a money-lender. The word 'regular' in the definition of a 'money-lender' shows that the plaintiff must have been in the habit of advancing loans to persons as a matter of regular business. An isolated act of moneylending does not constitute it a regular course of business. It is an act of business but not necessarily an act done in the regular course of busi-Dess. (Bose, J) Straram Shrawan v. Bajya Pannya. I.L.R. (1942) Nag 455=195 I.C. 463 =14 R.N. 49=1941 N.L.J. 194=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 177.

P. Money-Lenders Act and hence the Explanation to S. 7 caunot be relied on in such a case to cure the defects in the account (Pollock, J.) Gulabrao v, Mt. Basantibal 1942 N.L.J. 25.

-S. 7-Applicability-Loan in name of minor son of money-lender-leather money-lender, real lender-Failure to comply with statutory duties-

Where in a suit on a bond executed in favour of a minor filed in the name of the son by the father as the next friend, it is found that the father was for a long time past a money-lender, it is a fair inference that the real lender, the real carrier on of a business, is the next friend. Where such a lender has not complied with the statutory duties of maintaining account and furnishing copies of it to the borrower. S. 7 enables the Court to disallow the whole or any portion of interest found due and costs. (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) Sunderlat v. Sitaram Santa-RAM. 1942 N.L. J. 130.

-S. 7 (c)—Interest realised in respect of excluded period - Power of Court to order refund.

S. 7 of the C. P. Money-lenders Act does not enunciate rights of the parties but prescribes powers of the Courts. S.7 (c) authorises the Courts to disallow interest in respect of a certain period. It does not empower them to call upon the plaintiff to pay back to the defendant the amount of interest which the former received from the latter in respect of such excluded period. (Bobde, J.) Panduranc Ganpat v. Punjaji Shamji. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 241=215 I.C. 122=17 R.N. 41=1944 N L.J. 123=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 151.

-S. 11-Applicability-Final decree for sale in mortgage suit passed.

S. 11. of the C. P. money Lenders Act has no application once a final decree for sale on a mortgage has been passed because once such a decree is passed, the decree ceases to be a decree for payment of a sum of money, or for the payment of an amount found due. (Stone, C. J. and Bose J) Pratapsingh v. Gopaldas. 1942 N. L.J. 15ó.

----S. 11-Application under-Forum.

The proper Court for exercising powers under S. 11 of the C. P. Money-Lenders Act is the decree Court and not the executing Court. (Stone, C.J. and Clarke, J.) HARI GOVIND v. INDIAN C. P. MONEY LENDERS ACT (1934), C. P. MUNICIPALITIES ACT 1922) S. 11.

-S. 11-Grant of instalment-Powers of executing Court.

The word "Court" used in S. 11 of the C.P. Money-Lenders Act has a restricted meaning. It refers to the Court which passed the decree and not to the Court to which the decree is transferred for execution. The latter Court has therefore no power to direct payment of the decretal amount by instalments under that section. (Grille, C. J., Niyogi and Sen, JJ.) BILL-MORIA v. CENTRAL BANK OF INDIA, LTD., I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 1=214 I.C. 130=17 R.N. 27=1943 N.L. J. 596=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 340 (F.B.) cing money for agricultural operations.

S. 13, C.P. Money-Lenders Act applies only to proprietors who make advances only to their ten-ants. Where plaintiff describing himself as a money-lender sues to recover money advanced for agricultural purposes, S. 13 does not apply, and he is not entitled to interest claimed where the has admittedly not complied with the provisions of Cl. The plain and natural meaning of Rr. 9 (a) and 12 (a) of the Rules and bye-laws framed by the Local Government for the assessment of conservancy and water rates is that when a portion of the same building or a range of buildings is occupied separately by a family having a separate source of income that portion should be deemed to be an independent and separate building notwithstanding that the portion forms an integral part of a larger structure. The residential quarters attached to a police station can be assessed separately as if they are distinct and independent buildings. (Niyogi, J.) Deputy Commissioner, Nagrur v. Municipal Committee

-S. 32 (2), Proviso-Such other day-Construction-If can mean the same day.

The words 'such other day' in the proviso to Sub-S. (2) to S. 32 of the C. P. Municipalities Act cannot mean the 'same day'. The word other is used in contrast to the same day-when the statute expressly uses the word 'other' it must, by necessary implication, exclude that day which is not other day. Hence an adjournment of a meeting to some later hour of the same day would not be in accordance with law and any business transacted by the meeting would not be at a properly constituted meeting. (Niyogi, I.) NOTIFIED AREA COMMITTEE, KOTA v. GOKUL BHAL 1942 N.L.J. 329.

S. 48 (2) -Applicability-Claim for refund of tax as illegally levied-I'ax purporting to be levied under powers conferred by Act.

If the tax purports to be levied in virtue of powers conterred by the C. P. Municipalities Act, the levy of the tax even though illegal is something purporting to be done under the Act, and S. 48 (2) of the Act applies to a claim for refund of the tax. S. 48 cannot be confined to torts. (Digby, I.) BHAGWANDAS V. MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, YEOFMAL. 1945 N.L.J. 305=A.I. R. 1945 Nag. 197.

S. 48 (2)—Applicability—Disconnection of water supply—If continuing wrong—Suit to direct reconnection-Limitation.

Under the C. P. Municipal Act, the Municipal Committee is under no statutory duty to provide or supply water to a private house. Hence where they disconnect a private waterpipe which they in their discretion had formerly allowed the doctrine of continuing wrong giving rise to a cause of action from day to day can have no application. -S. 66 (1) (c) - Bicycle not kept though used within limits of Municipality-Liability to be taxed.

A bicycle not kept within the limits of the C. P. Municipality though used within such limits is not hable to be taxed because the tax on bicycles can only be levied under S. 66 (1) of the C. P. Municipalities Act on bicycles kept within the limits of the Municipality and no question of tax could arise in such a case. (Bose, J.) Shedicharanlate. The Secretary, M. C. Mandla.

-(as applied to Berar), S. 66 (1) (0)-Abplicability - Goods in transit through municipality

In the case of an oction tax goods subject to the tax must be those brought within the limits of the Municipality for sale consumption or use within those limits. But that is not enacted in the case of a terminal tax under S. 66 (1) (0) of the C. P. Municipalities Act, as applied to Berar, where "import" or "export" is the sole requisite for taxation. There is nothing in the phraseology of this section to suggest that it cannot apply to goods in transit through the Municipality, When goods are brought in from outside to Municipal limits simply for export from the terminus of those municipal limits they are, when so exported, exported from the limits of the municipality. The meaning of the word "export" or the word "exported" seems to be clear enough and in connection with a terminal tax they are related to traffic rather than origin. One has to look at the municipal limits from which the traffic proceeds, and not to the place where the goods were originally manufactured and from which they were first exported. (Digby. I.) A Commissioner is competent to hear an appeal from a Deputy Commissioner and he must be deemed to have the same powers as are conferred on a Deputy Commissioner under S. 83 of the C. P. The disregard of its bye-laws by a Municipal Committee in the preparation of the assessment lists will not render ultra vires its approval of the assessment lists. If it is not shown that as a result of this irregularity of procedure any injustice is suffered, and the tax itself is a legal tax, the Civil Court will not upset the assessment lists as a whole especially in view of the adequate provisions for remedies under the C. ____S. 84 (3) -Legality of assessment-Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The C. P. Municipalities Act as applied to Berar is selfcontained with respect to the remedies available to a person regarding assessment or levy or refusal to refund any tax under the Act. Ss. 83 to 85 provide such remedies and they clearly bar the jurisdiction of a Civil Court to go into these questions. If an assessee is of the view that the scavenging tax can be assessed on him only if service is rendered and that the Municipal Committee is neglecting the rendition of service his remedy is not to go to a Civil Court but to resort to the other ways of dealing with the Municipality which are provided for in the Act. The word 'area' occurring in proviso 1 to byelaw 10 framed under Ss. 97 and 98 of the Municipal Act has reference to the plot and not to that part of the Civil Station which is popularly known as a 'Bungalow area.' The plain meaning is that if the committee decides to give permission to erect Bungalows in plots less than one acre it should do so on the conditions laid down in that proviso, but 't makes it clear that the committee has no power to permit a building on any plot less than 50' x 50'. A resolution of the Sub-Committee declaring that bye-law 10 applied to the whole of the Civil Station area, and that proviso I to that bye-law would apply to the settlements other than the bungalow area was ultra vives and of no effect since its effect was to alter the bye-law. Under S. 133 (1) (e) of the C. P. It cannot be said that no flour mill can be of a nature which requires a licence under this section, but this can be said that if a flour mill is to be licensable under this section it must be one from which offensive or unwholesome smells, noises or smoke arises. Held, that the bye-law in no way went against the general law of contract or the provisions of the Sale of Goods Act, but on the contrary emphasized them. Where a loan was before the passing of the C.P. Reduction of Interest Act and the Act was withdrawn before the date of judgment in a suit on the loan, the Act cannot be applied. When the prohibition contained in the Act was withdrawn the original rights of the parties revived, and Courts cannot enforce prohibitions withdrawn and not in existence at the time of judgment. (Bose, J.) SITARAM SHRAWAN V. BAJYA PARNYA. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 458:=14 R.N. 49 = 195 I. C., 463=1941 N.L.J. 194:=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 177.

-Applicabitity-Preceedings pending at the time of expiry of the Act.

The effect of expiry of a statute is that it is no longer in force and in the absence of a provision to the contrary, no proceedings can be taken on it, and proceedings already commenced determine ipso facto. Hence an applicant for relief under C. P. Reduction of Interest Act though he had filed his application when the Act was in force could not be given any relief if the appli-cation is decided after the expiry of the Act (Bose, J.) JASRUP BAIJNATH v. SETH PARAMANAND DAS. I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 764=202 I.C. 465=15 R.N. 83=1942 N.L.J. 400=A.I.R. 1942 Nag. 122

-S. 3-Duty of court in administering the

The Court would not be justified in adjudicating on the rights of the parties on a hypothetical case simply because that would be favourable to the class of persons for whose relief the special law was enacted. The Courts are bound to apply the law to the facts admitted or proved and not assume or invent facts to give the benefit of the law to one or the other party. Where the plaintiff claimed compound interest and the rate at which he could get compound interest under the law was also favourable to the debtor, the Court awarded the kind of interest asked for by the creditor. (Niyogi, J) NARAYANDAS v. AMRUT WAMAN. 1941 N.L.J. 672.

——S. 3—Mortgage in satisfaction of prior debts—Suit on—Reopening of old transactions, if permissible.

Where a mortgage sued on was executed in satisfaction of certain prior debts evidenced by other deeds, the Court cannot go behind the suit mortgage and the C. P. Reduction of Interest Act could only be applied from the date of the debt in suit because that is the only liability now owing by the debtor to his creditors. (Bose, J.) PANDURANG v. RAM CHANDRA. 1941 N.L. J. 669. -S. 3 (1)—Nature of interest if intended to be affected by the Act-Agreement of parties, if the deciding factor.

The Reduction of Interest Act only contemplates a reduction in the rate of interest and not any change in the nature of interest. when parties have agreed to compound interest, the rate allowed in the shedule for compound interest can be awarded, while in cases where parties have agreed to simple interest, the rate allowed in the schedule for simple interest can be awarded, but it is not permissible to change from one side of the schedule to the other because one works out a higher amount than the other (Stone, C. J. and Clarke, J.) Abdul Hussain v. Ratanlal. 1942 N.L. J. 42. —S. 3 (1)—Nature of interest—Determining factor.

The nature of interest to be awarded under the C. P. Reduction of Interest Act is to be determined according to the agreement between the parties. Hence when parties have agreed to compound interest, th rate allowed in the schedule for compound interest can be awarded. (Grille, C. J and Puranik J) YADARAO v. RAM RAO. I.L.R. -S. 3 (1)—Time during which the Act applies.

It is clear from the wording of S. 3 (1) of the Reduction of Interest Act that the courts have no power to reduce interest beyond the period between 1st January, 1932 and the date fixed by notification (i.e.) 31st December, 1939. (Stone, C.J. and Bose, J.) DAU BALWANT SINGH 7.

The appellate Court can correct the decree and give relief only

- Ss. 2 (b) and 6 (3)—Mortgage by conditional sale if debt-Such mortgage, if ceases to be debt after preliminary decree for foreclosure— Notice staying proceedings after such decree—If may be issued by Debt Relief Court.

A mortgage by a conditional sale implies a debt. In such a mortgage, the absence of a personal covenant to pay does not absolve the mortgagor from the obligation to pay or prevent the mortgagee from enforcing the payment. A suit for foreclosure, is in substance one for recovery of money. This is manifestly because the debt subsists in the mortgage. A fortiori this principle must apply to those transactions of mortgage, such as lohan jahan which are not even couched in the form of a sale but are primarily those of mortgages which are covenanted to become irredeemable on default in payment on the stipulated date. A mortgage by conditional sale does rot cease to be a debt within the meaning of S. 2 (d) of the C. P. Relief of Indebtedness Act even after a preliminary decree for foreclosure is passed. A preliminary decree for foreclosure is primarily a decree for payment of money in terms of O. 34, R. 2, C. P. Code and it only seeks to give effect to the contractual obligation. The mere passing of such a decree does not interrupt the relation of debtor and creditor. So far as the judgment-debtor's liability to pay under the decree is concerned, there is no difference between a decree for sale and a decree for foreclosure. It follows therefore, that the Debt Relief Court has jurisdiction to issue a notice under S. 6 (3) of the Act to the Civil Court staying the proceedings for making the decree final, and the Civil Court cannot question the validity of that notice. 1942 N.L.J. 113 over-ruled. -S. 2 (d)—'Debt'—If includes claim on promissory note.

As a Provincial Legislature has no power to legislate with respect to a claim due on a promissory note, and as there is a general presumption that a Legislature does not intend to exceed its jurisdiction, the word "debt," though defined in large and comprehensive terms in S. 2 (d) of the Central Provinces and Berar Relief of Indehtedness Act, should be interpreted to exclude a claim due on a promissory note. Accordingly the Debt Relief Court has no power to determine a claim due on a promissory note and the juris-diction of the Civil Court is not ousted by any -Ss 5 (1) and 6-Suit for specific performance of contract to sell land-li can be stayed on defendant's application for relief under Relief of Indebtedness Act-Liability of defendant if a debt.

A relief for specific performance of a contract to sell is not in respect of any liability that can be said to be 'owing' and the prayer that a defendant may be compelled to execute a sale deed can in no sense of the term be described as a 'debt' within the meaning of the definition of the word in the Relief of Indebtedness Act. As a regards the alternative relief of compensation that is not yet 'owing'. It may never become due because the Court may decree specific performance itself. Hence there is no debt' in respect of that relief also. It follows that a suit for specific performance of an agreement to sell land cannot be staved under the Act because the defendant is not a 'debtor' under that Act. (Bose, J.) Debi Prasad v. Lakhmichand. 1942

——Ss. 6 and 23—Scope of Stry of pending proceedings in Civil Court—Necessity of notice under S. 6 (3)—Mere filing of application to Debt Relief Court, not sufficient.

Ss. 6 and 23 of C. P. and Berar Relief of Indebtedness Act appear to overlap somewhat and [ the two sections must be read so as to be consistent with each other. Pending proceedings in a Civil Court will not be stayed merely because an application has been made to a Debt Relief Court. There must be a notice issued to the Civil Court announcing the filing of such an application.

-S. 6 (1) and (3)—Notice of application under the Act served after sale-Stay of confirmation-Proceedings for confirmation if proceedings for the recovery of the debt.

A notice of application made under sub-S. (1) of S. 6 of the C. P. and Berar Relief of Indebtedness Act does not operate to stay the confirmation of a sale of the judgment-debtor's property in which the bid was accepted before the notice of the application was given for this reason that proceedings for confirmation cannot be said to be proceedings for the recovery of the debt. (Burton, F. C.) RAMCHANDRA v. PANDURANG. 1942 N.L.J. 59.

S. 6 (3)—Application under the Act by some only of defendants in mortgage suit—Stay as against them only-Legality.

Where only some of the defendants in a mortgage suit apply under S. 6 of the C. P. Relief of Indebtedness Act and a notice is sent to the Civil Court under S. 6 (3) of the Act, inasmuch as the mortgage is one and indivisible, the proceedings have to be stayed as against all the defendants and not as against the particular applicant defendants only. (Clarke I.) KULESHWAR PRASAD v. DWARKANATH I.L.R. (1942) Nag. 577=199 I.C. 453=14 R.N. 280=1941 N.L.J. 391=A.I. R. 1941 Nag. 268.

Act-Sale in spite of notice under S.6(3)-Validity.

S. 0 (3) of the C. P. Relief of Indebtedness Act is an enactment t at takes away jurisdiction from the ordinary Courts and must be construed strictly. The proceedings referred to therein must mean proceedings against a person who has applied to the Debt Relief Court as made clear in the amendment. Hence where an Insolvency Court sells the joint family property on the insolvency of the father, though the sons applied to the Debt Relief Court, and notice of it was given to the Insolvency Court, the latter Court was not obliged to stay proceedings and the sale in spite of the notice is quite valid. (Pollock, J.) VINAYAR v. DITONDO. 1942 N.L.J. 36.

----S 6 (3)-Duty of Civil Court on receipt of notice-Question as to maintainability of application for relief if can be gone into.

When notice is received by a Civil Court under S. 6 (3) of the C. P. Relief of Indebtedness Act the Civil Court must stay proceedings and leave it to the parties to raise the question whether the application lies to the Debt Relief Court. It is not for the Civil Court to decide whether the application lies and its jurisdiction to do so is barred by S 23 of that Act (Pallock, I.) GULAM ALT v. ABBUL HUSSAIN. 1942 N.L.J. 52.

-Ss. 6 (3) and 17--Jurisdiction of Debt Relief Courts in case of mortgage claims—Proceedings for passing final decree for foreclosure.

if can be stayed under S. 6 (3).

Reading the relevant provisions of the C. P. Relief of Indebtedness Act as a whole it is clear that mortgages were intended to fall within the purview of the Act and are intended to be included in the definition of 'debt'. But though such claims are so included, a distinction is drawn between the position before decree and after decree. S. 17 of the Act which deals with mortgage decrees, restricts the jurisdiction of the Debt Relief Court after decree in a mortgage suit to cases in which a decree for payment of money on the mortgage has been passed'. Hence, where a preliminary decree for foreclosure has been passed, there is no decree as contemplated by S. 17 and it follows that proceedings in the Civil Court for making such a decree final cannot be stayed under S. 6.3) of the C. P. Relief of Indebtedness Act. (Stone. C.J. and Bose, J.)

-S. 6 (3) -Notice received by Civil Court after transfer of decree to Collector for execution—Civil Court not intimating Collector—Sale held by Collector-If valid.

After a Civil Court which passed a decree sends it for execution to the Collector, the only channel through which the Debt Relief Court can act to stay the proceedings before the Collector is the Civil Court which passed the decree. If the Debt Relief Court sends a notice under S. 6 (3) of the Relief of Indebtedness Act to the Civil Court, the effect of that notice is to suspend the Civil Court's power in respect of the execution of the decree and to deprive the decree of its force whether or not the Civil S. 6 (3) — Construction — Proceedings Court sends an intimation acting on the notice to -Meaning—Sale of joint family property on the Collector. The execution proceedings before and the Collector's ignorance of the notice cannot prevent the notice from taking its legal effect. Consequently a sale held by the Collector in pursuance of the decree in ignorance of the notice issued to the Civil Court is not merely an irregularity but a nullity. The judgment-debtor is under no legal obligation to move the Civil Court to send a communication to the Collector. It is incumbent on the Civil Court to act suo motu and stop further proceedings before the Collector. In omitting to do so the Civil Court commits an error of law which cannot prejudice the right of the judgment-debtor. Further, the decree-holder being a party to the proceeding before the Debt Relief Court is bound by the settlement made by that Court and therefore, loses his right to take advantage of the sale. (Niyogi, I.) KRISHNA DEWAJI V. MITHMAL. I. L.R. (1944) Nag. 468=219 I.C. 415=1944 N. L.J. 90=A.I.R. 1944 Nag 195.

——Ss. 6 (3) and 23—Position of Collector to whom decree is transferred for execution-Receipt of notice from Debt Relief Court-Proper procedure to be followed-Relative scope of Ss. 6

(3) and 23 of the Act.

The legal position, when a decree is transferred to a Collector for execution is that he is acting under the orders of the Civil Court and is only bound to comply with an order from that Court If he receives intimation of an application to a Debt Relief Court which is likely to lead to a stay order from the Civil Court, he should grant a suitable adjournment to enable the judgmentdebtor to obtain a stay order. But the Collector would not be acting beyond his jurtsdiction in refusing to grant such an adjournment. Ss. 6 (3) and 23 do not overlap and S. 23 only bars the assumption of jurisdiction regarding a matter which is being dealt with or has already been dealt with by a Debt Relief Court. But in any case S. 23 only applies to Civil Courts and the Collector is not a Court. (Binney, F C.) CHINTAMAN RAMJI v. BALKRISHNA. 1942 N.L. J. 167.

—S. 8—Defendant-debtor making payment to plaintiff-Latter appropriating it towards entire debt and balance towards rent of holding held by him—Defendant applying to Debt Relief Court-Plaintiff not appearing thinking that debt has been satisfied-Subsequent rent suit by plaintiff-Court appropriating payment made by defendant entirely towards rent in suit-Suit by plaintiff thereupon to recover debt-If maintain-

The defendant who owed a debt under a chitti to the plaintiff made a payment after holding himself out as liable to pay the debt. The plaintiff credited a part of it in full satisfaction of the debt and the balance only towards the rent due in respect of the holding held by the defen-dant. The defendant applied to the Debt Relief Court for conciliation of this debt and the plaintiff did not appear in spite of notice thinking that his debt had been discharged by the appropriation made by him, with the result that the debt was discharged. The plaintiff thereafter instituted a suit for recovery of rents and the defendant pleaded that he was entitled to have a credit for the entire amount paid by him in the rent suit. The first Court rejected this plea but the appellate Court held that under S. 75 of the Central Provinces Tenancy Act the landlord was bound to appropriate the payment towards rent only and not towards any other debt. Finding that the amount which he had appropriated towards the chitti was appropriated towards rent, the plaintiff instituted a suit for the recovery of the amount due on the chitti. It was contended by the defendant that there was an order under S. 8 of the Relief of Indebtedness Act discharging the debt which was sued for and therefore the suit was not tenable. Overruling that contention,

Held, that though the suit was based on the chitti, it was really a suit based on a new cause of action that accrued to the plaintiff because of the appropriation allowed by the appellate Court in the rent suit, and that the case was not one of revival of a debt.
